

LET'S MAKE NAME WRITING FUN!

Enjoy this collection of templates
18 SEASONAL AND FUN DESIGNS

HOW TO USE THESE WORKSHEETS

Plus some tips and tricks

Choose the worksheets that coordinate with the number of letters in your child's name. This can be used for learning the first name and/or the last name. Print out your favorites (or all of them!) and start your child on the journey of learning how to write his/her name...

Materials you will need:

Highlighter

Red marker or pen

Pencil

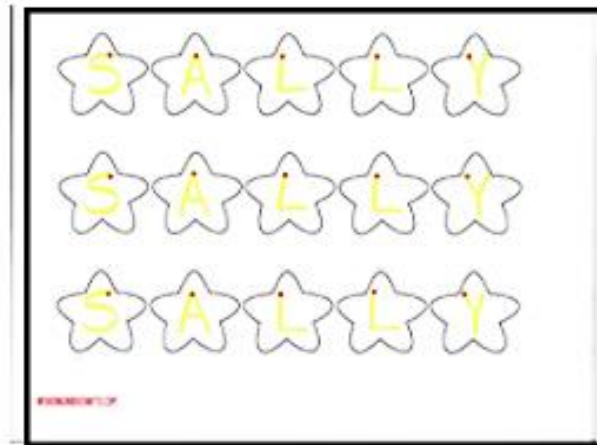

*Not all children are ready for putting pencil to paper to begin name writing. If your child really just does not want to practice this way, that is okay! Start with something else, like using a finger to draw shapes (lines, circles, etc.) in a medium like shaving cream, pudding or salt. Or forming letters out of play dough and tracing them. Ease them into writing and introduce it in small doses. Never expect a young child to sit for a long period of time to work on writing...trust me. You will both just end up frustrated. Meet your child where he/she is in his/her development and take it from there, one step at a time. Keep it fun!

Step 1: Use the highlighter to print your child's name using all uppercase letters, placing one letter in each form.

Step 2: Place a red dot where the pencil is to start for each letter.

Step 3: Repeat steps 1 and 2 as many times as will fit on the worksheet.

Step 4: Have your child trace the letters, directing as needed. You may need to start by guiding your child with hand over hand practice. Then move on to only helping with the more difficult letters and then less and less. And every time repeat the same things...For example, for the letter 'D' you would say "Put your pencil on the dot. Big stick down. Jump to the top. Big curve around." Use the same language over and over so that your child learns good habits for proper letter formation right from the beginning.

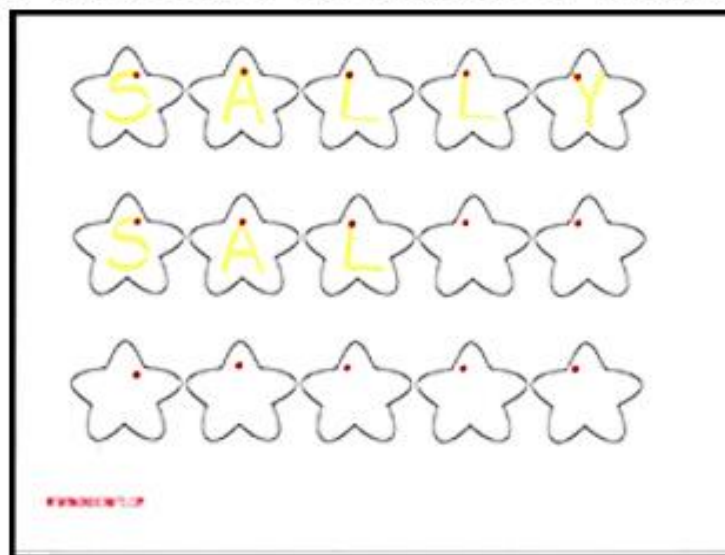

Step 1: Use the highlighter to print your child's name using all uppercase letters, placing one letter in each form.

Step 2: Place a red dot where the pencil is to start.

Step 3: Just like before, have your child begin by tracing but then remove more and more letters so that they are copying. Challenge your child to need less and less help to write his/her name as they practice repetitions. Move from copying to writing from memory. You may even have them trace once and then cover it up for the other tries. Eventually you will only provide the dots for where to start the pencil and then maybe nothing at all, as long as they are forming the letters correctly.

*Remember to always keep it fun and give LOTS of praise even for little victories. Like, if they don't want to try but they participate even for one trial...victory! Meet them where they are and move at their pace.

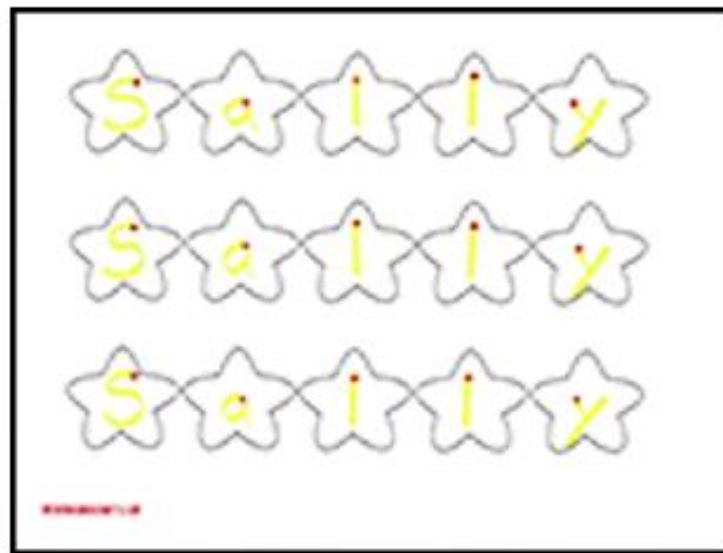

Step 1: Use the highlighter to print your child's name using mixed case (see below), placing one letter in each form. *We call mixed case "The Kindergarten way" of writing your name.

Step 2: Place a red dot where the pencil is to start.

Step 3: Repeat steps 1 and 2 as many times as will fit on the worksheet.

Step 4: Have your child trace the letters, guiding them as needed. You may need to start by guiding your child with hand over hand practice. Then move on to only helping with the more difficult letters and then less and less. And every time repeat the same things...For example, for the letter 'a' you would say, "magic c bump and little line down". Use the same language over and over so that your child learns good habits for proper letter formation right from the beginning.

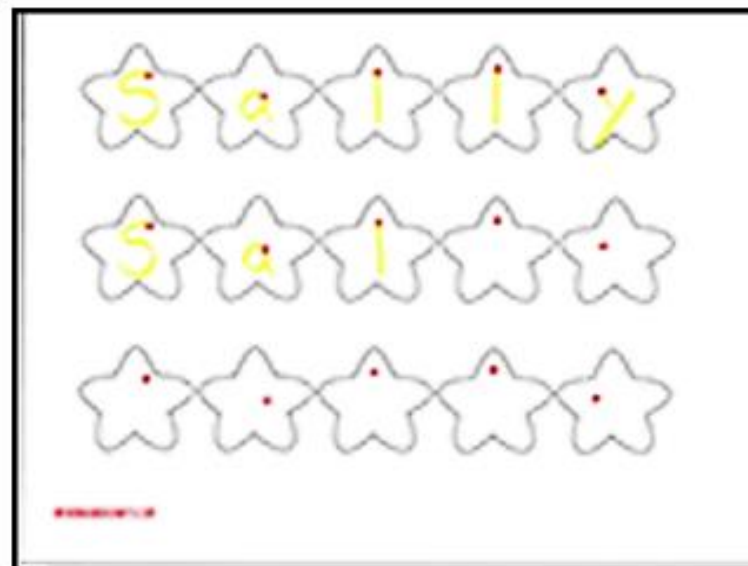

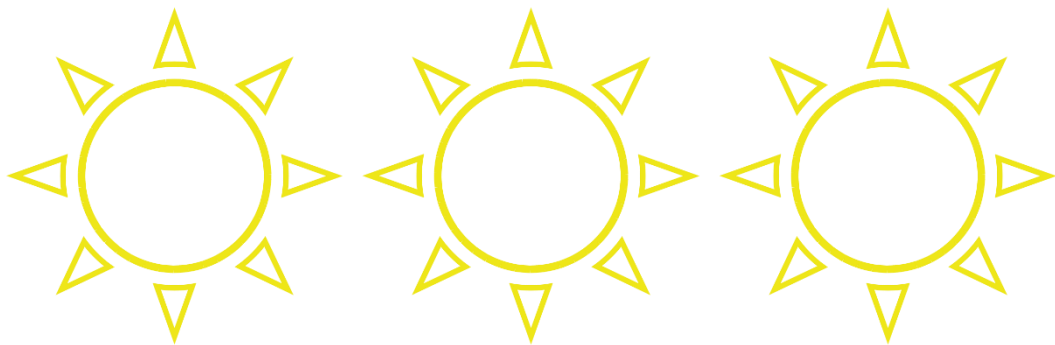

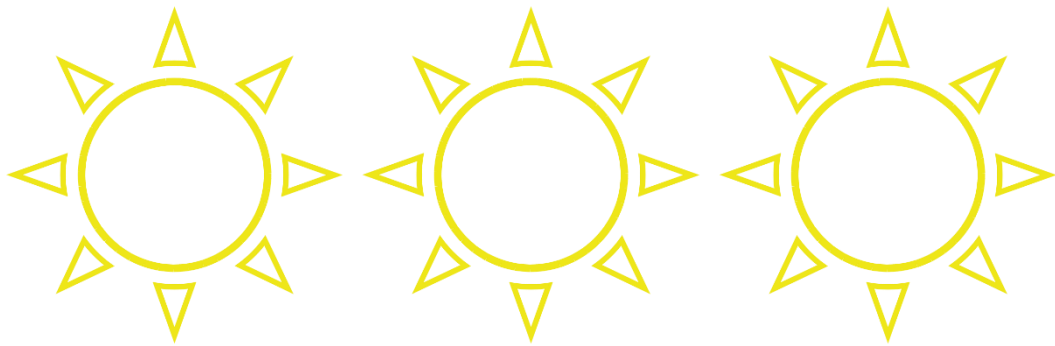

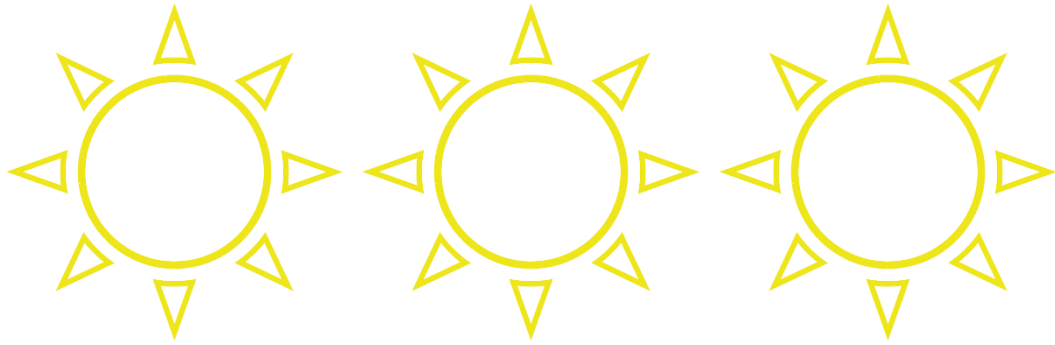

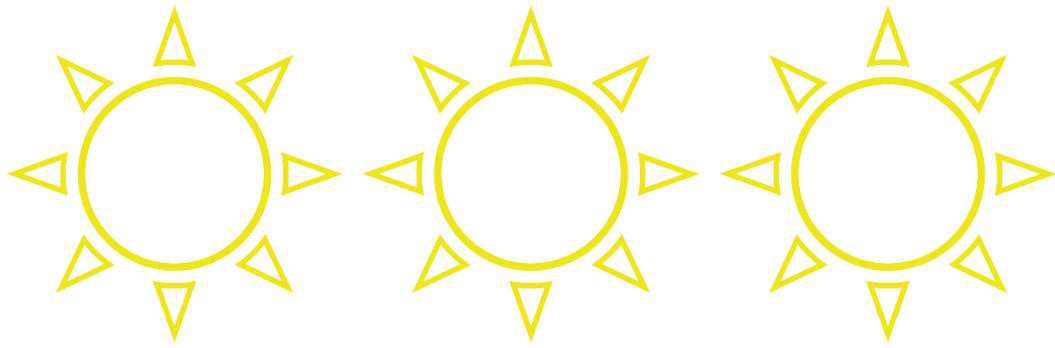

Step 1: Use the highlighter to print your child's name in mixed case, placing one letter in each form.

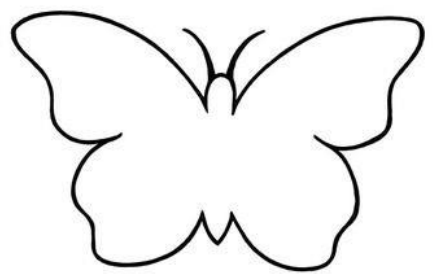

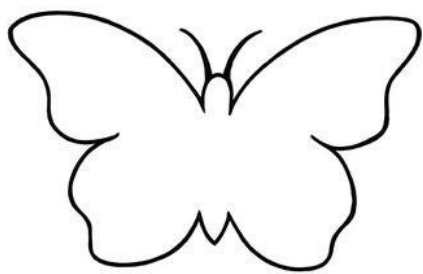

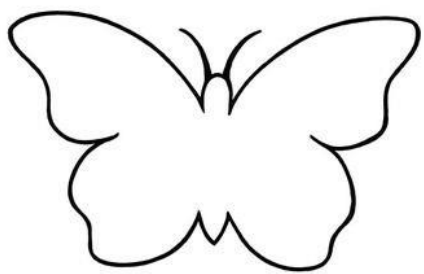

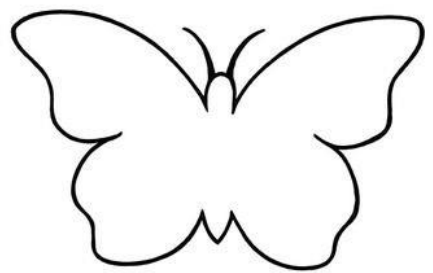

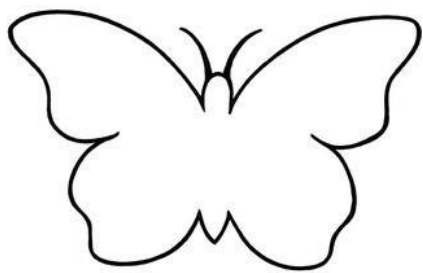

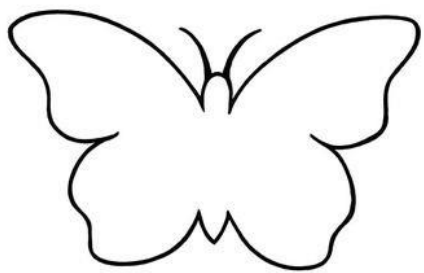

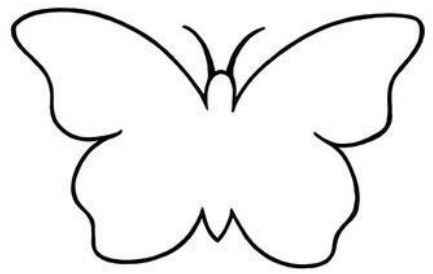

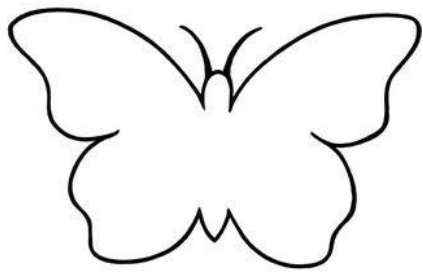

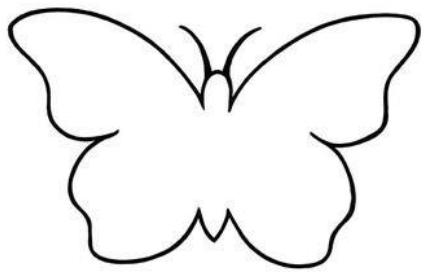

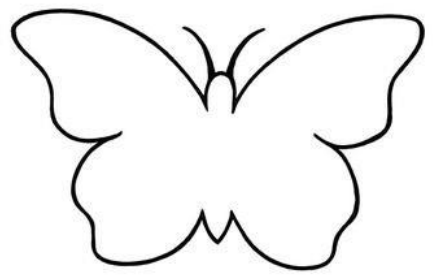

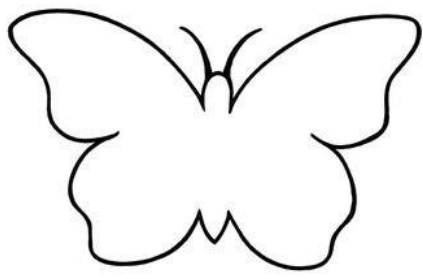

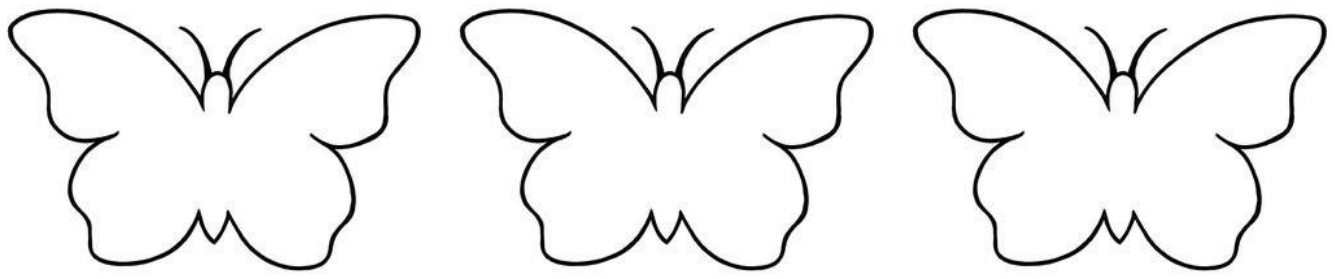

Step 2: Place a red dot where the pencil is to start.

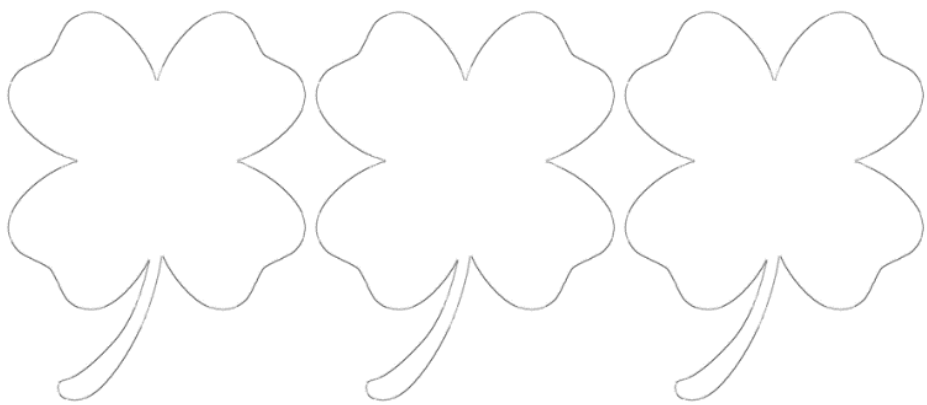

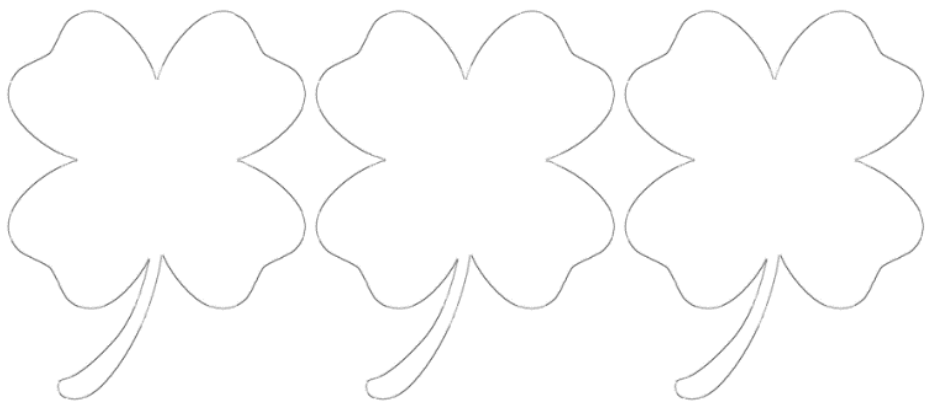

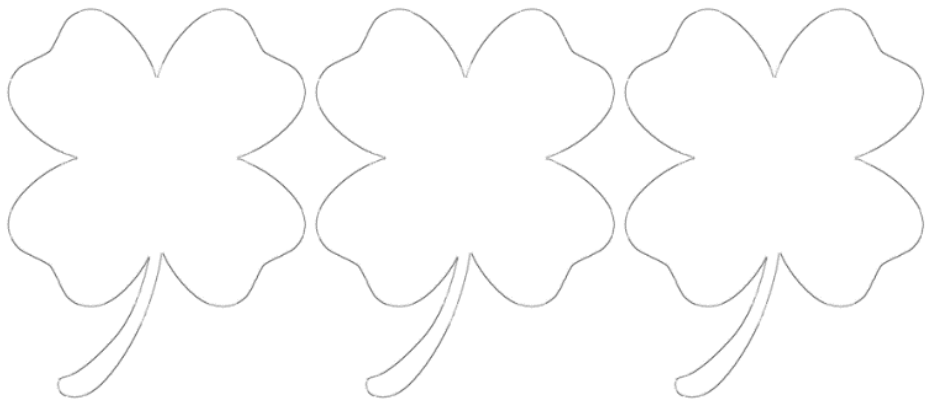

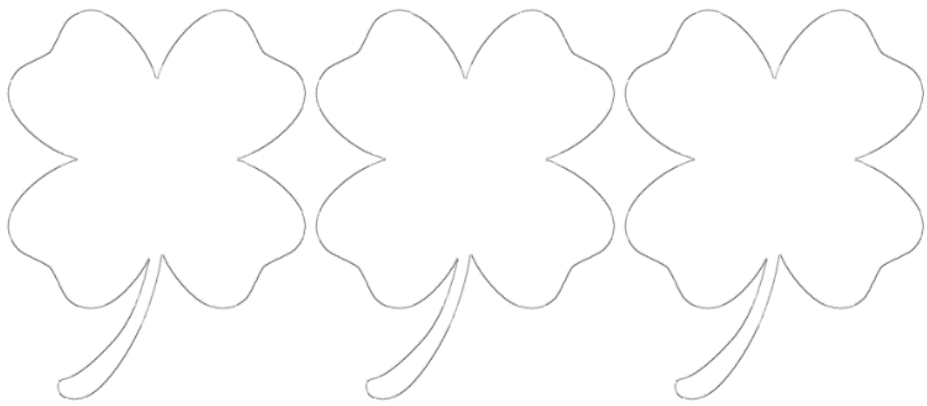

Step 3: Just like before, have your child begin by tracing but then remove more and more letters so that they are copying. Challenge your child to need less and less help to write his/her name as they practice repetitions. Eventually you will only provide the dots for where to start the pencil and then maybe nothing at all, as long as they are forming the letters correctly.

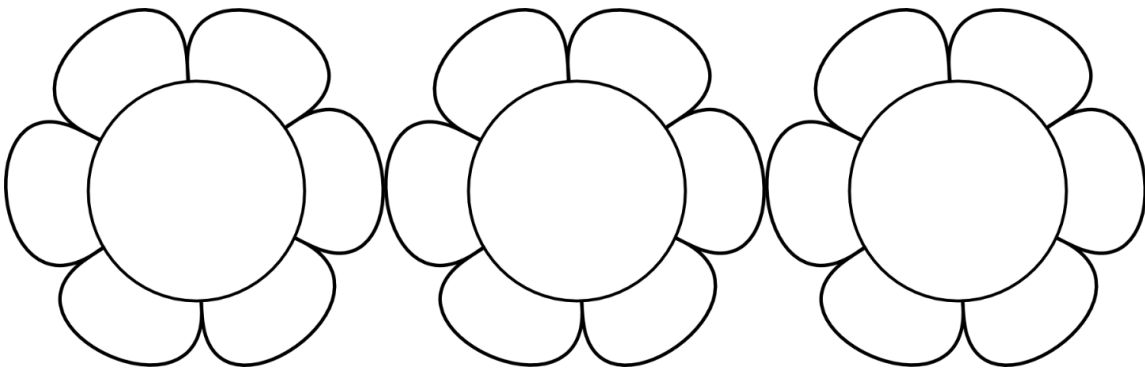

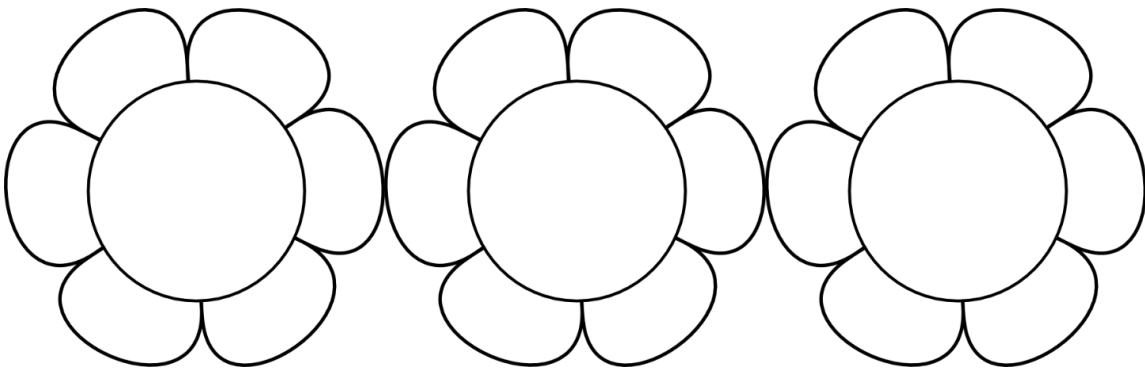

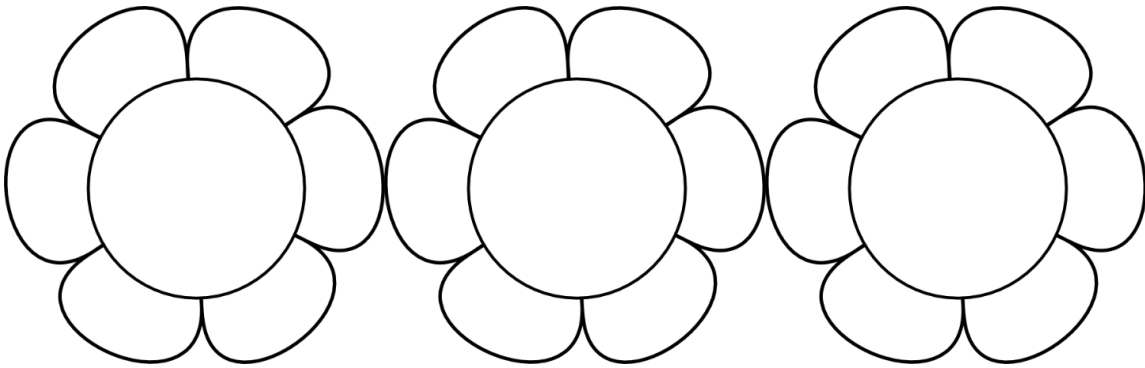

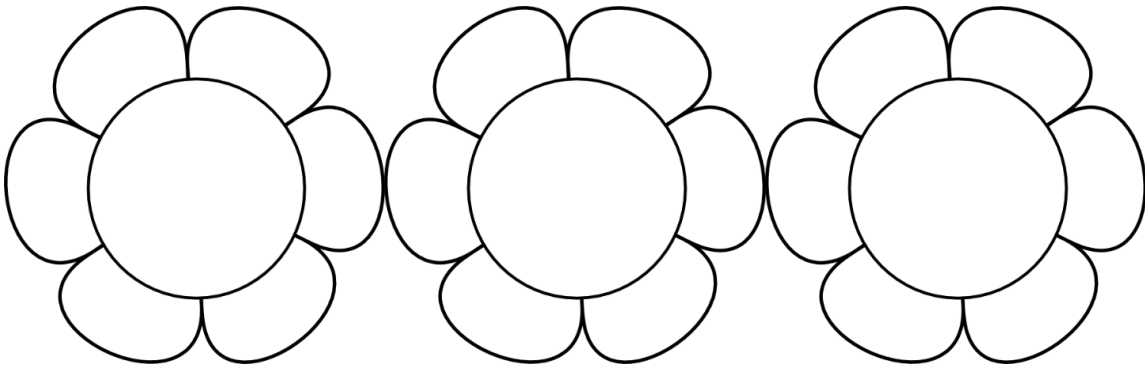

Be sure to give lots and lots of encouragement. Once your child starts to get the hang of name writing, have them use it whenever the opportunity arises (even if it is not perfect)...like signing a card for grandma, writing their name on the back of each craft or picture they finish, using a stick to write in the sandbox, etc.

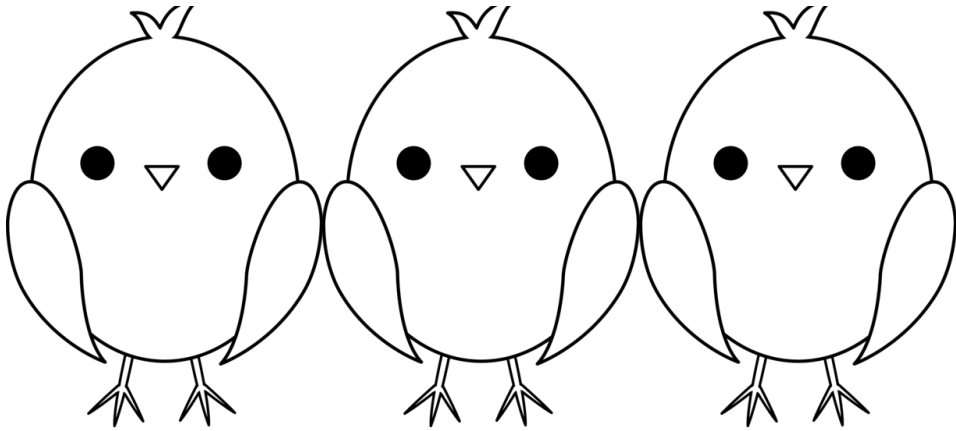

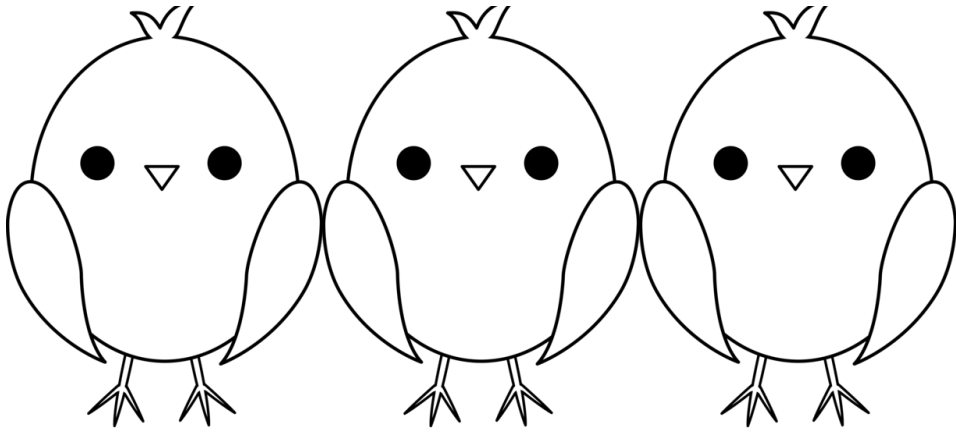

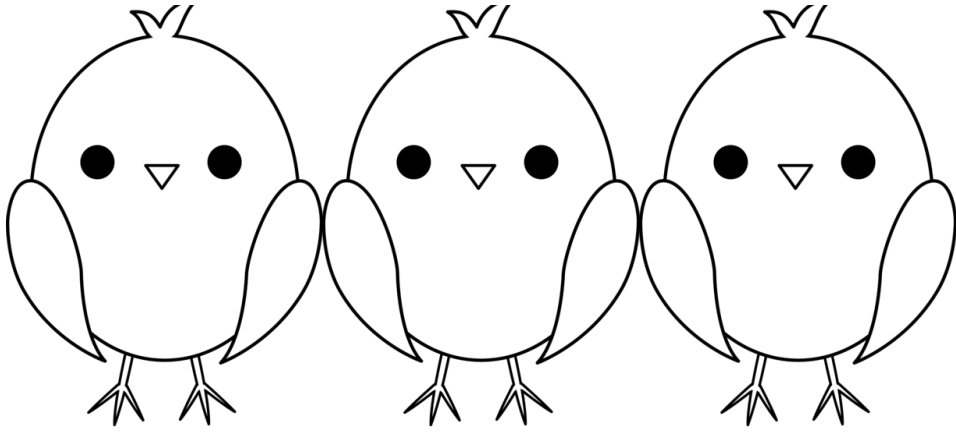

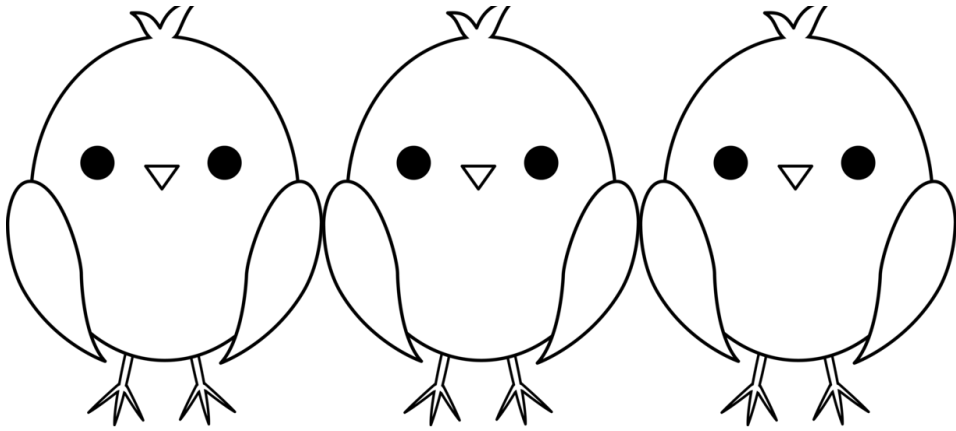

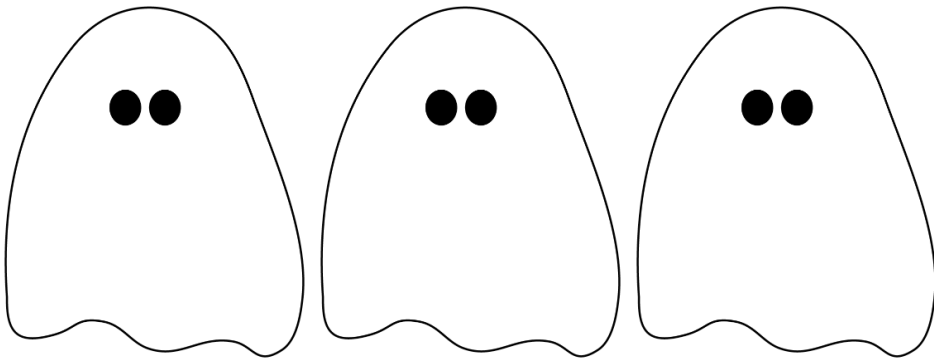

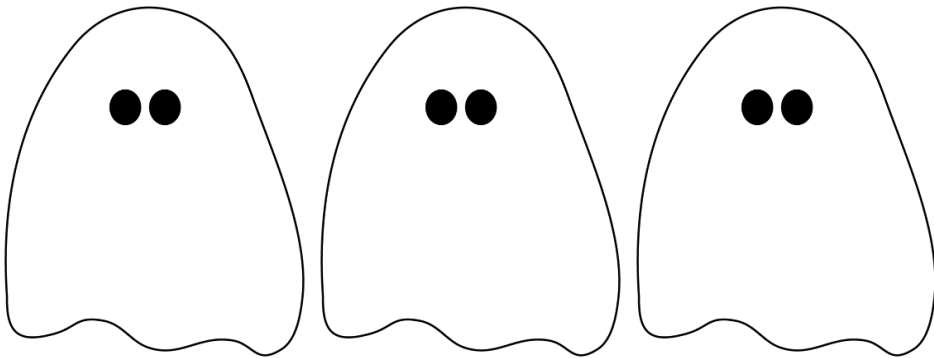

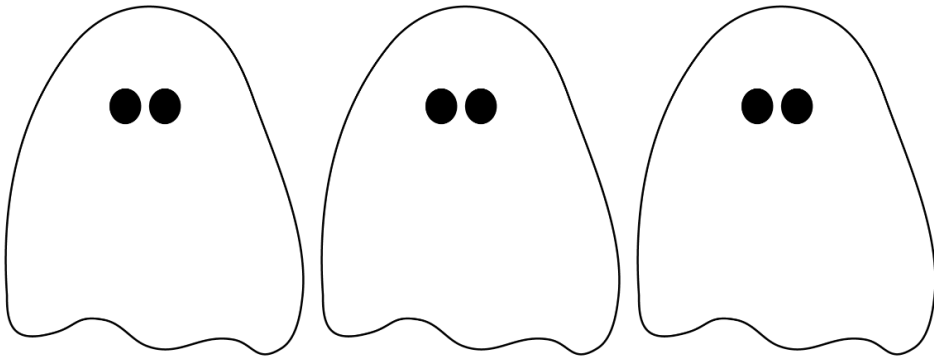

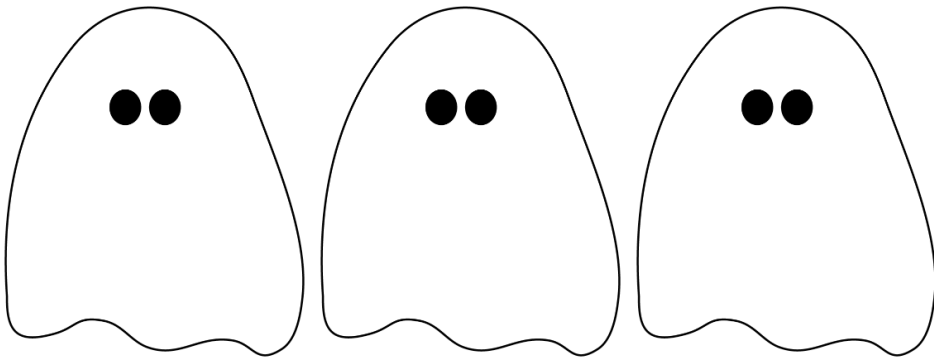

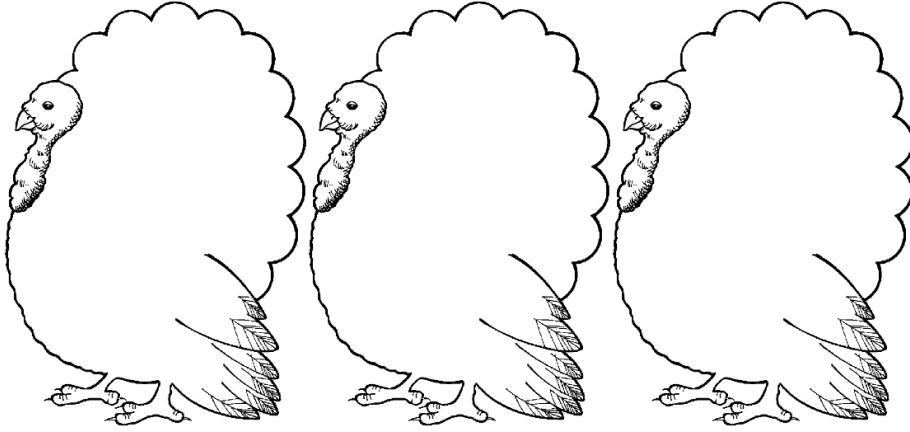

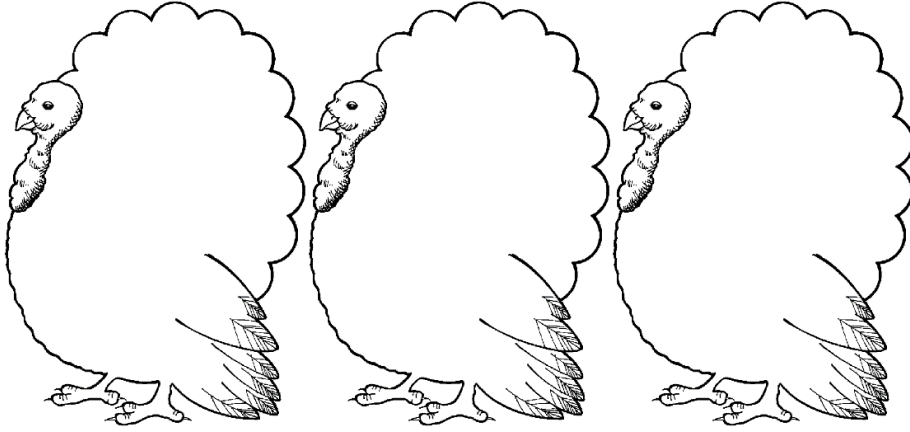

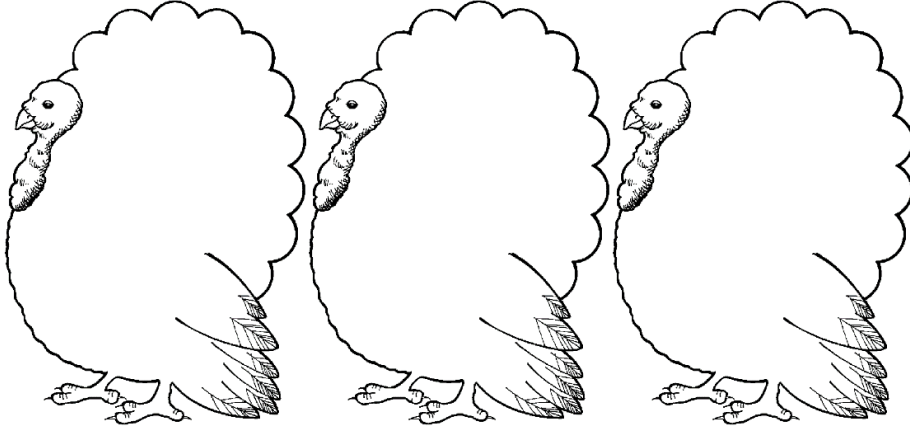

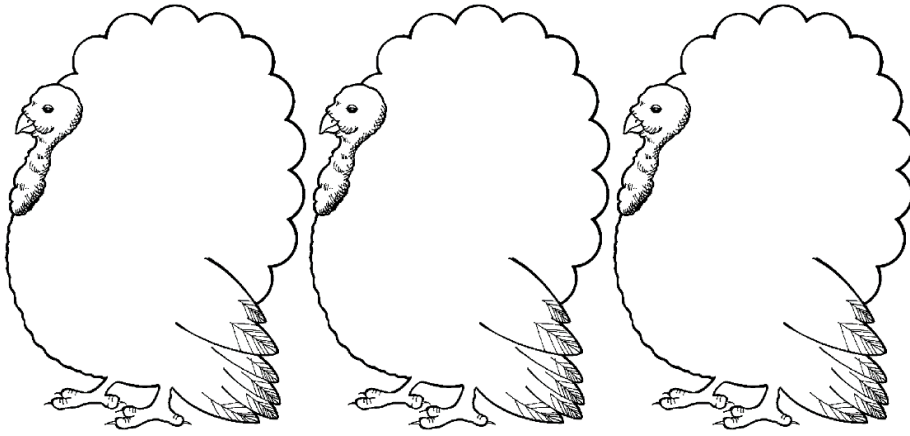

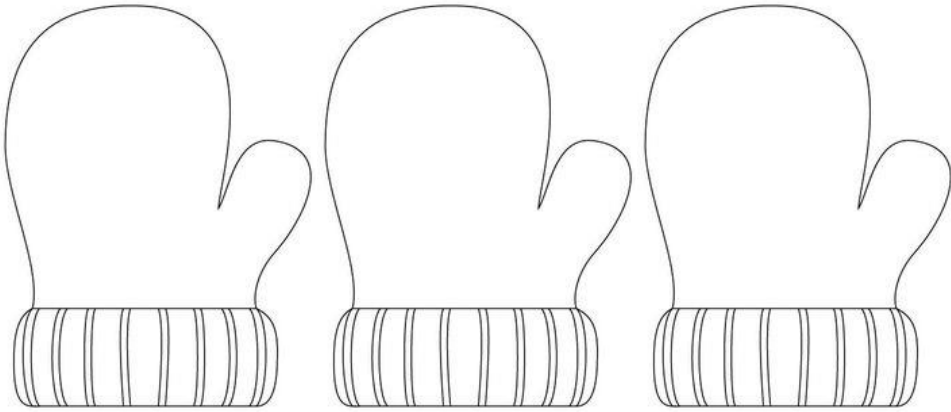

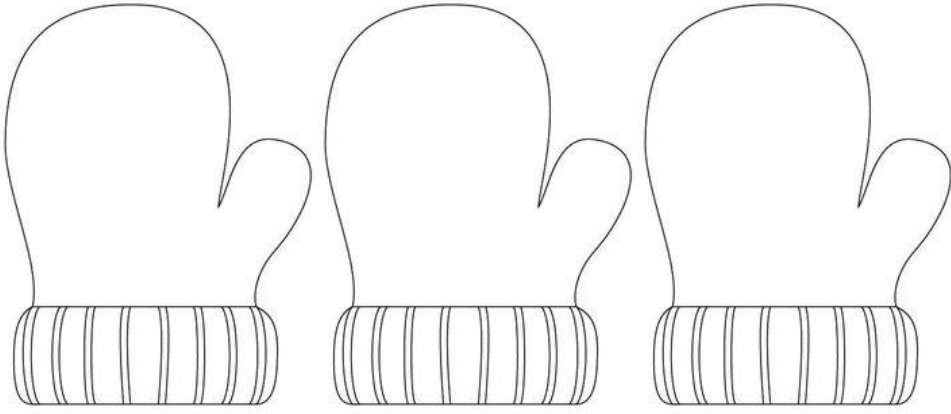

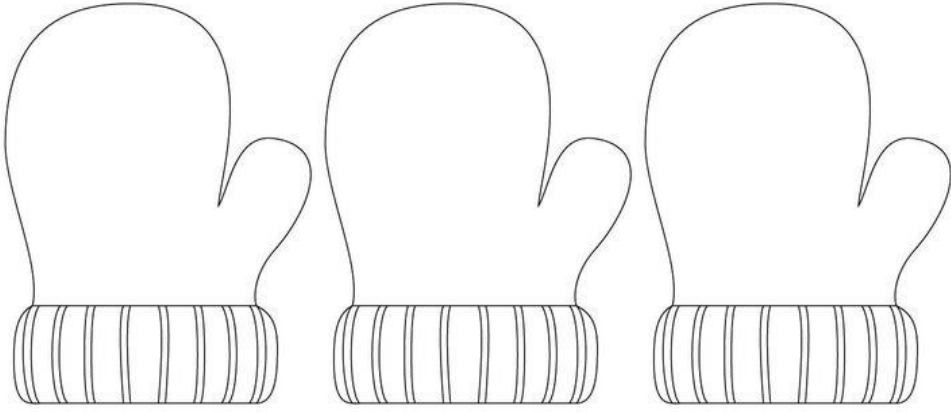

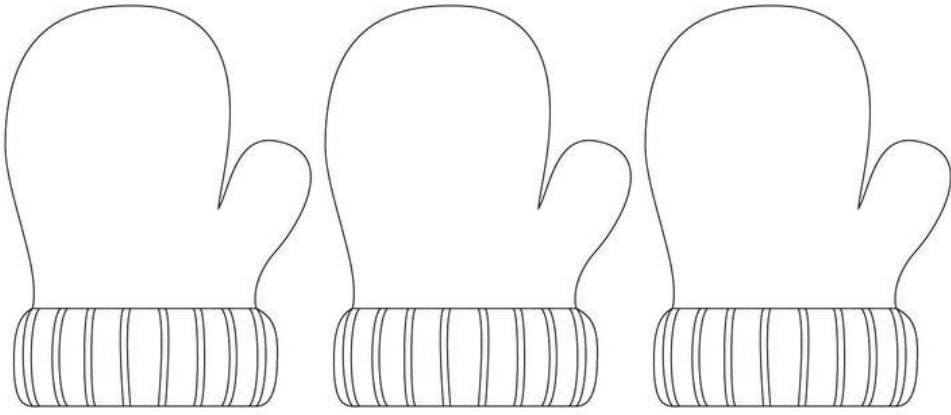

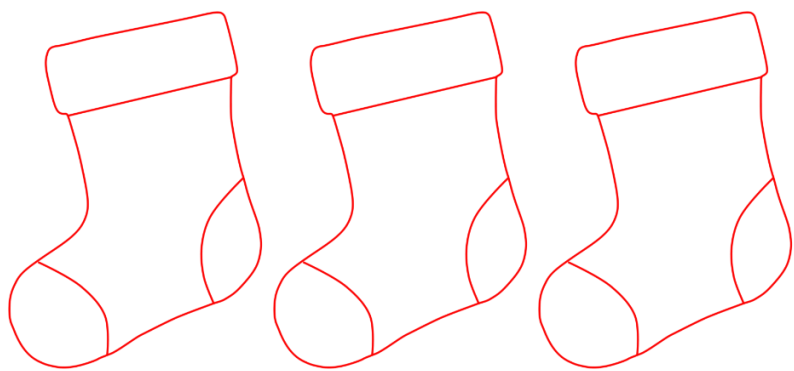

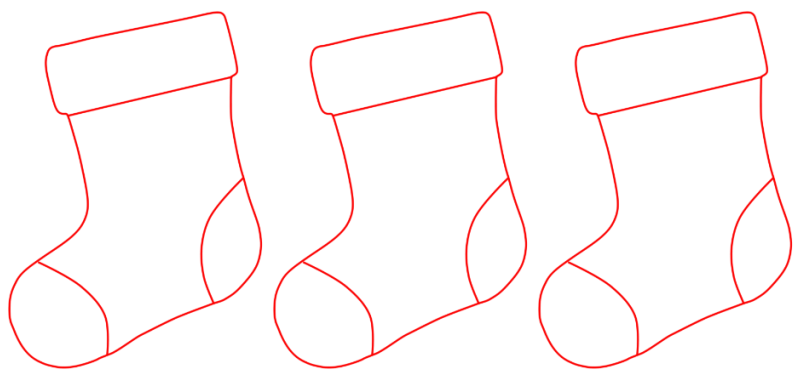

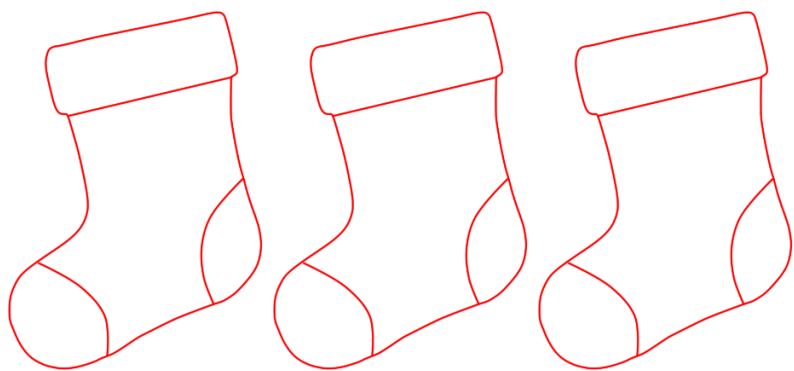

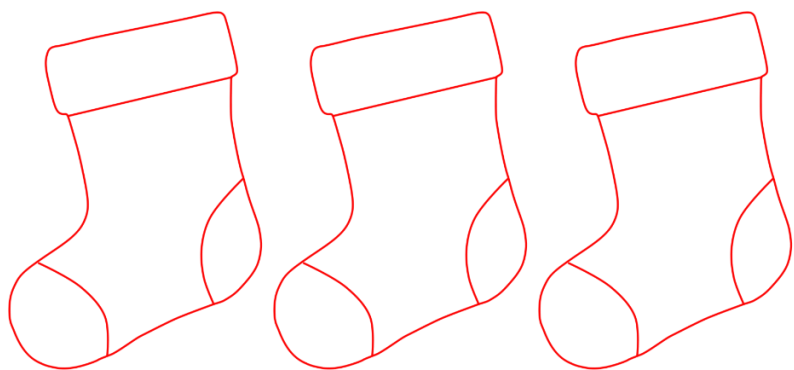

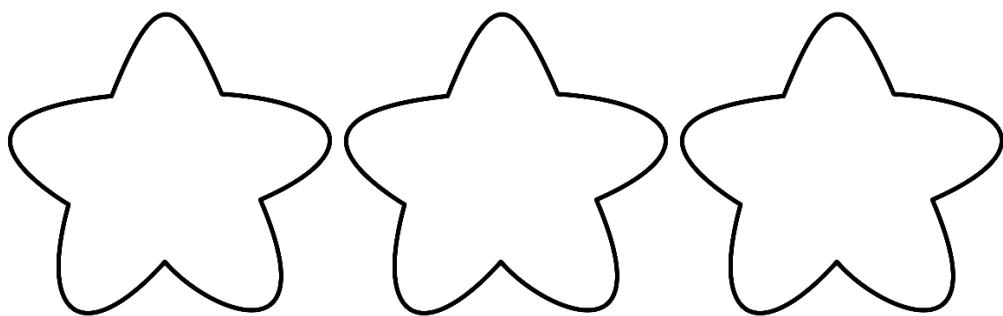

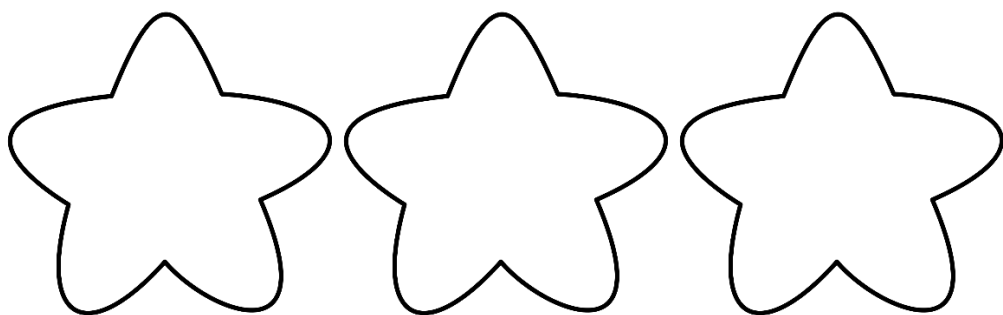

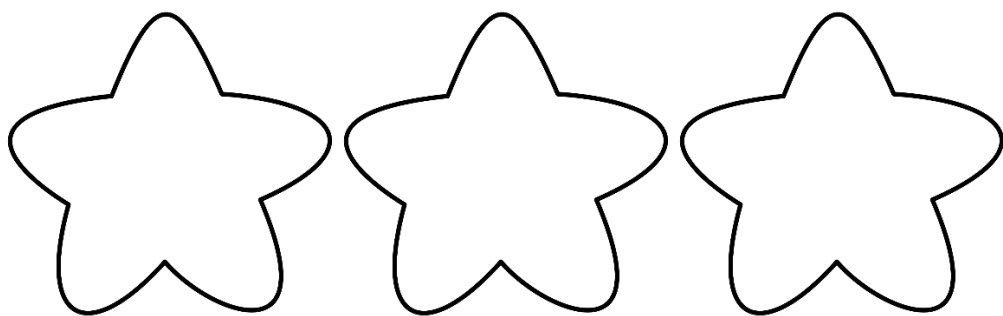

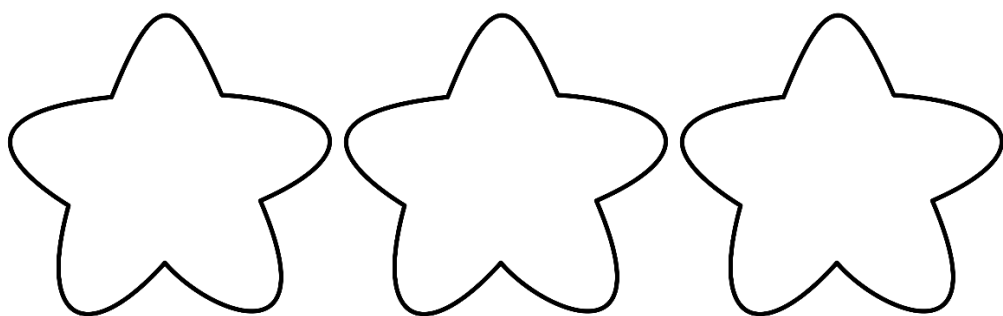

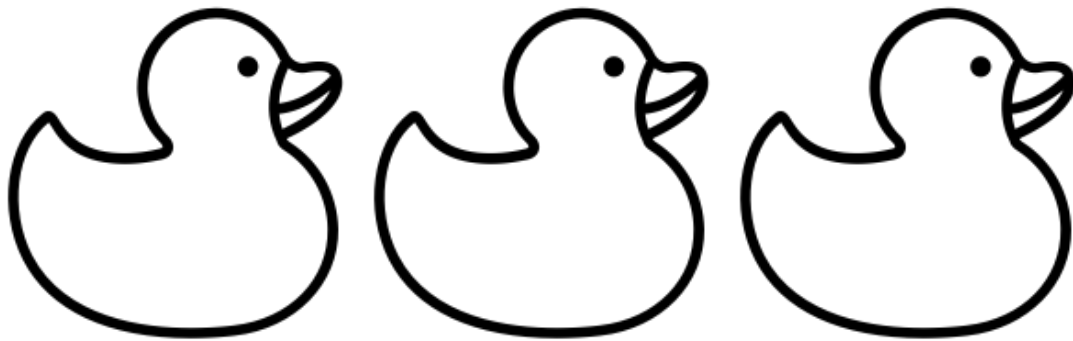

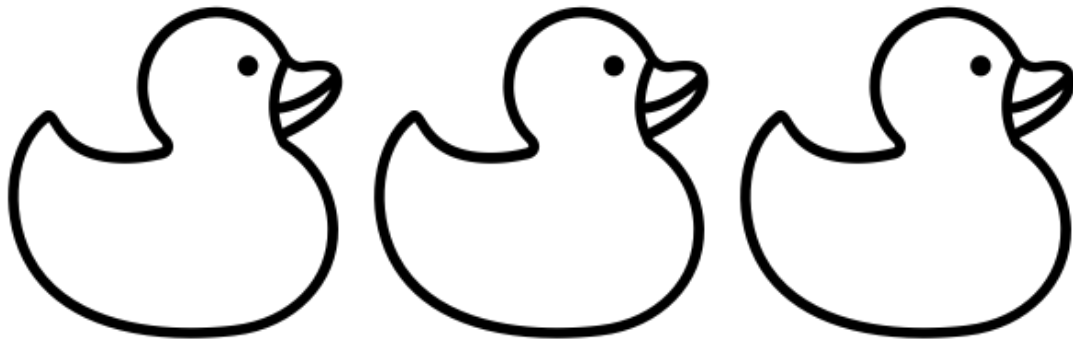

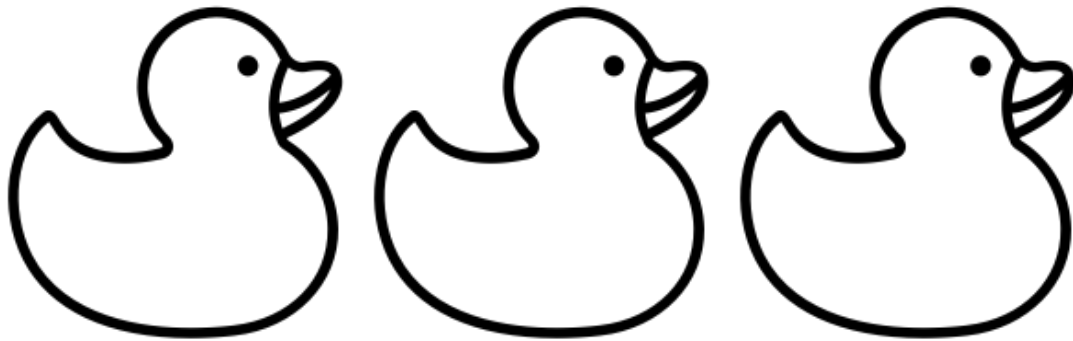

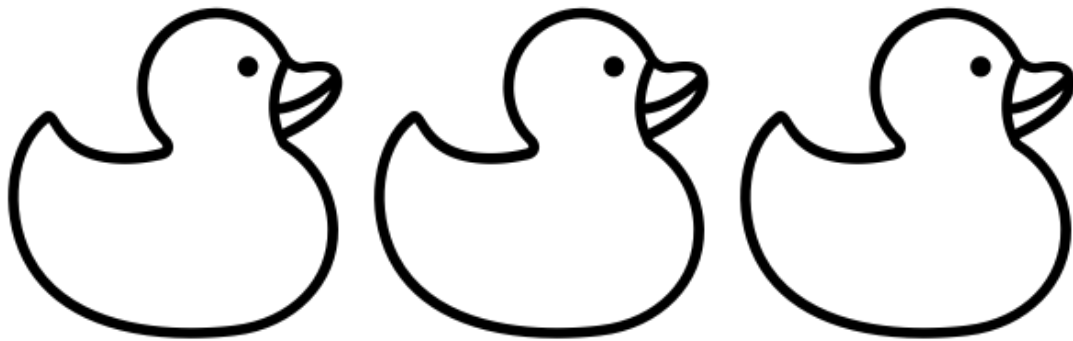

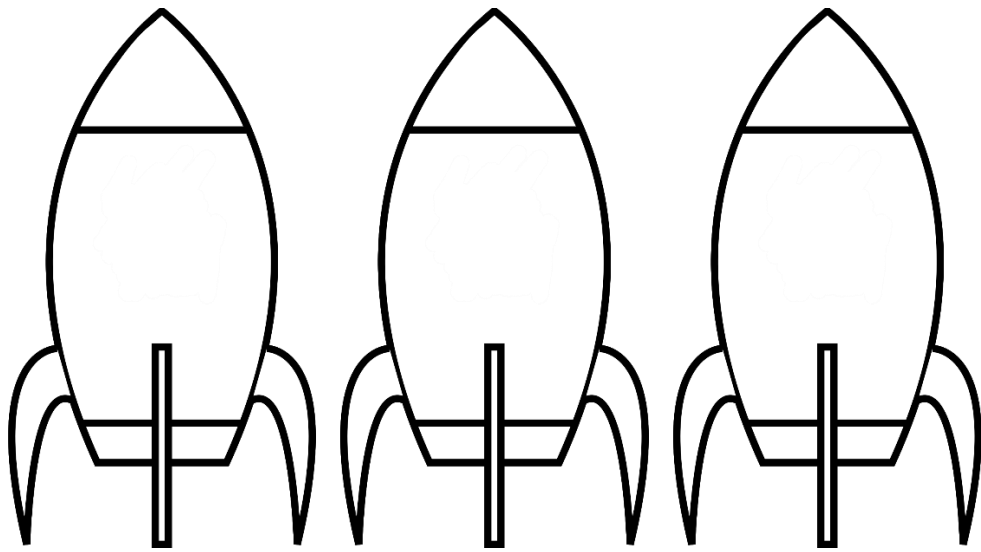

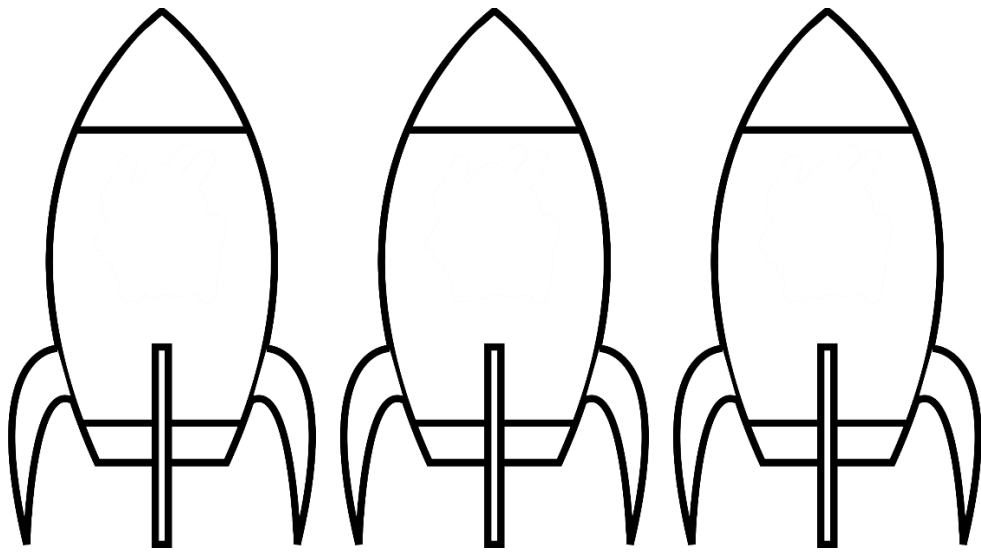

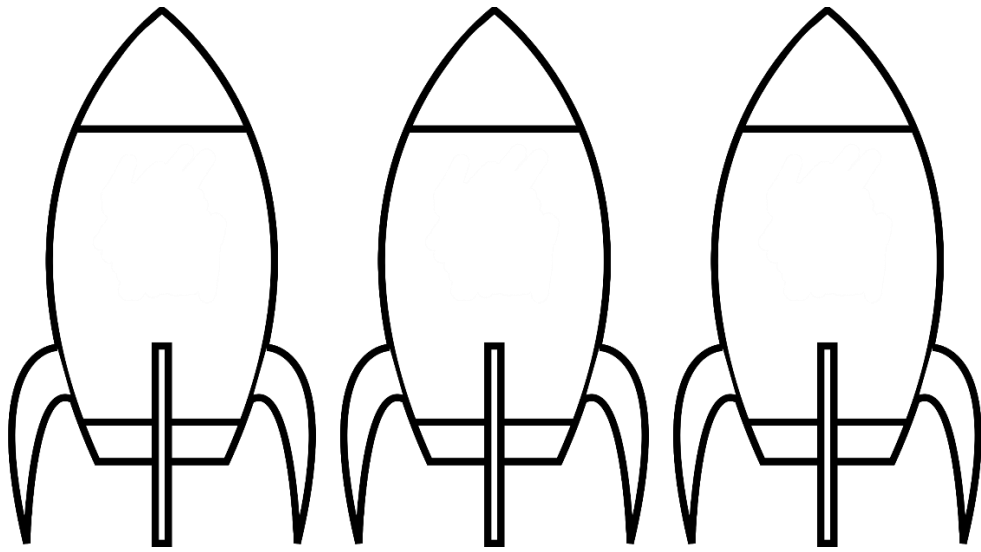

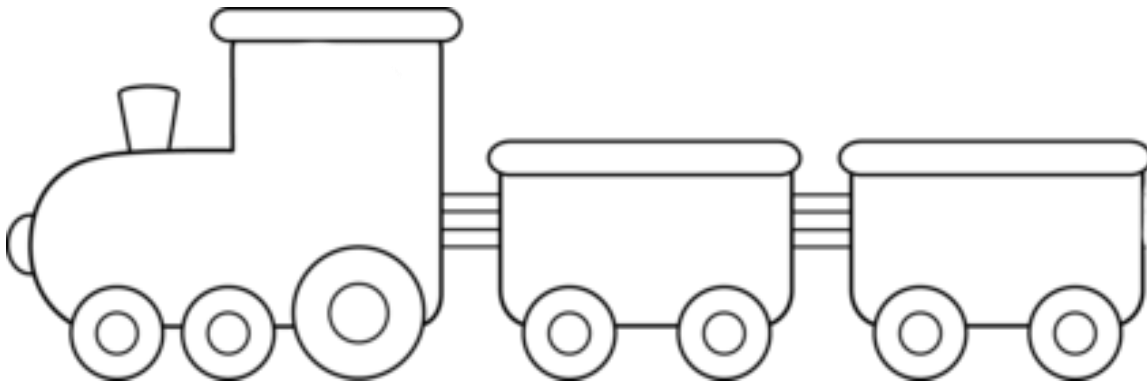

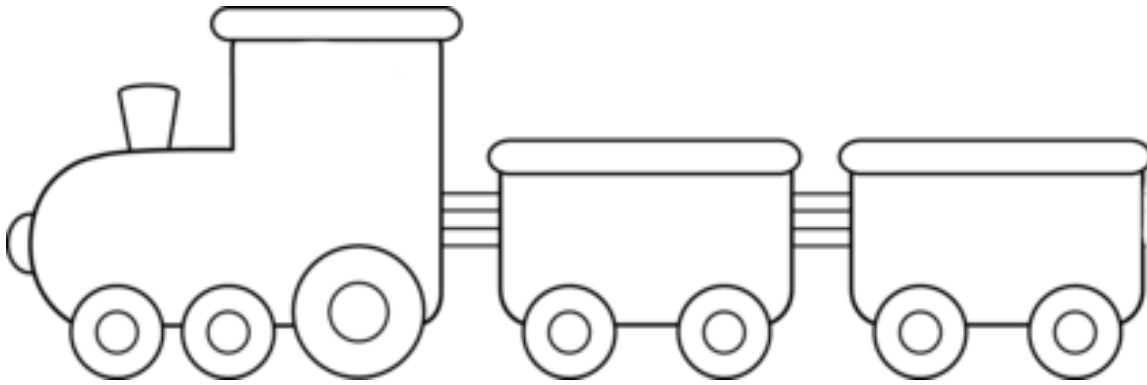

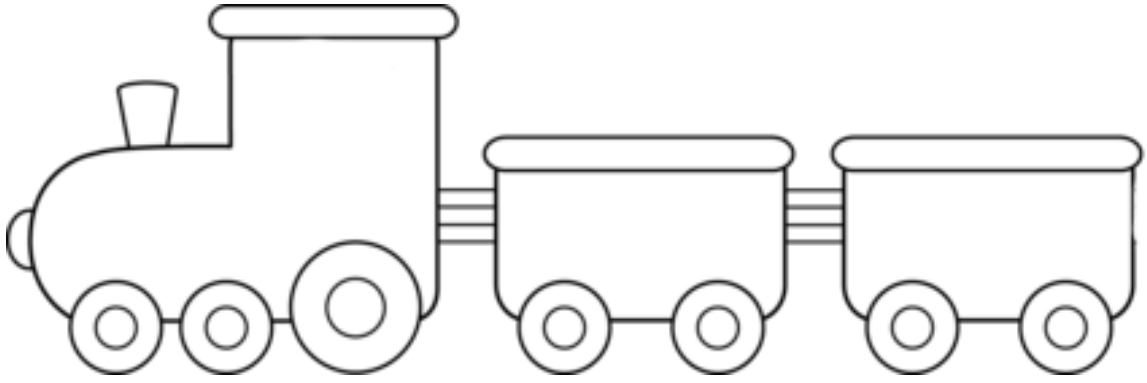

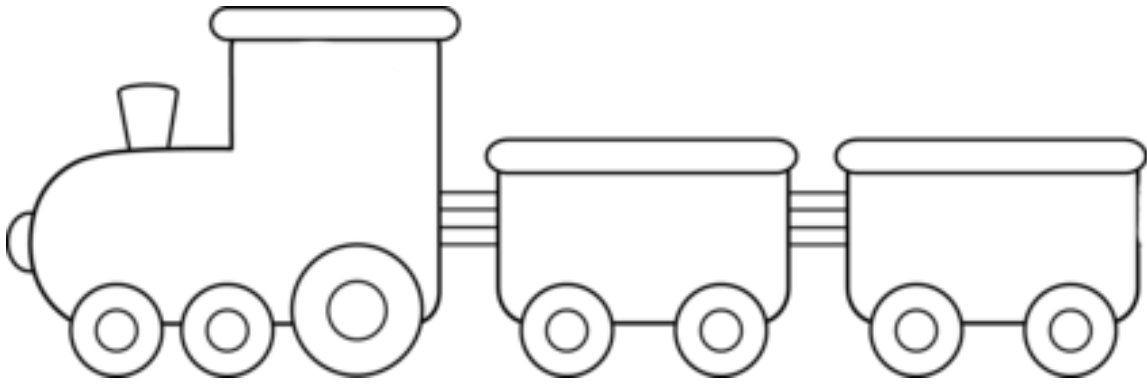

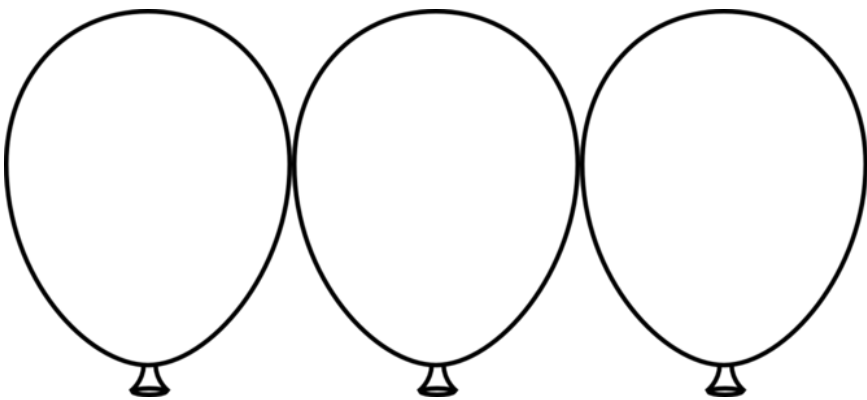

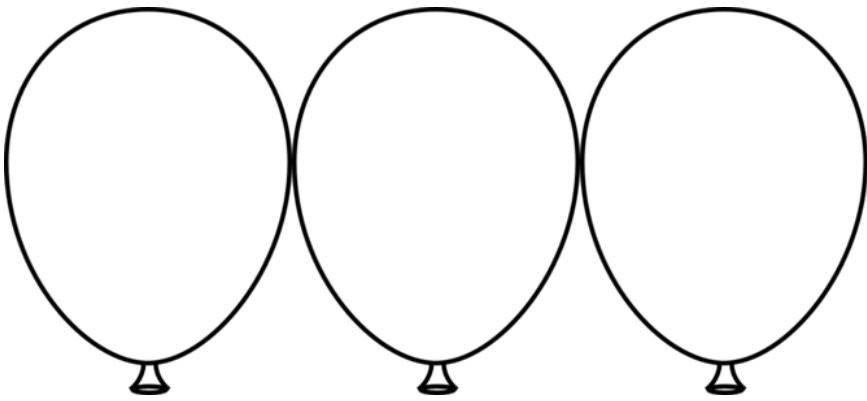

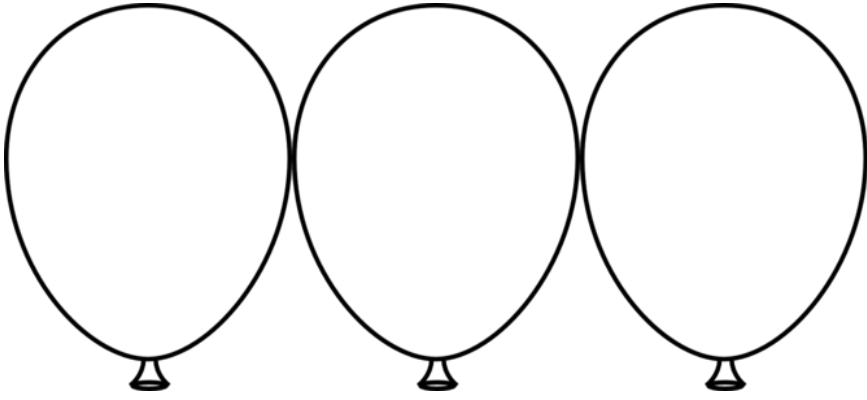

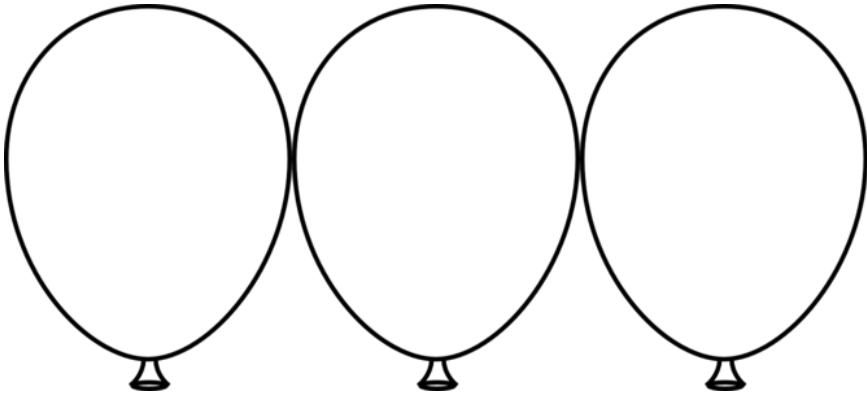

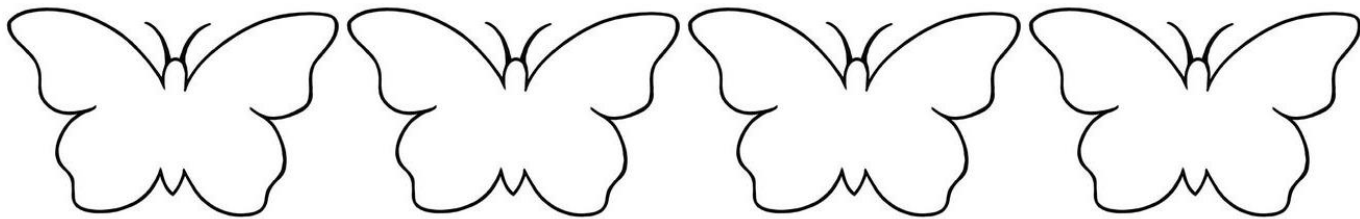

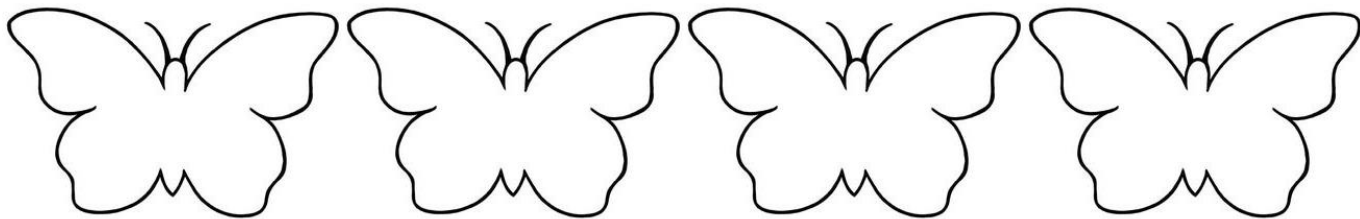

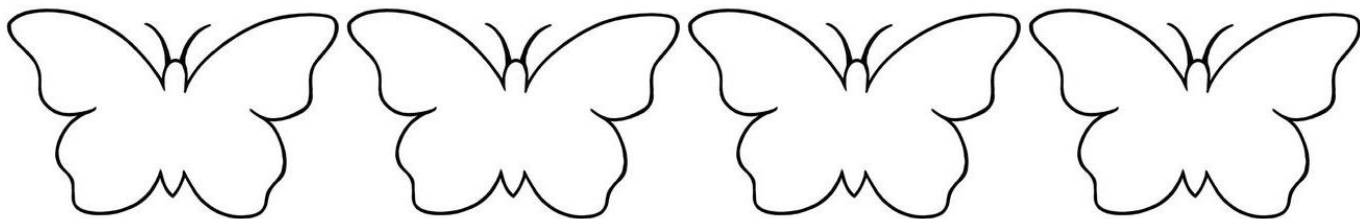

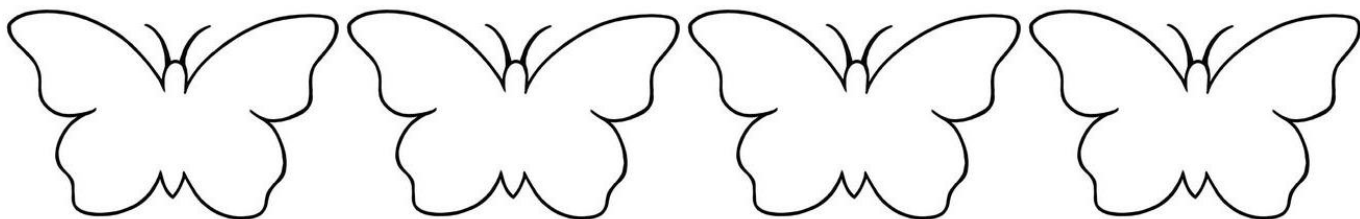

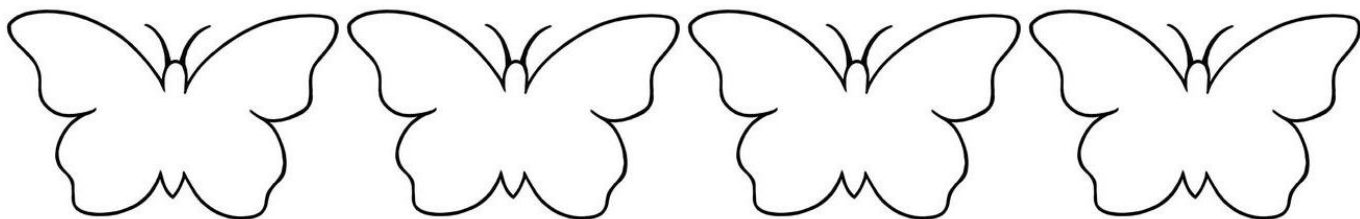

--	--	--

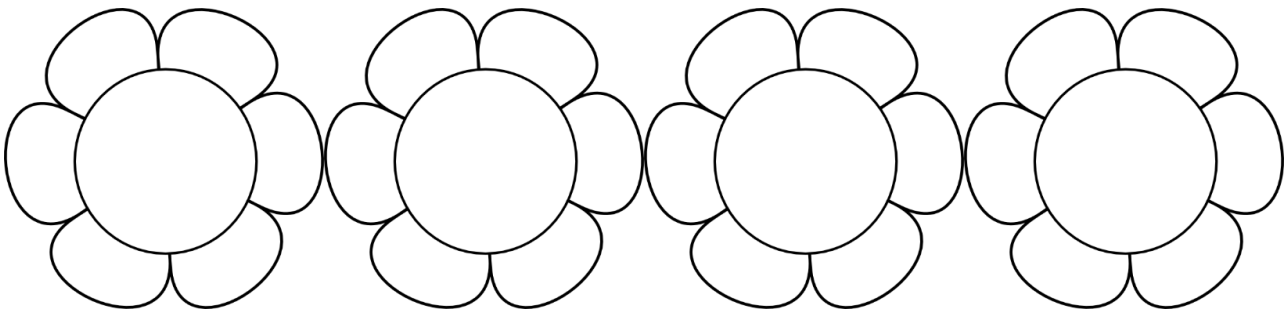

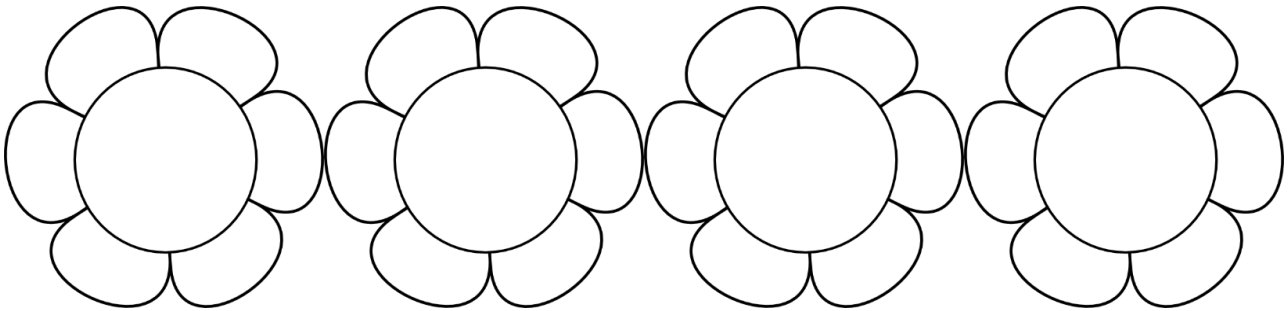

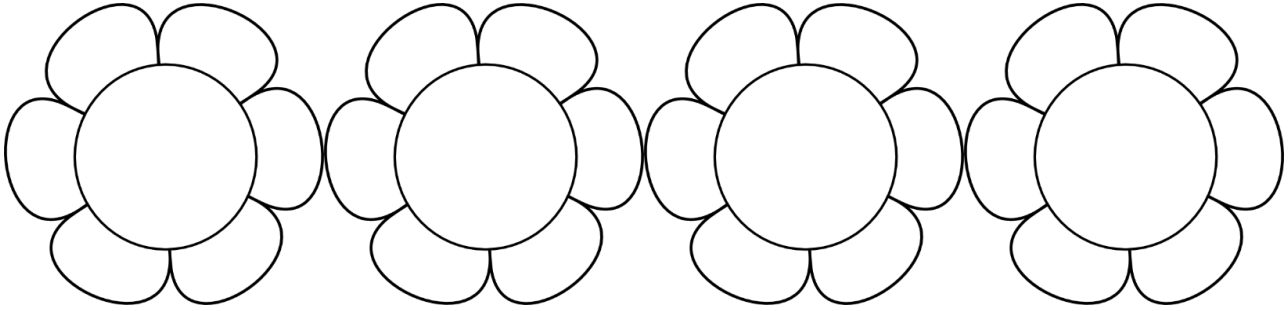

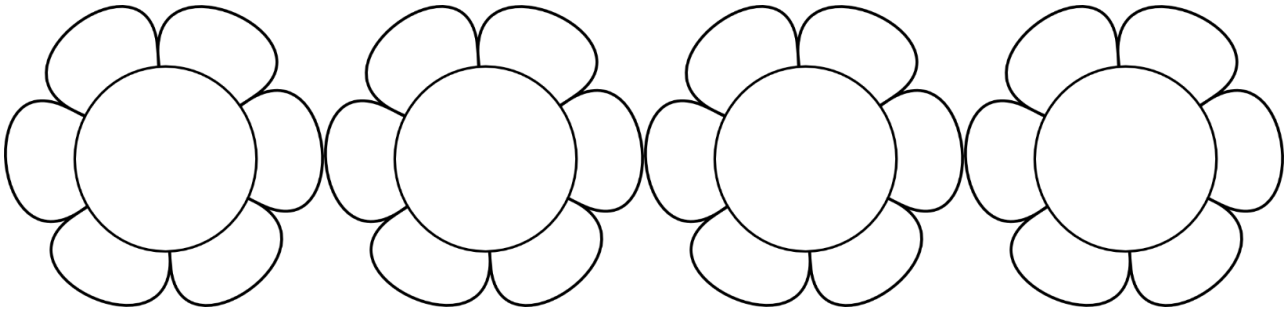

--	--	--

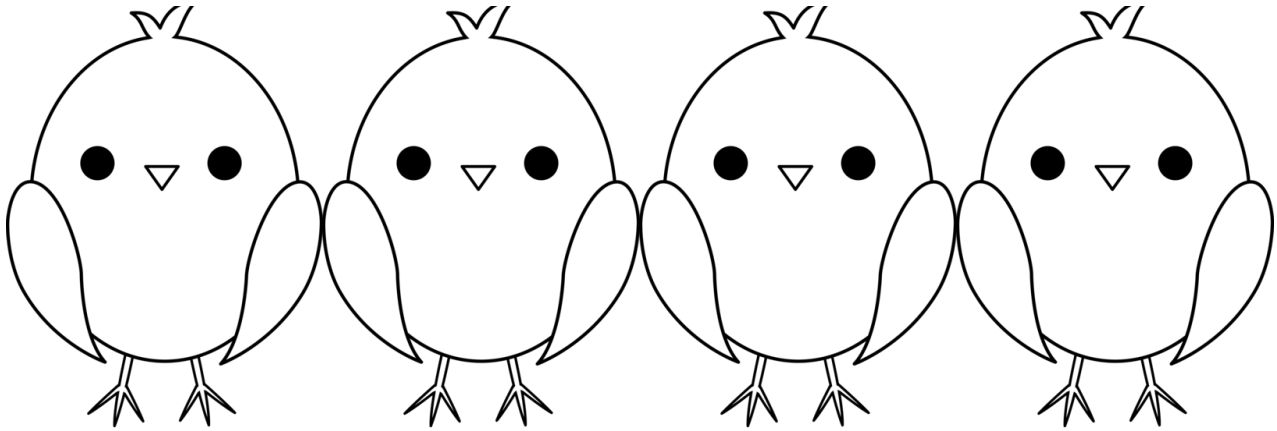

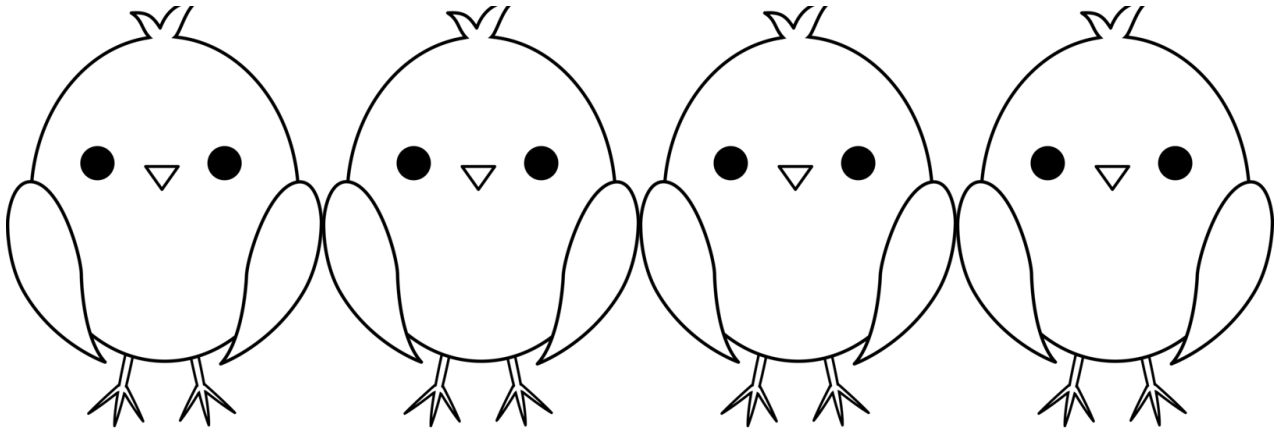

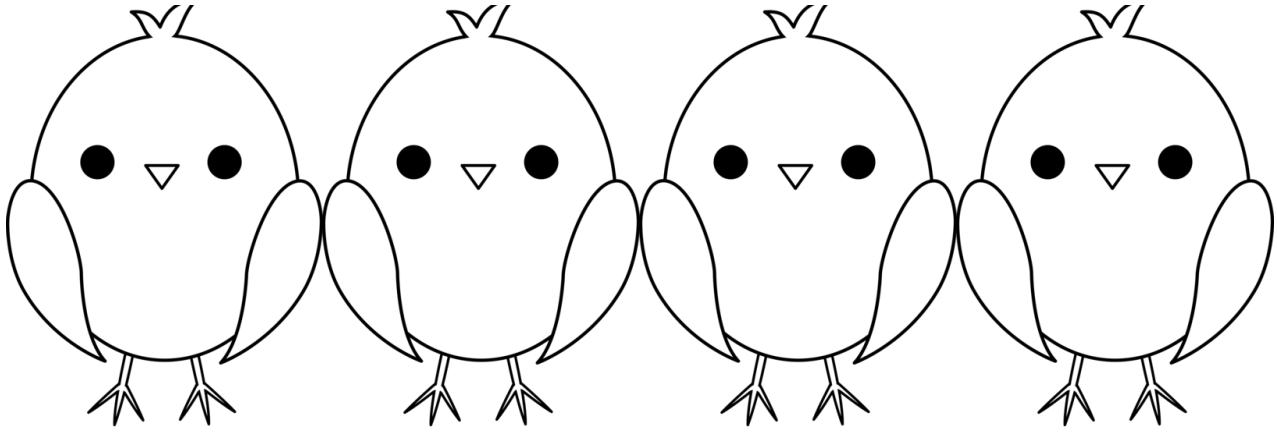

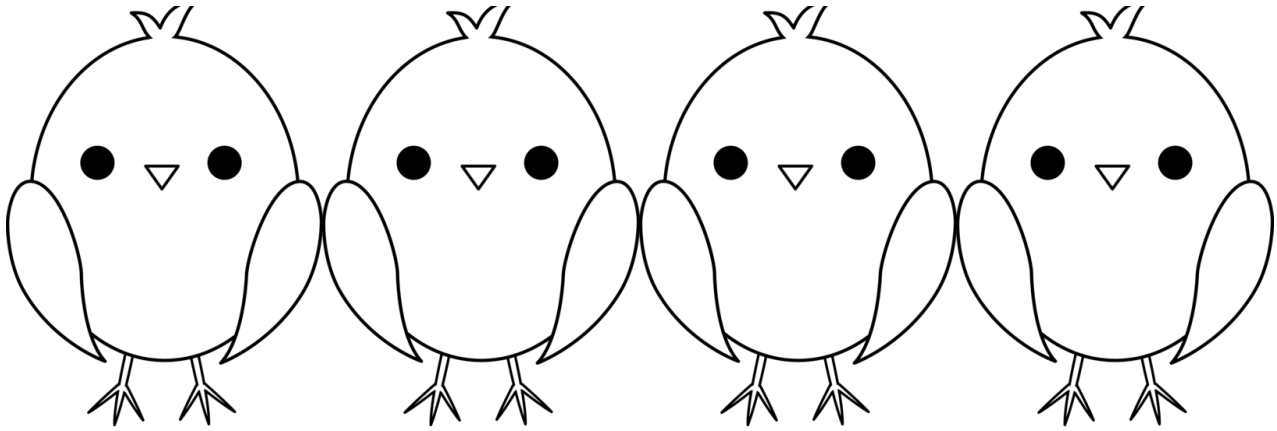

--	--	--

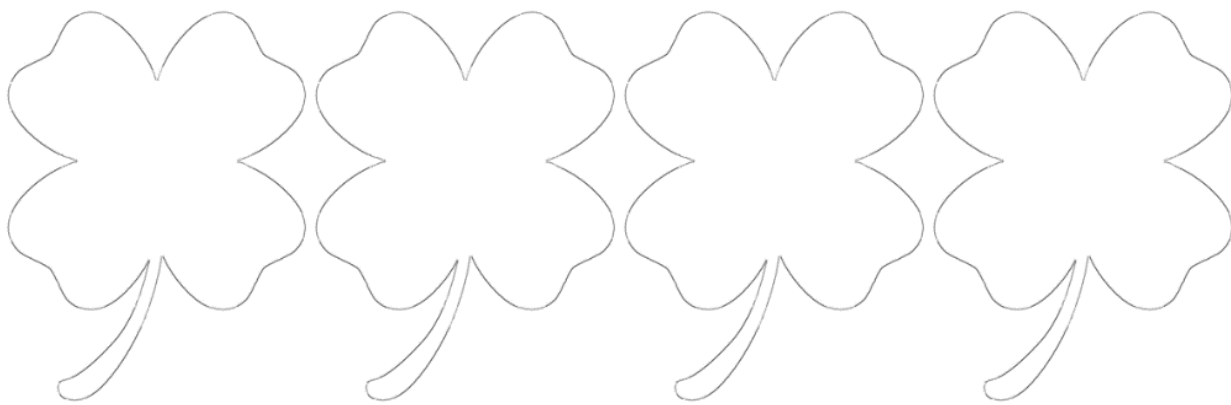

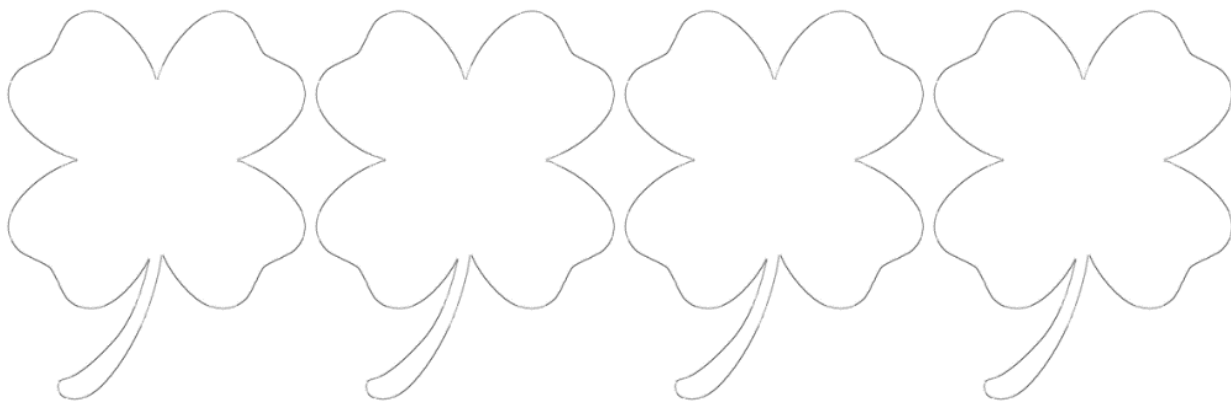

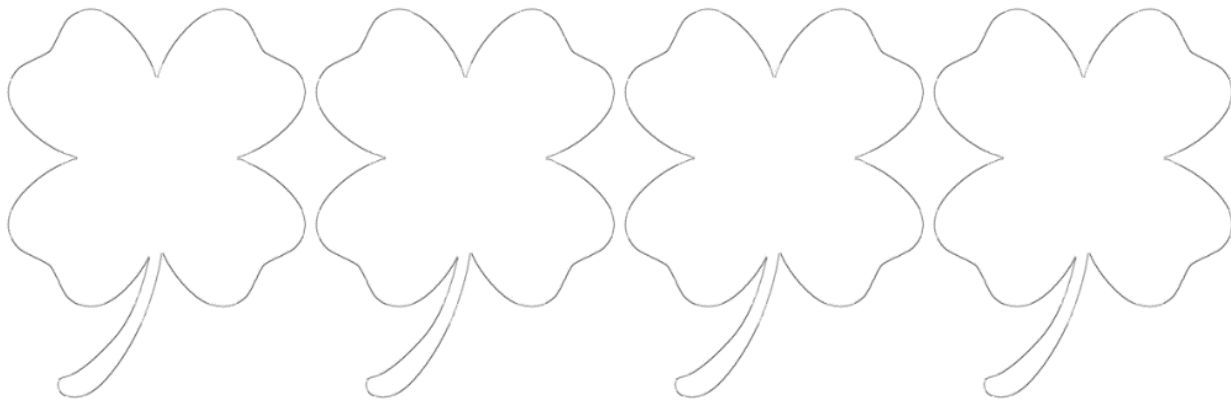

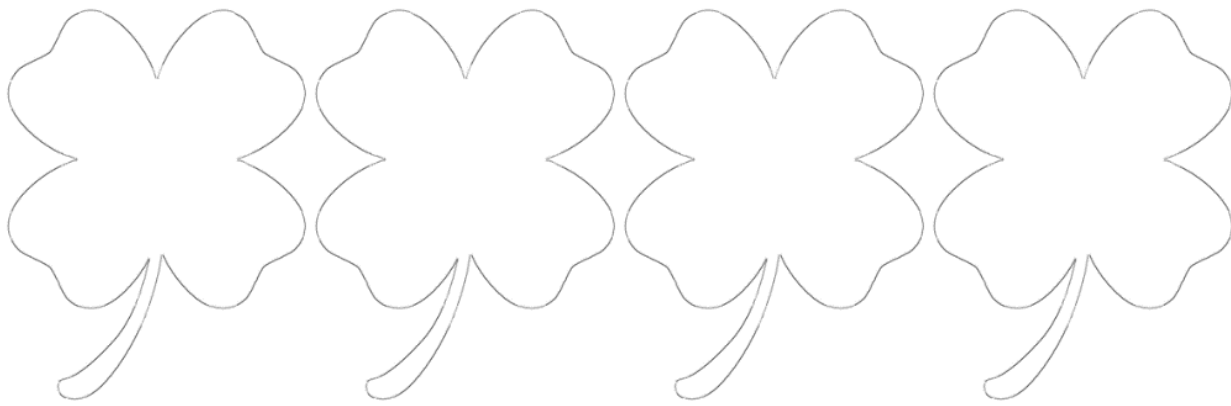

--	--	--

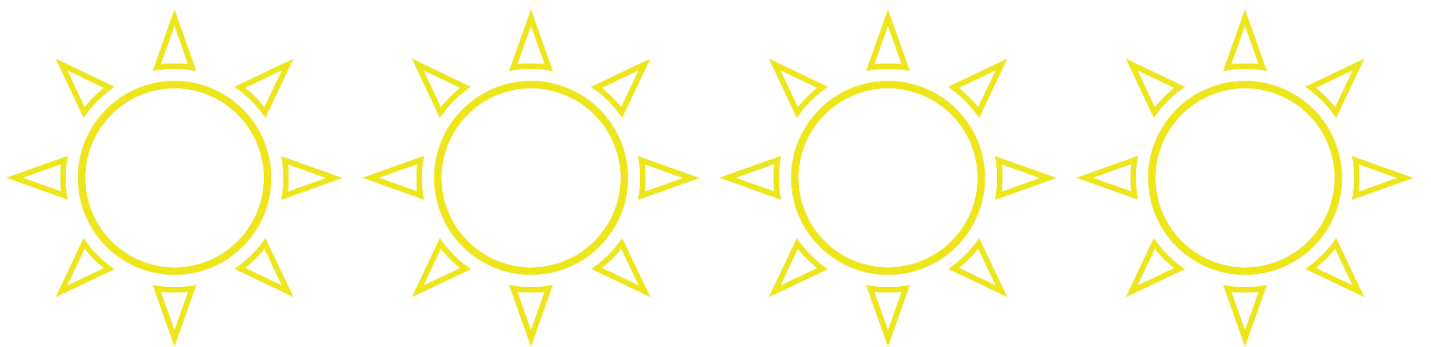

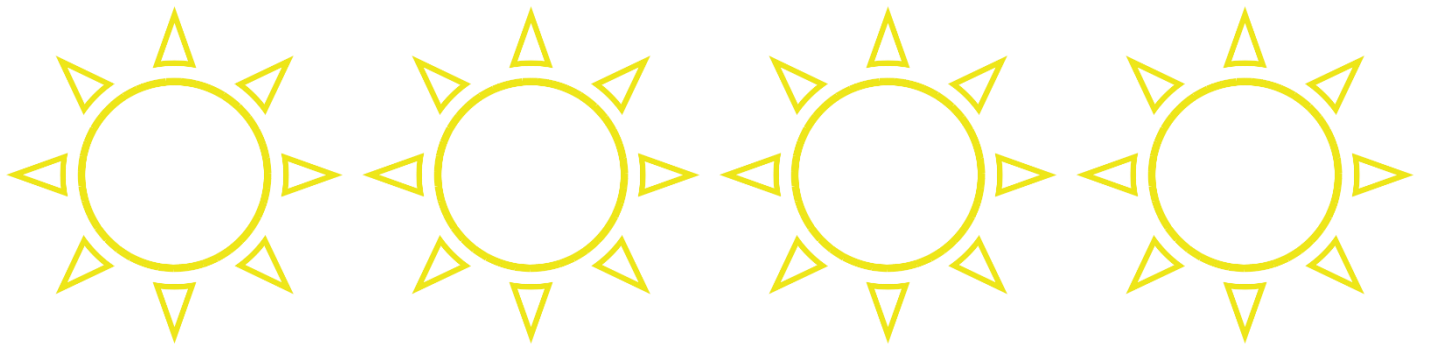

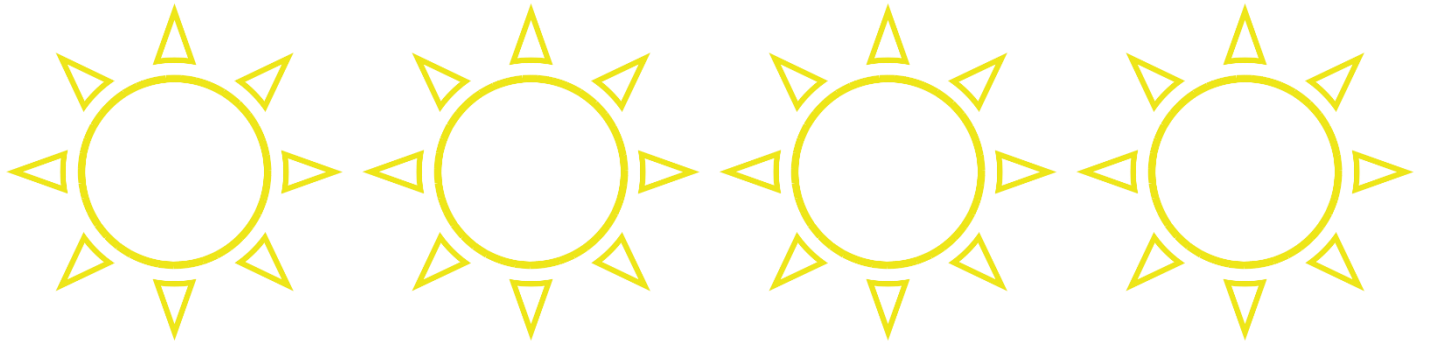

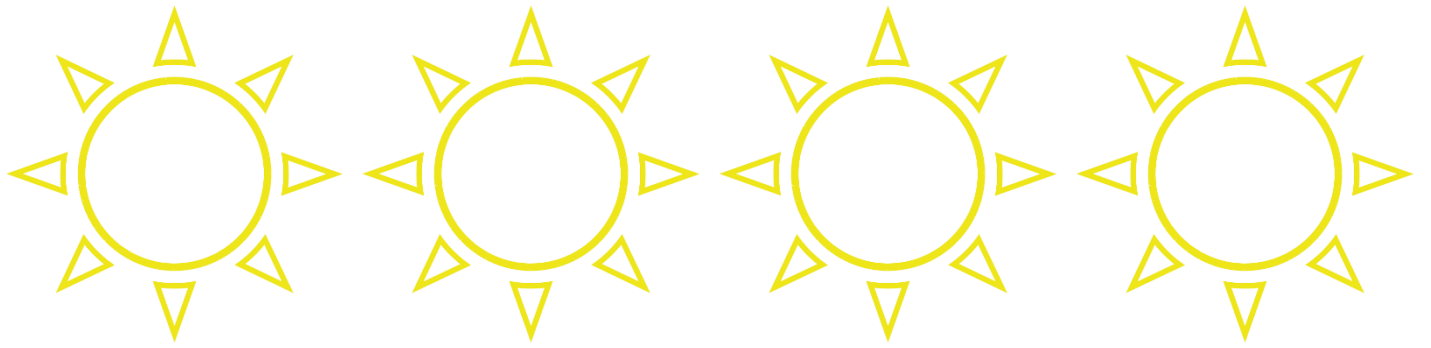

--	--	--

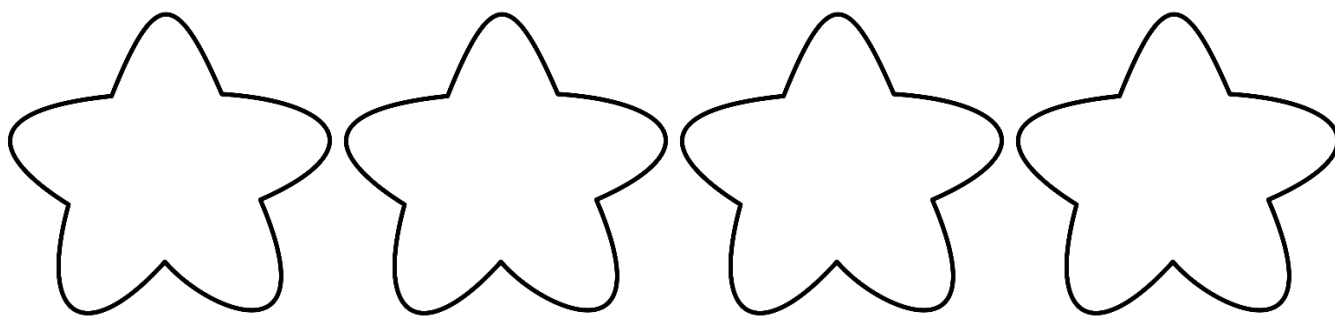

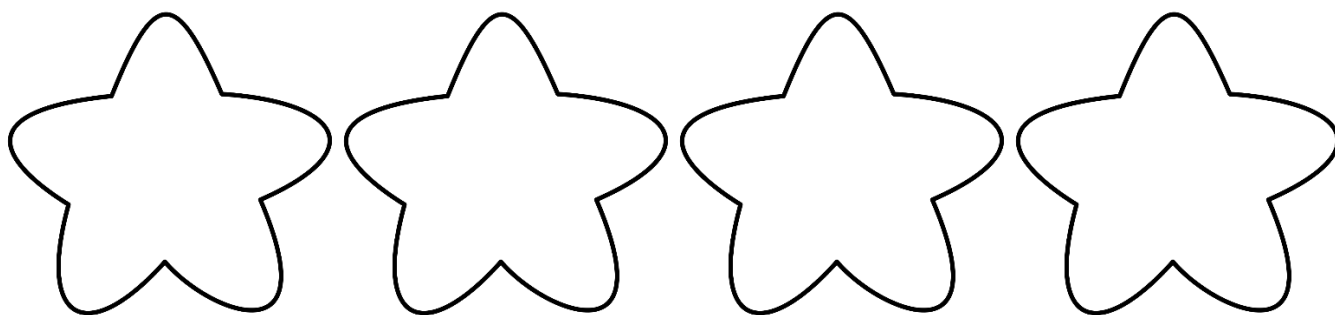

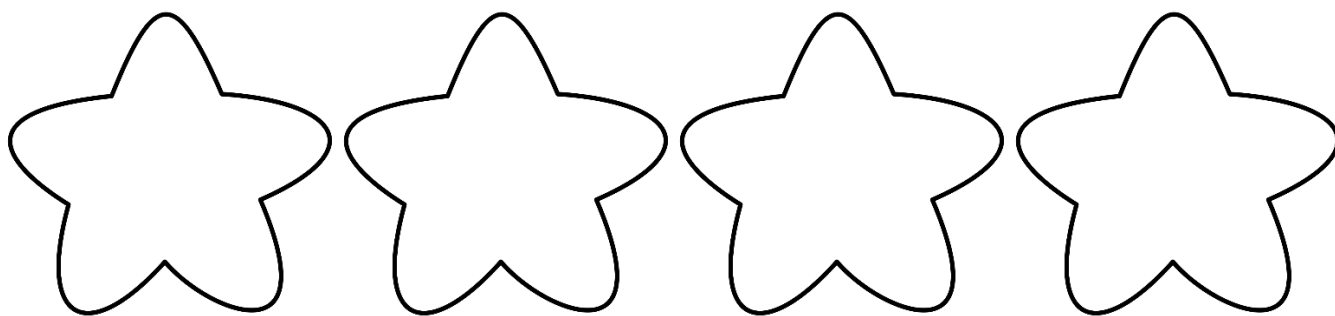

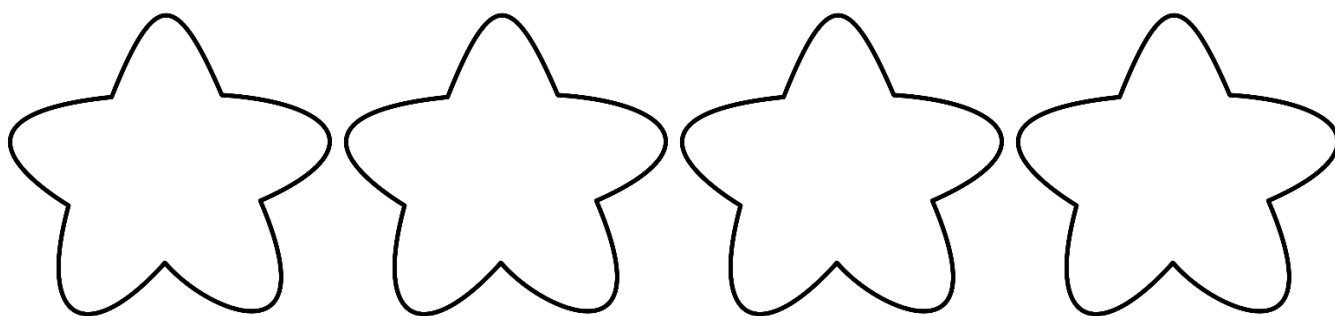

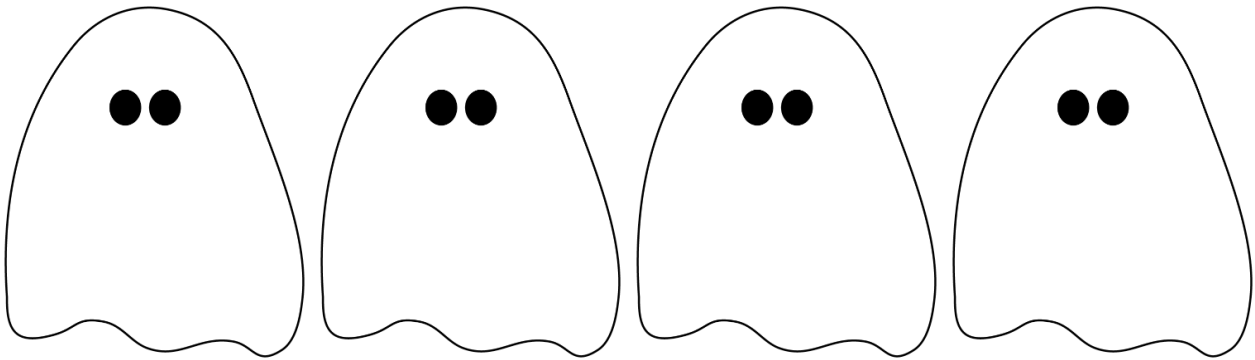

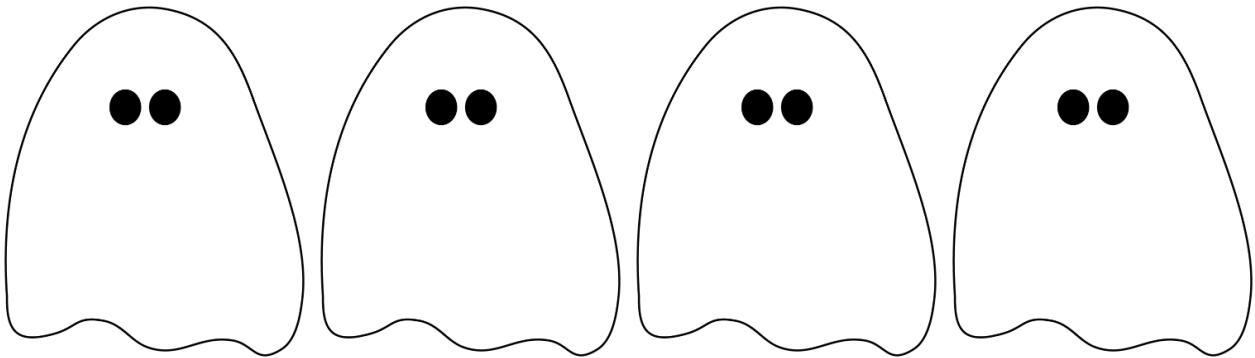

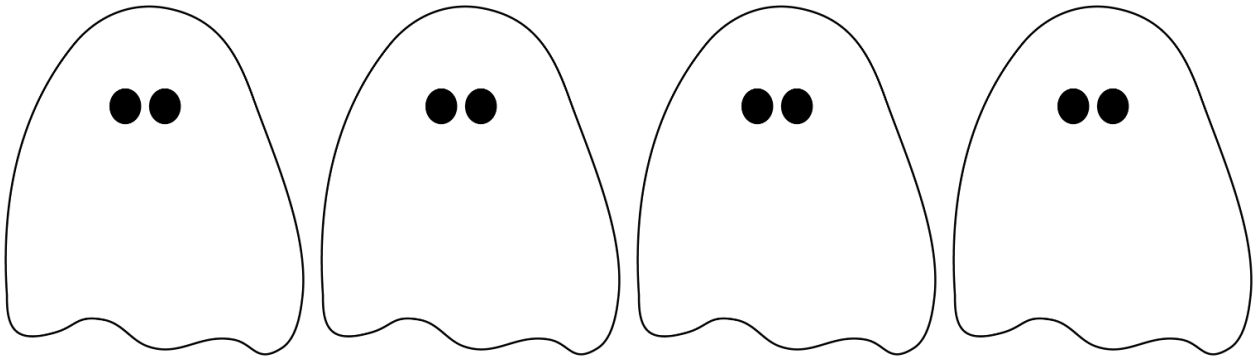

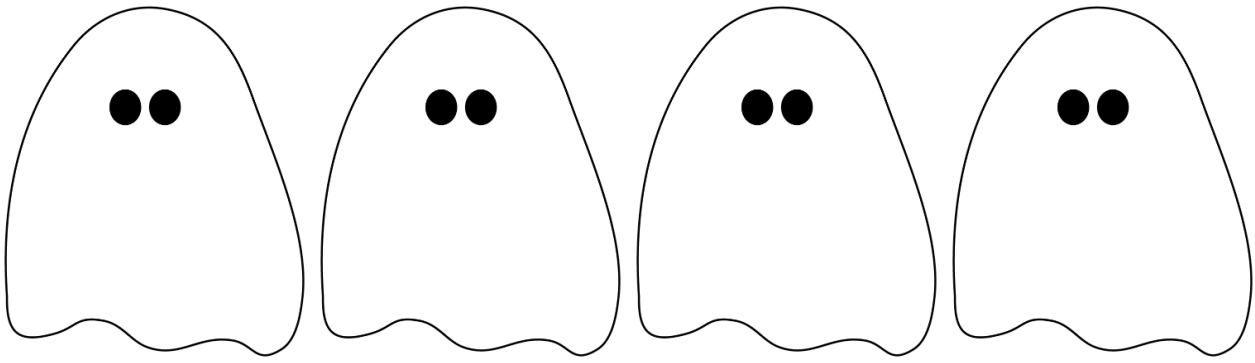

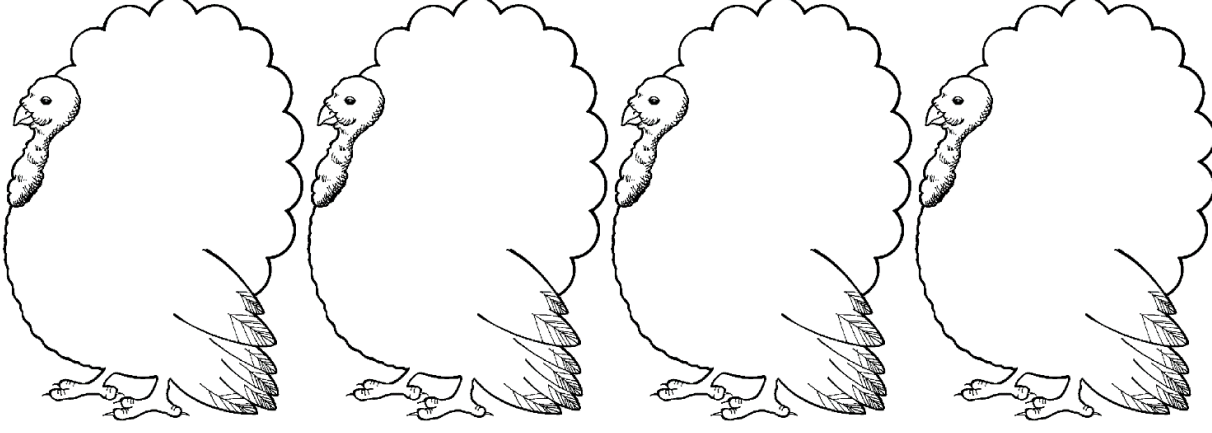

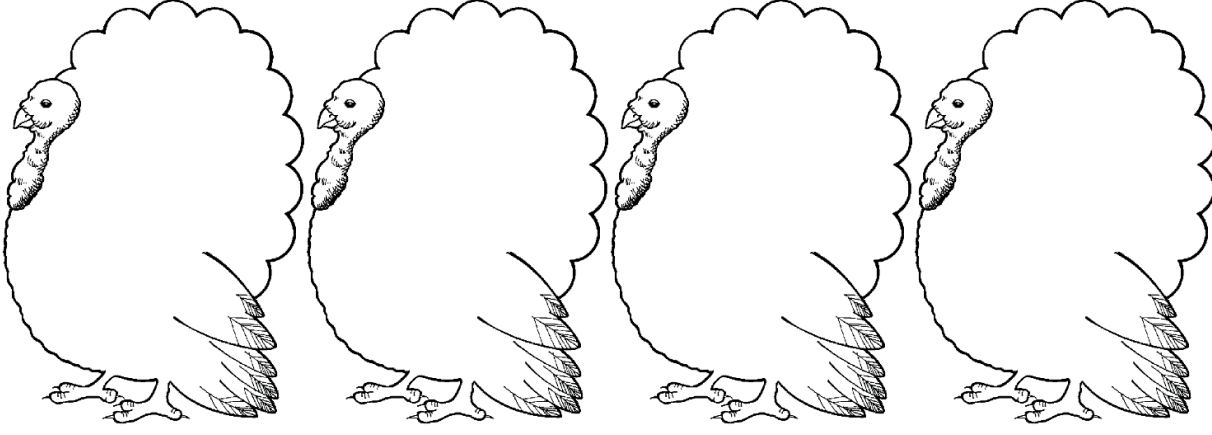

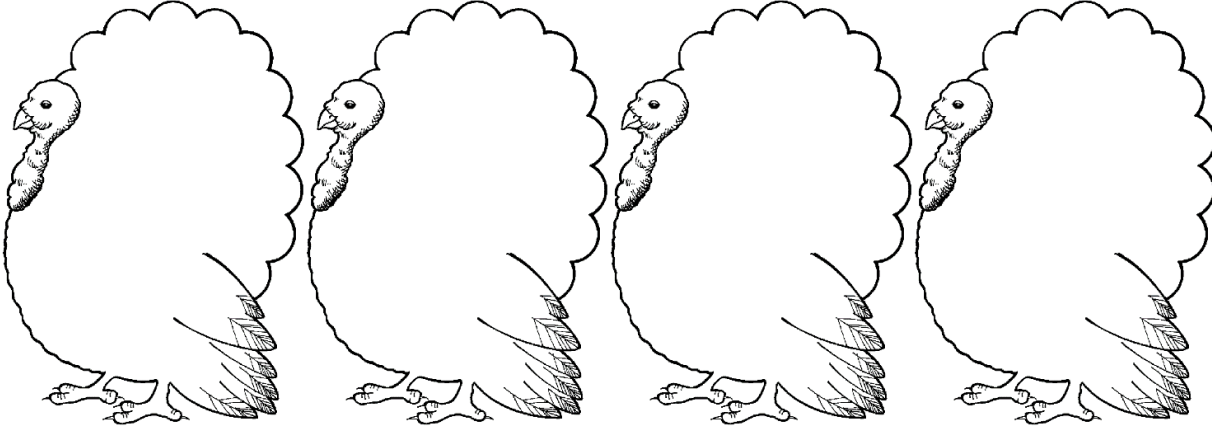

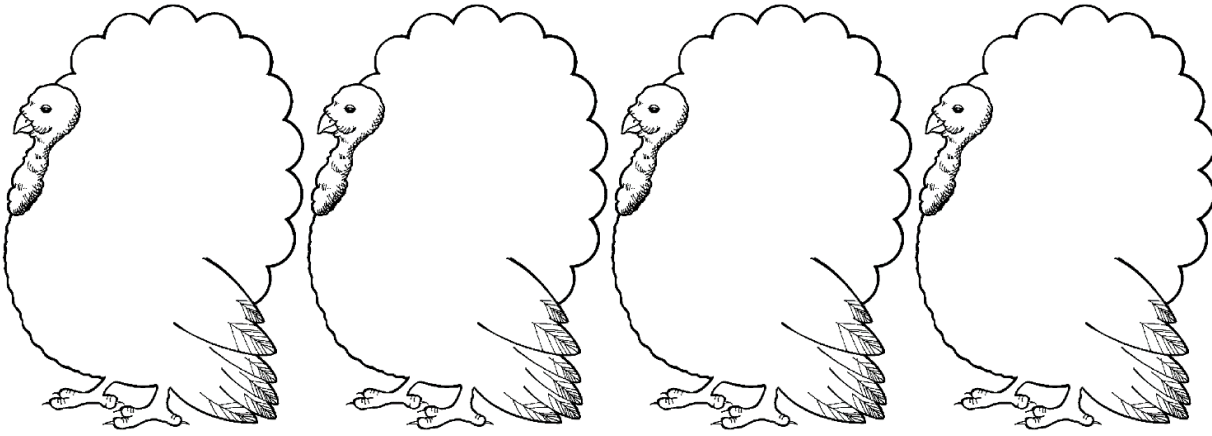

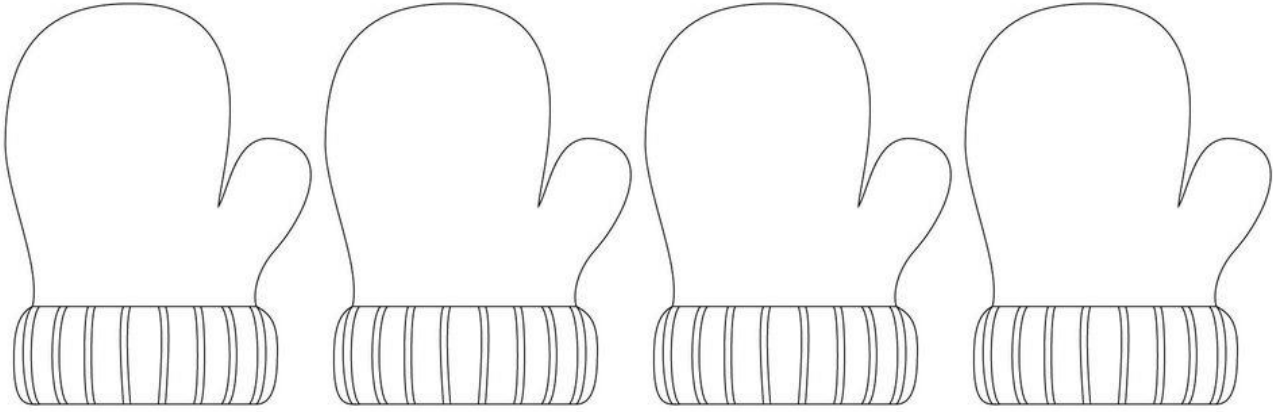

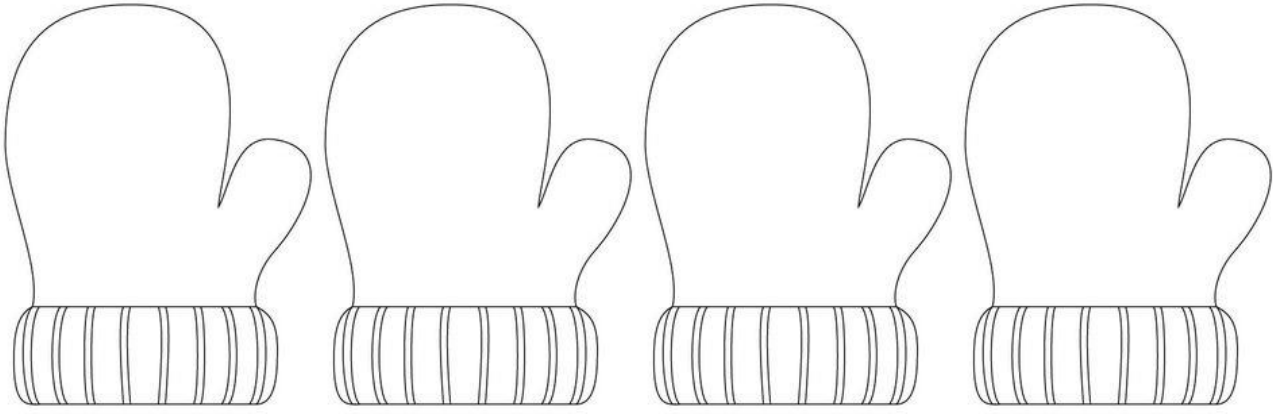

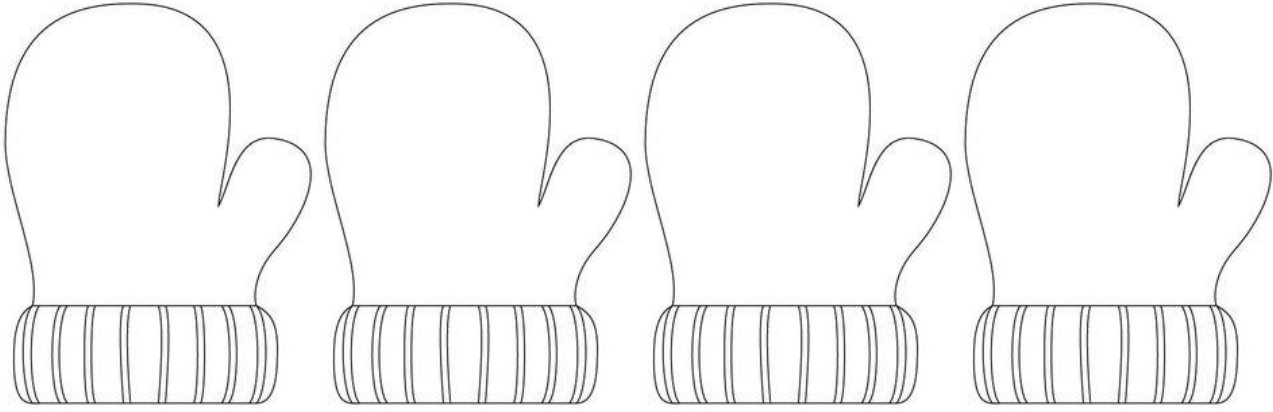

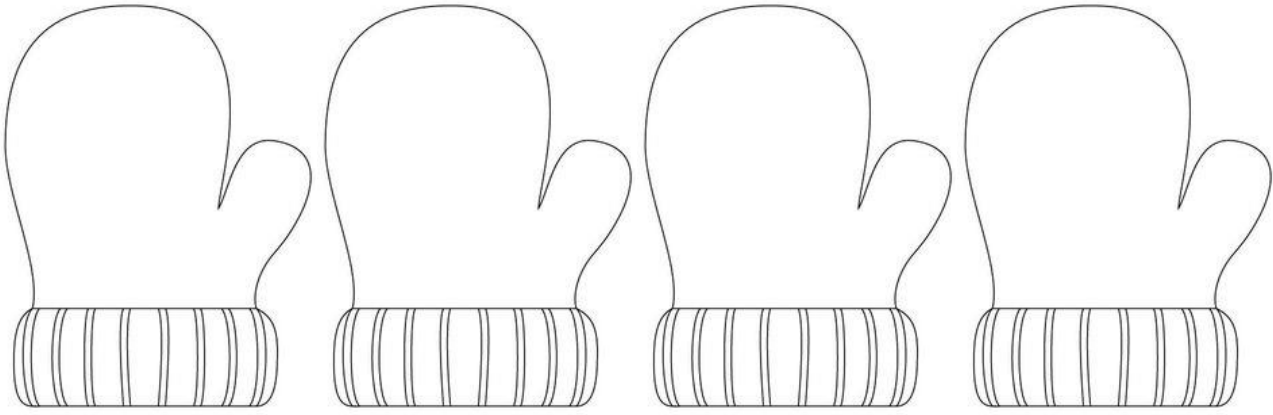

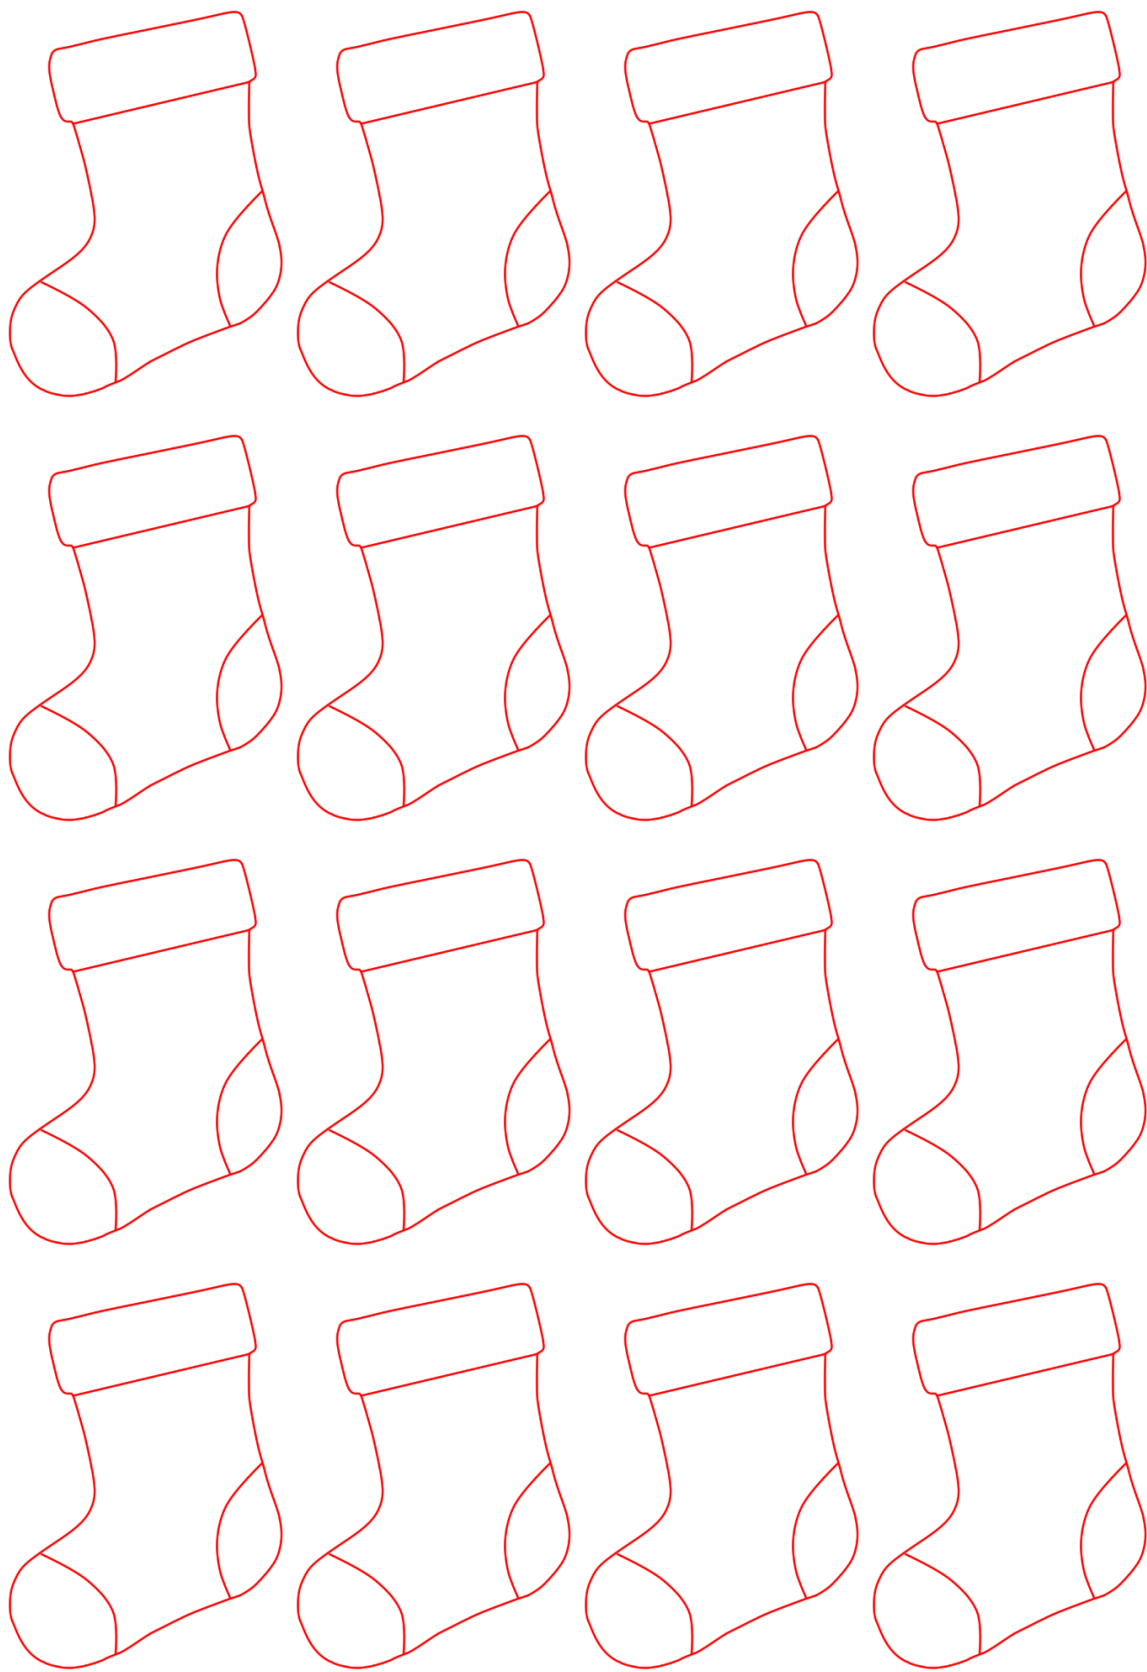

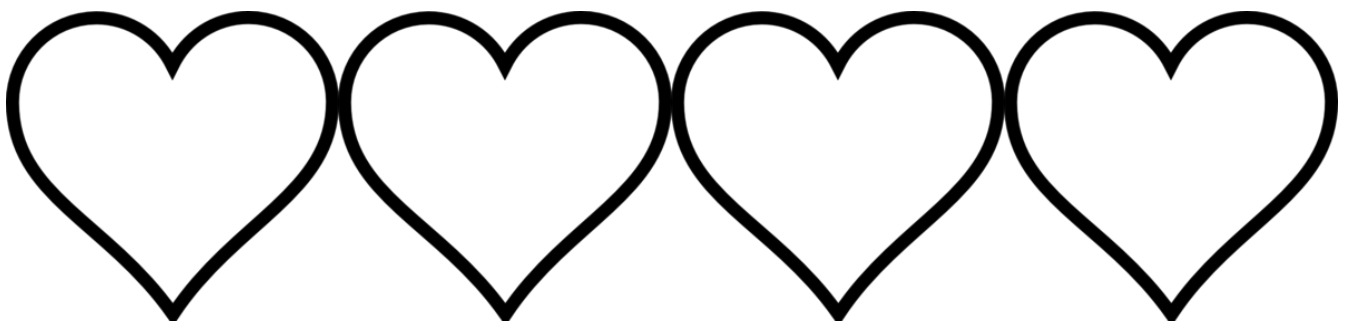

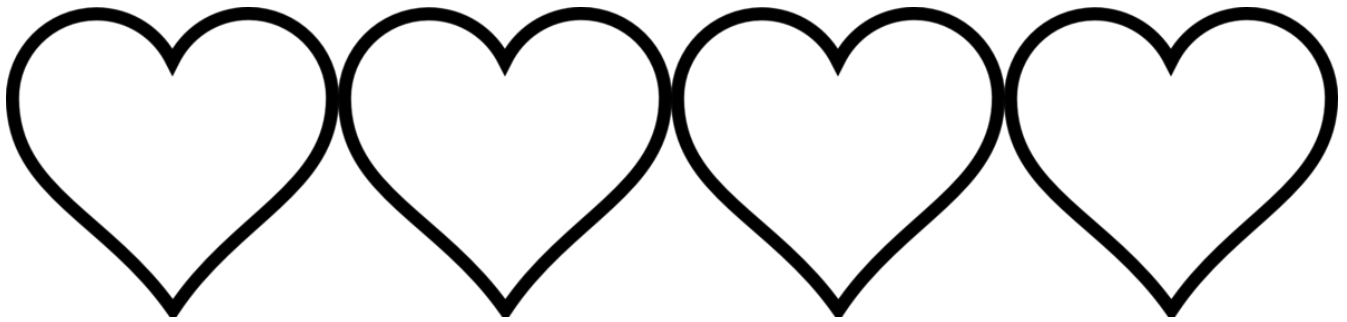

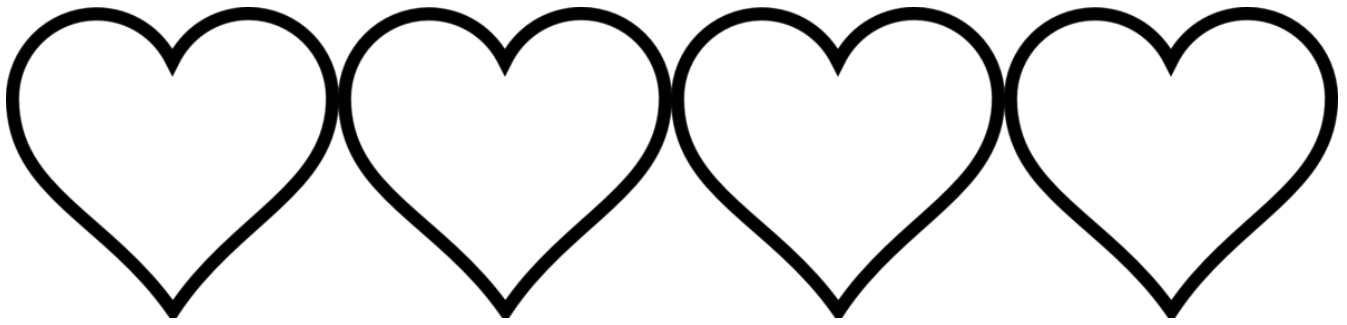

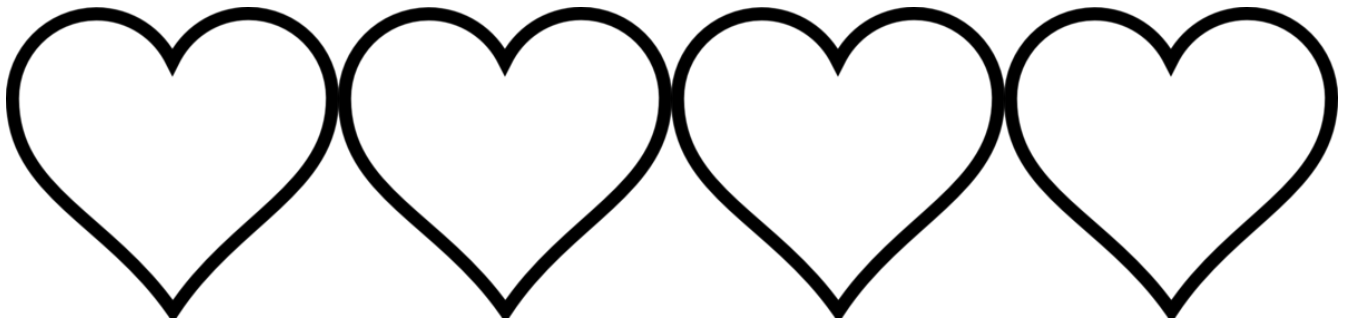

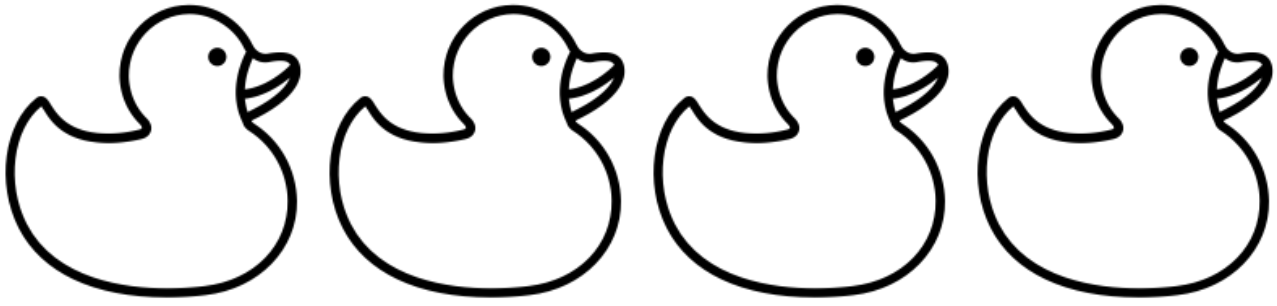

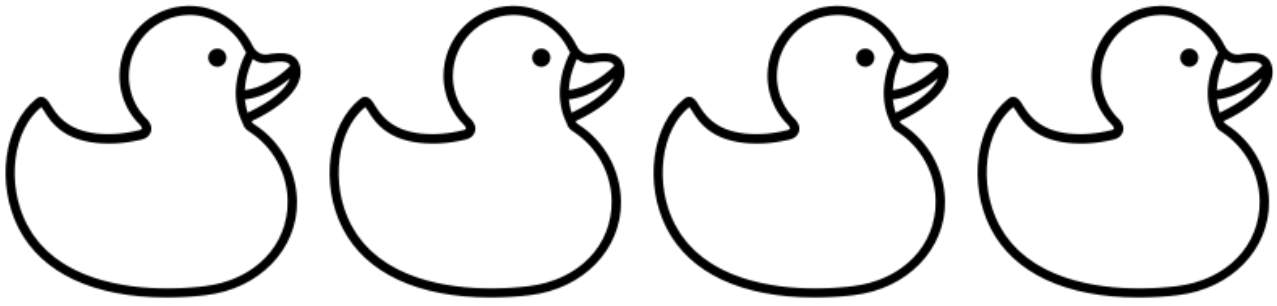

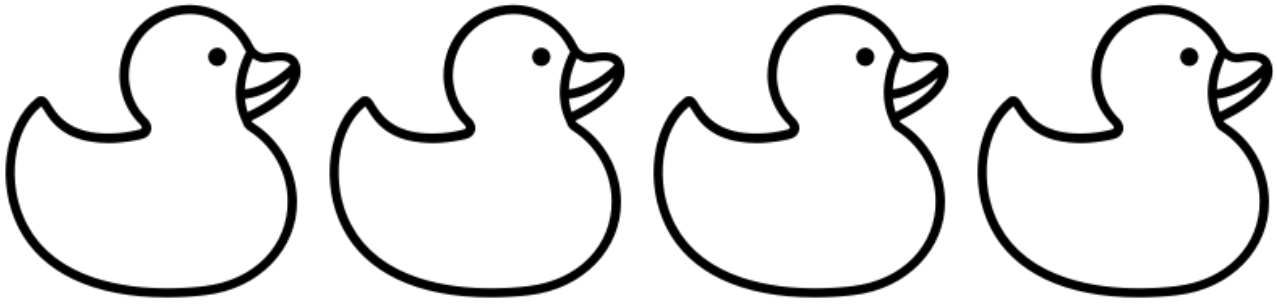

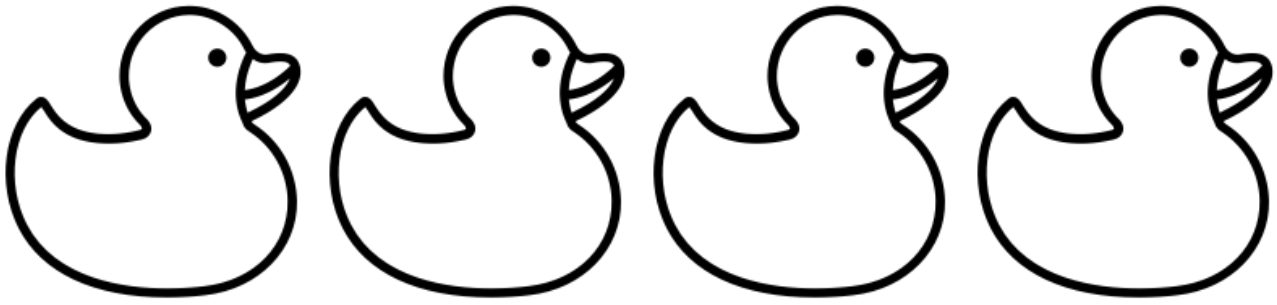

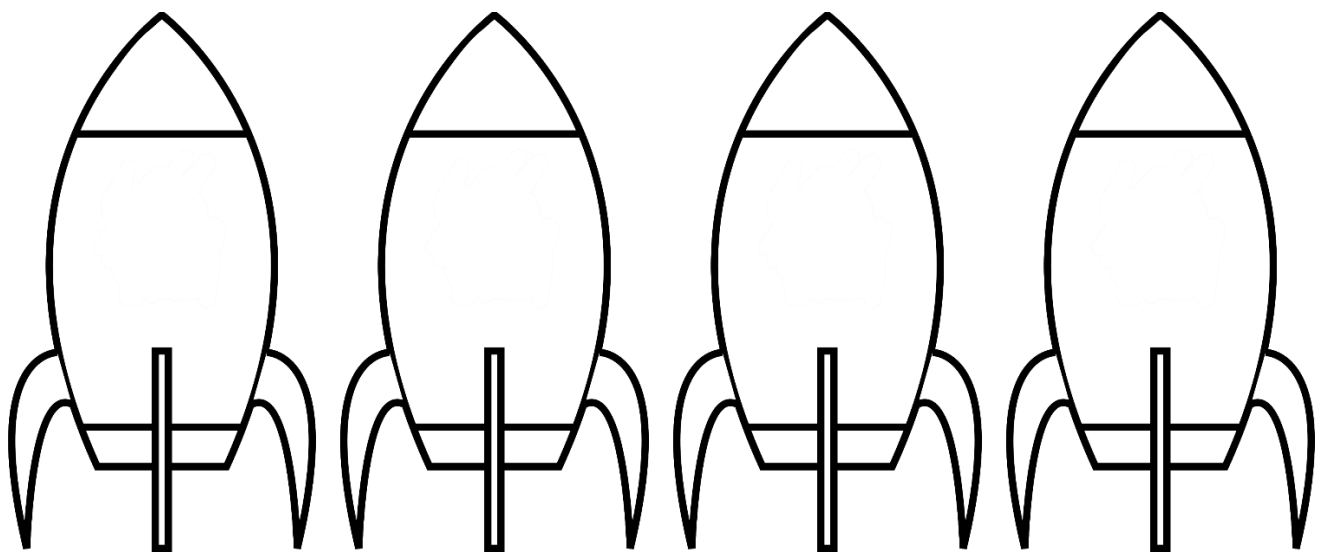

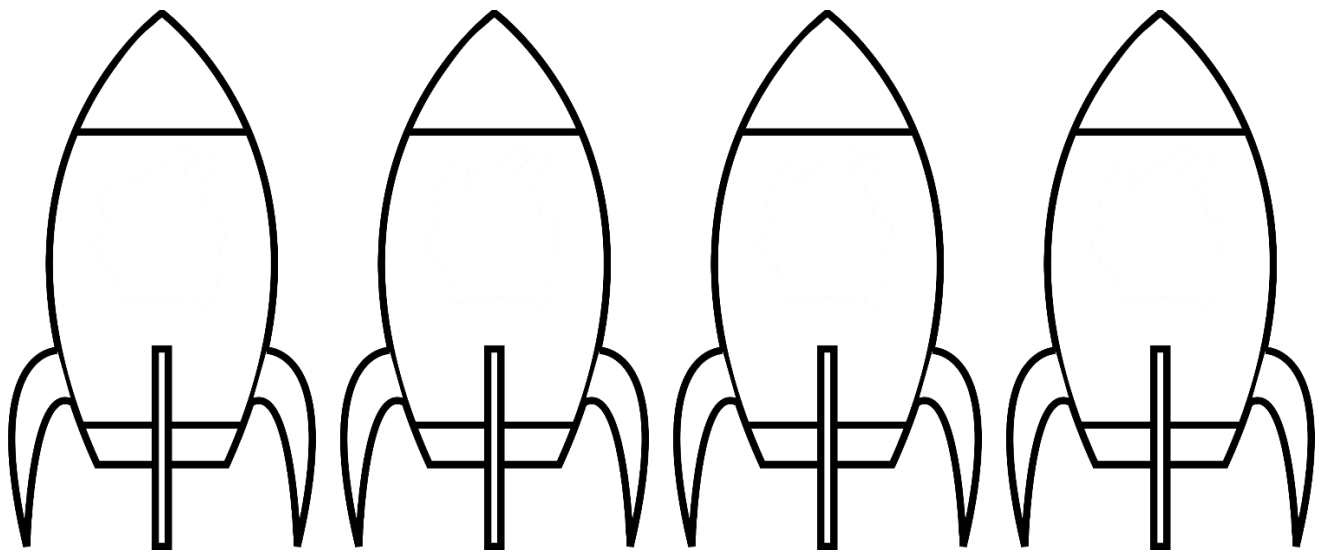

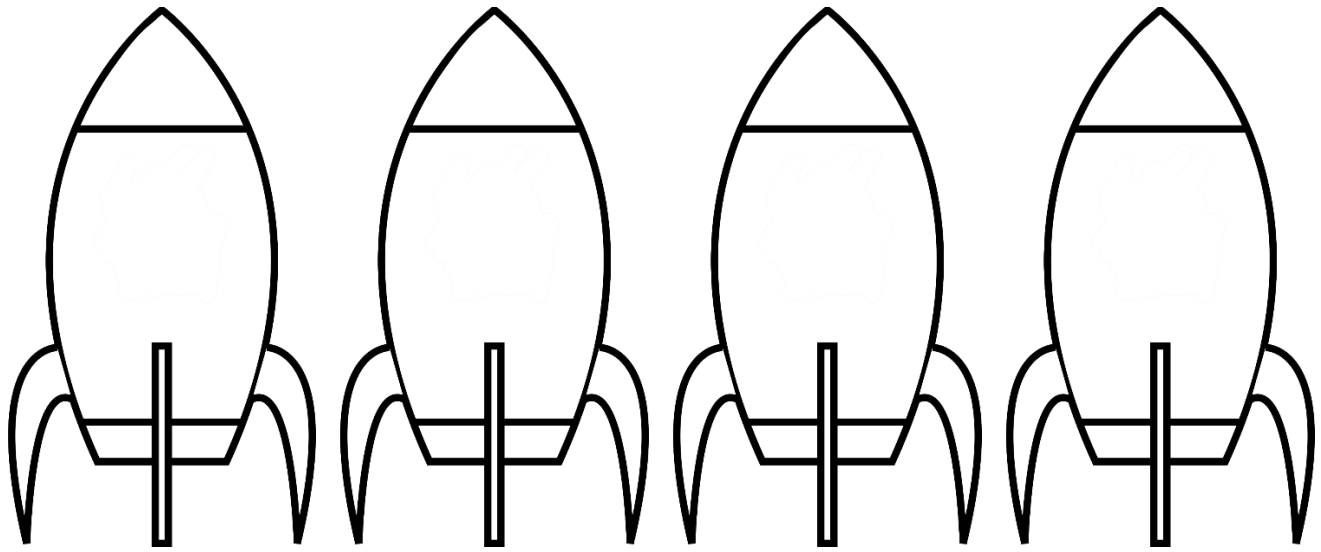

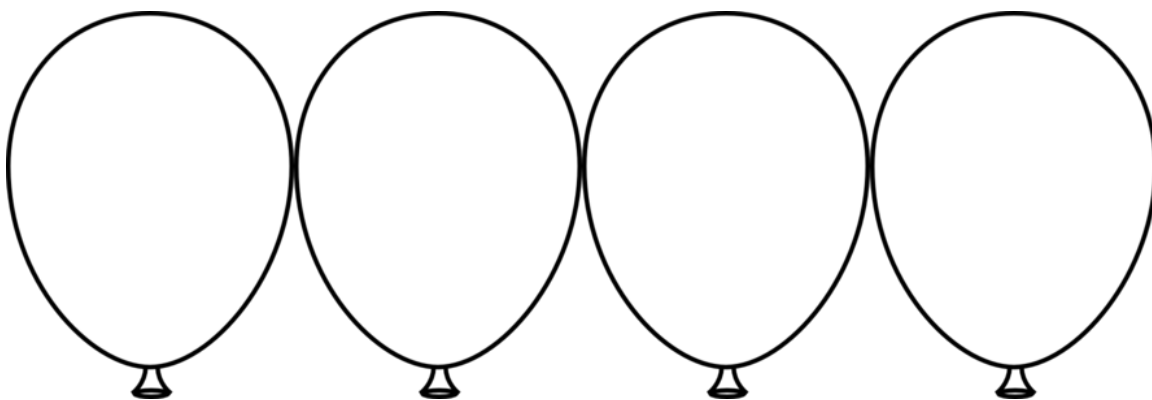

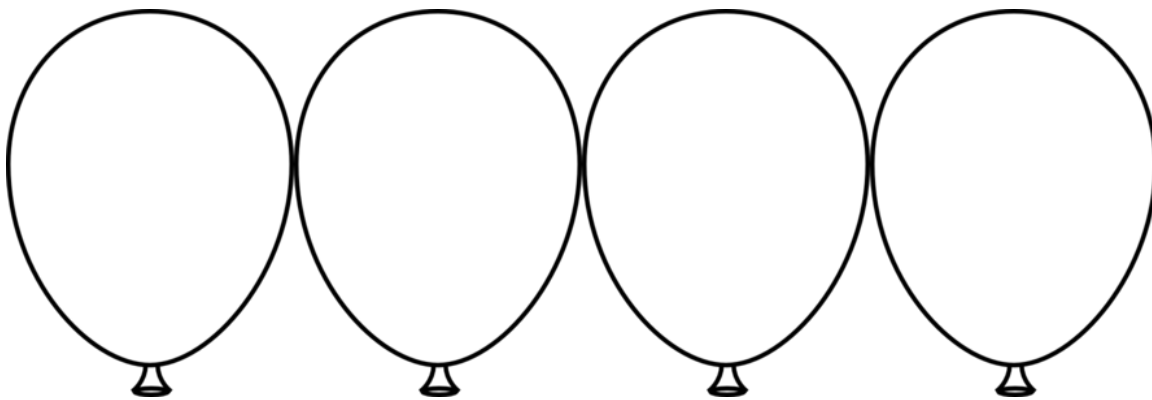

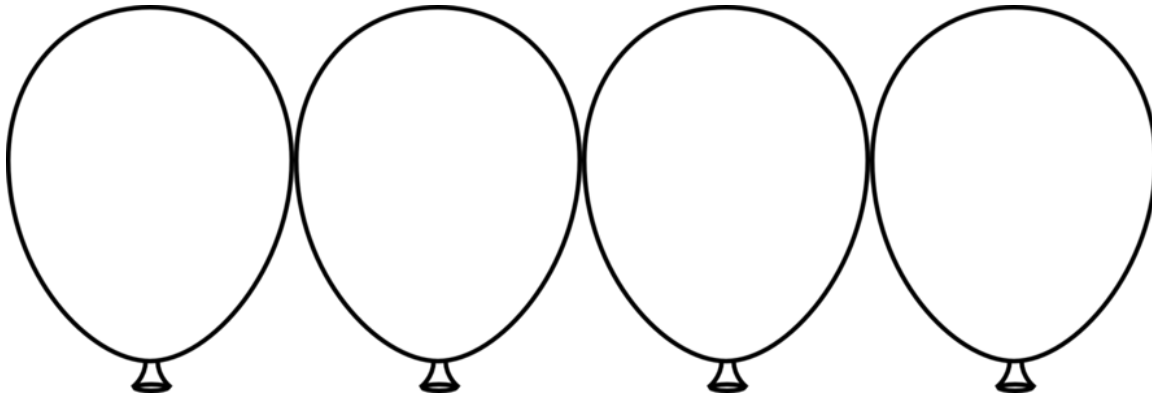

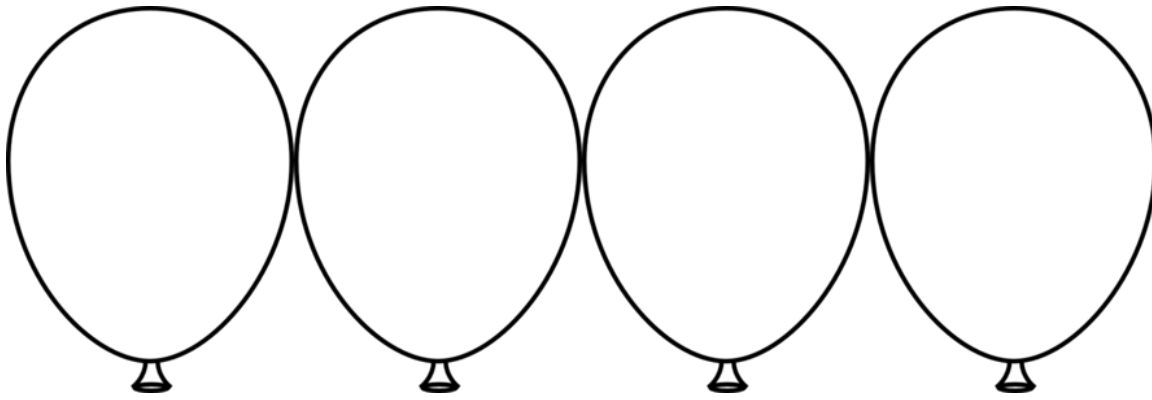

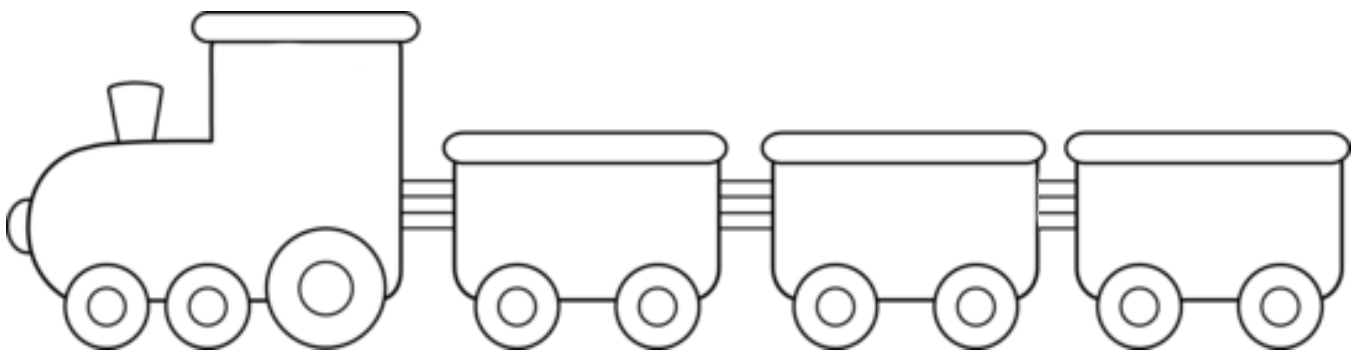

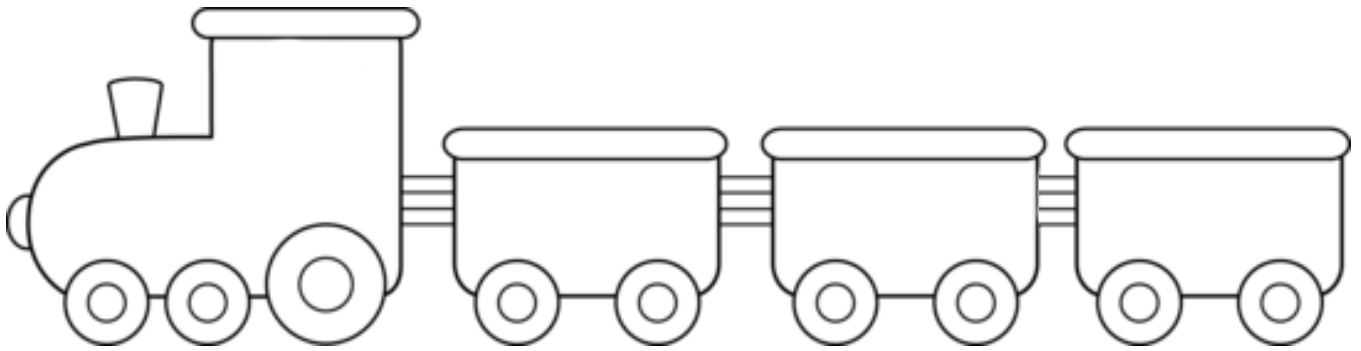

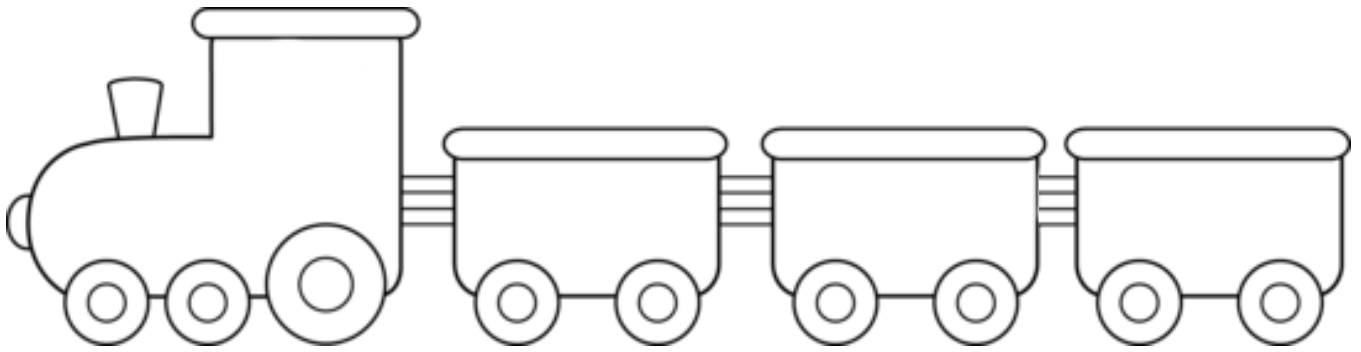

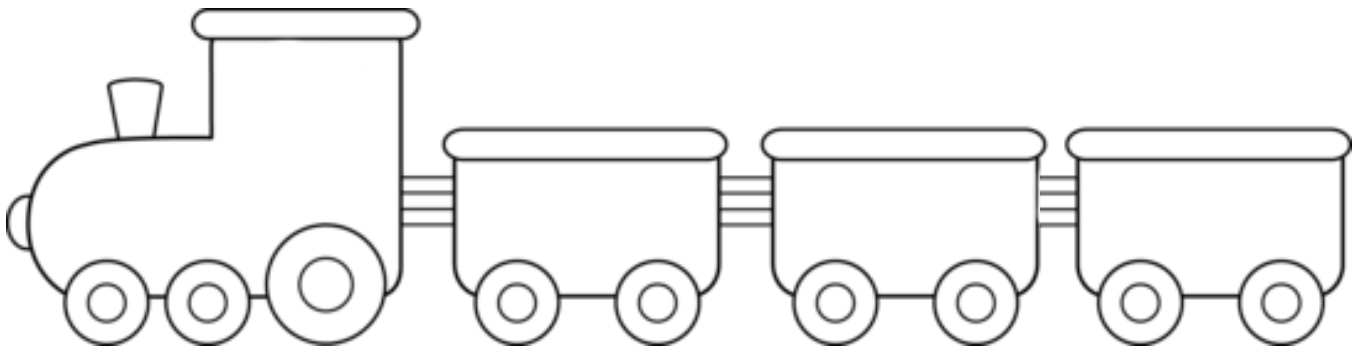

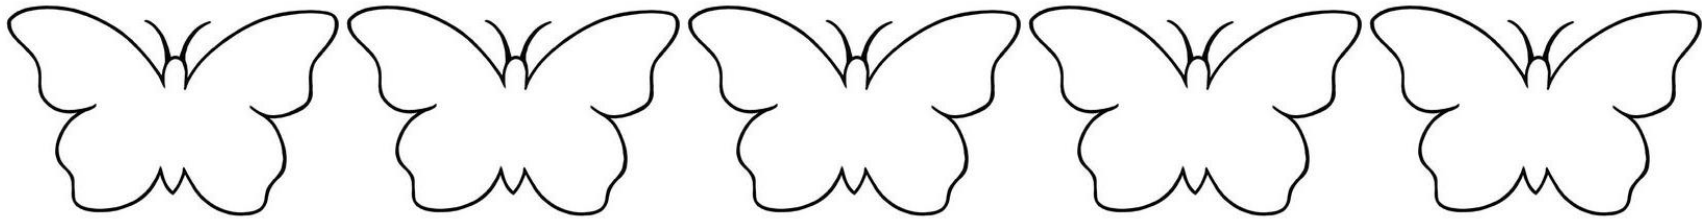

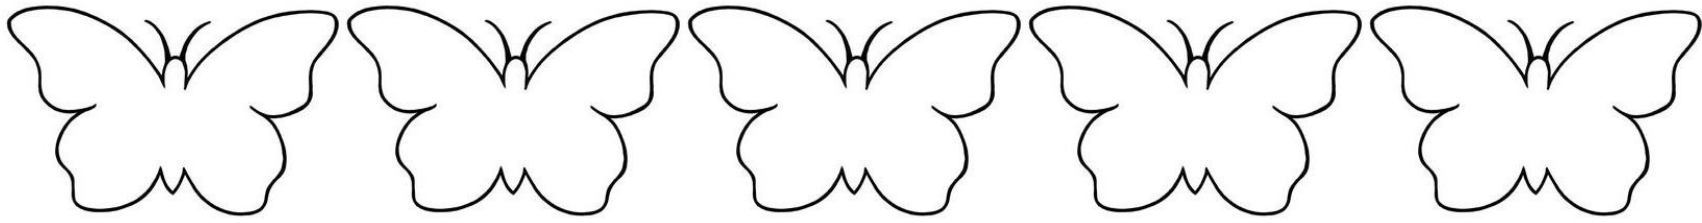

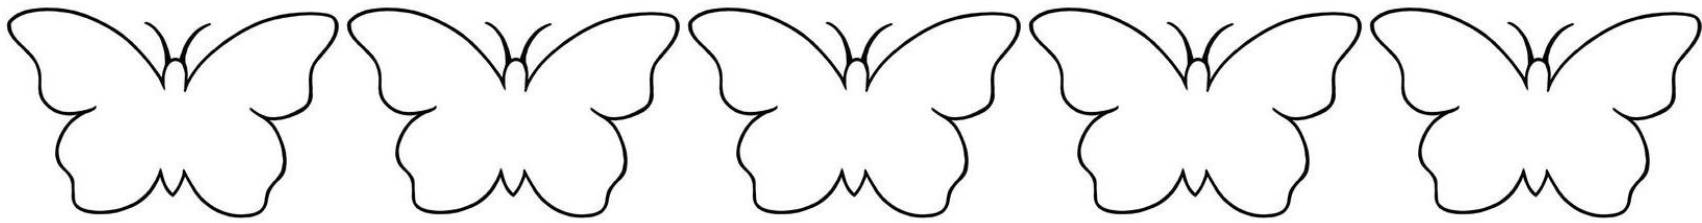

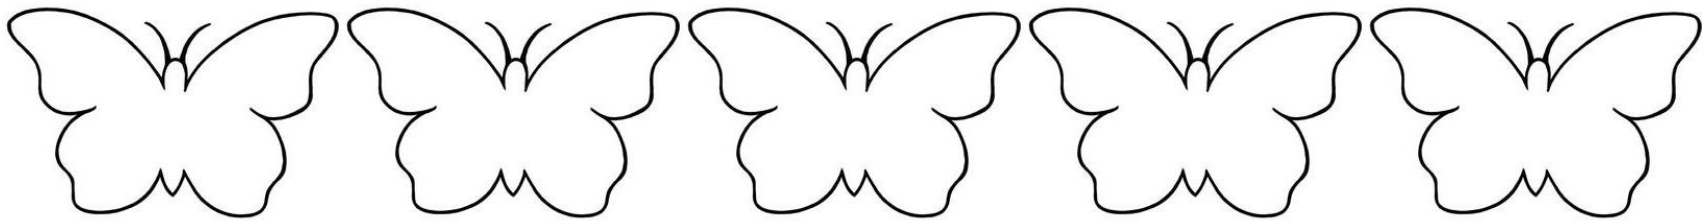

--	--	--	--

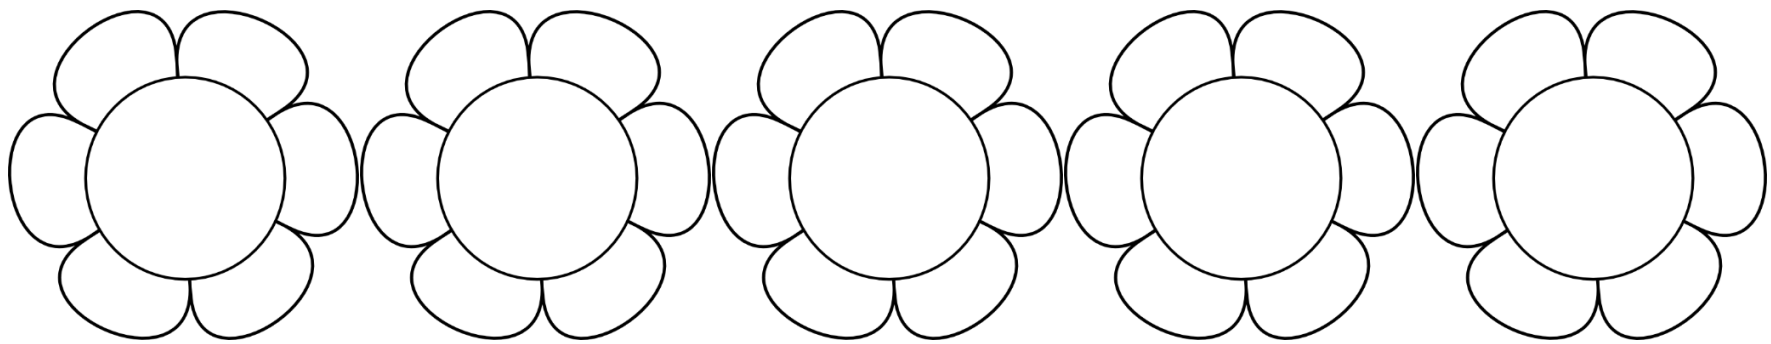

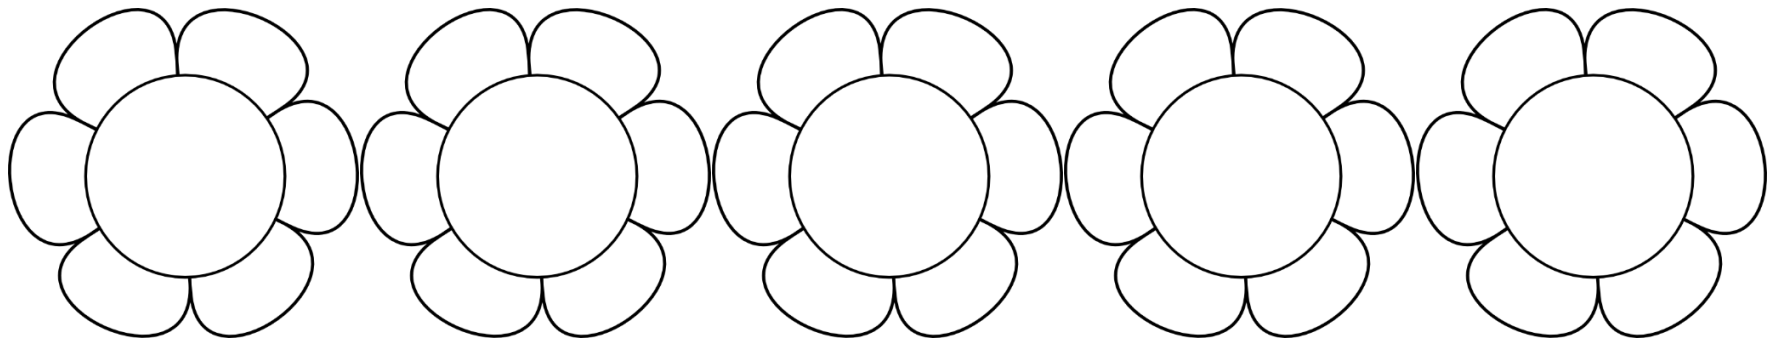

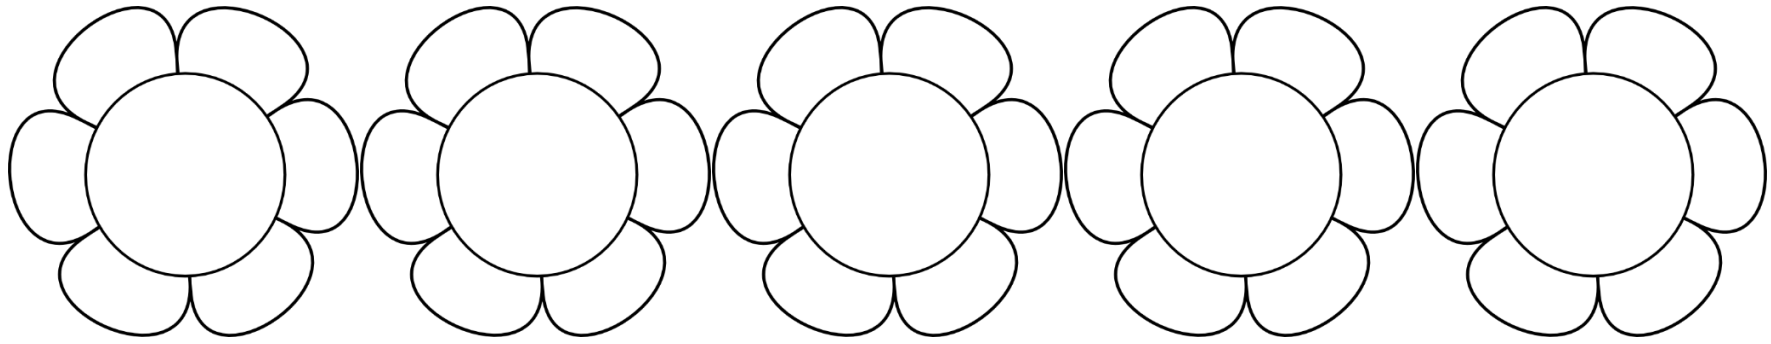

--	--	--	--

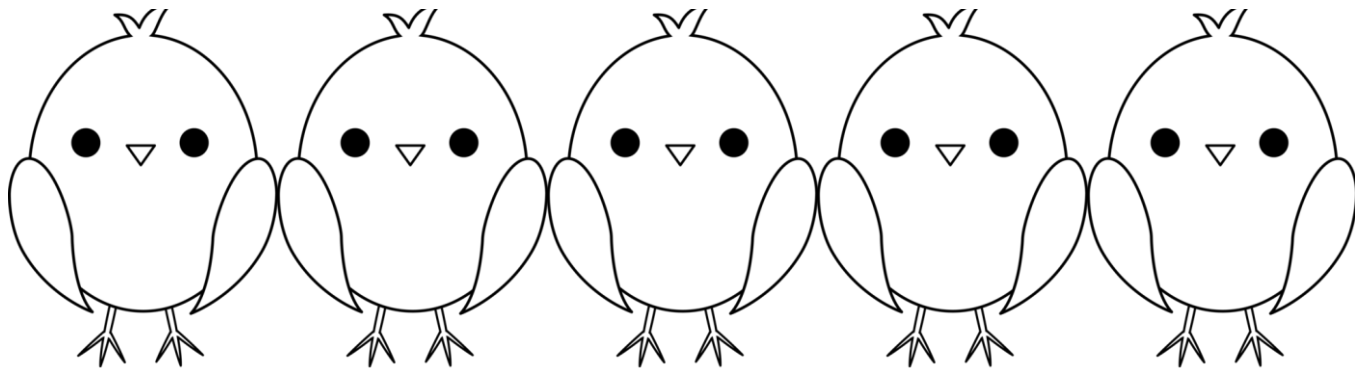

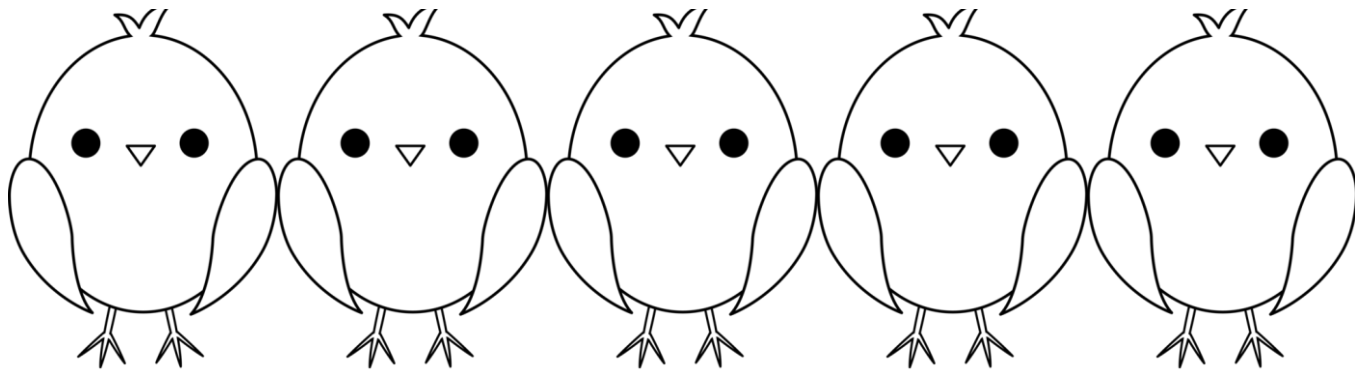

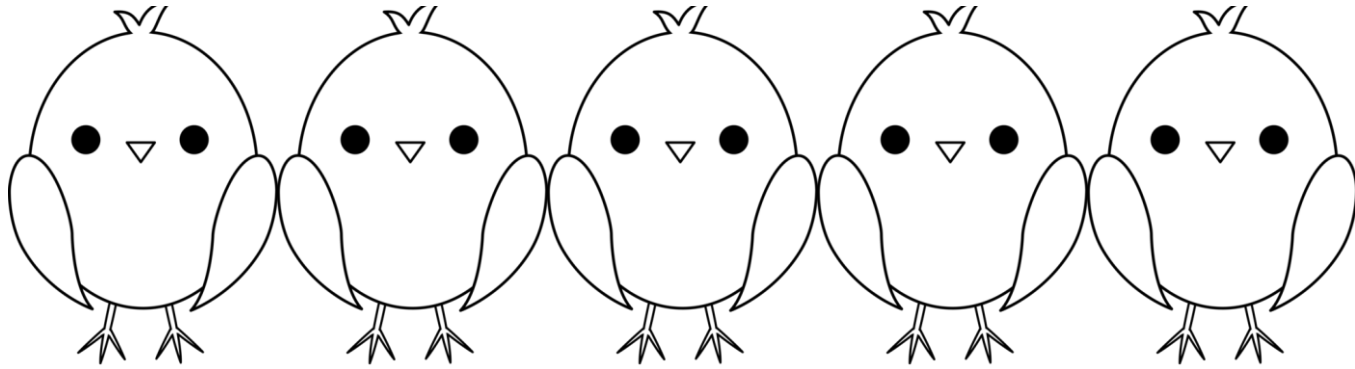

--	--	--	--

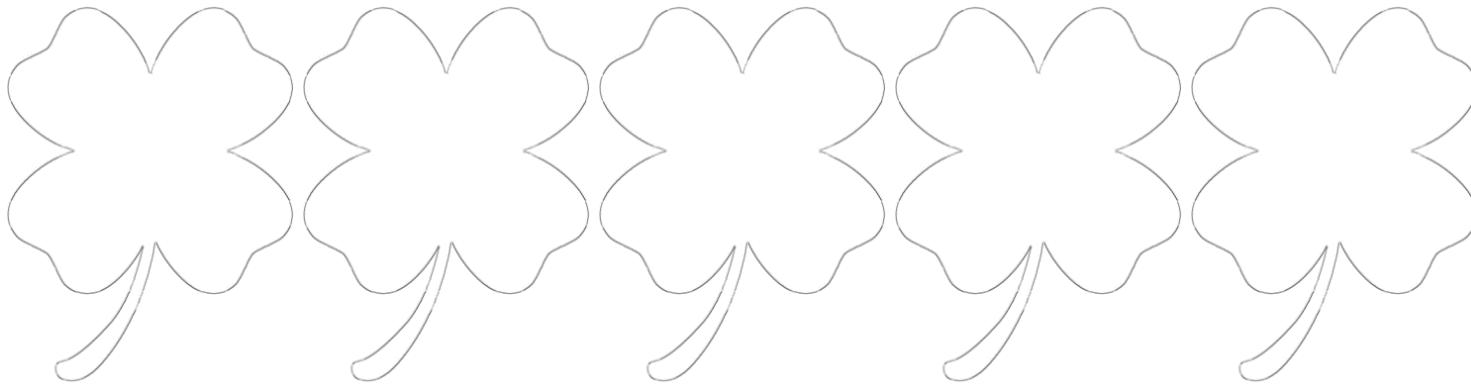

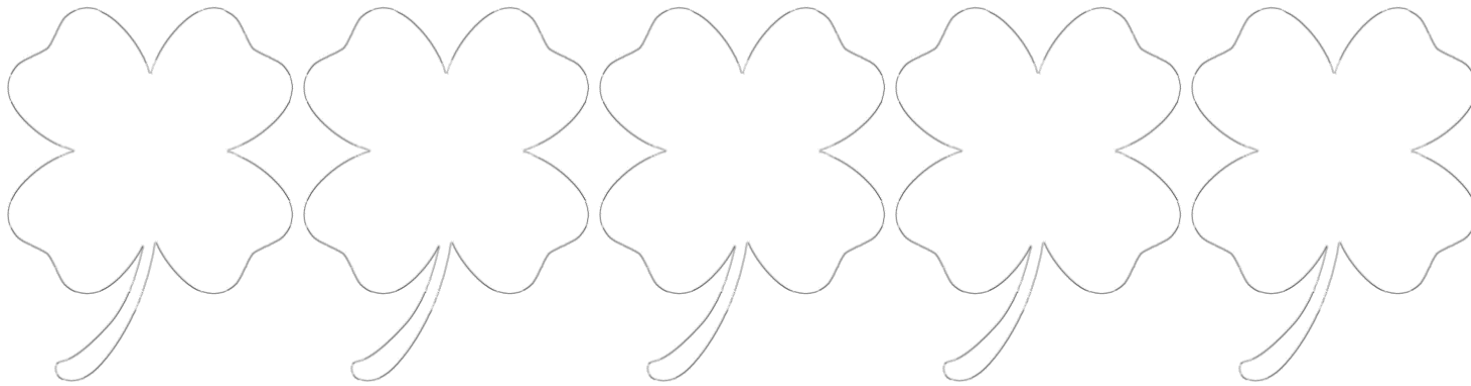

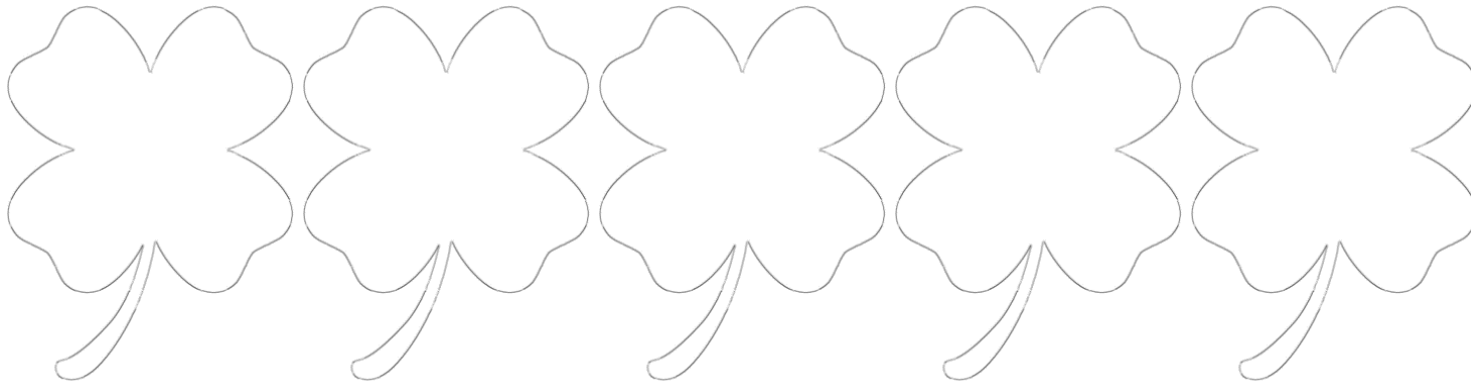

--	--	--	--

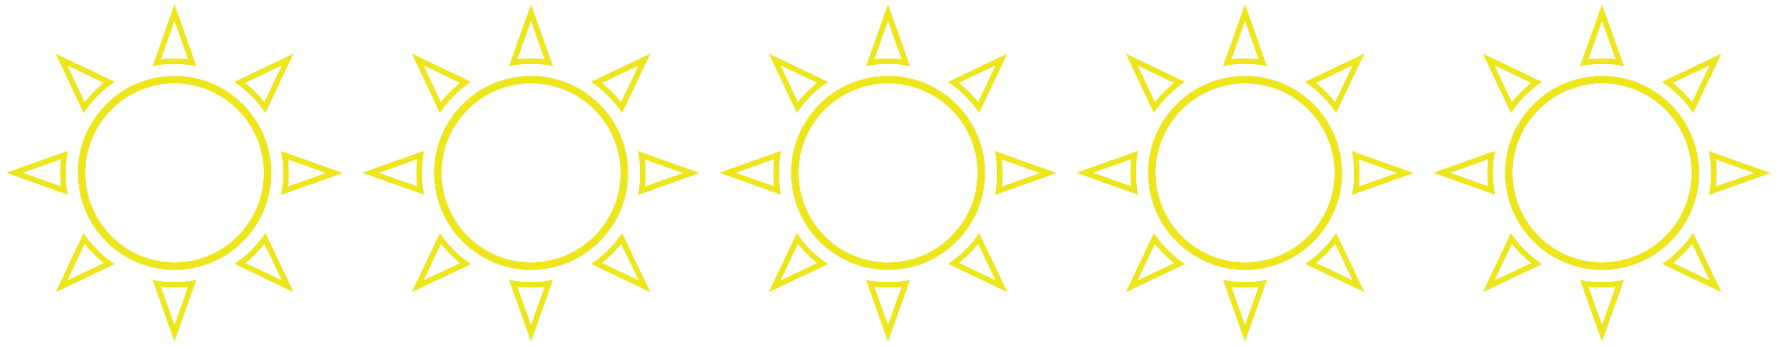

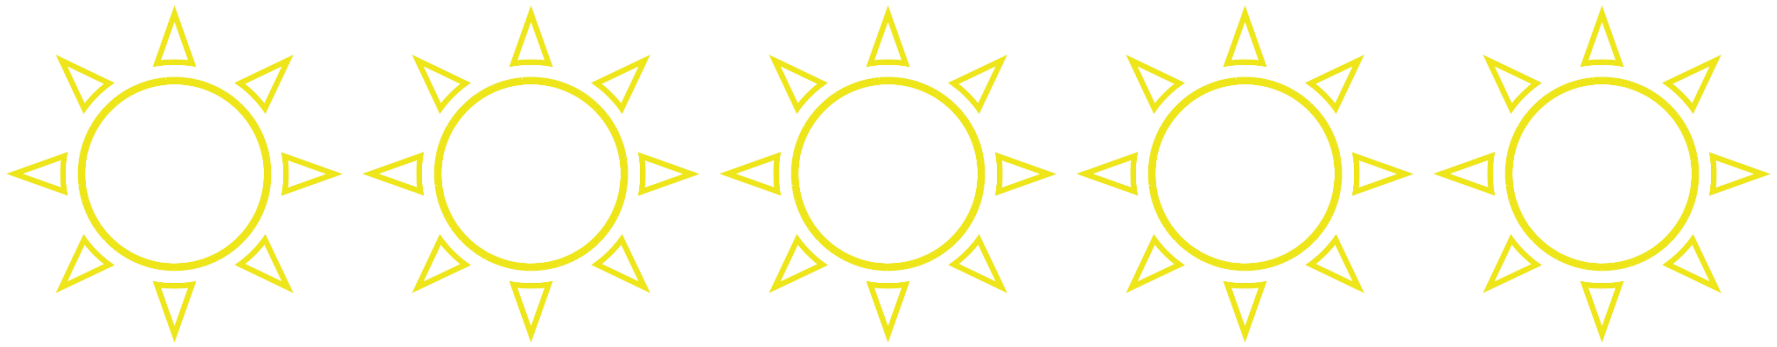

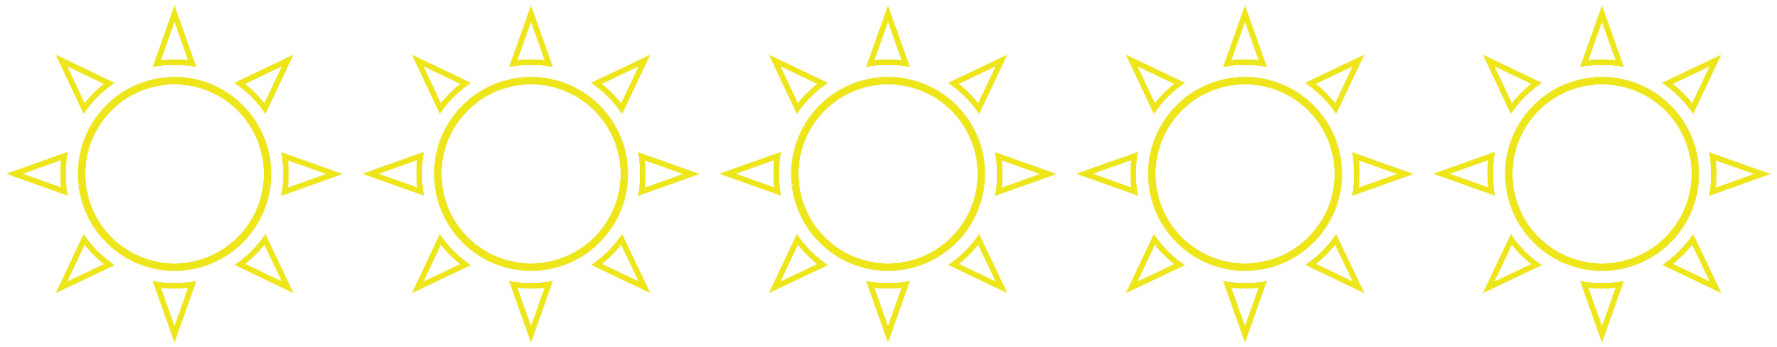

--	--	--	--

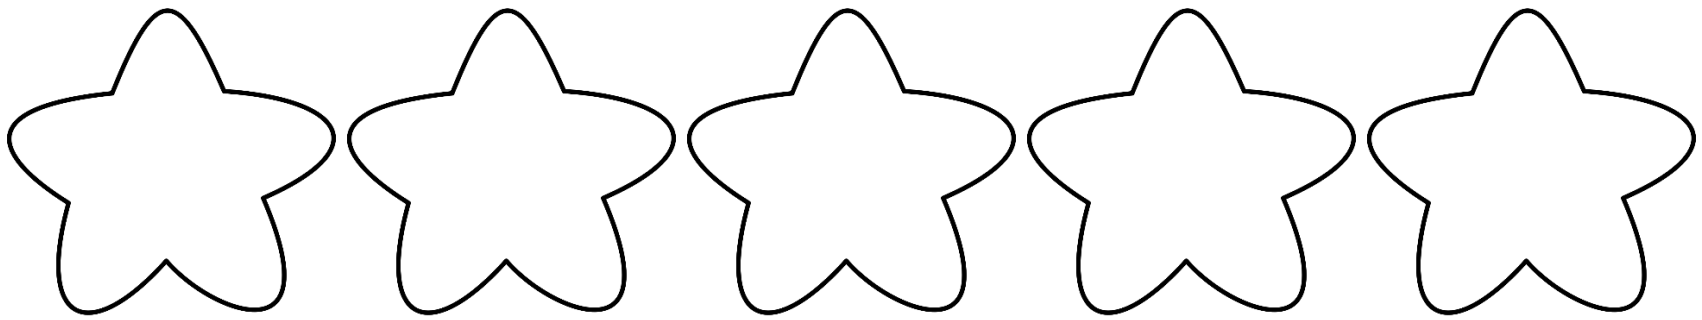

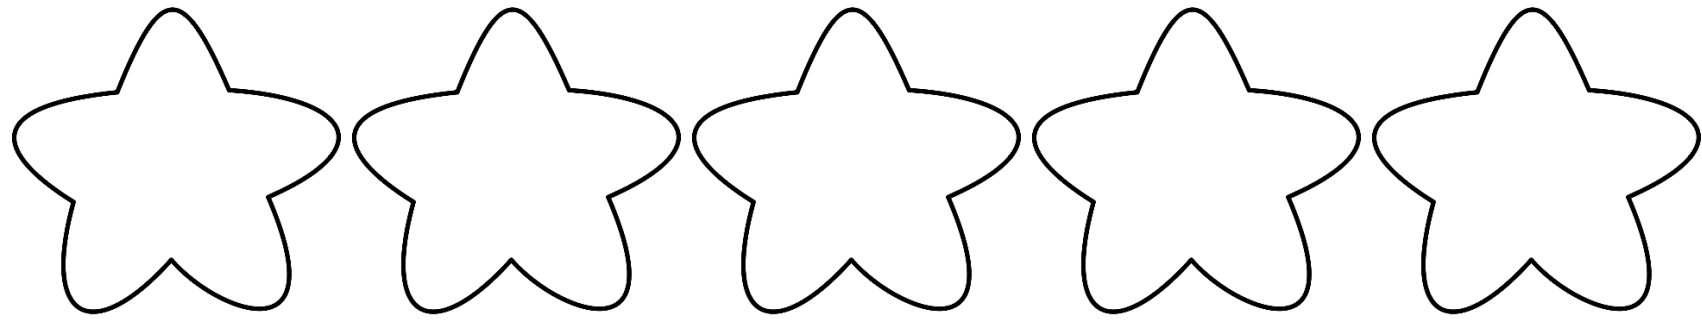

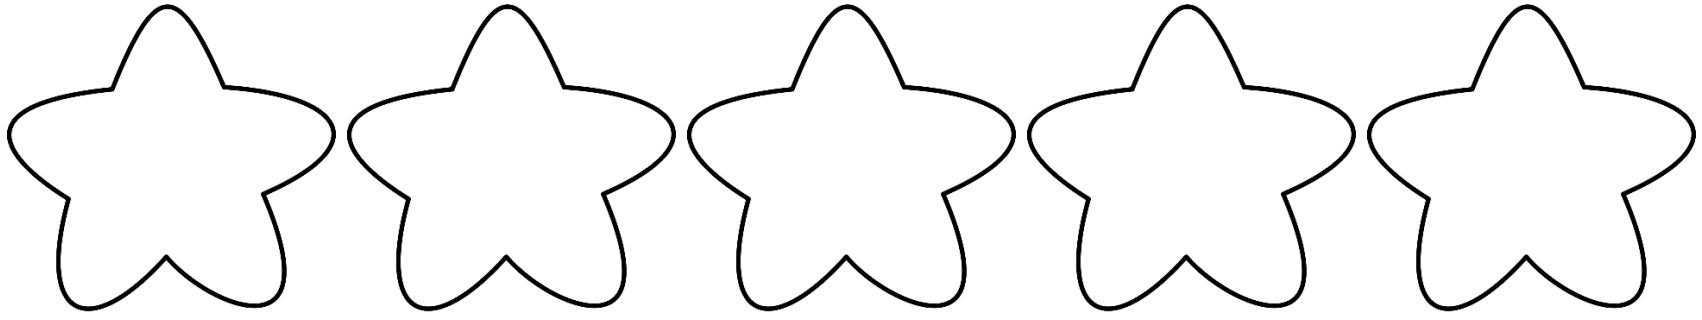

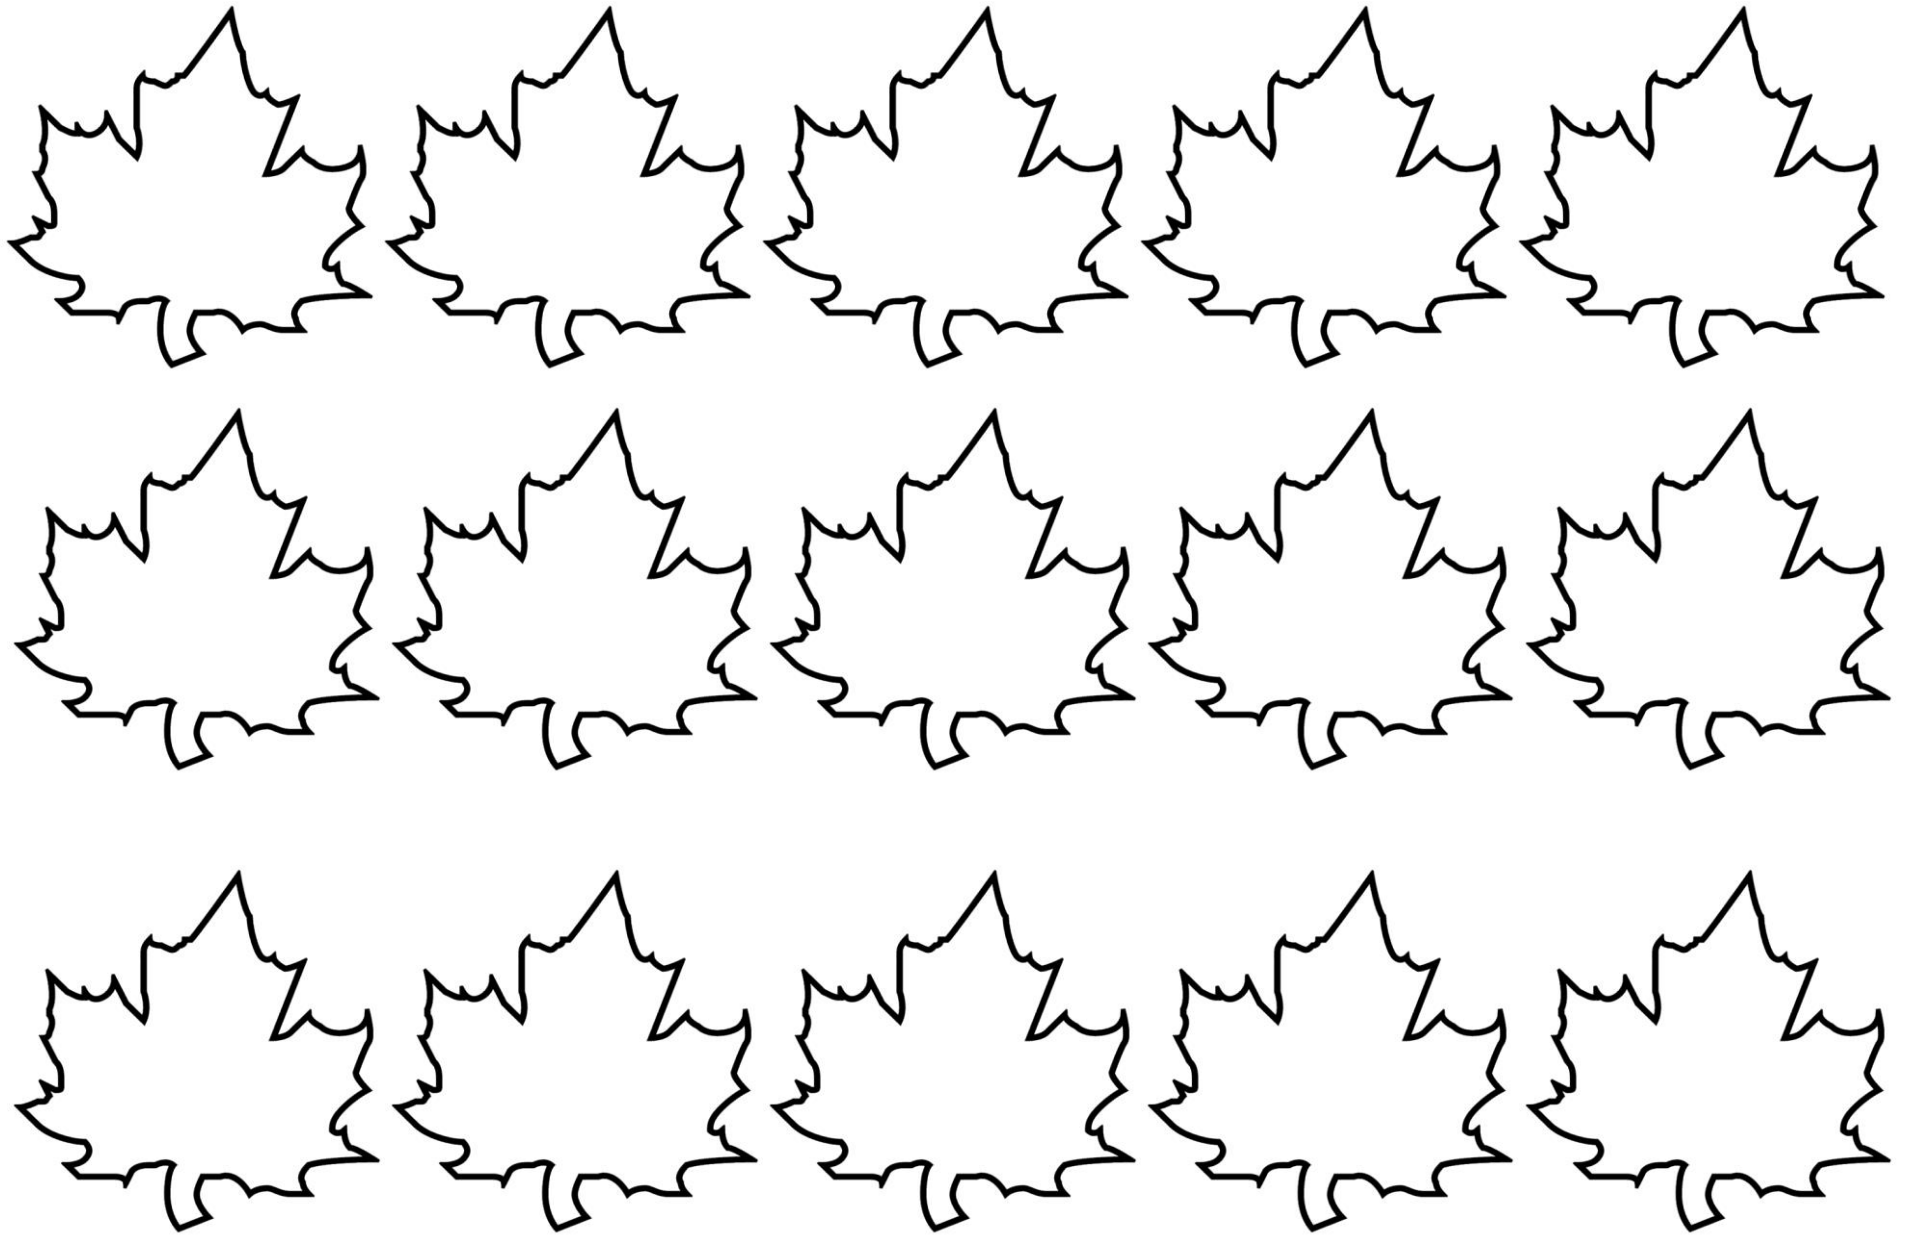

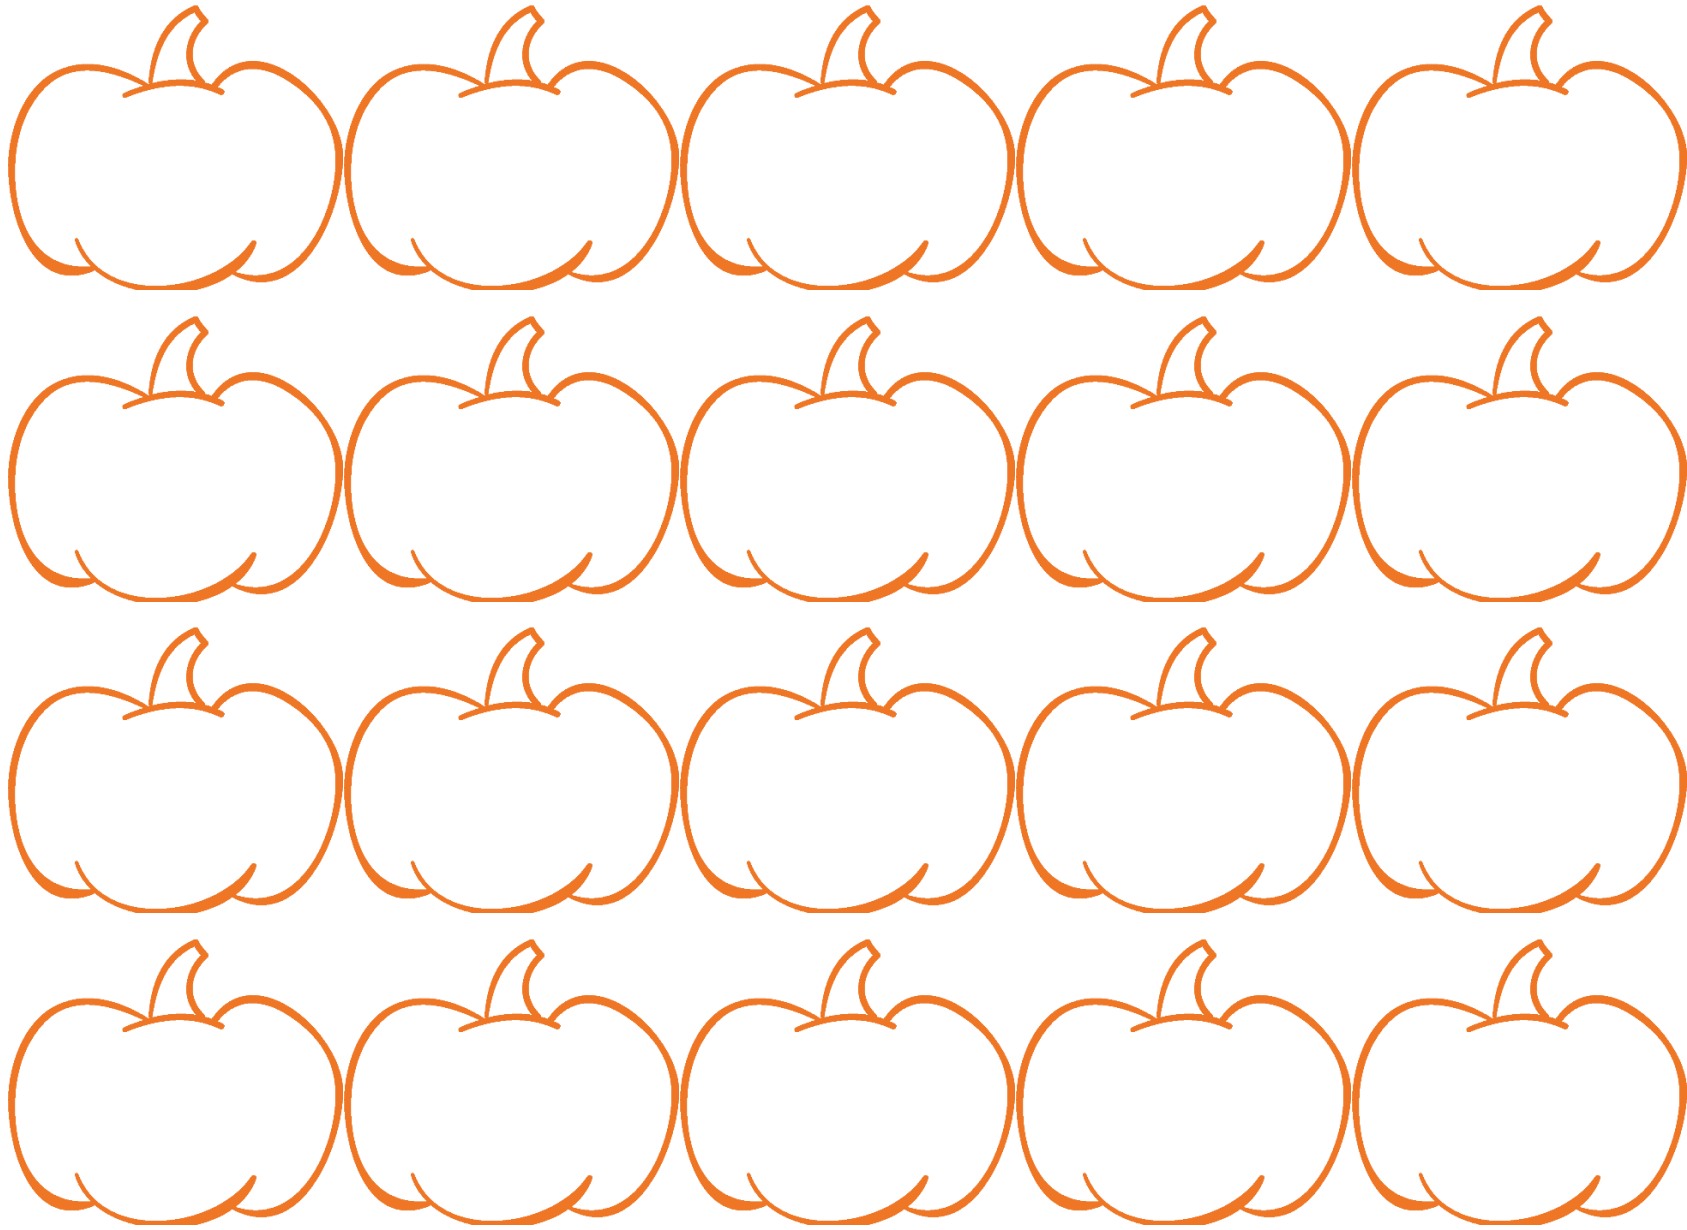

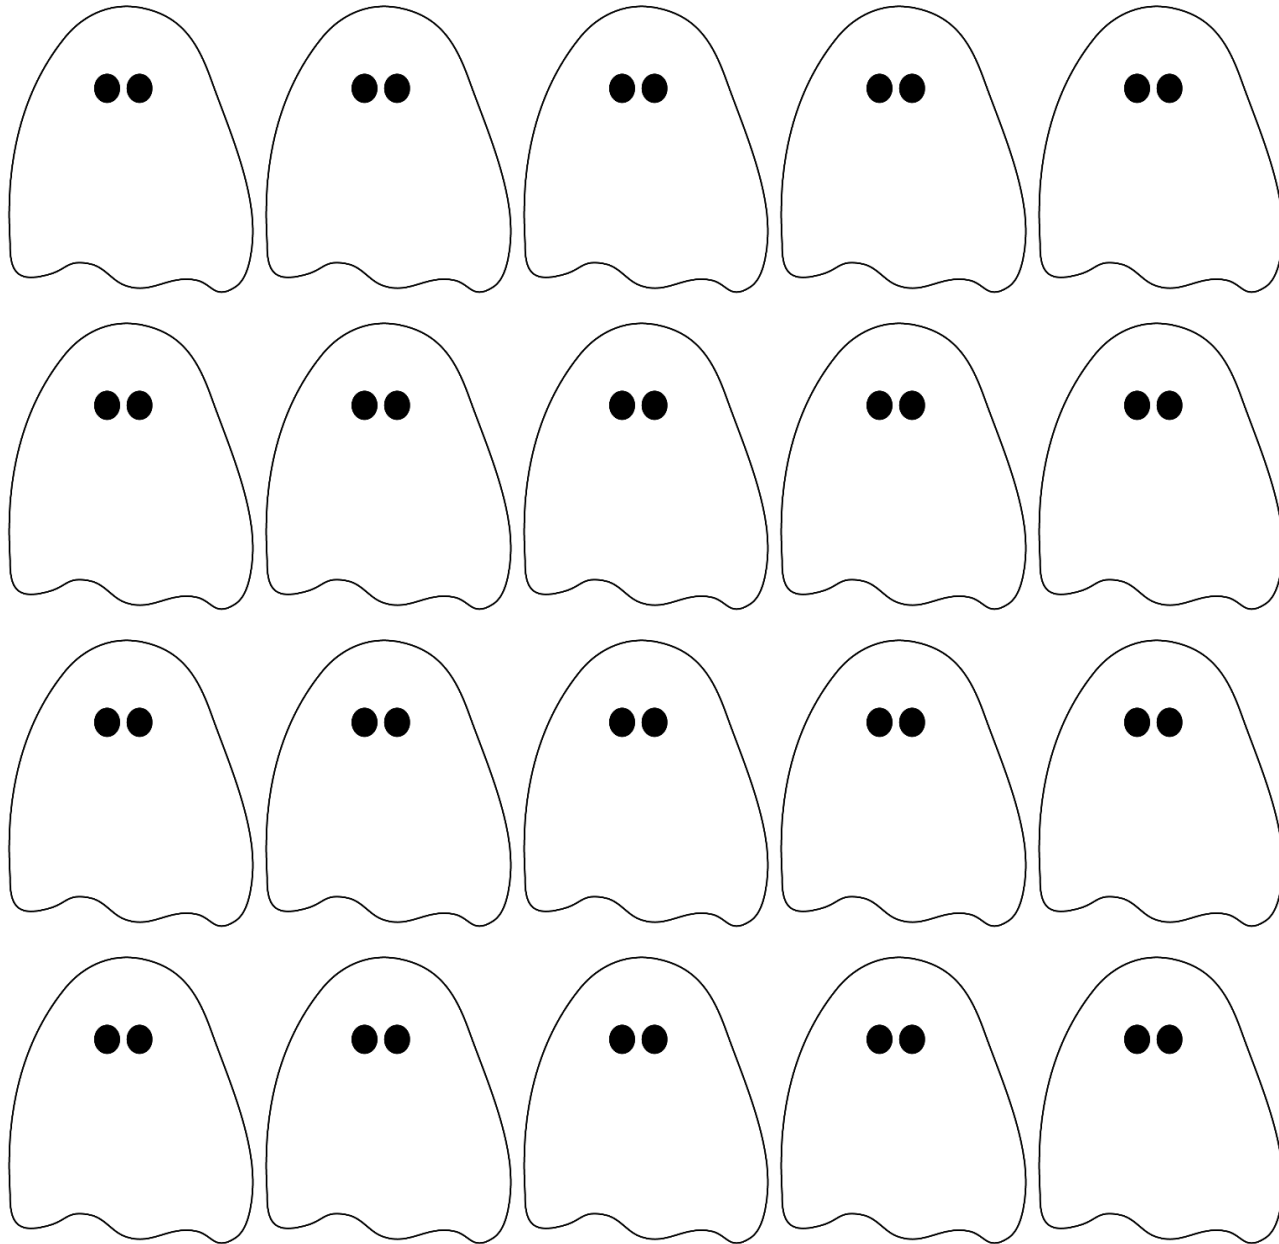

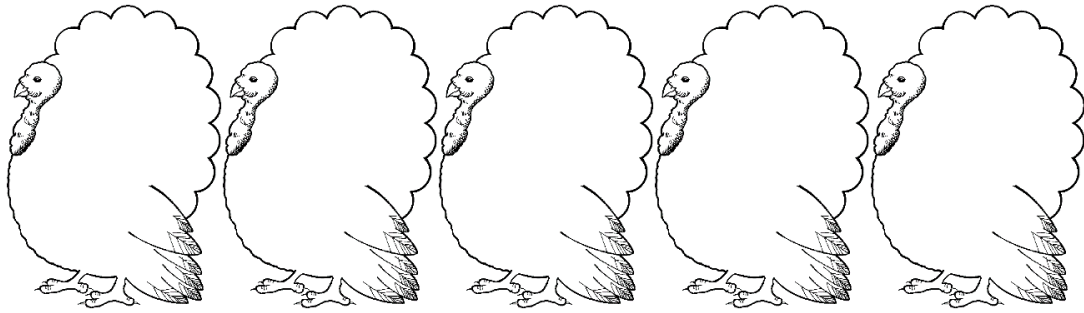

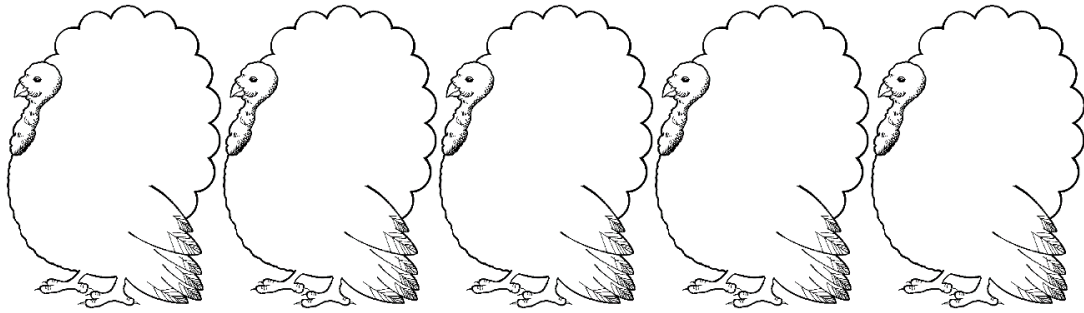

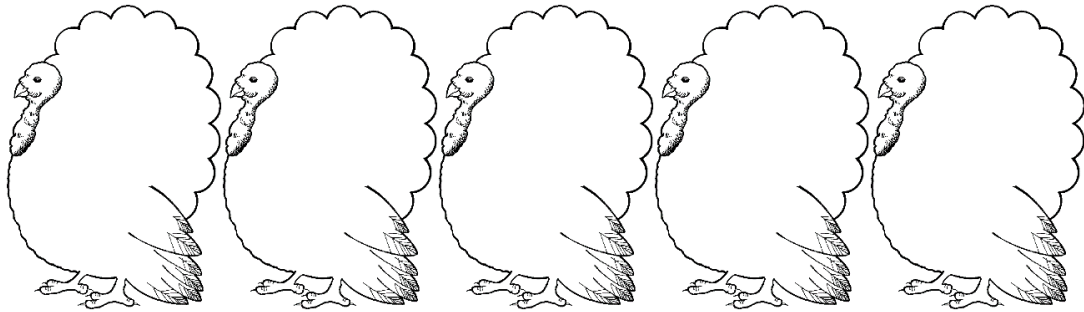

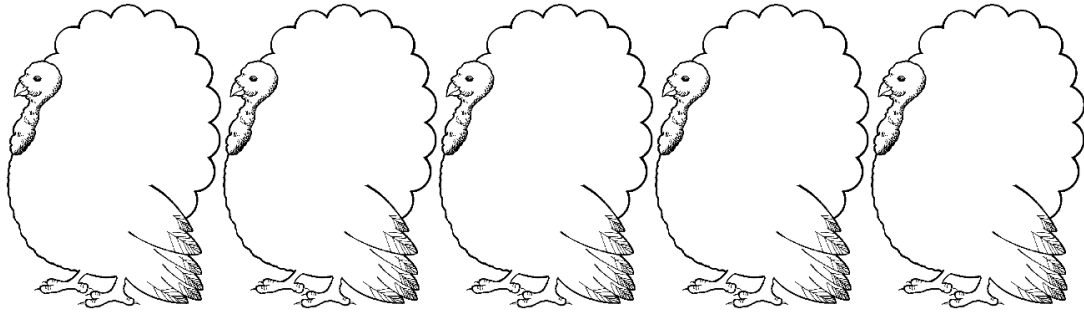

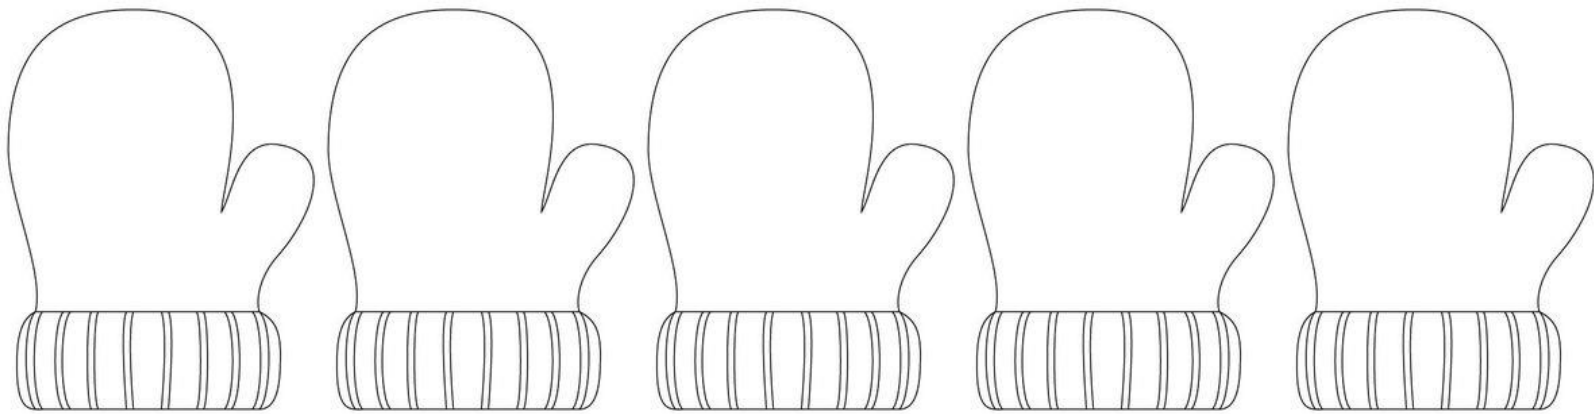

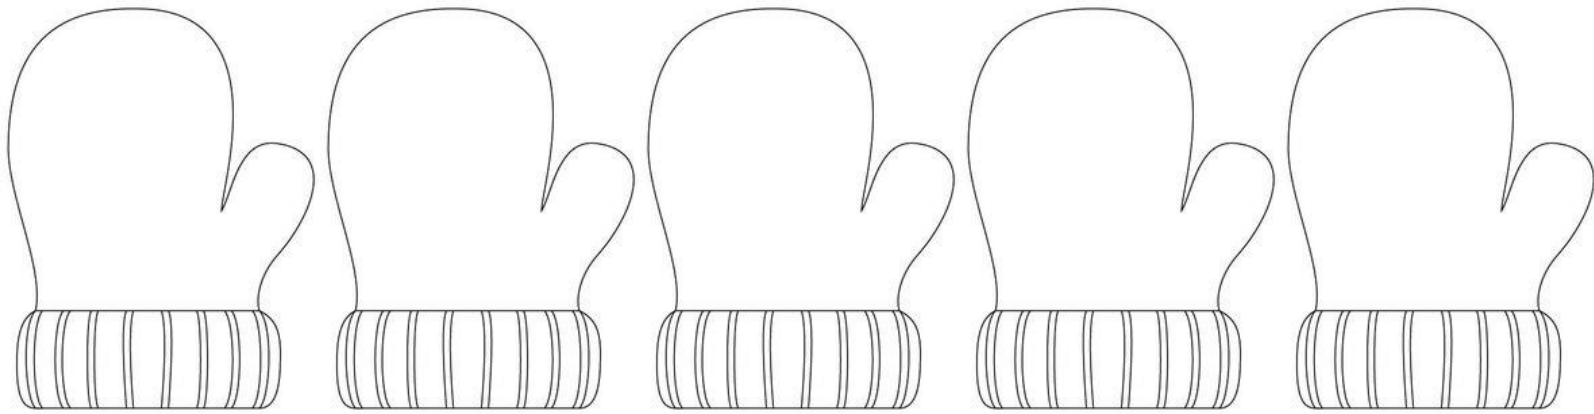

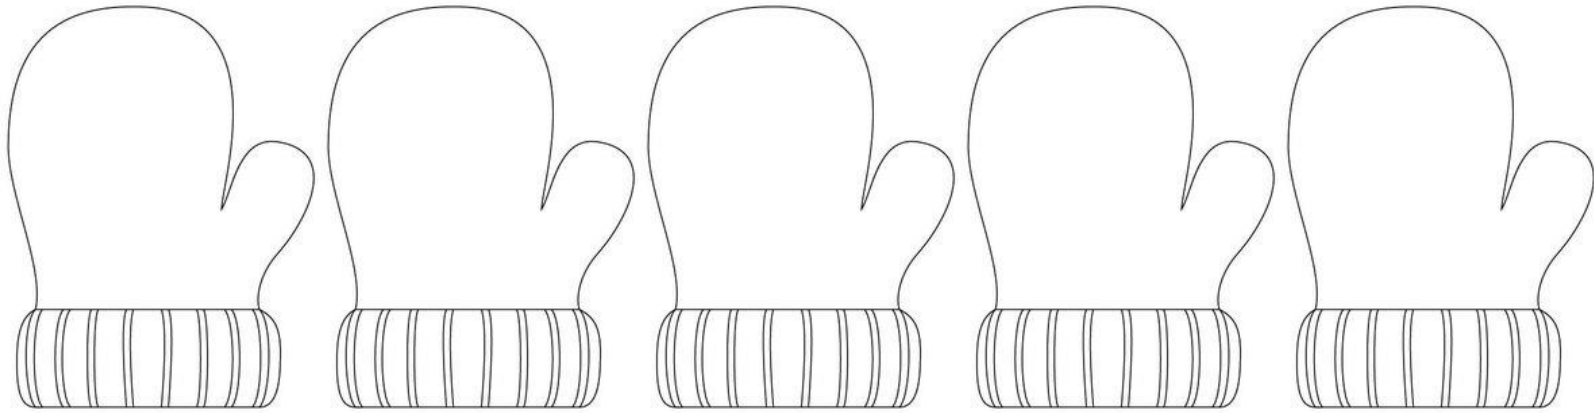

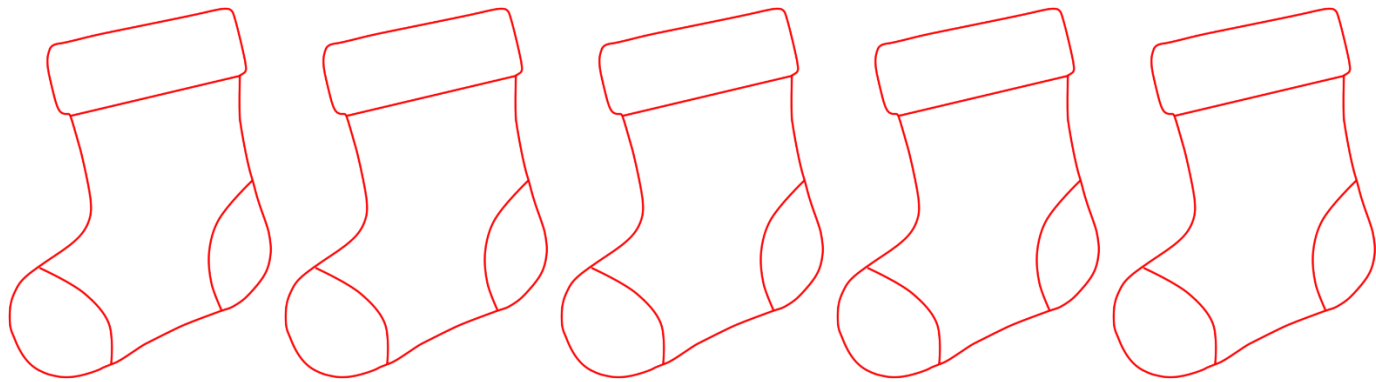

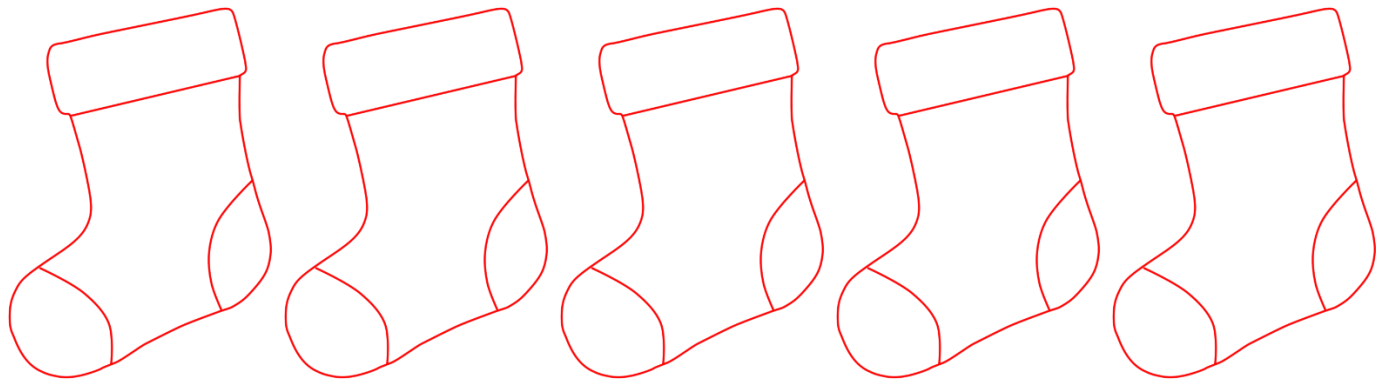

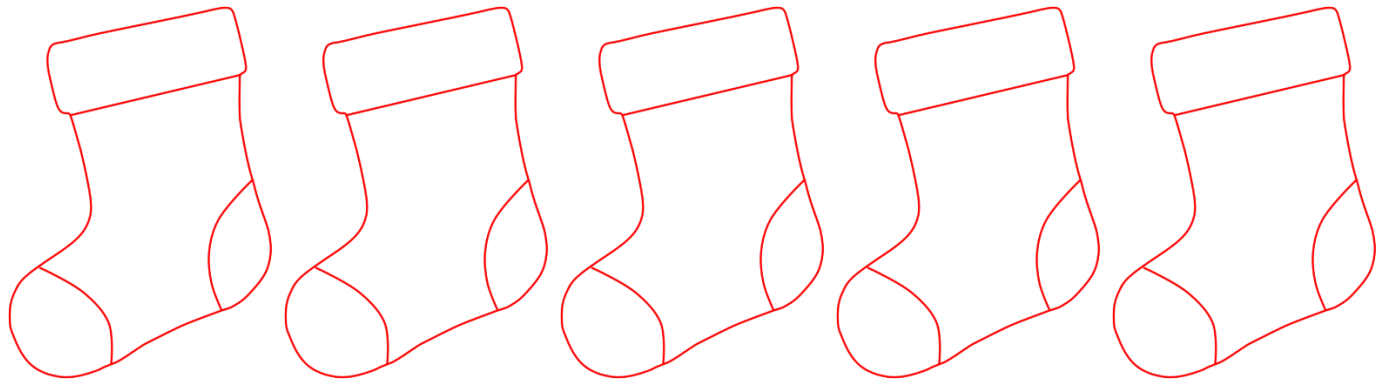

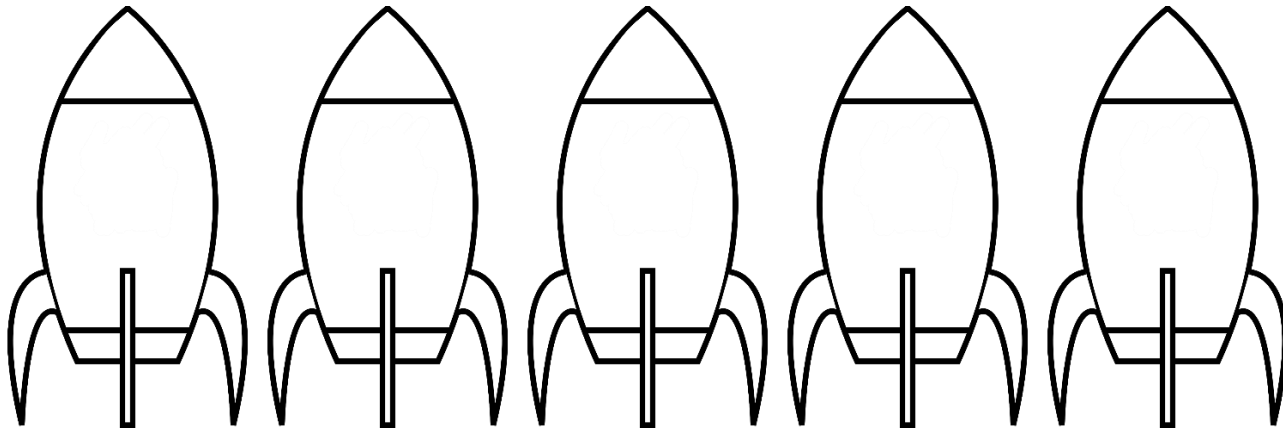

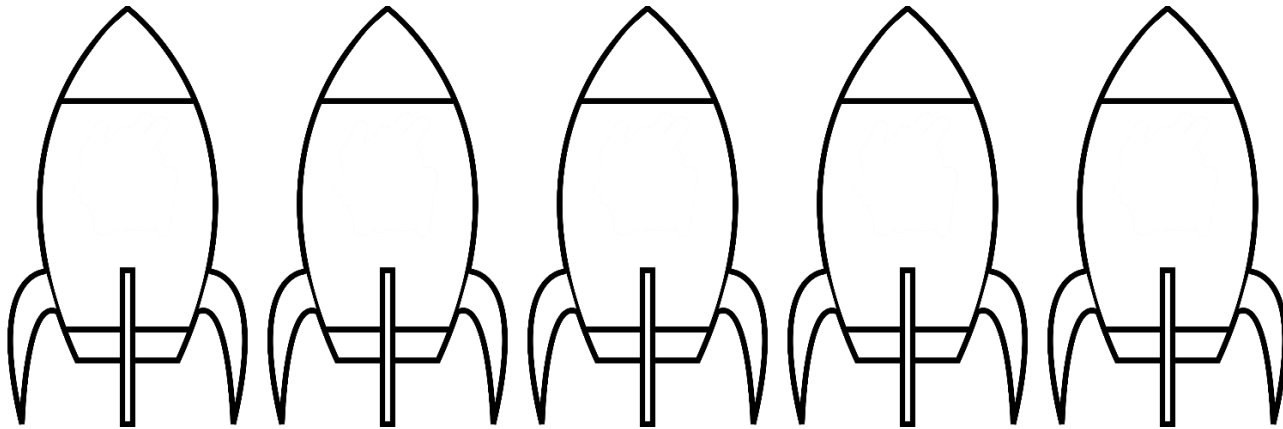

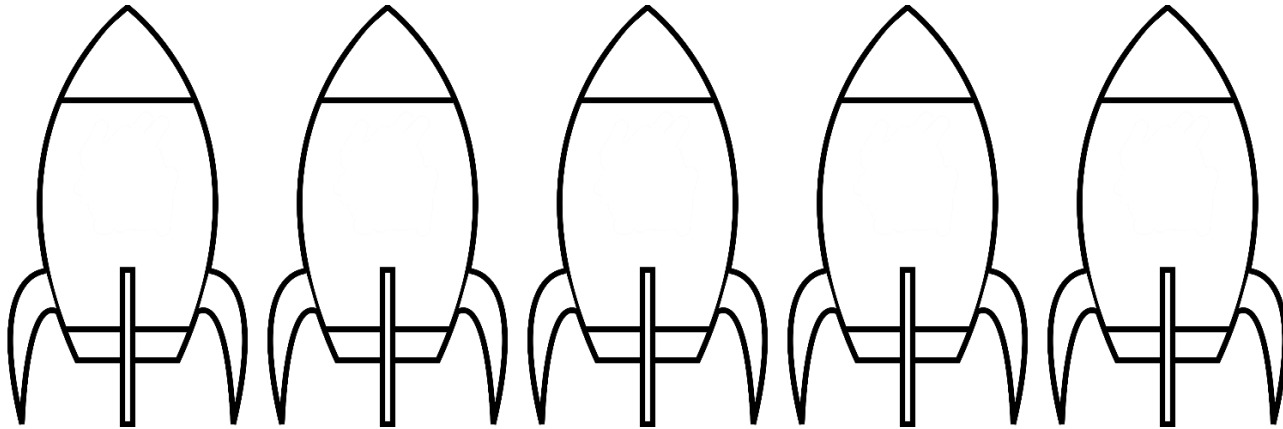

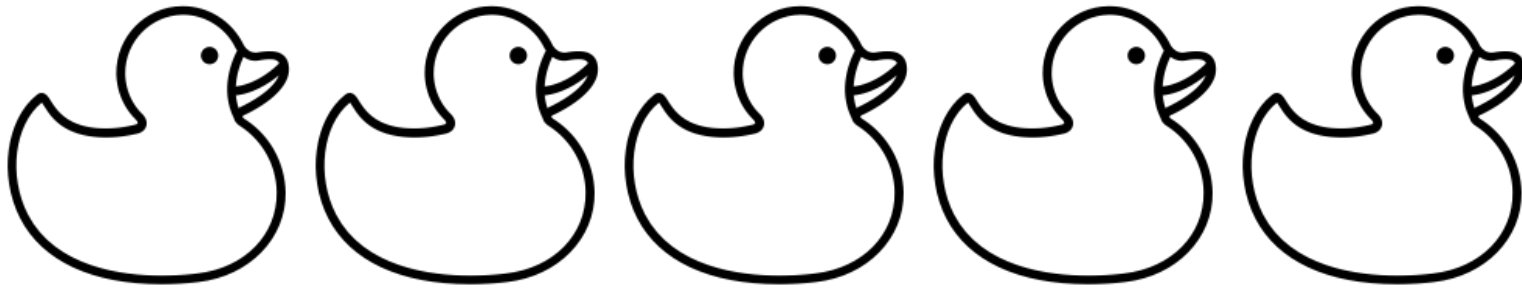

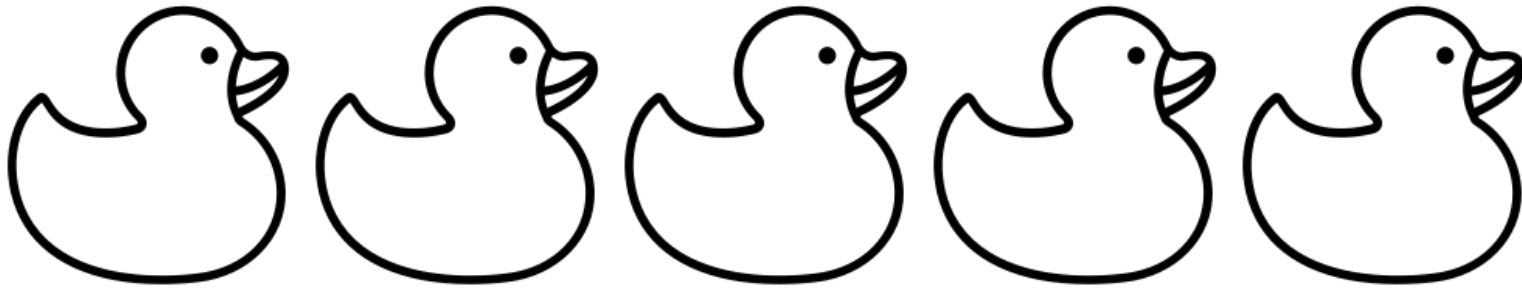

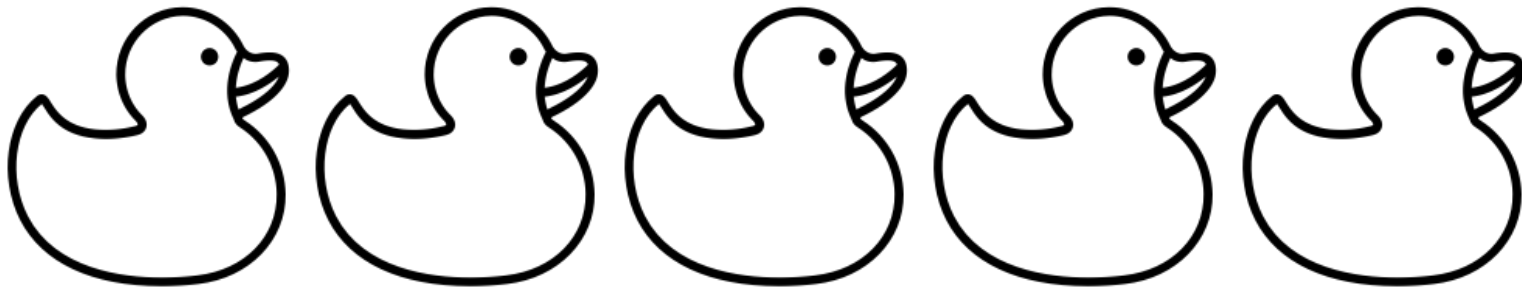

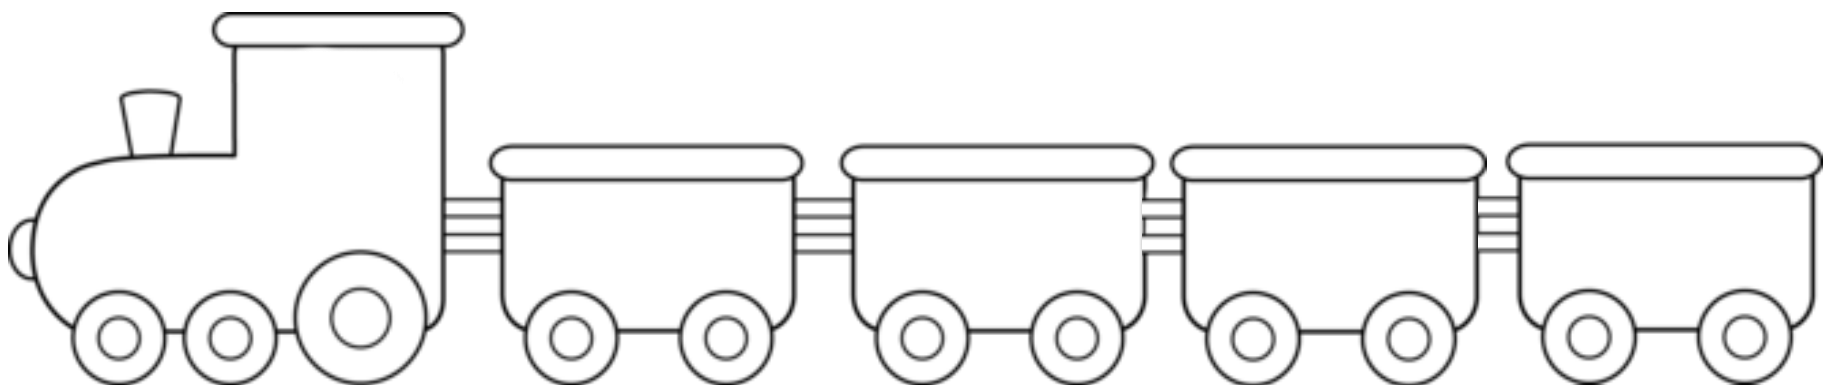

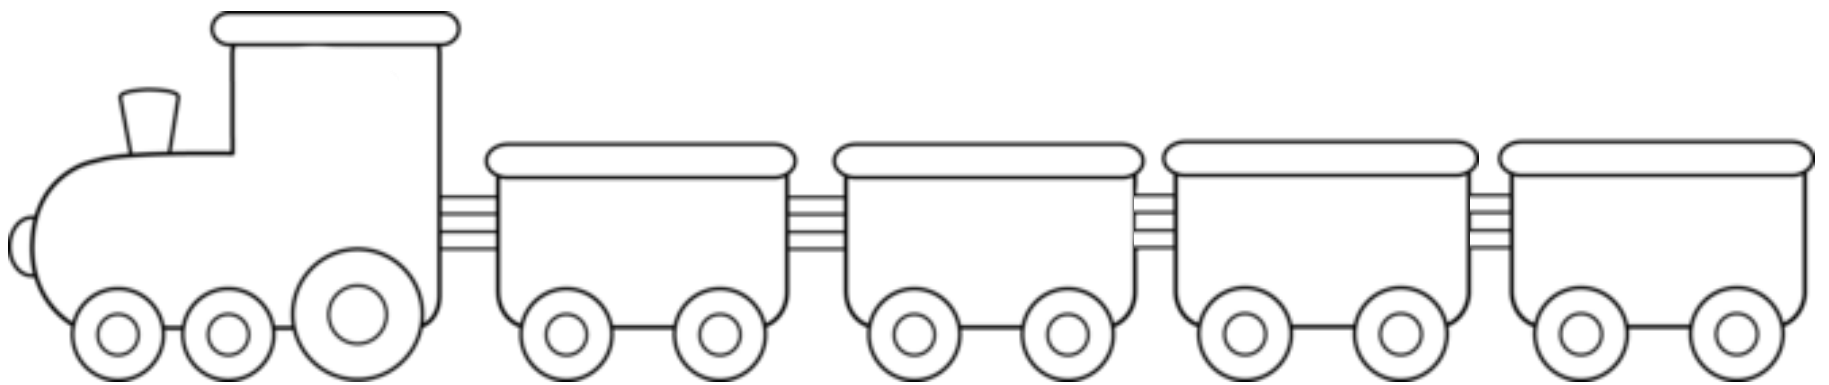

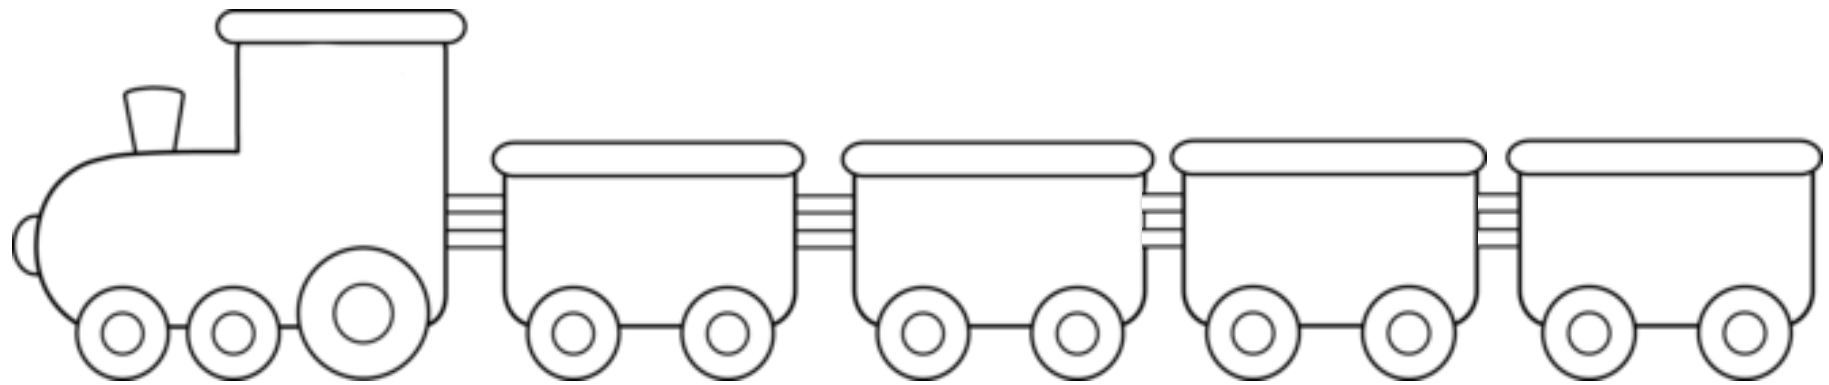

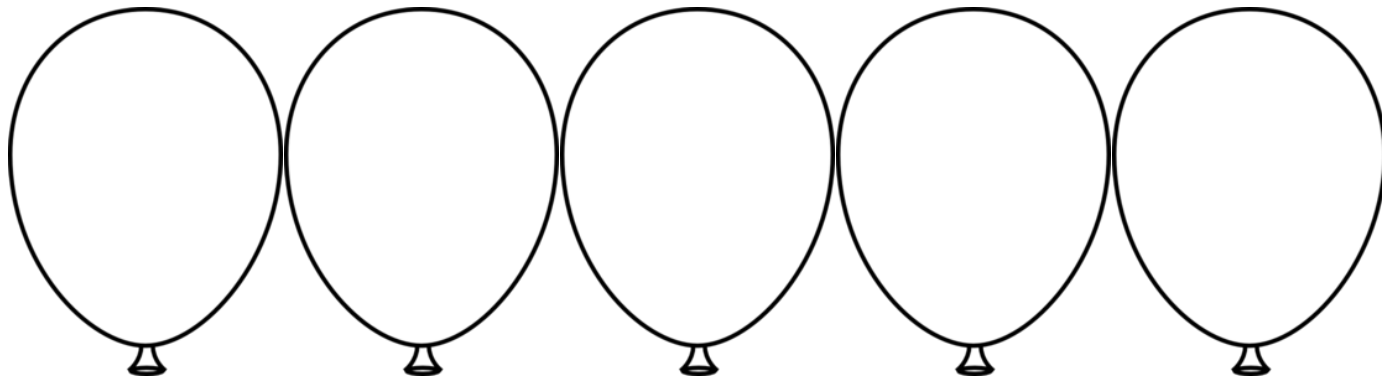

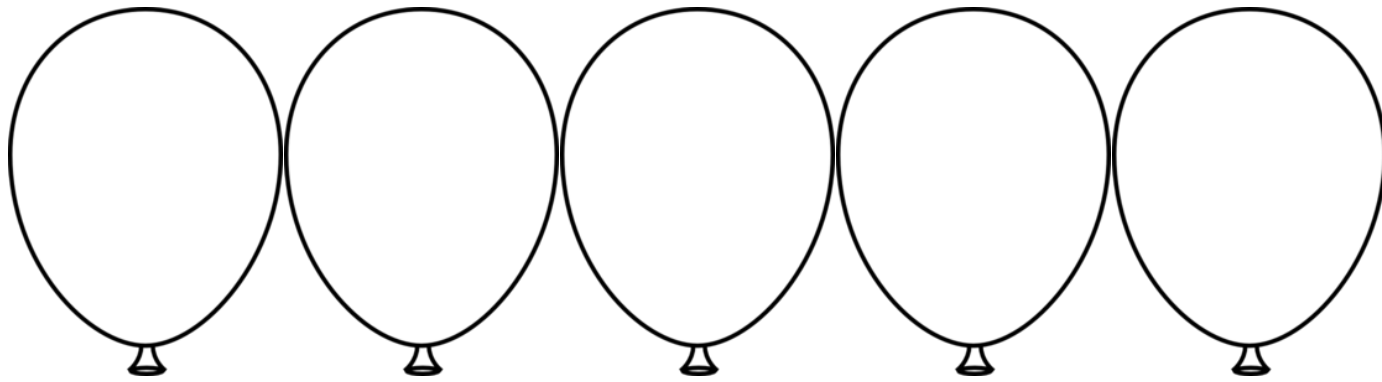

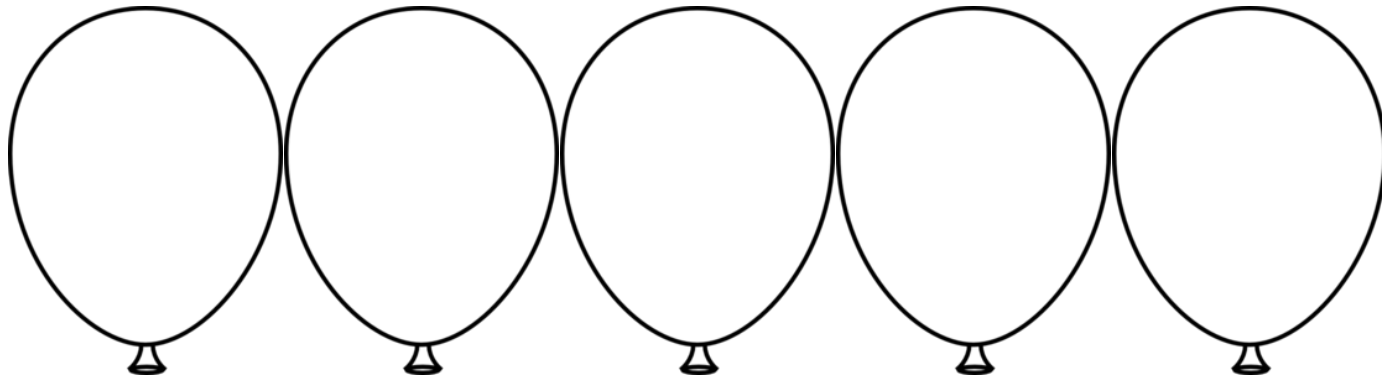

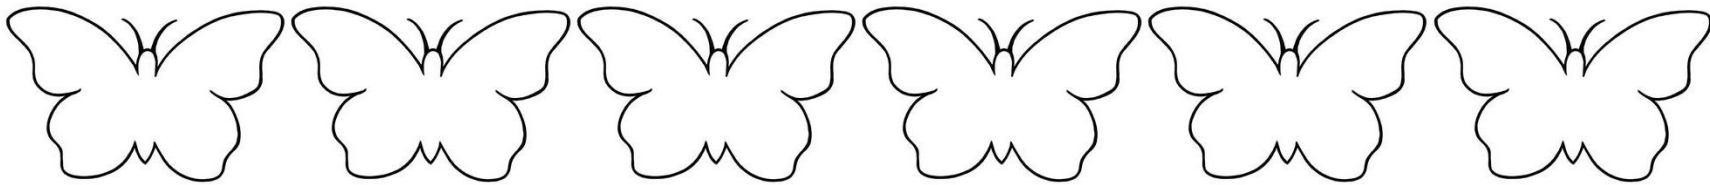

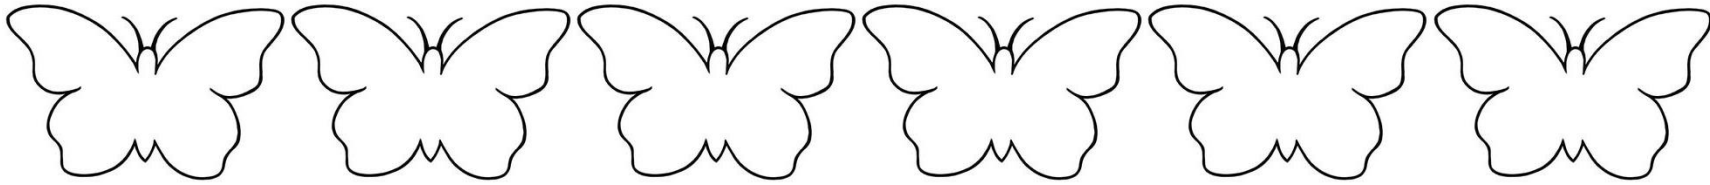

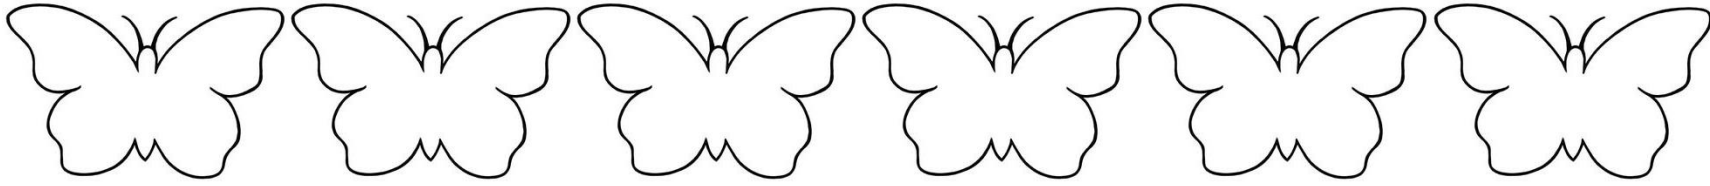

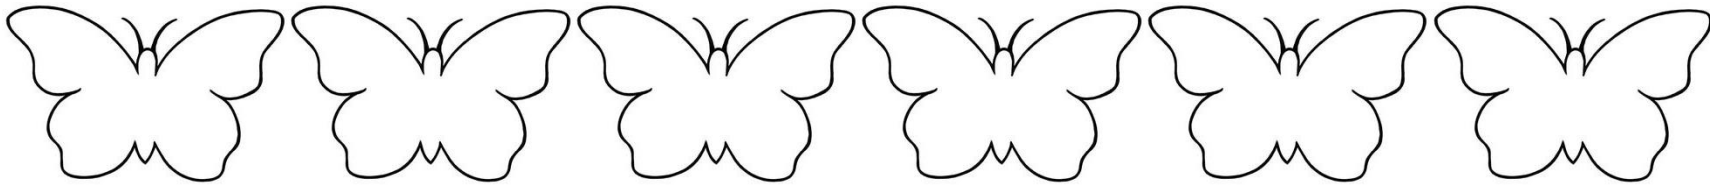

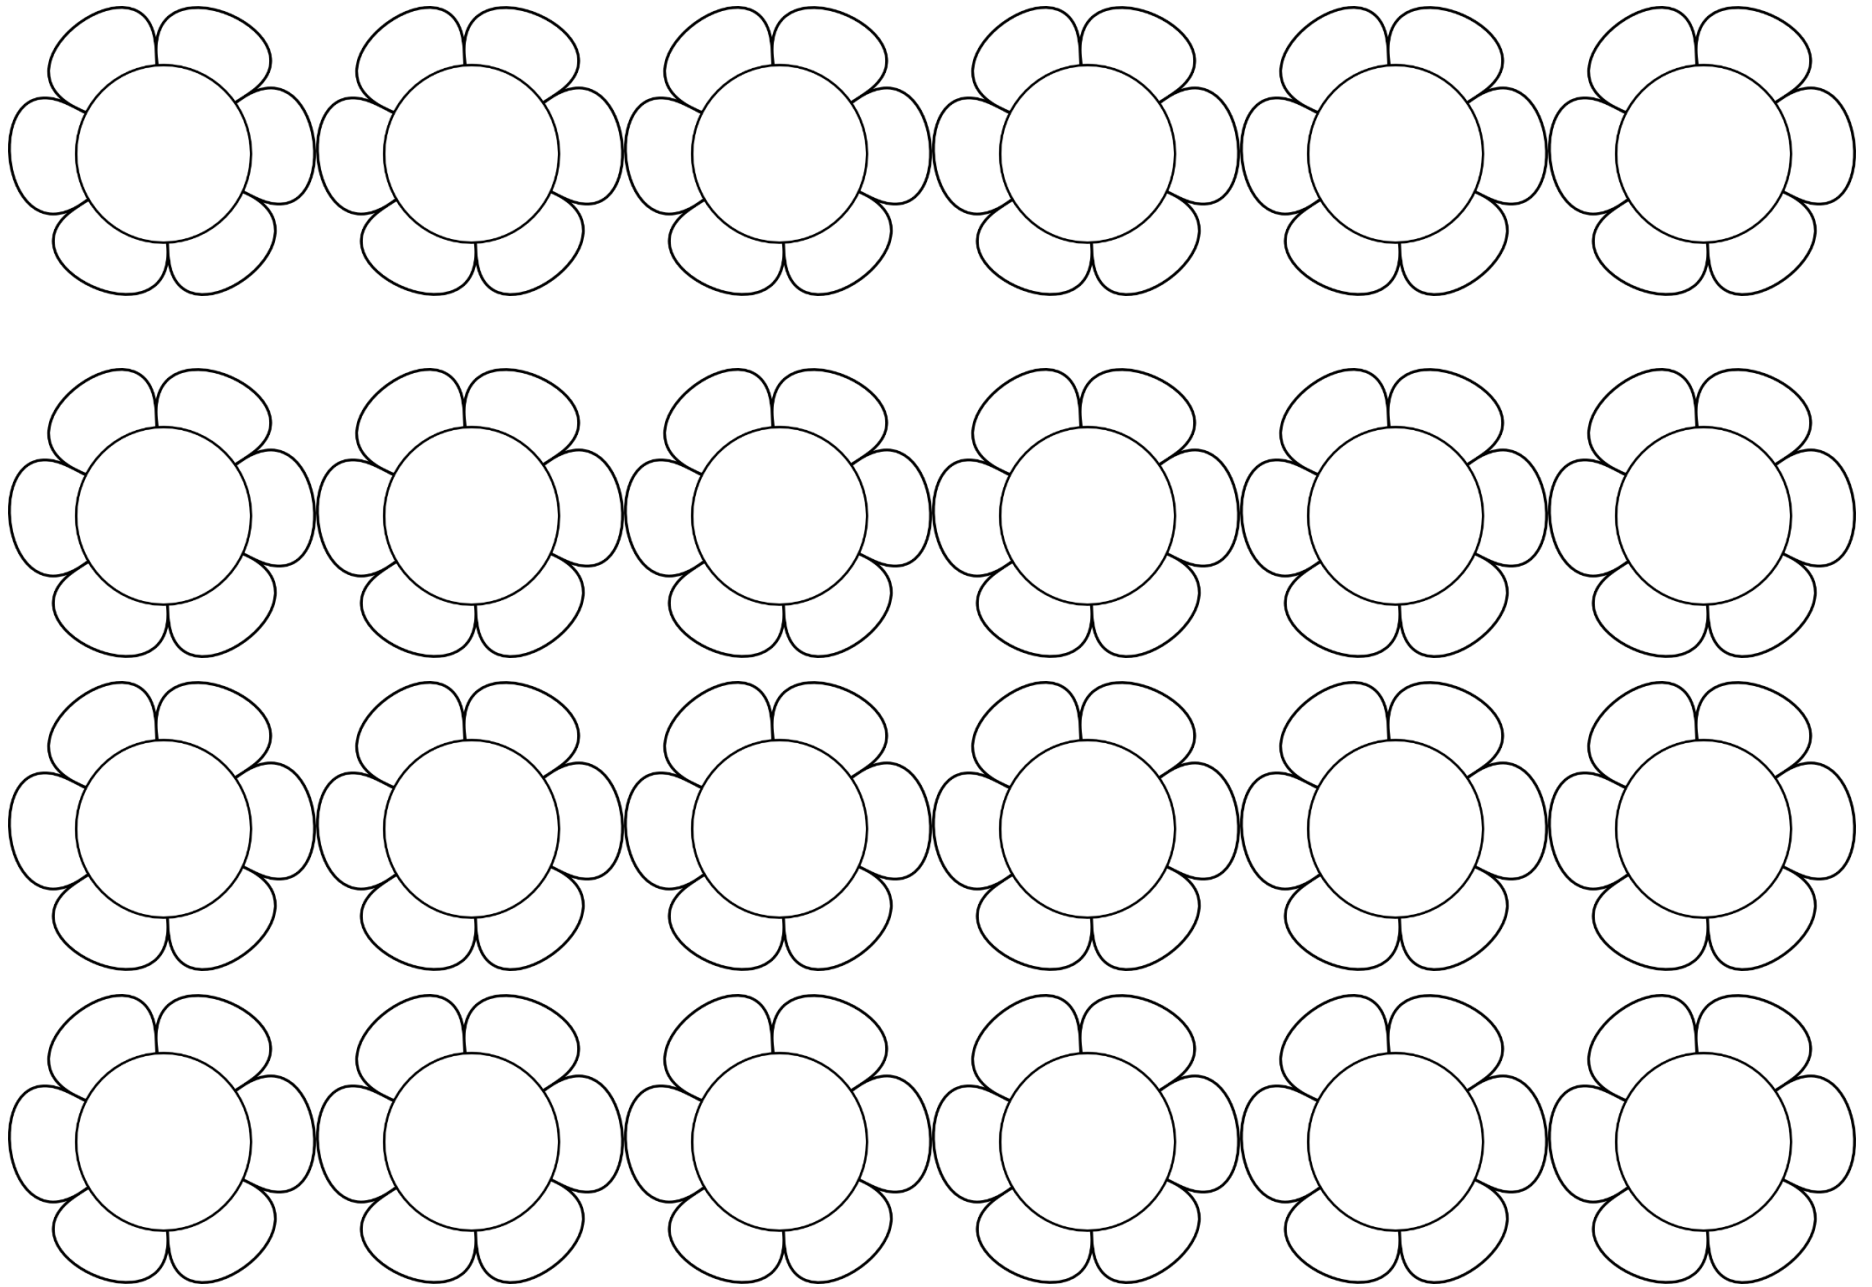

--	--	--	--	--

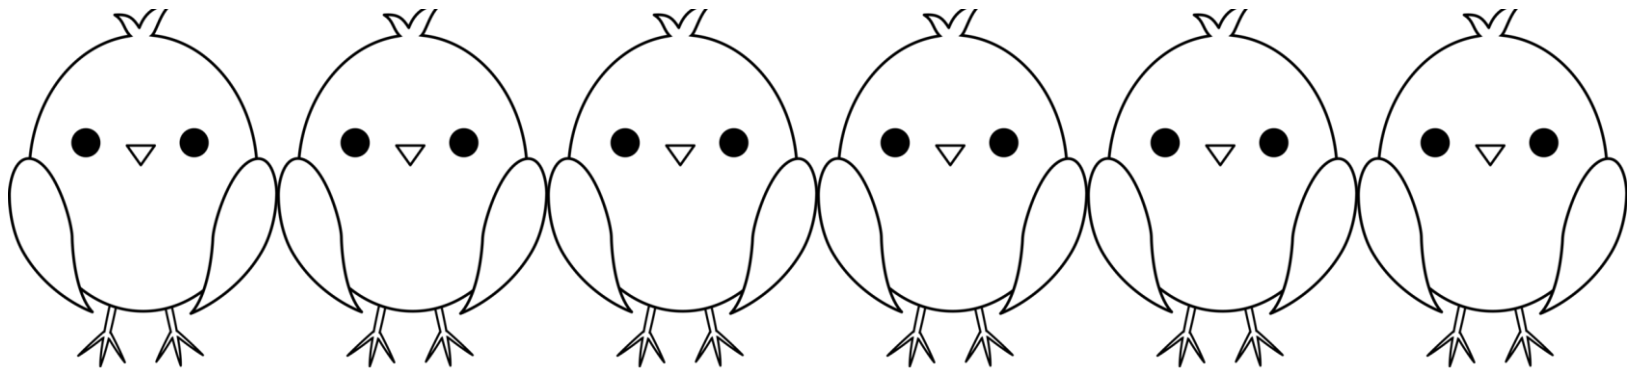

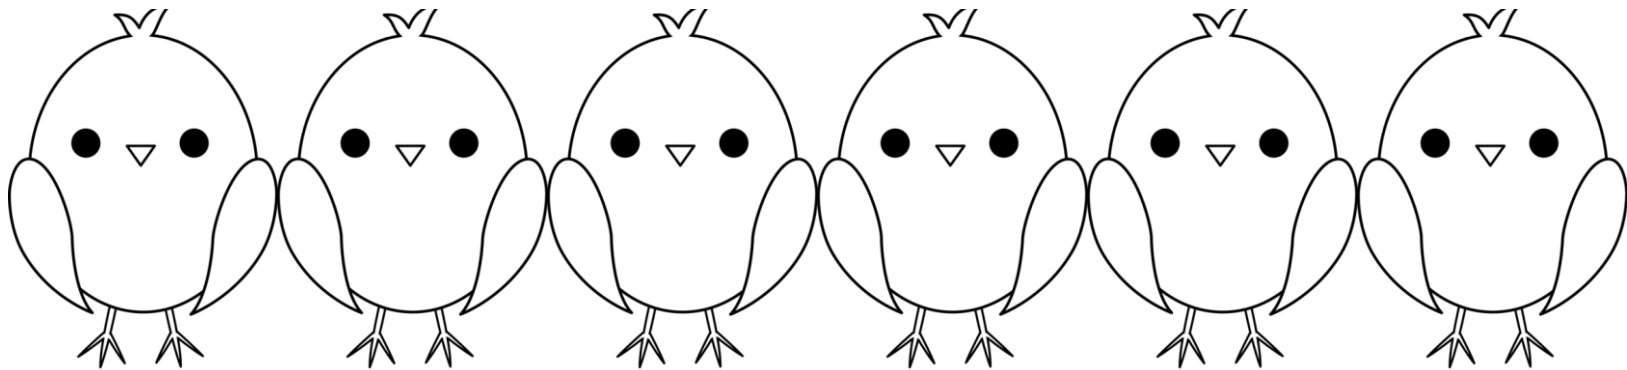

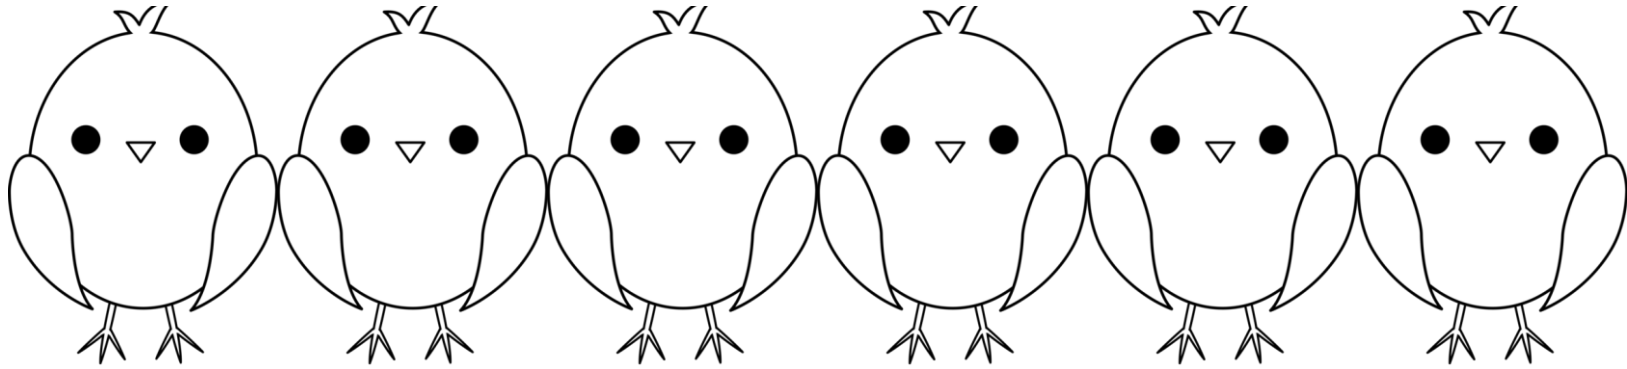

--	--	--	--	--

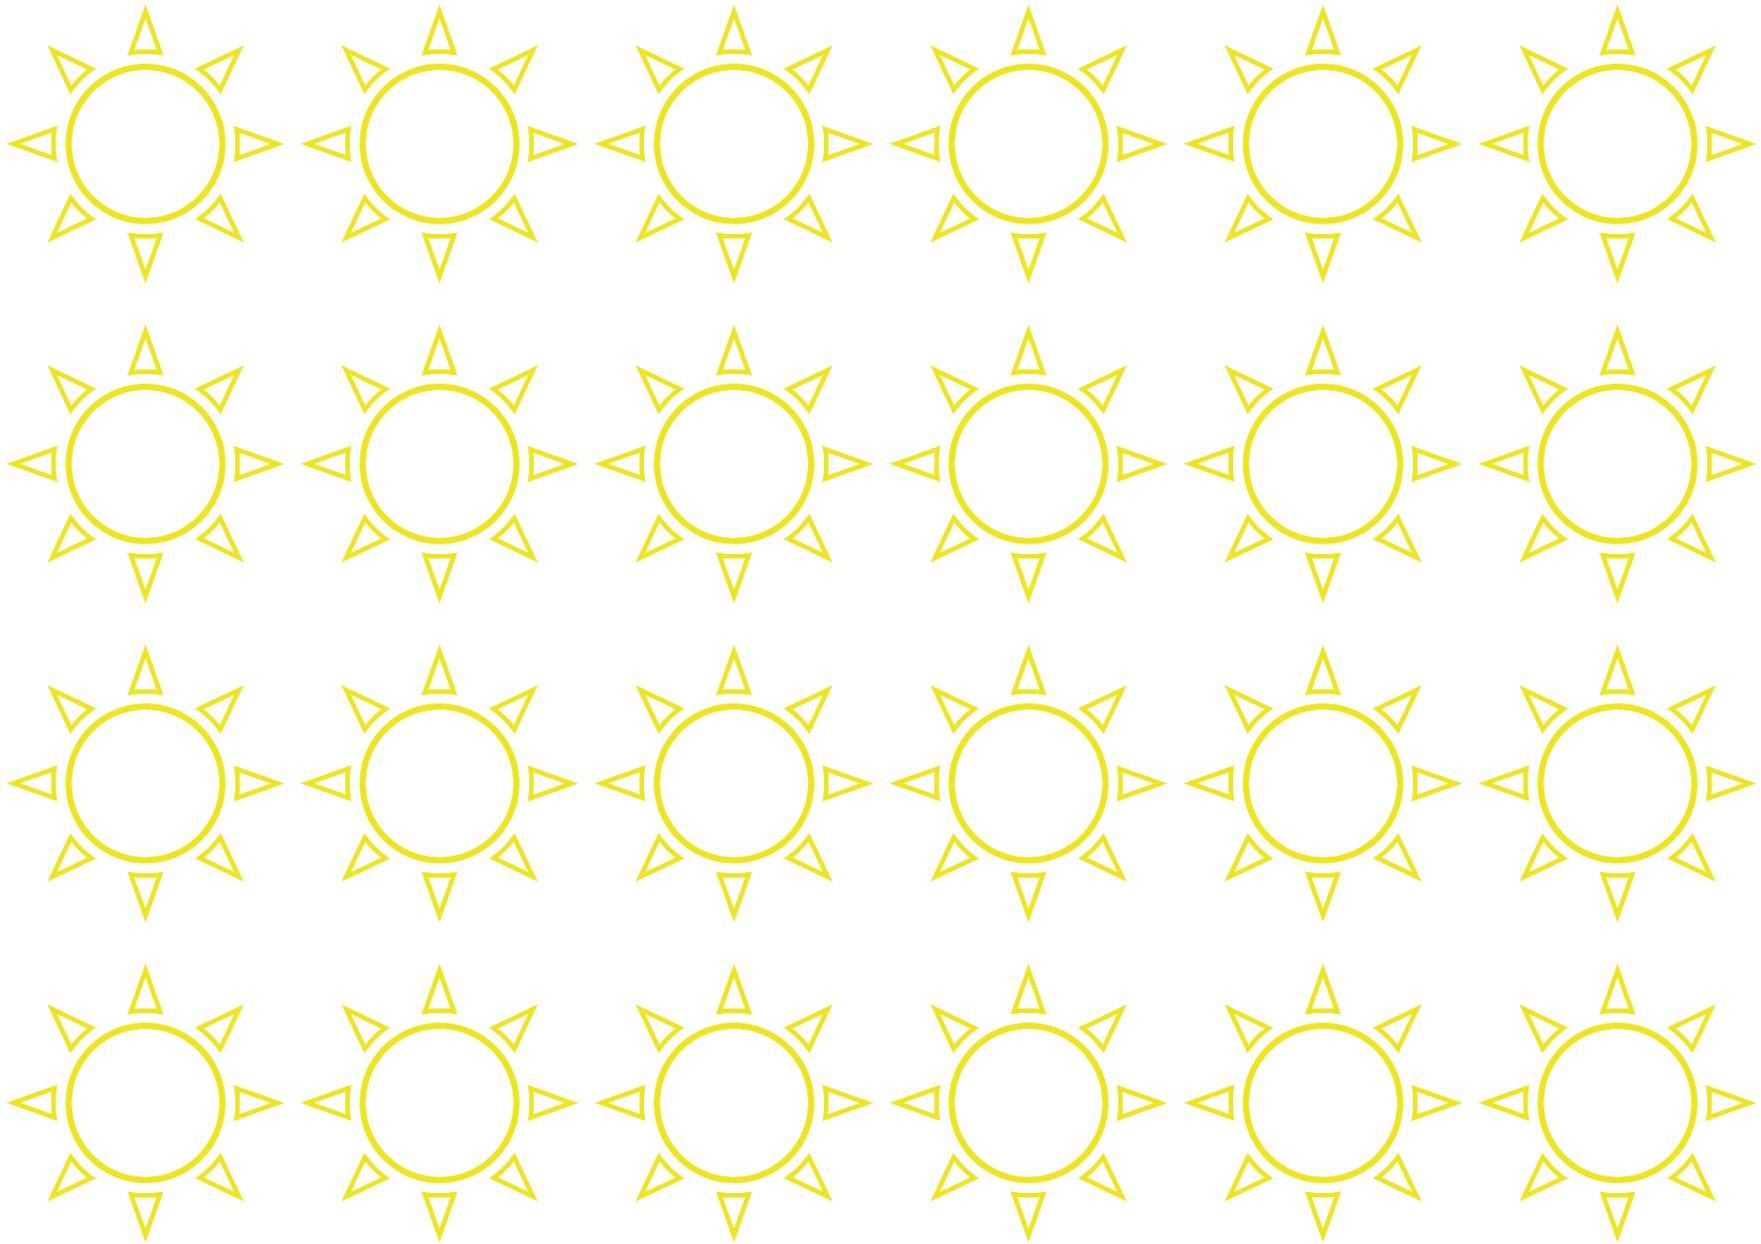

--	--	--	--	--

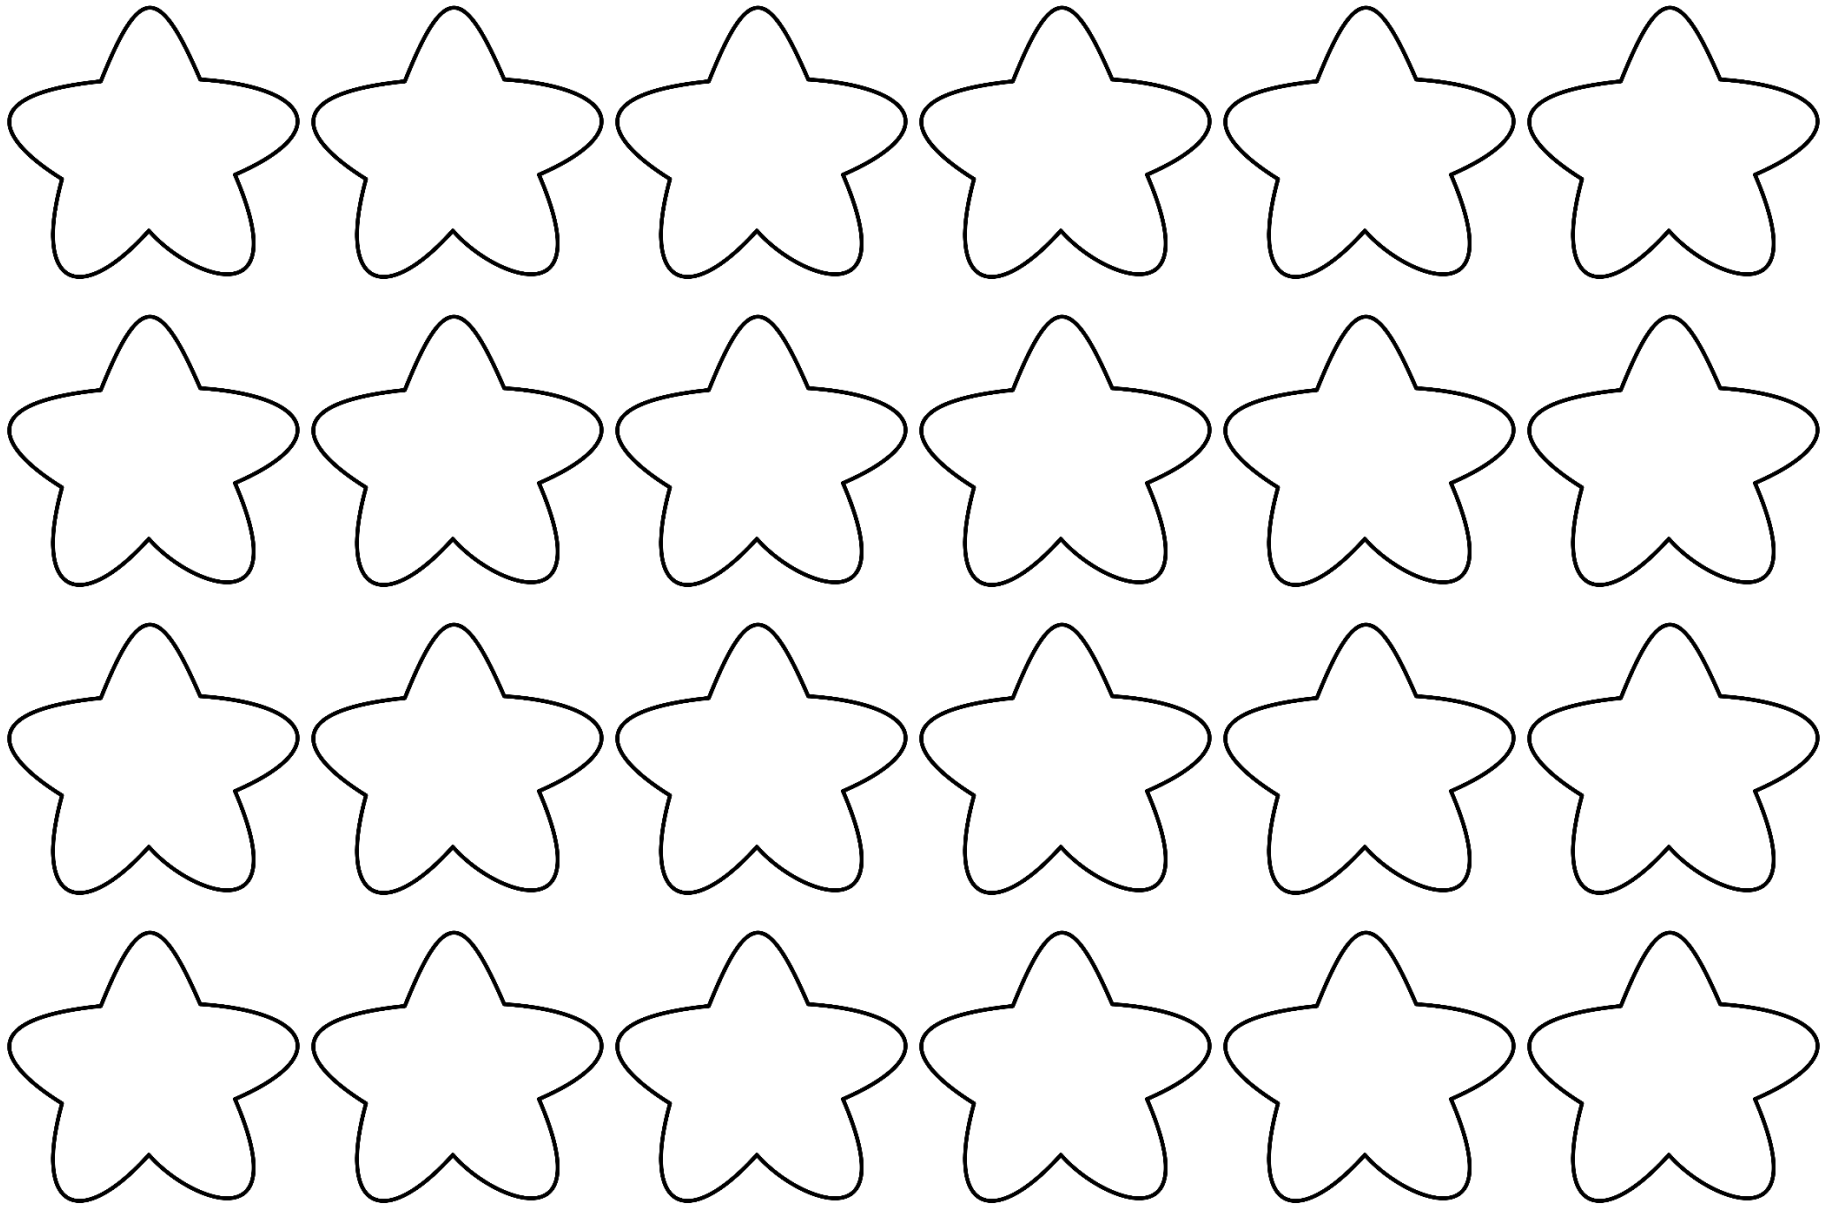

--	--	--	--	--

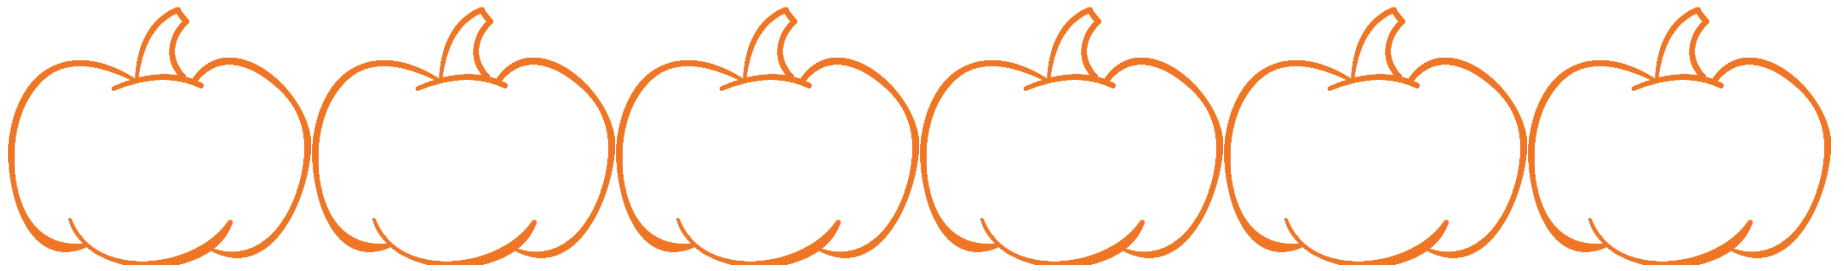

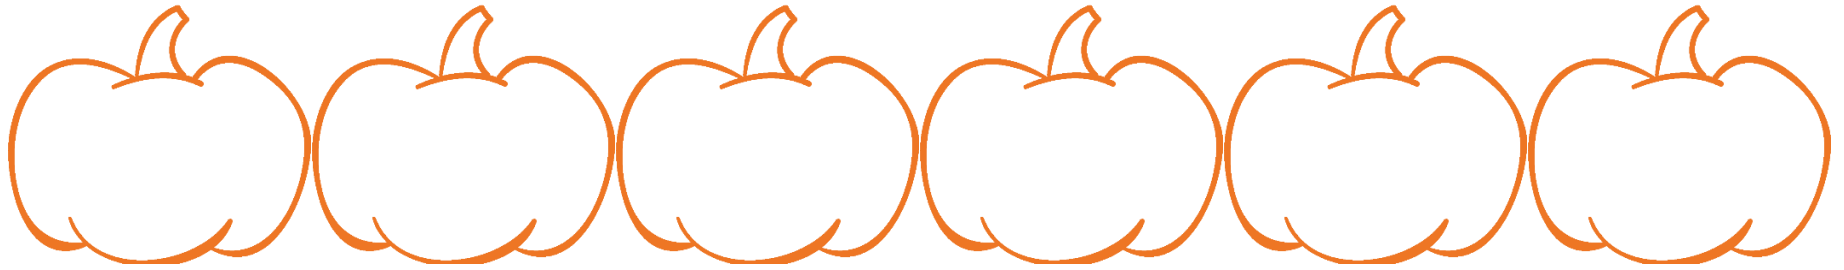

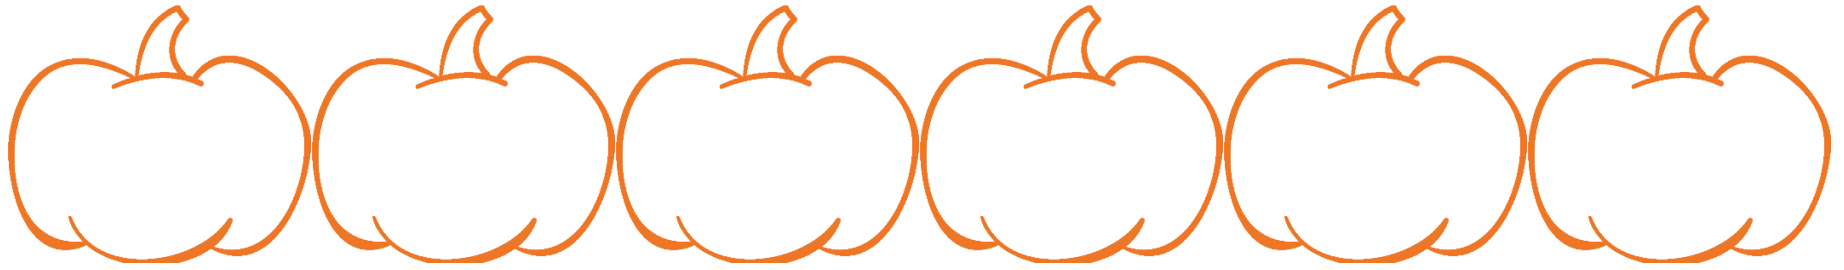

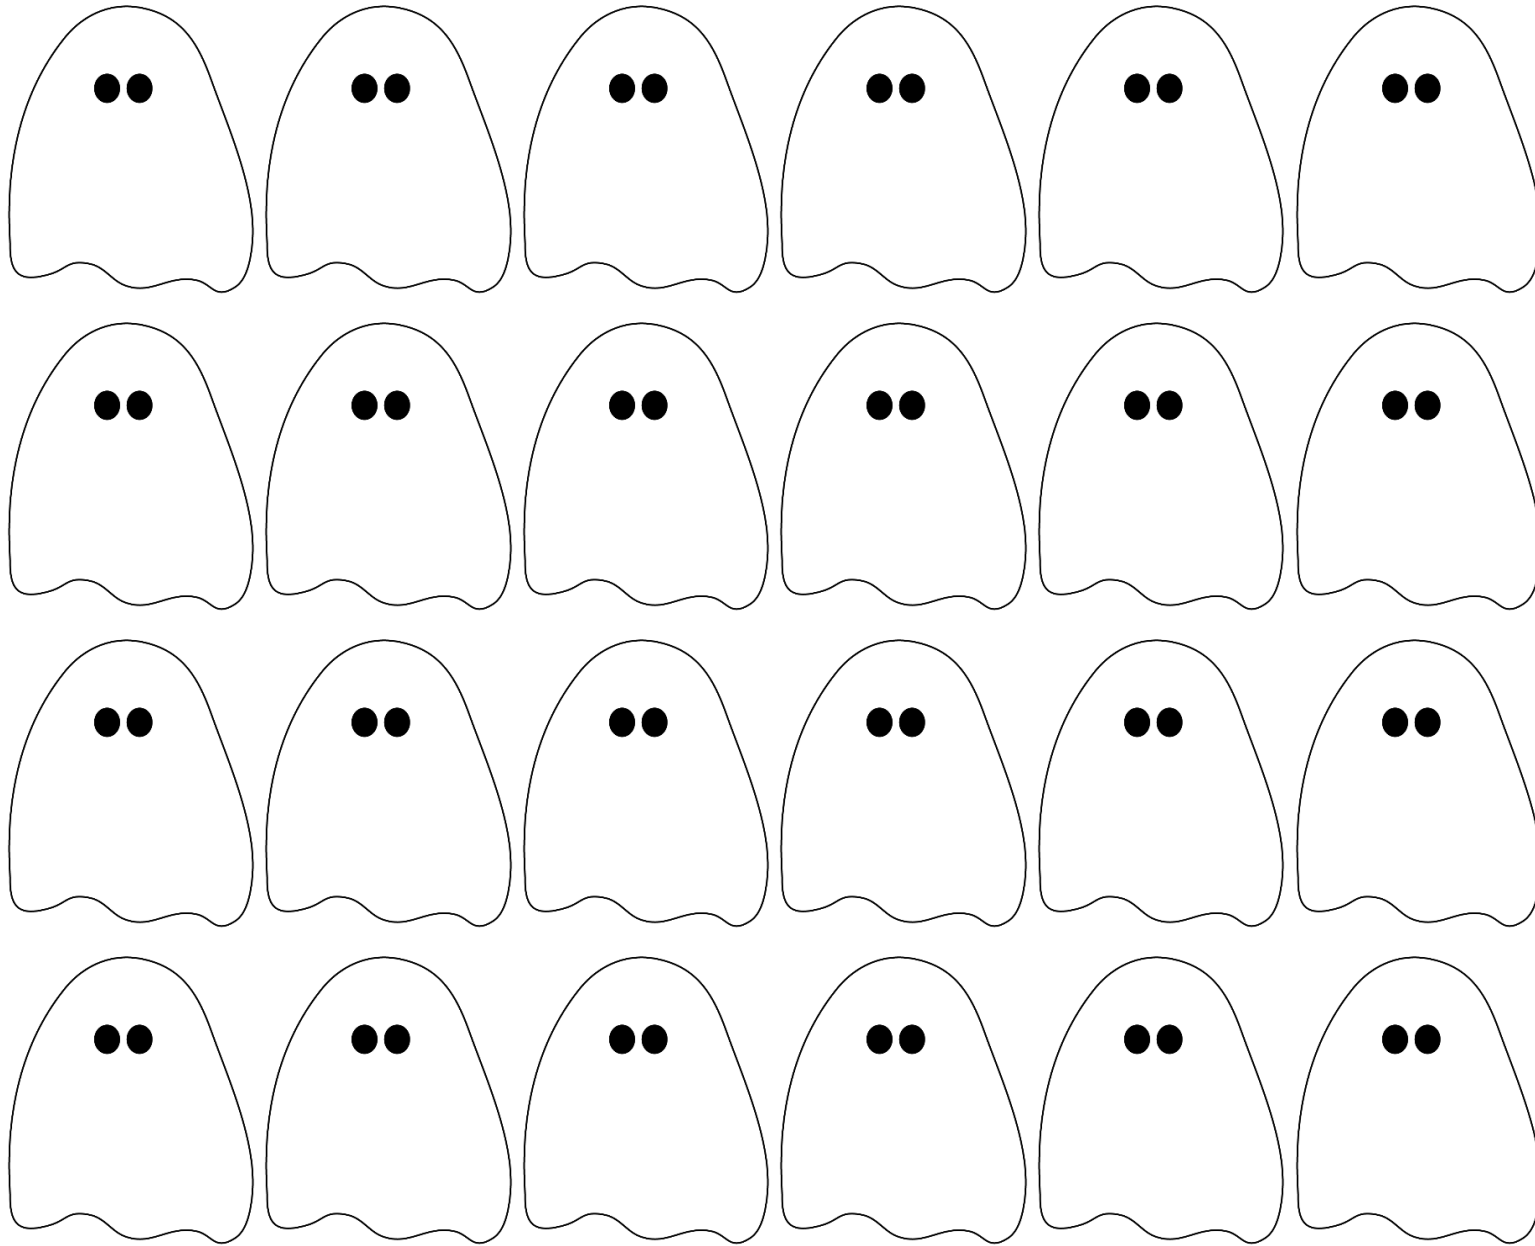

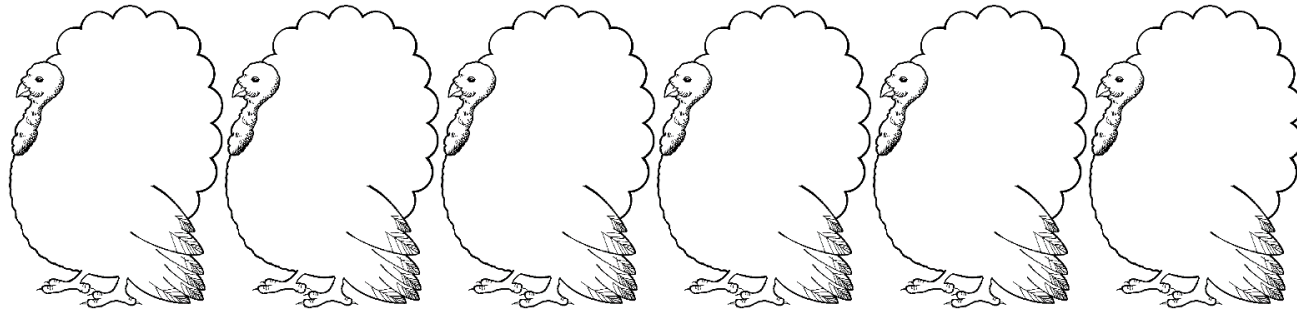

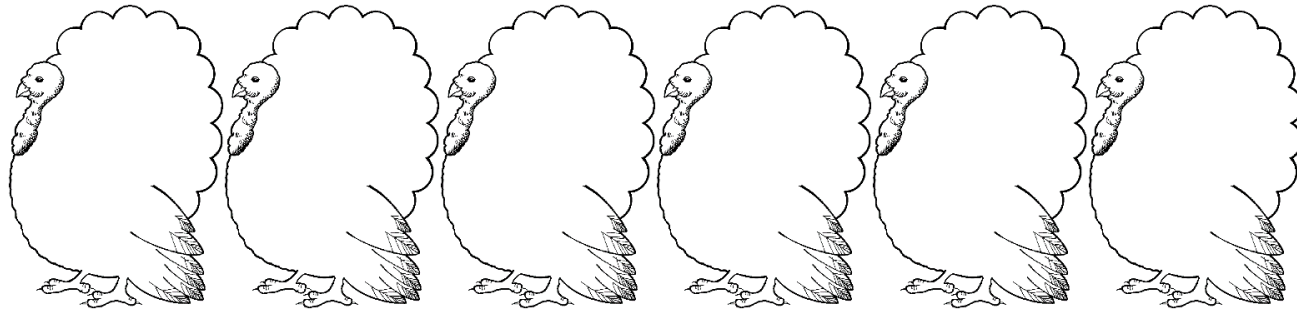

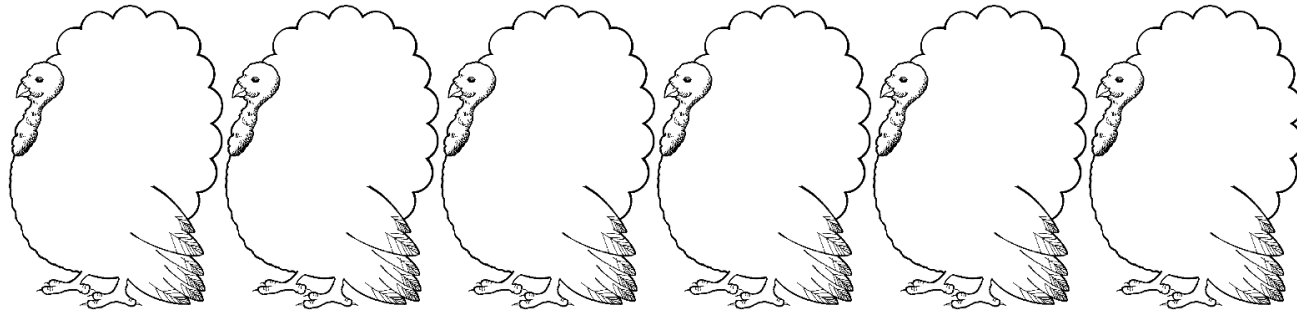

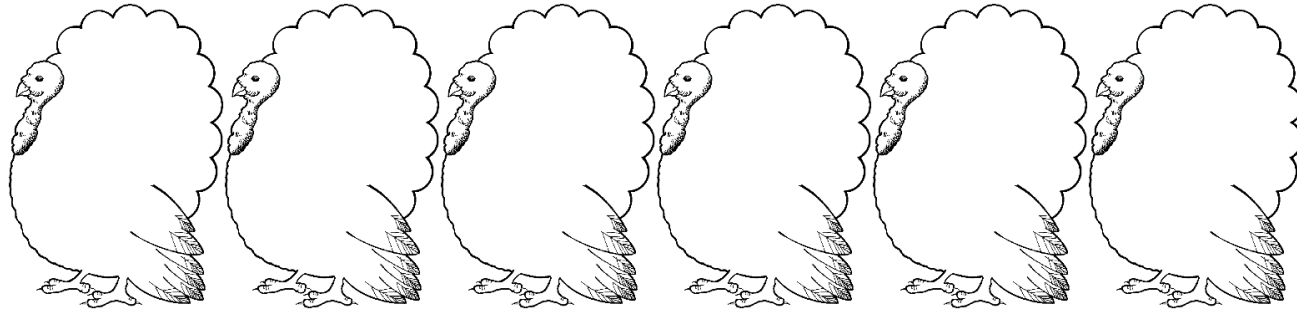

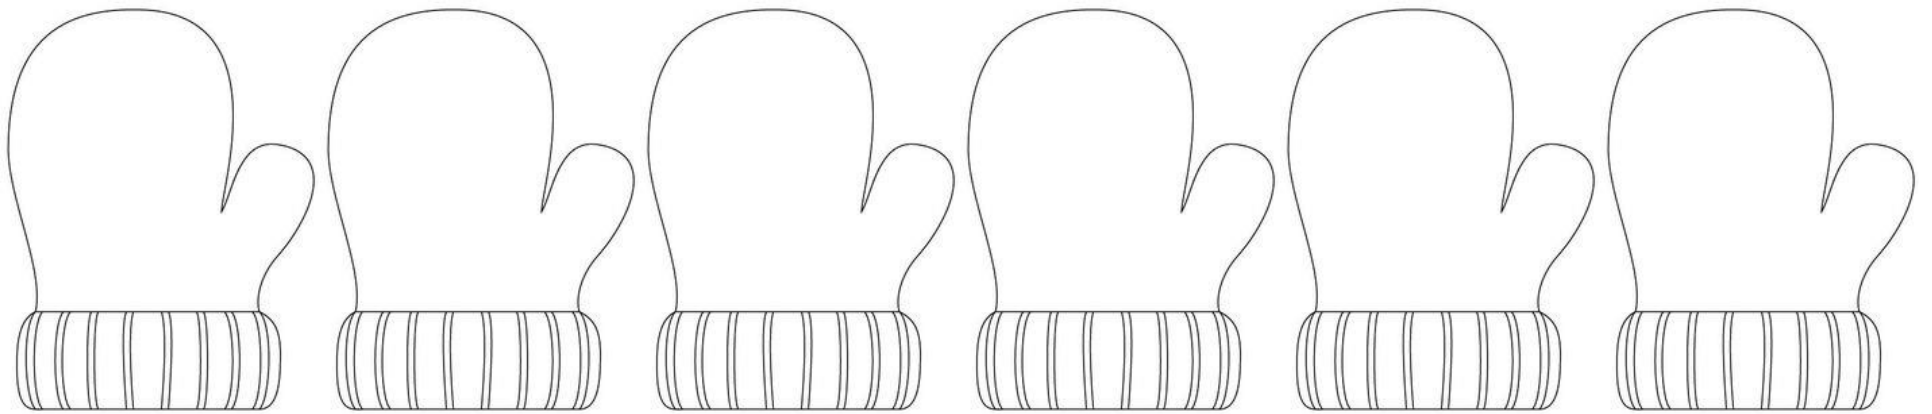

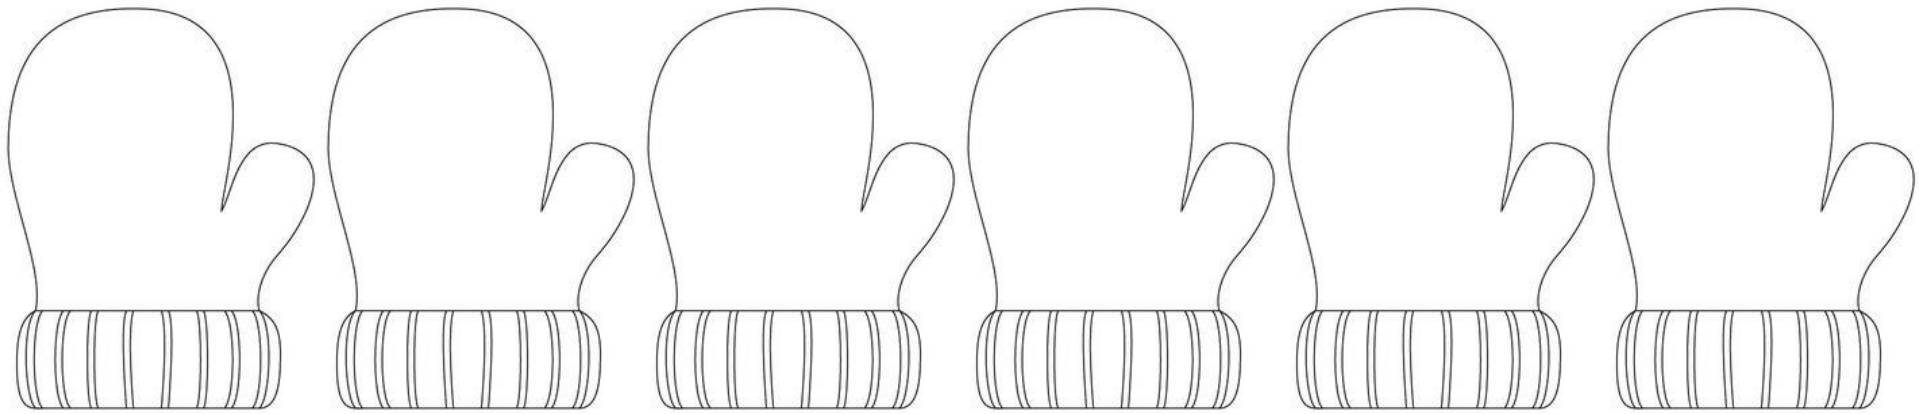

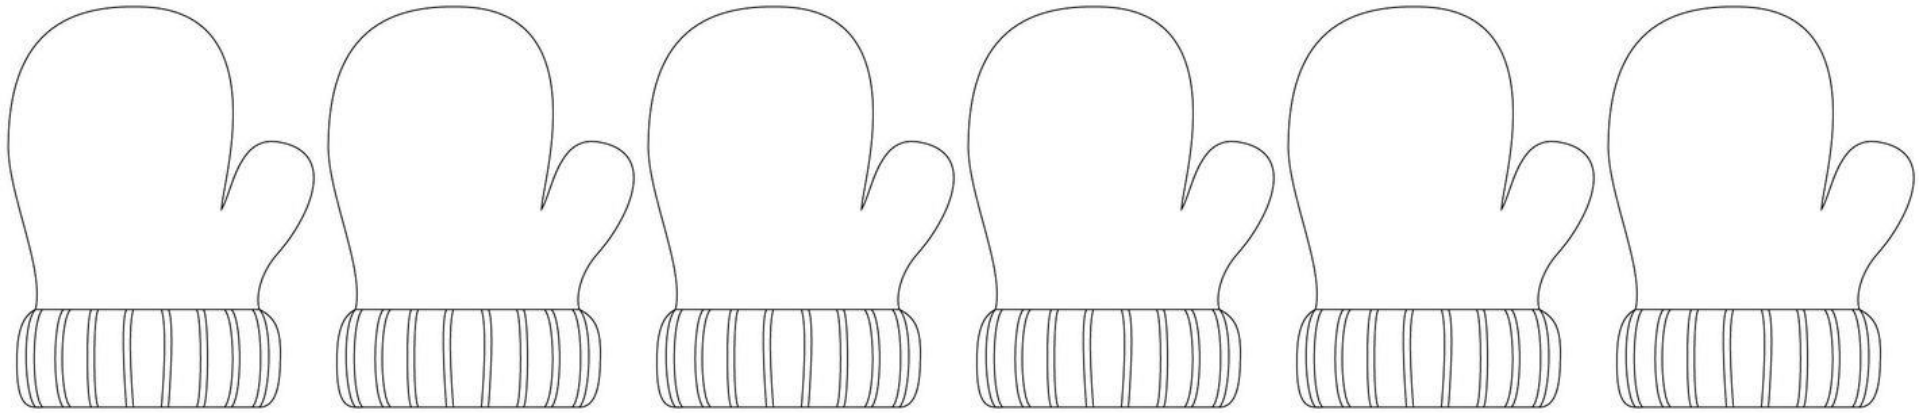

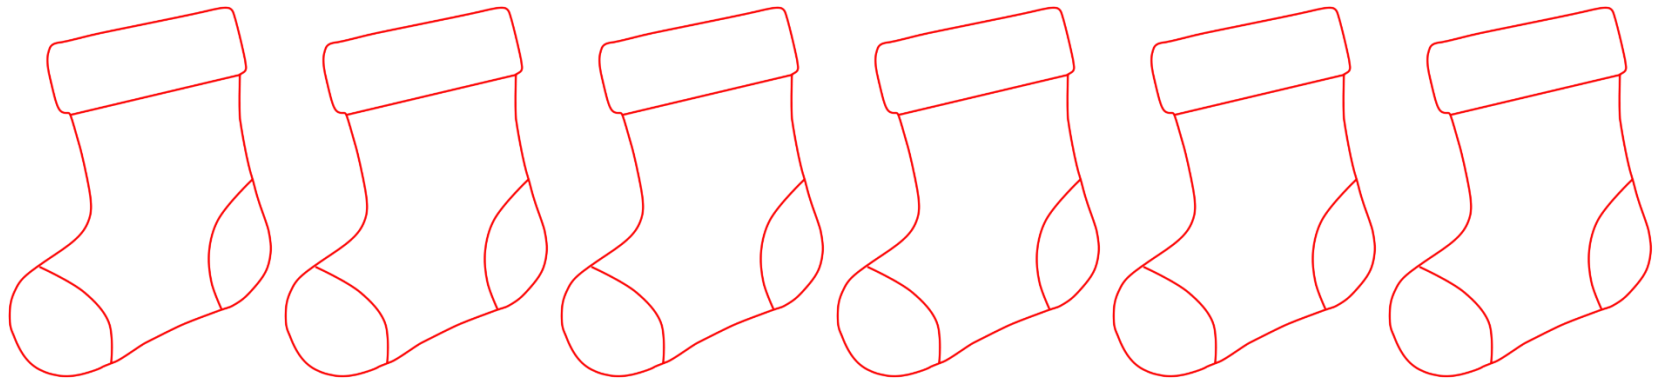

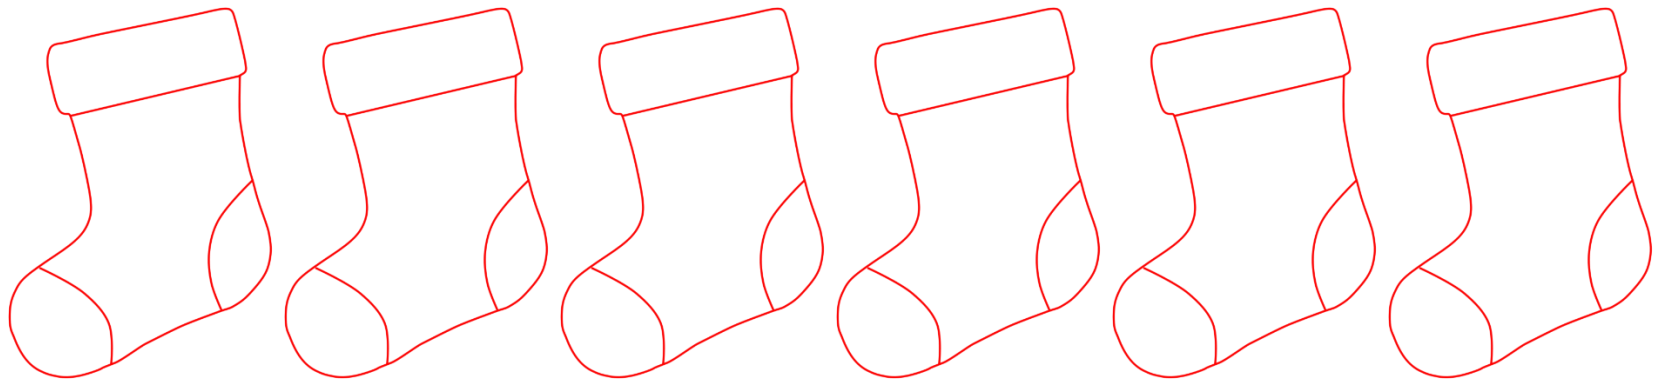

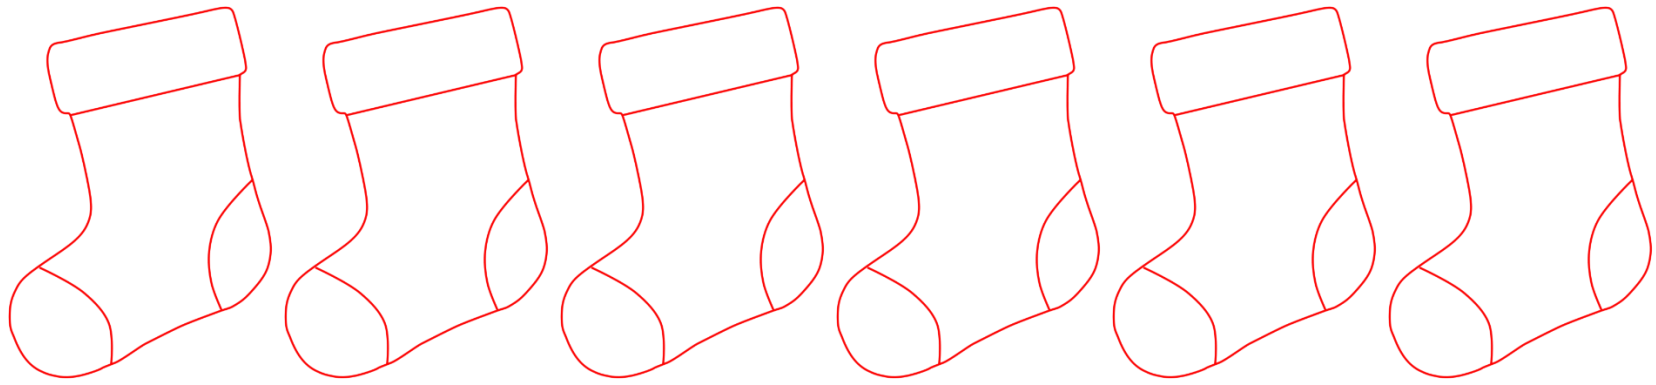

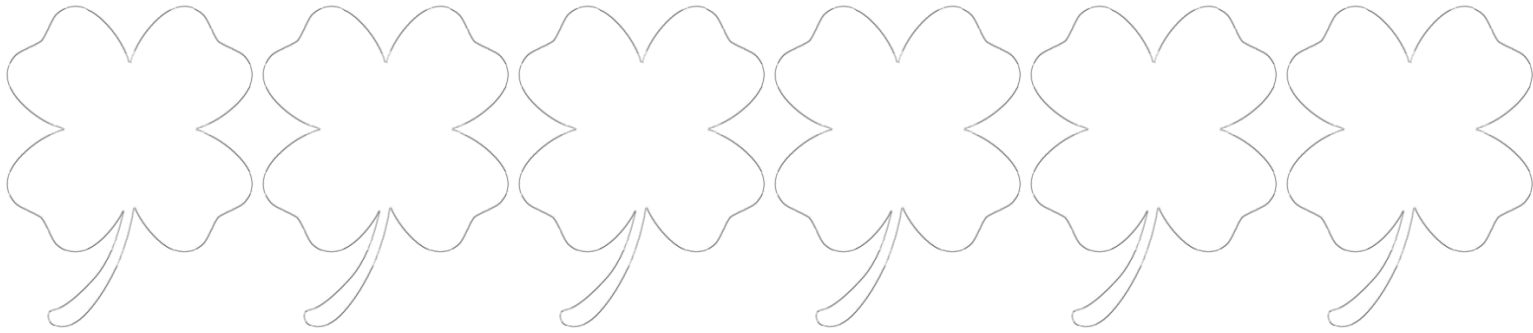

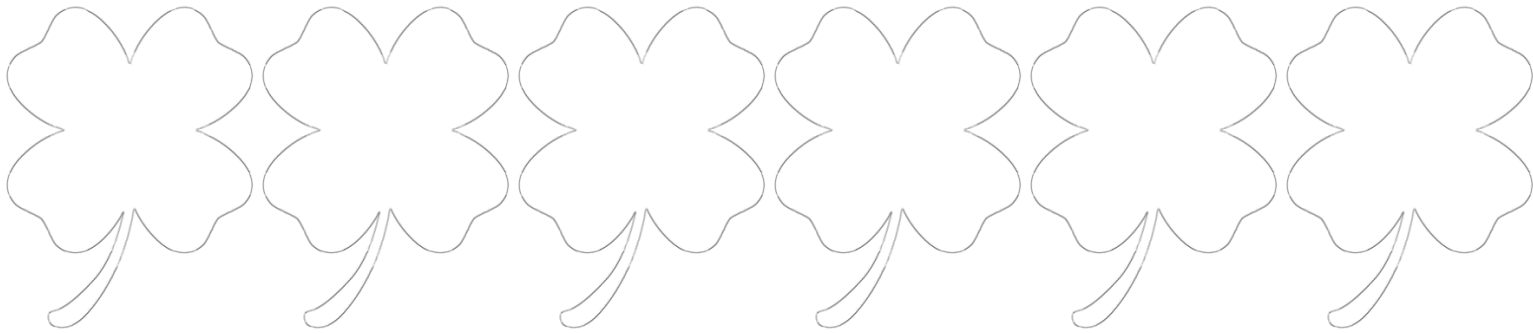

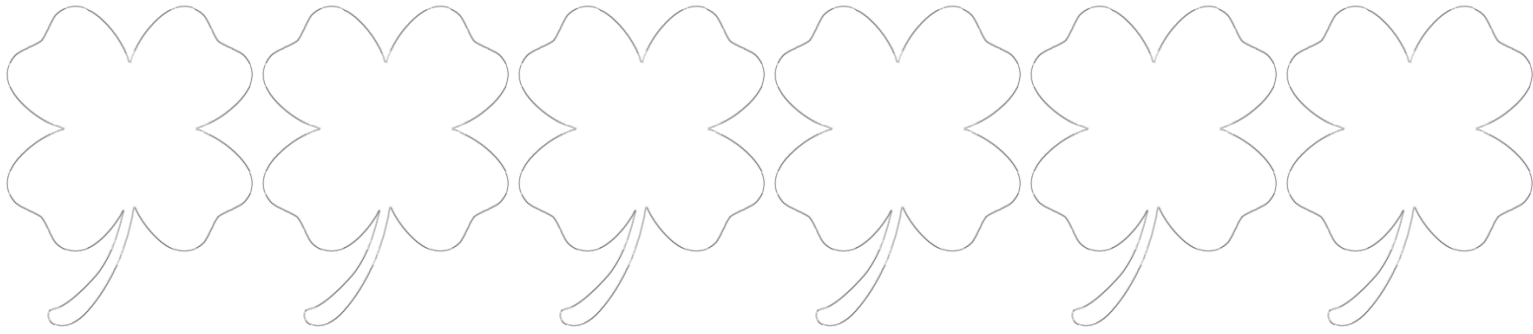

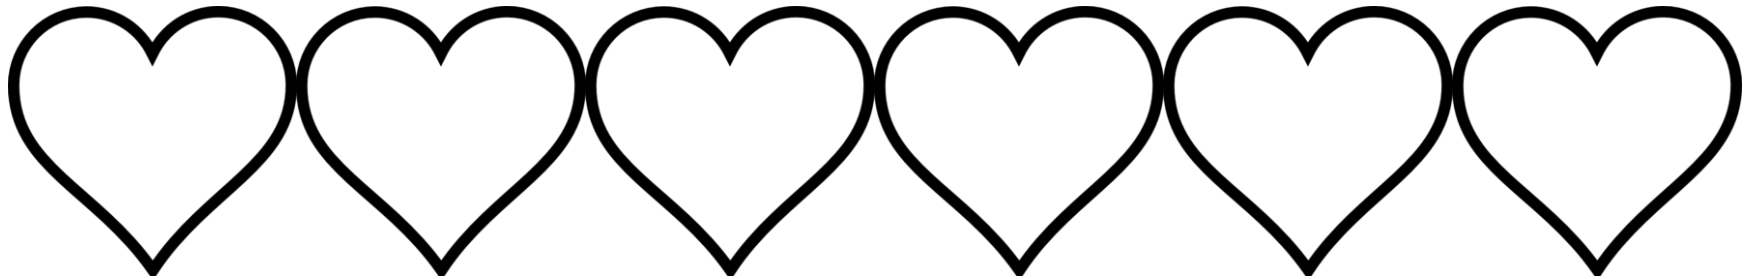

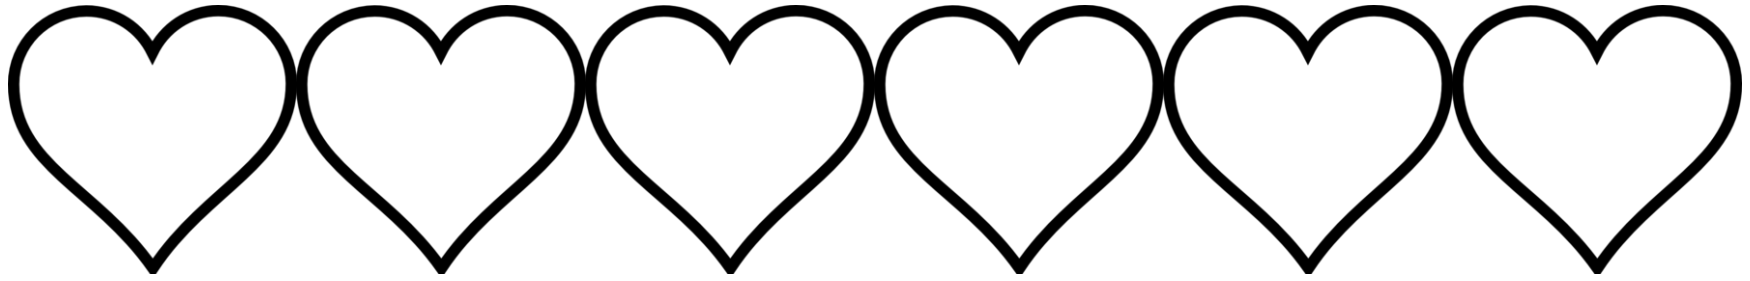

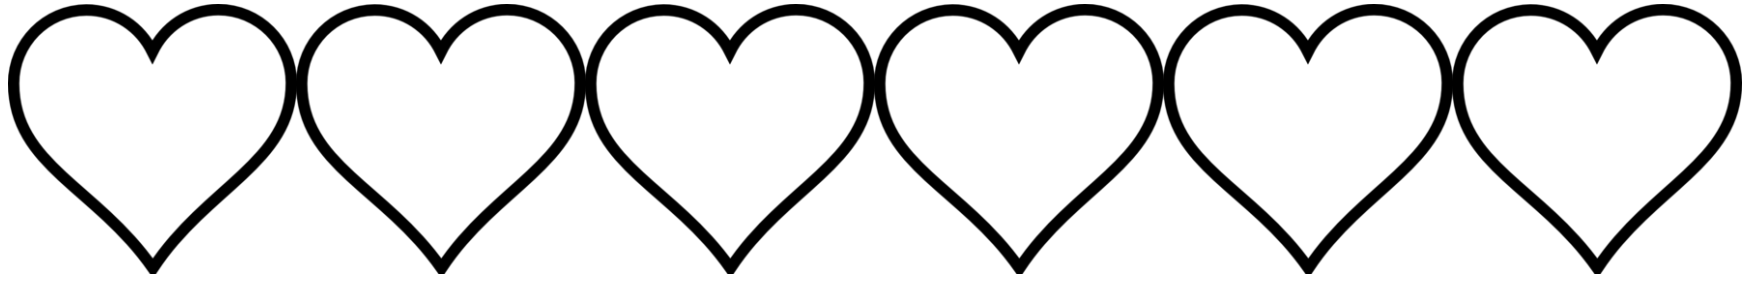

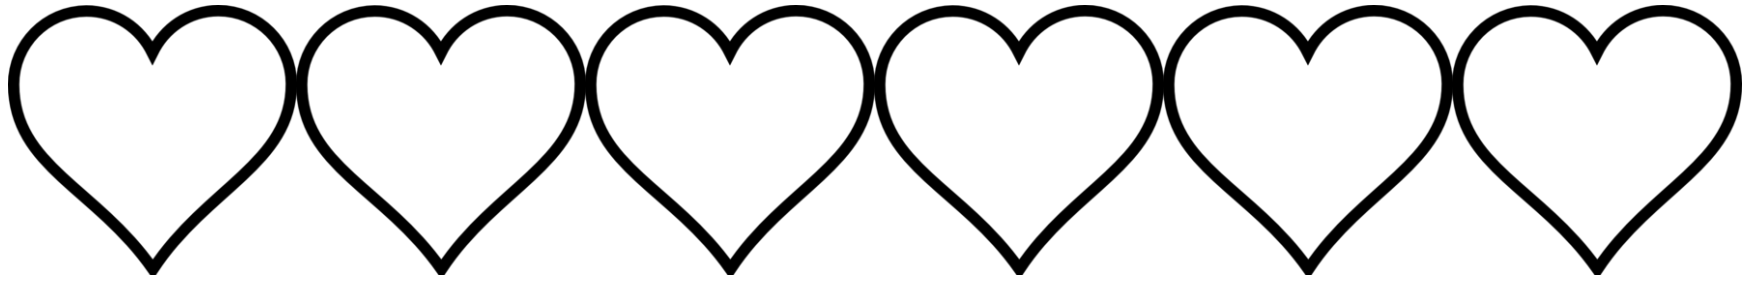

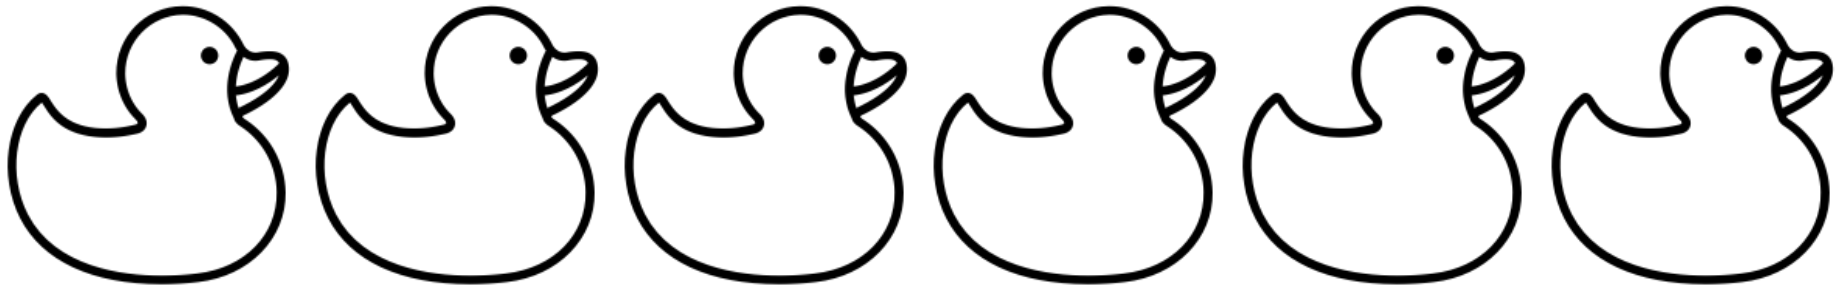

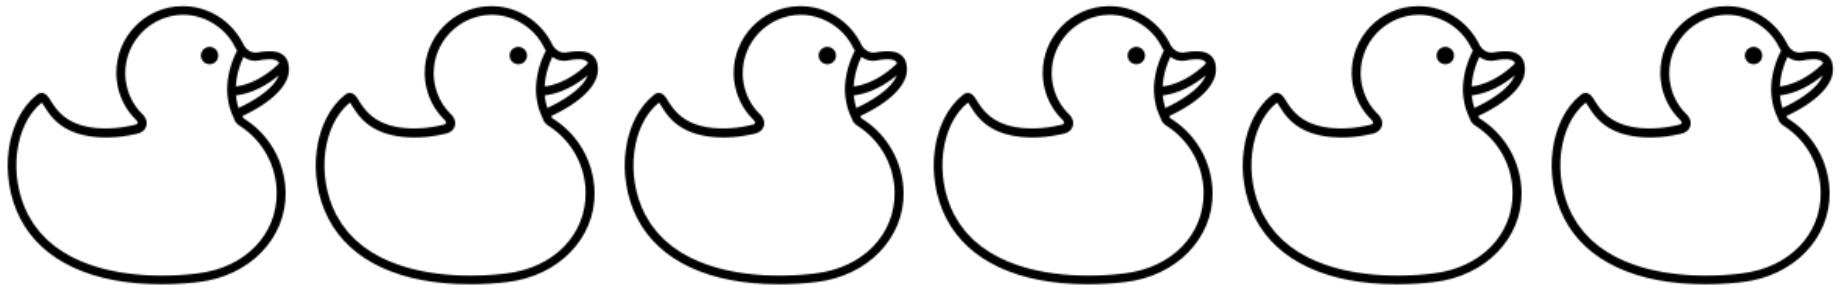

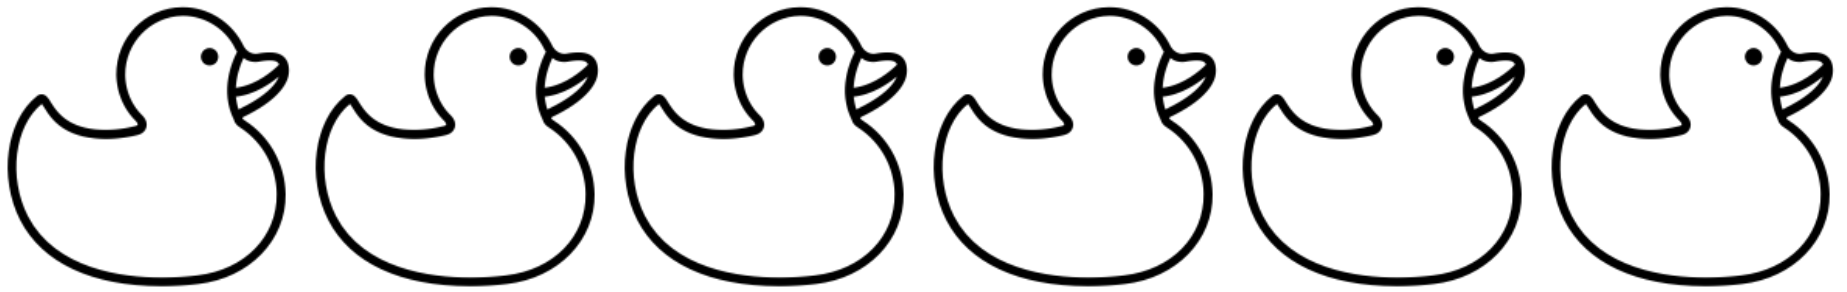

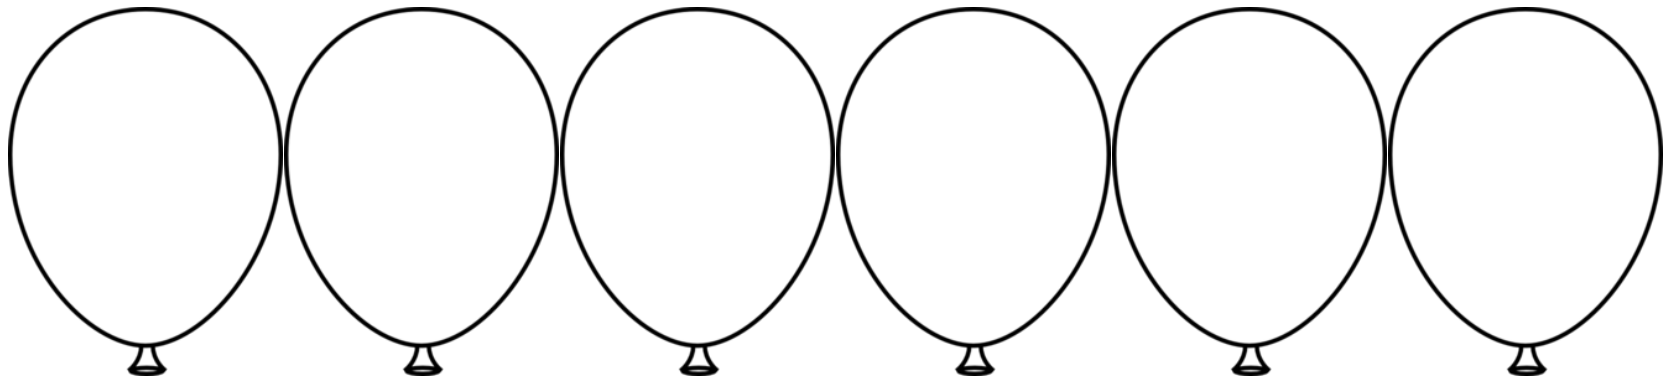

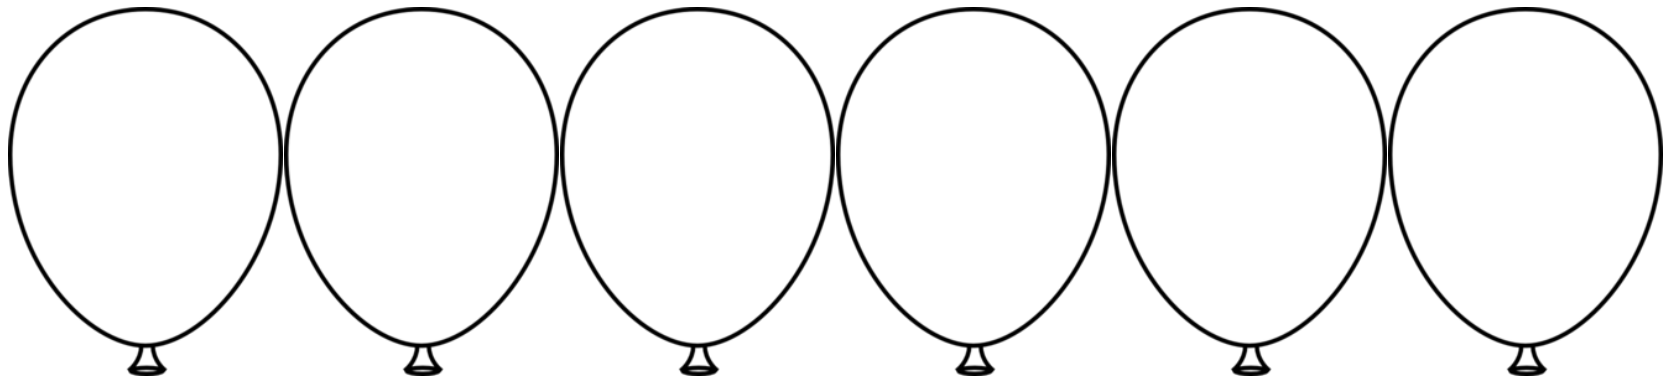

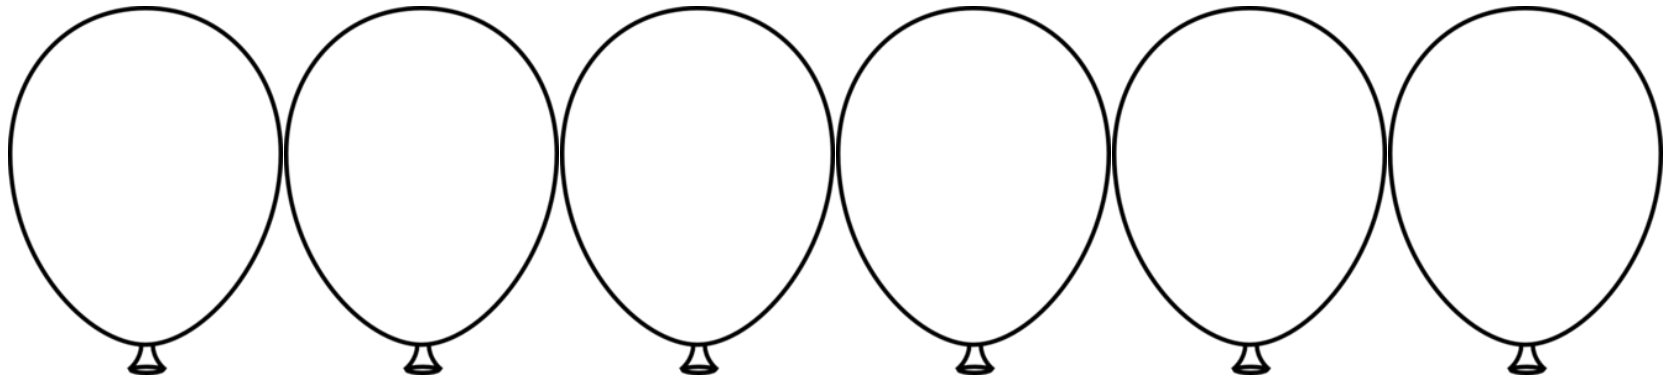

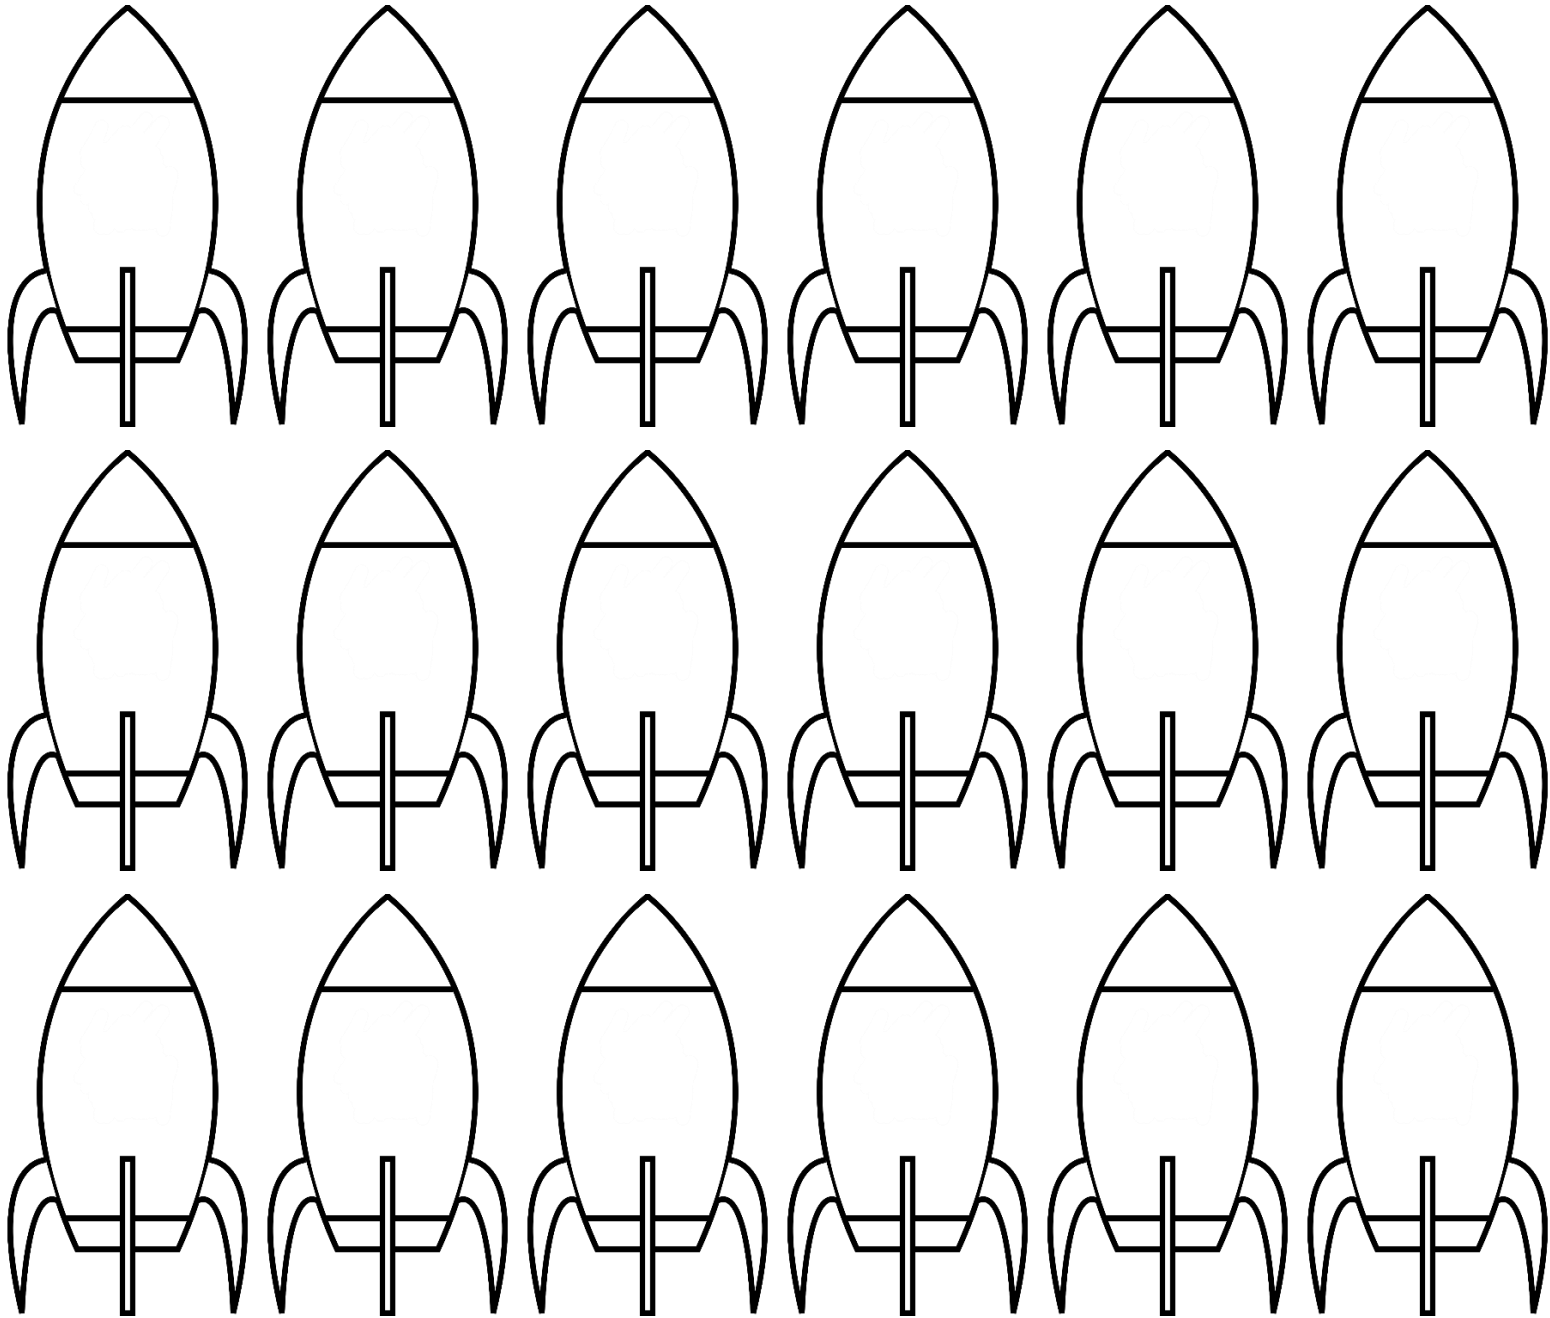

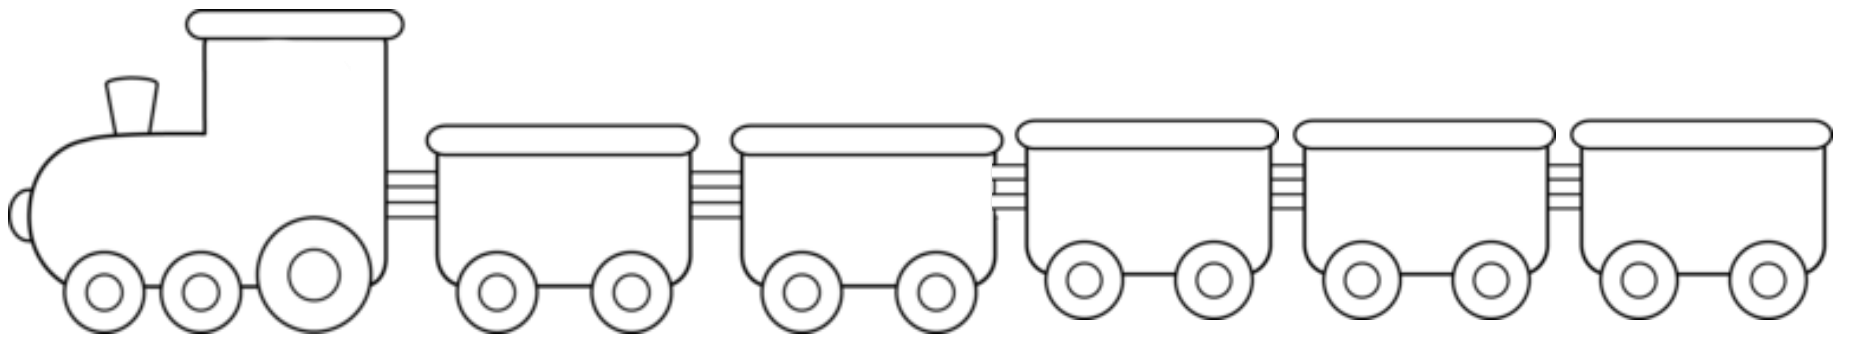

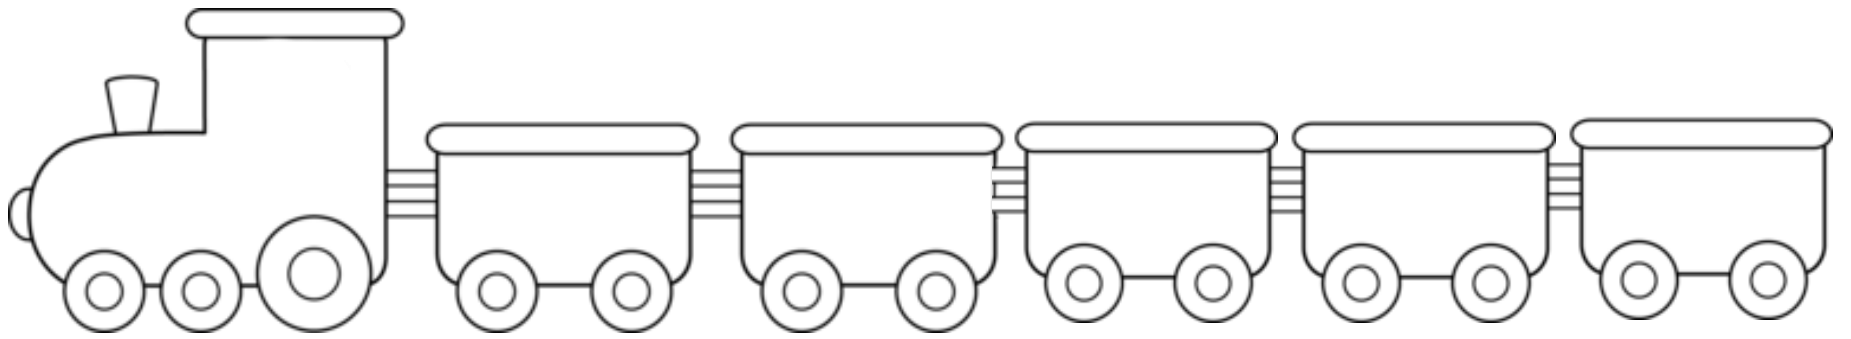

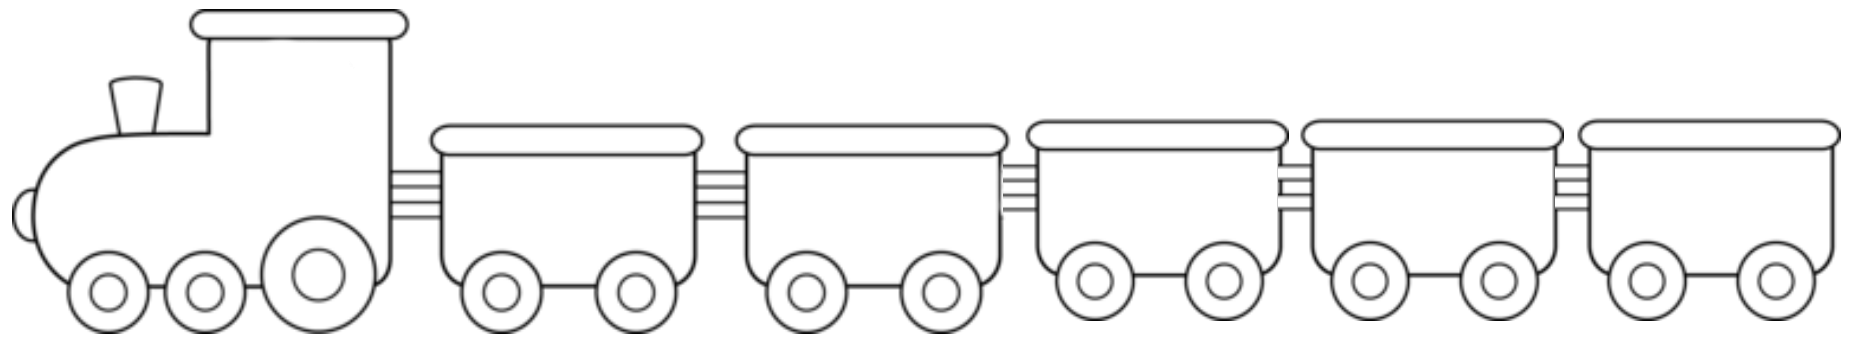

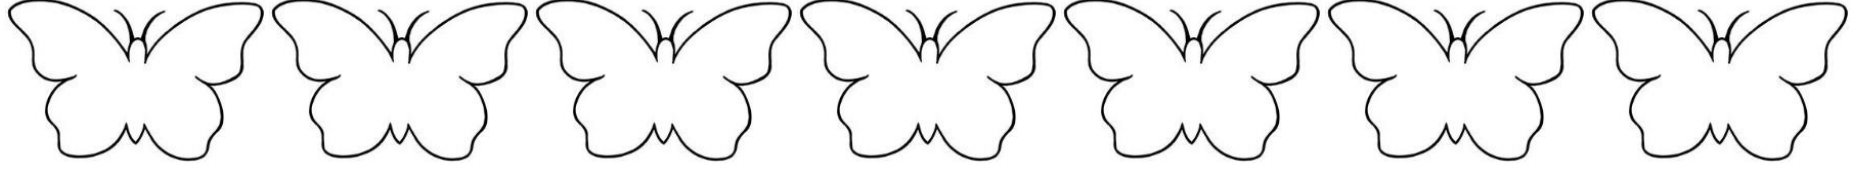

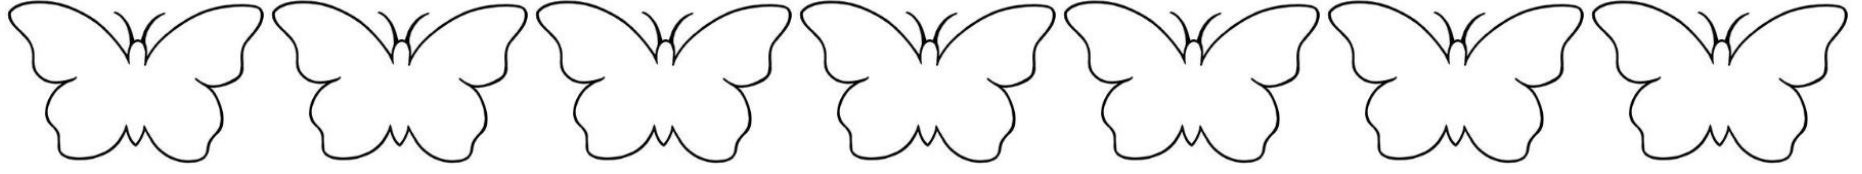

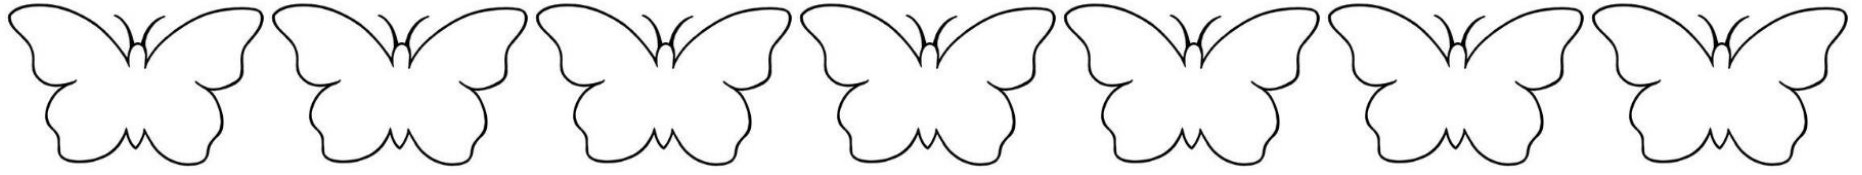

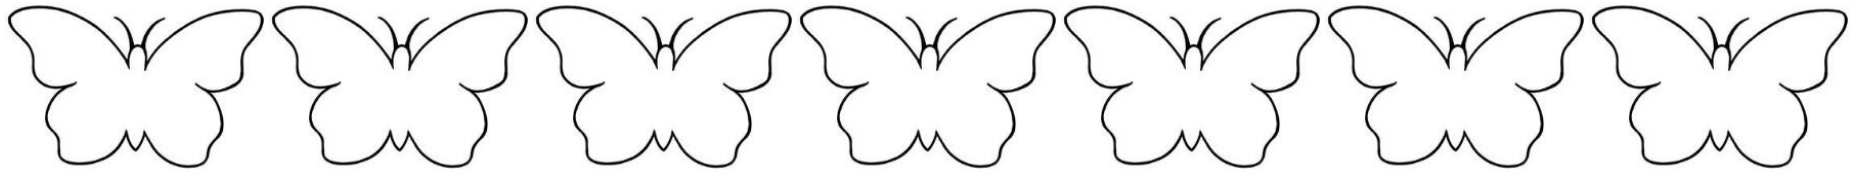

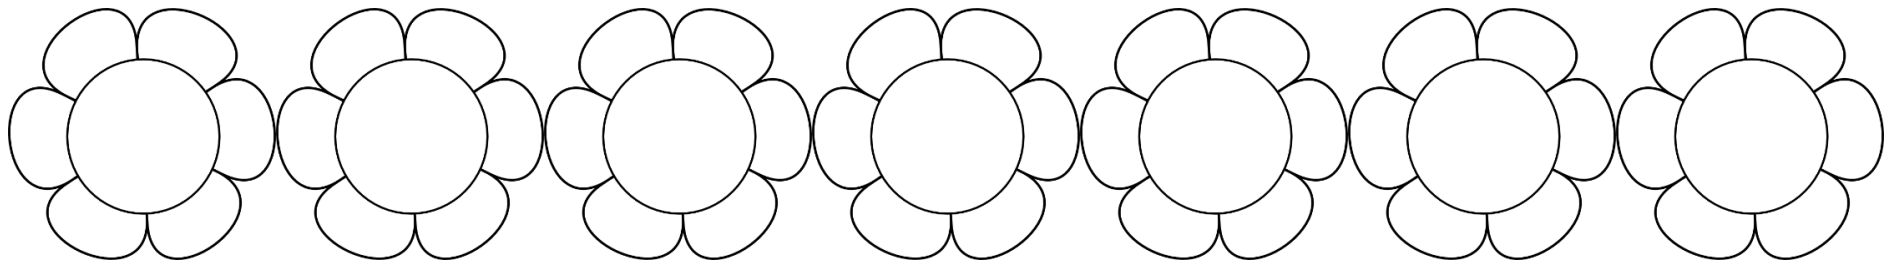

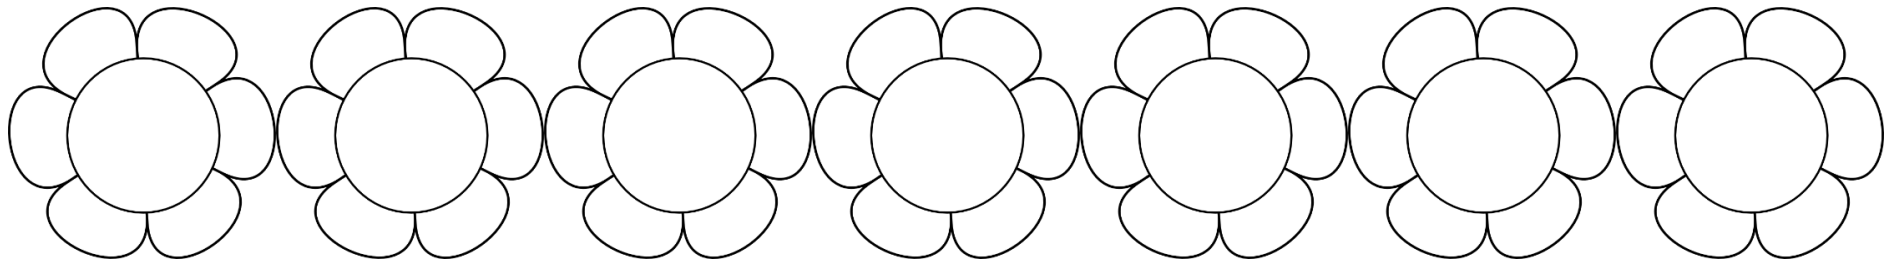

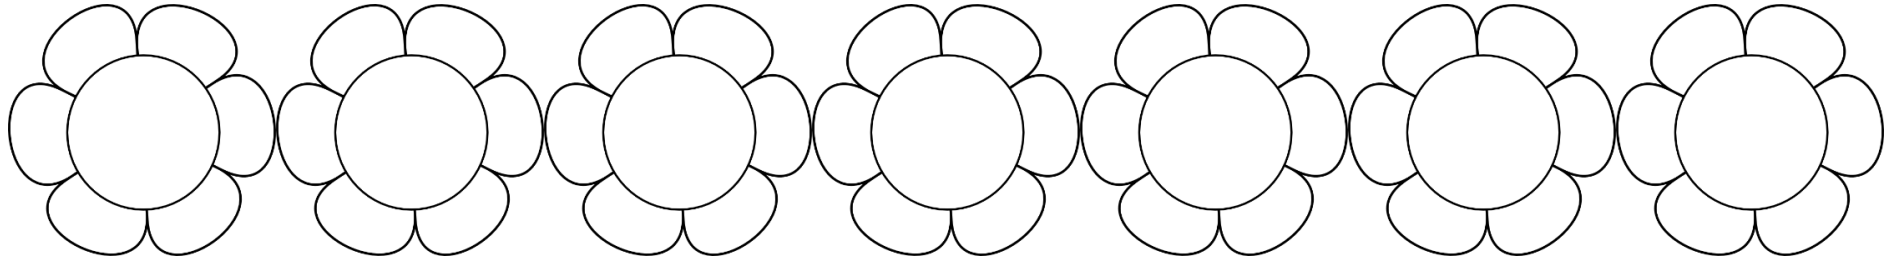

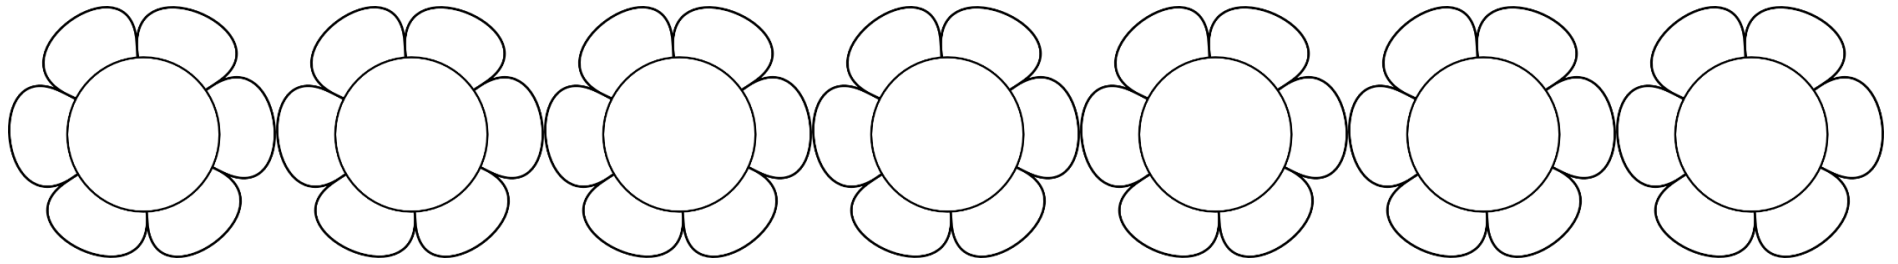

--	--	--	--	--	--

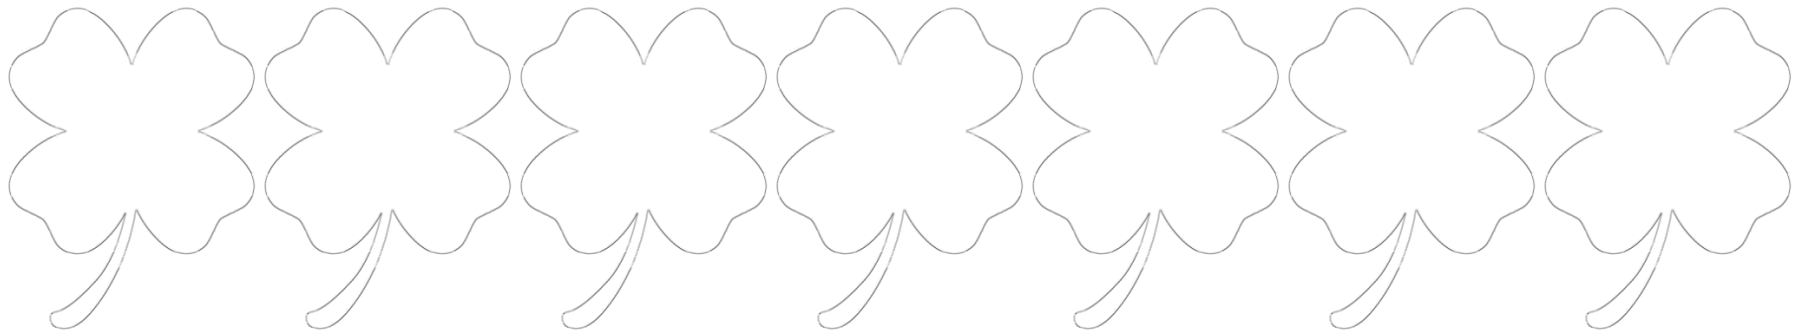

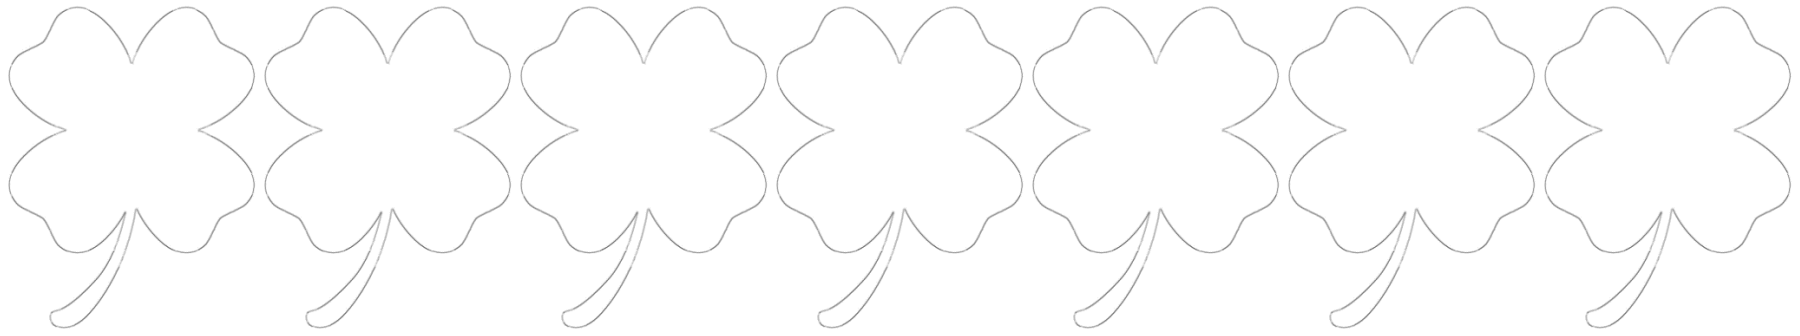

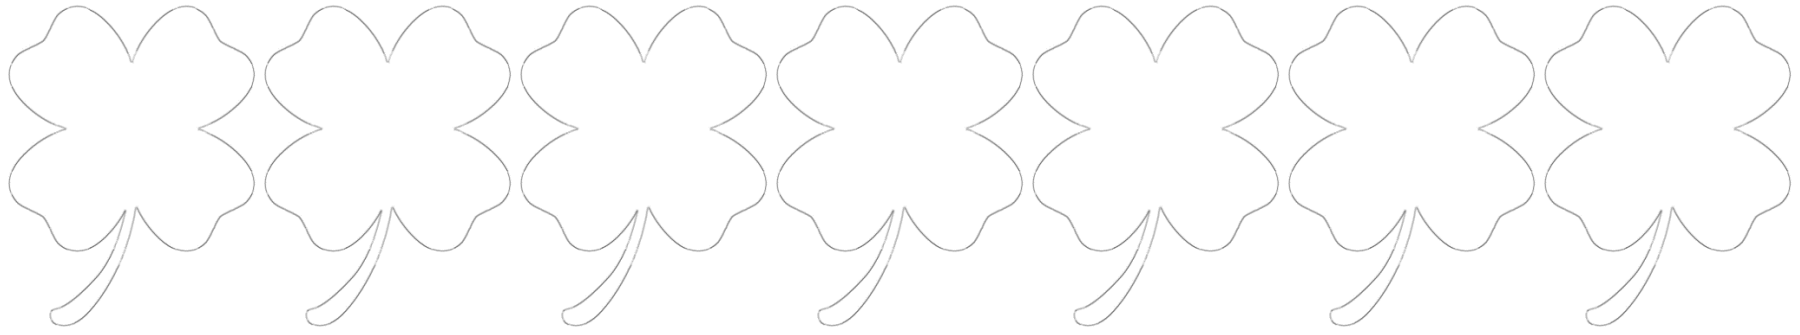

--	--	--	--	--	--

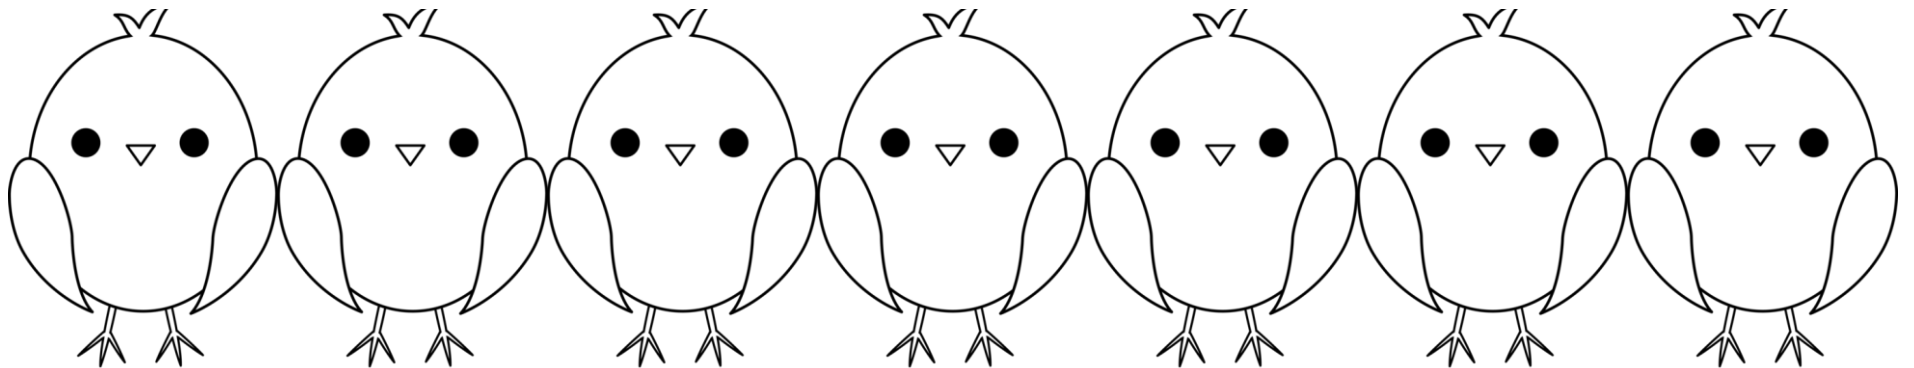

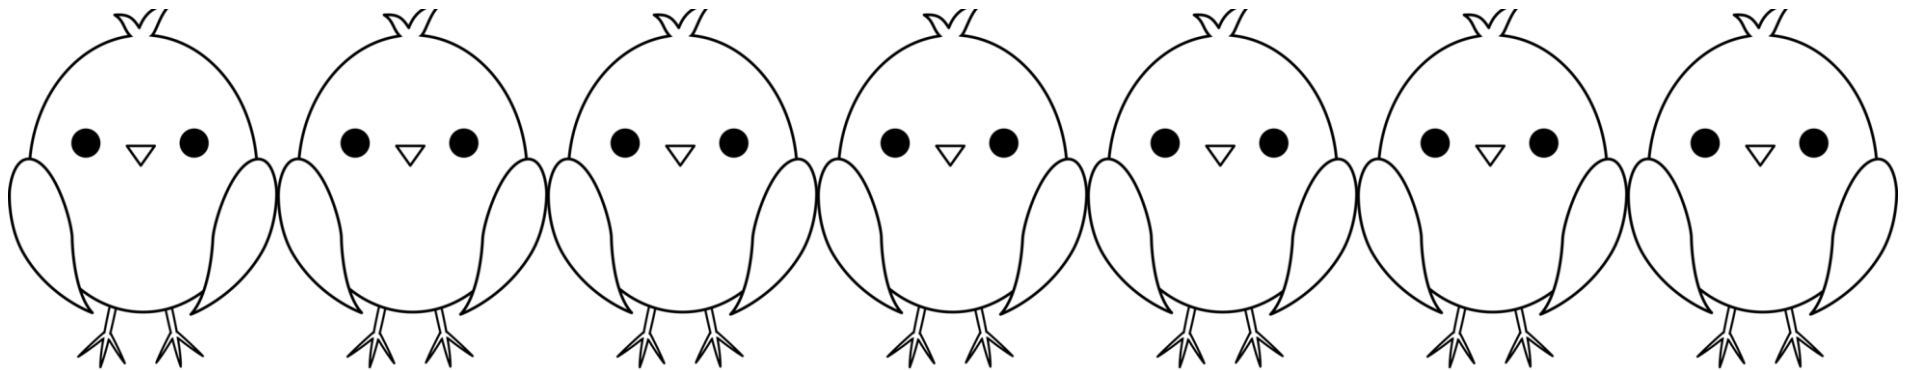

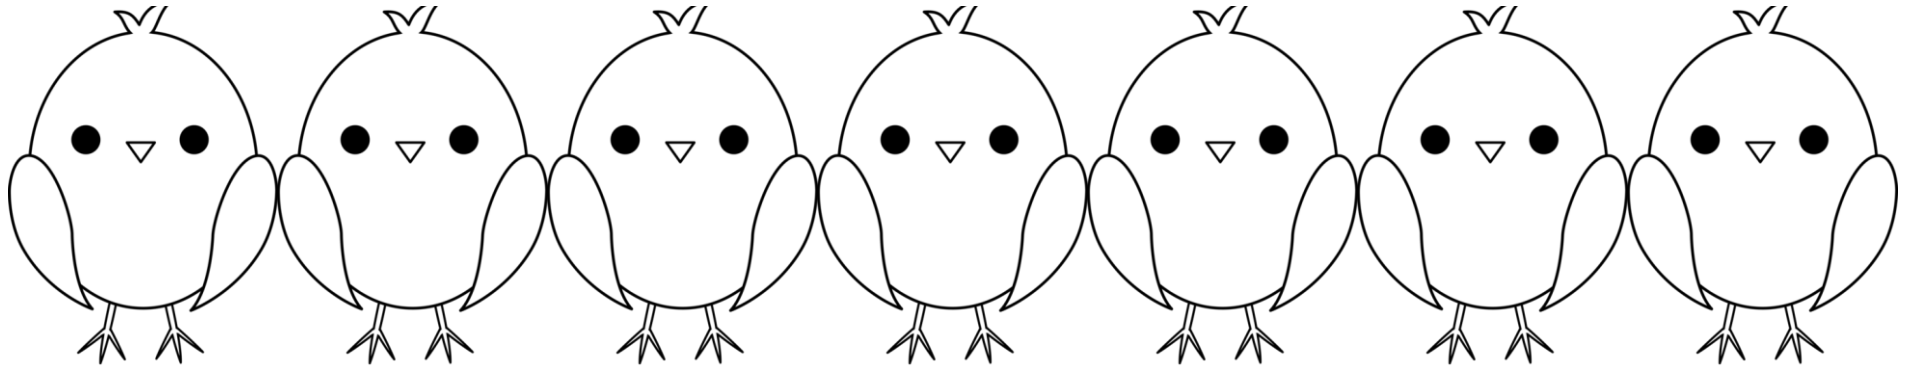

--	--	--	--	--	--

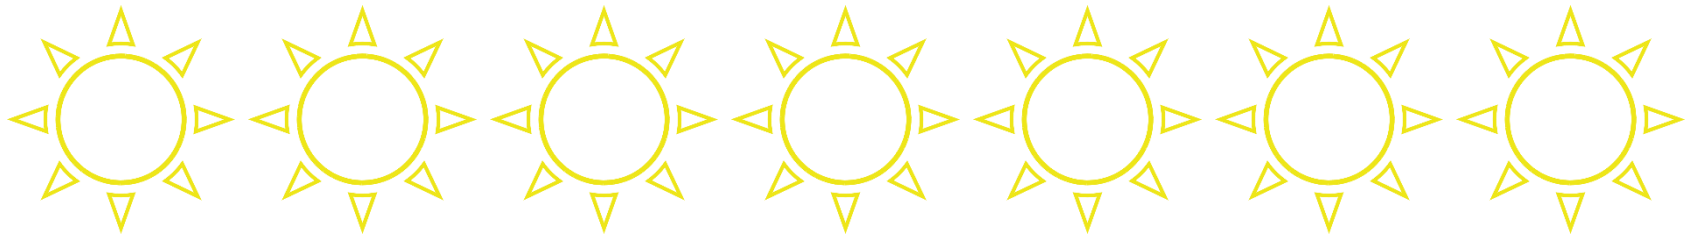

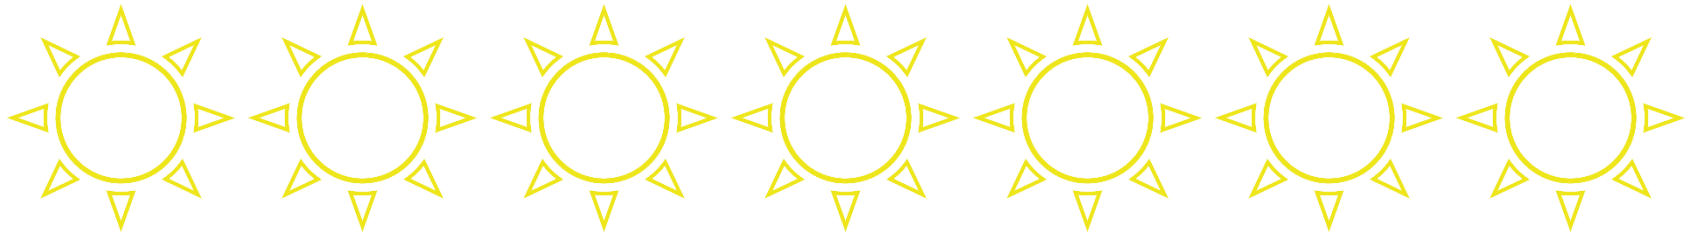

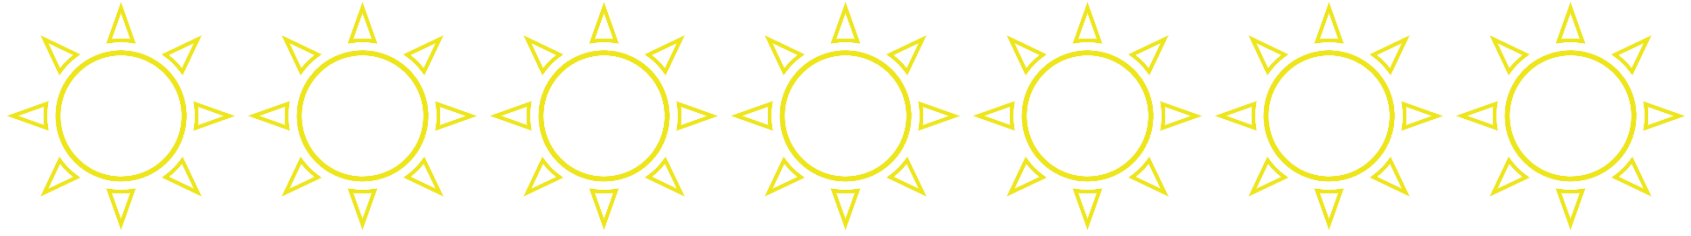

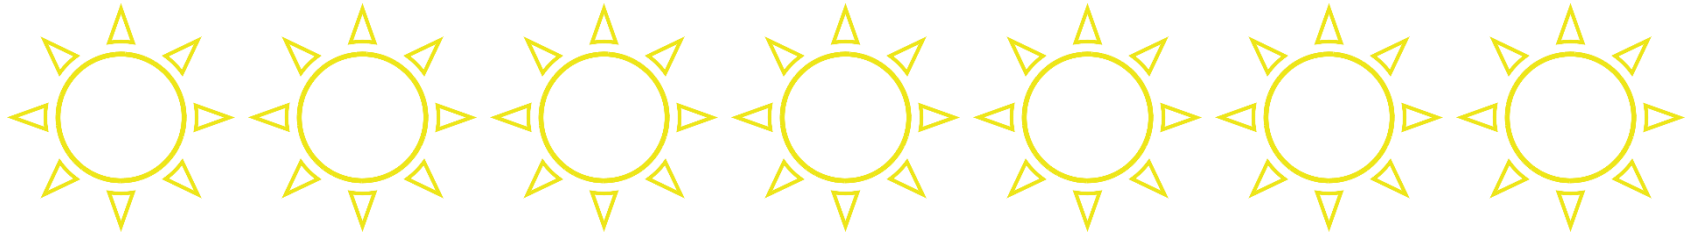

--	--	--	--	--	--

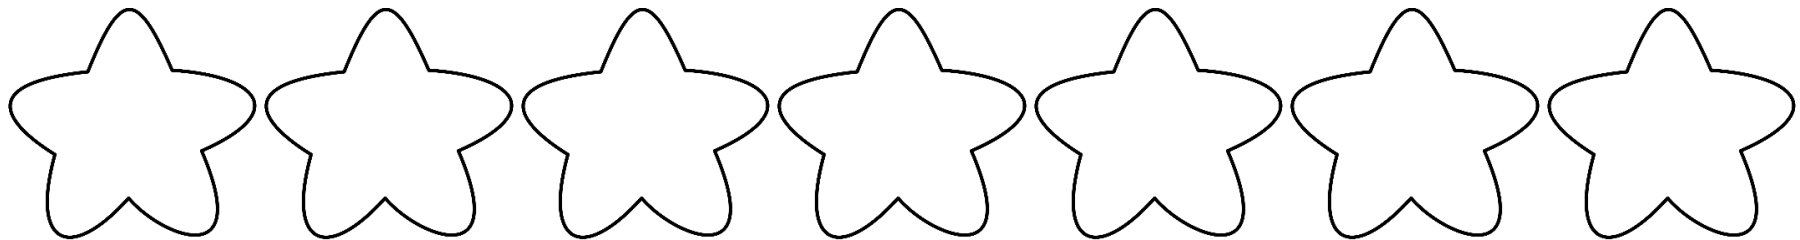

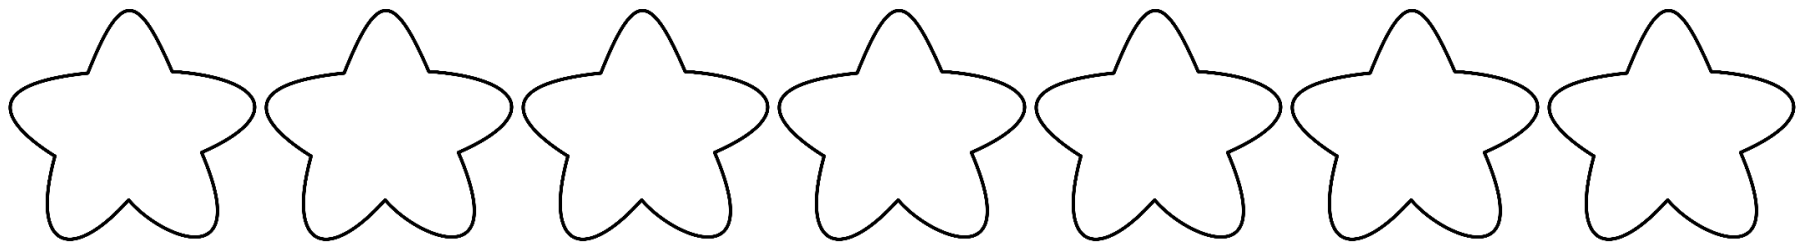

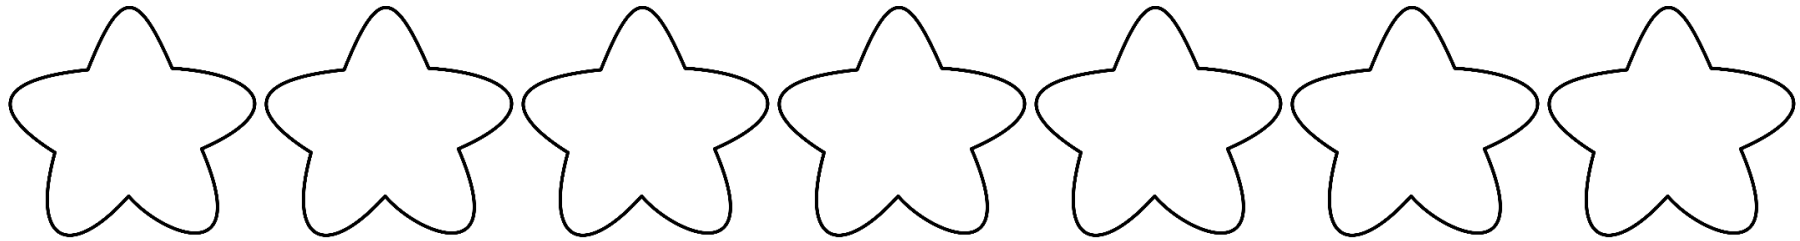

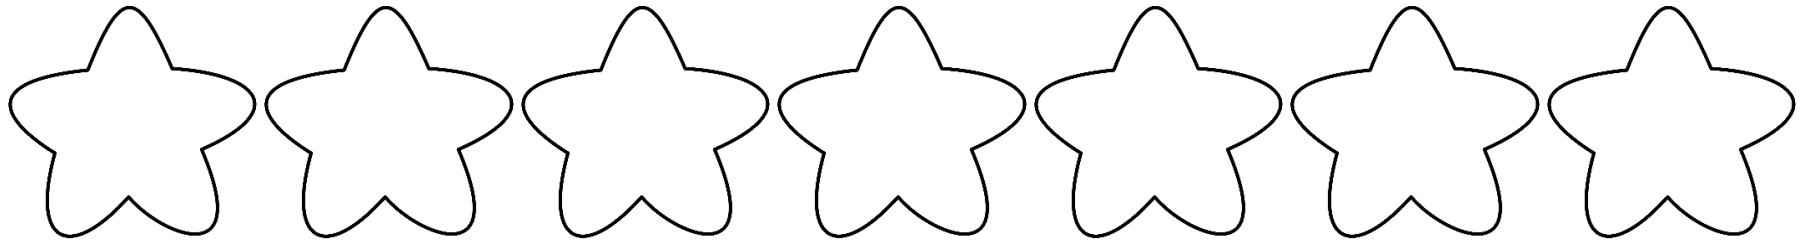

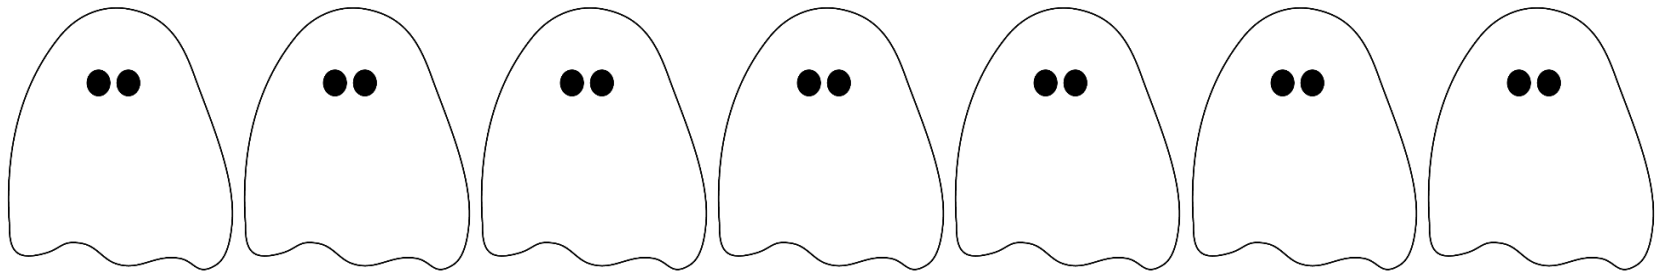

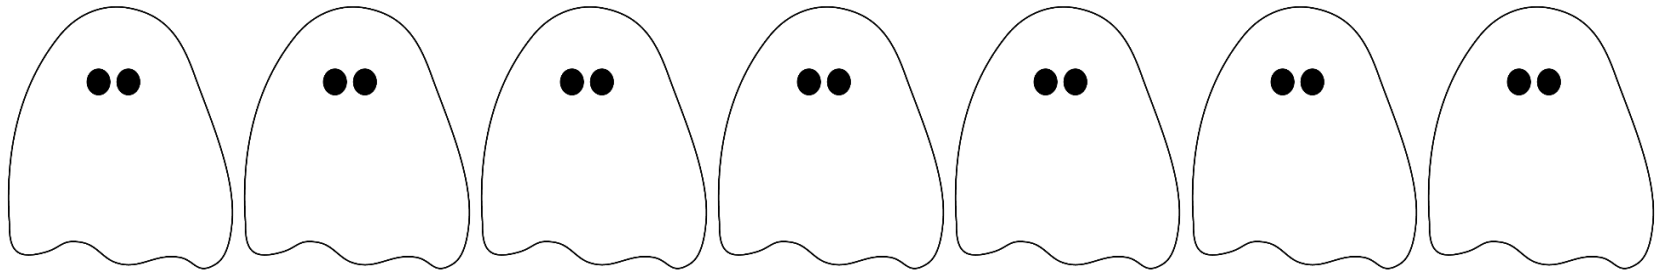

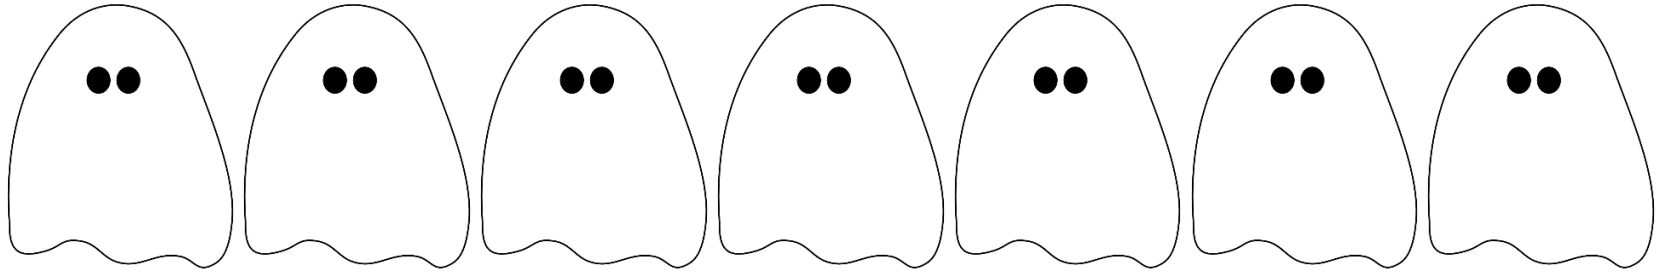

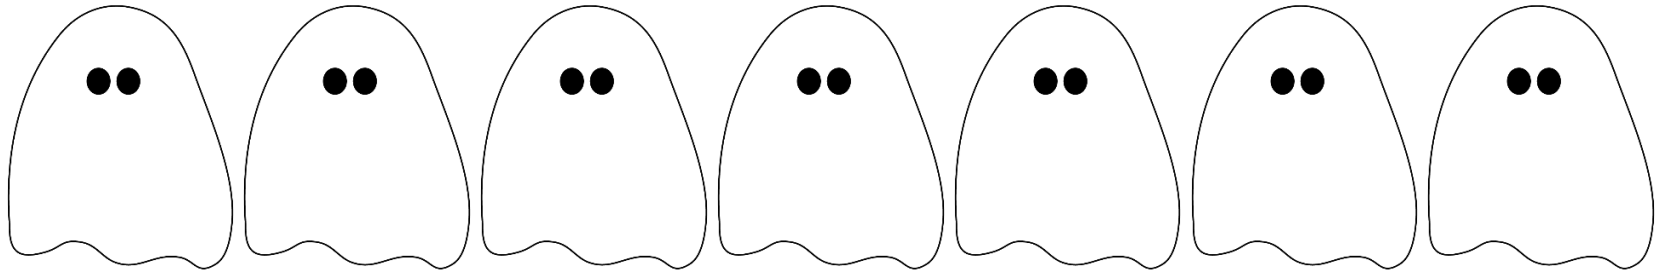

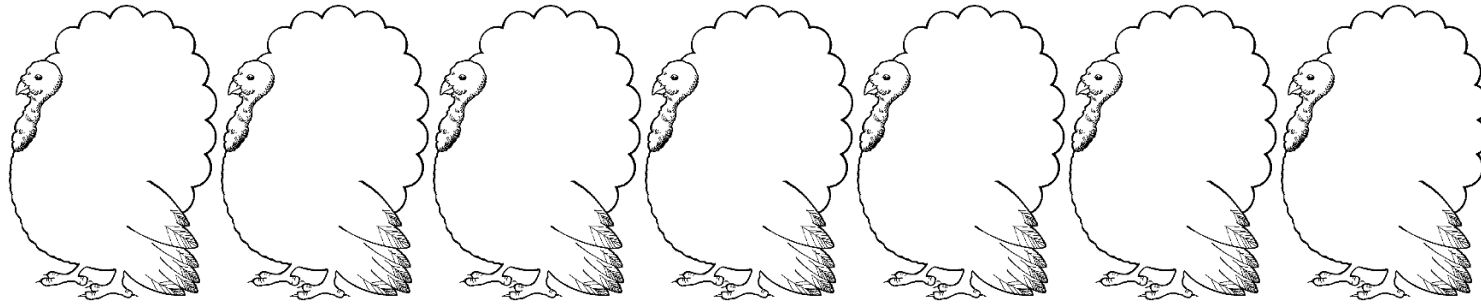

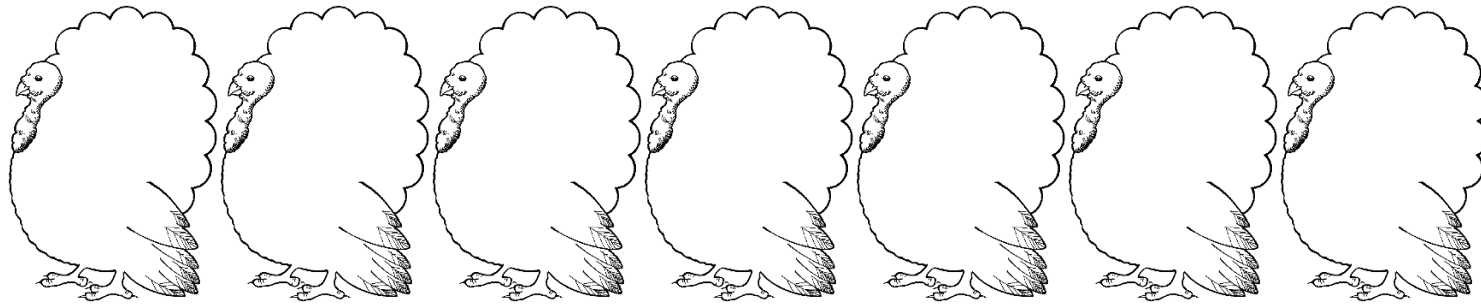

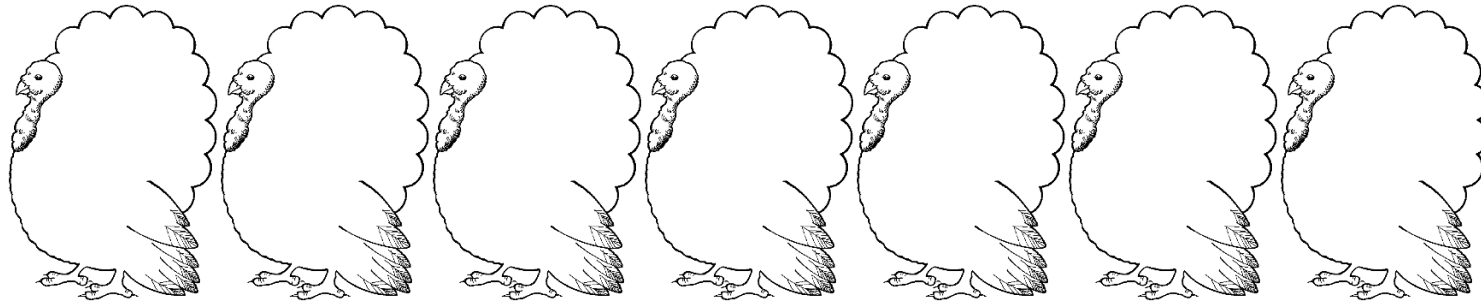

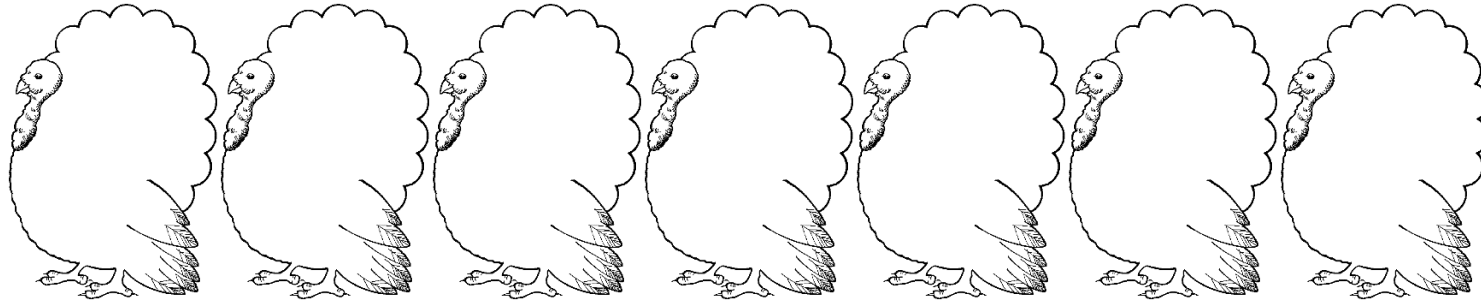

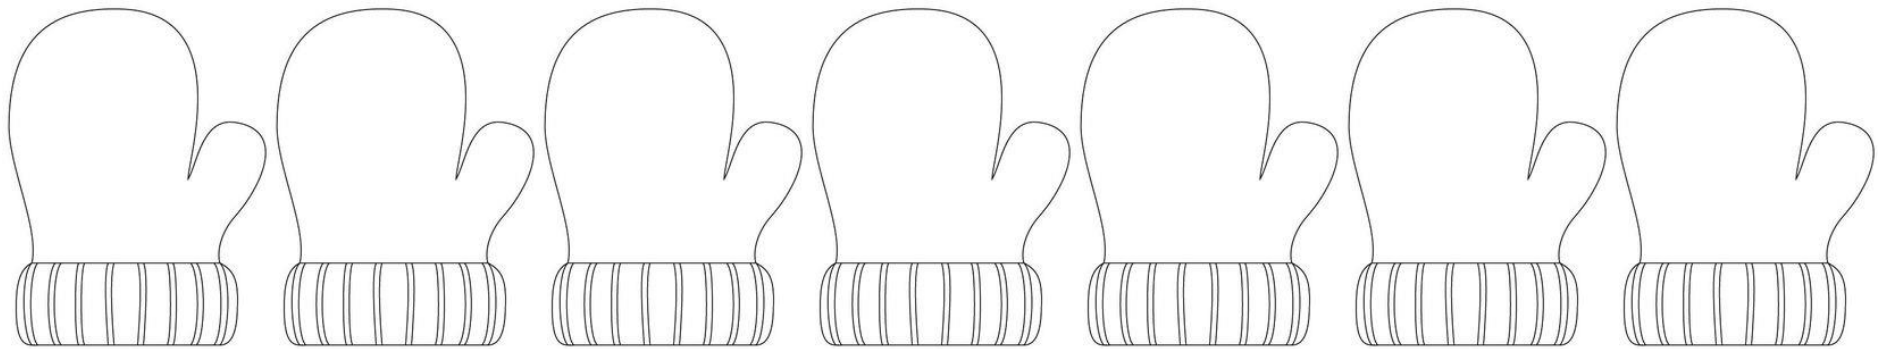

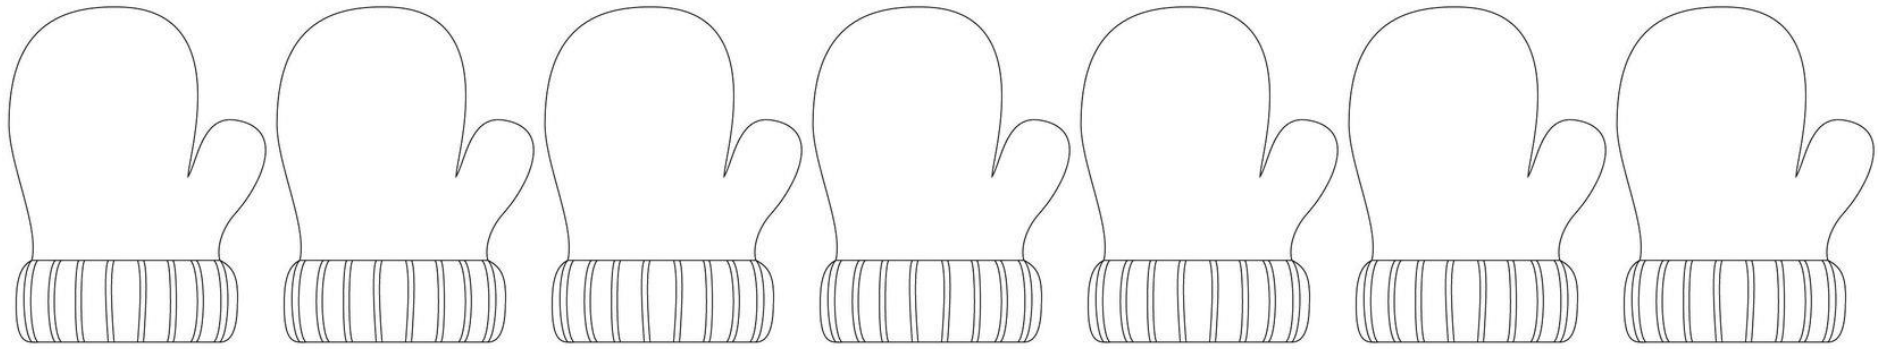

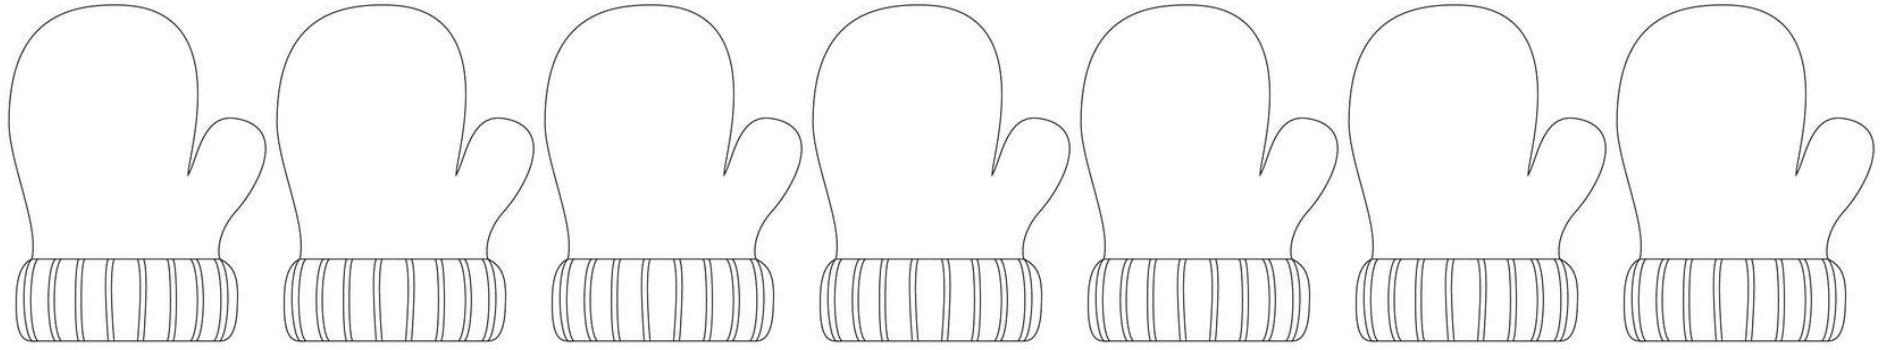

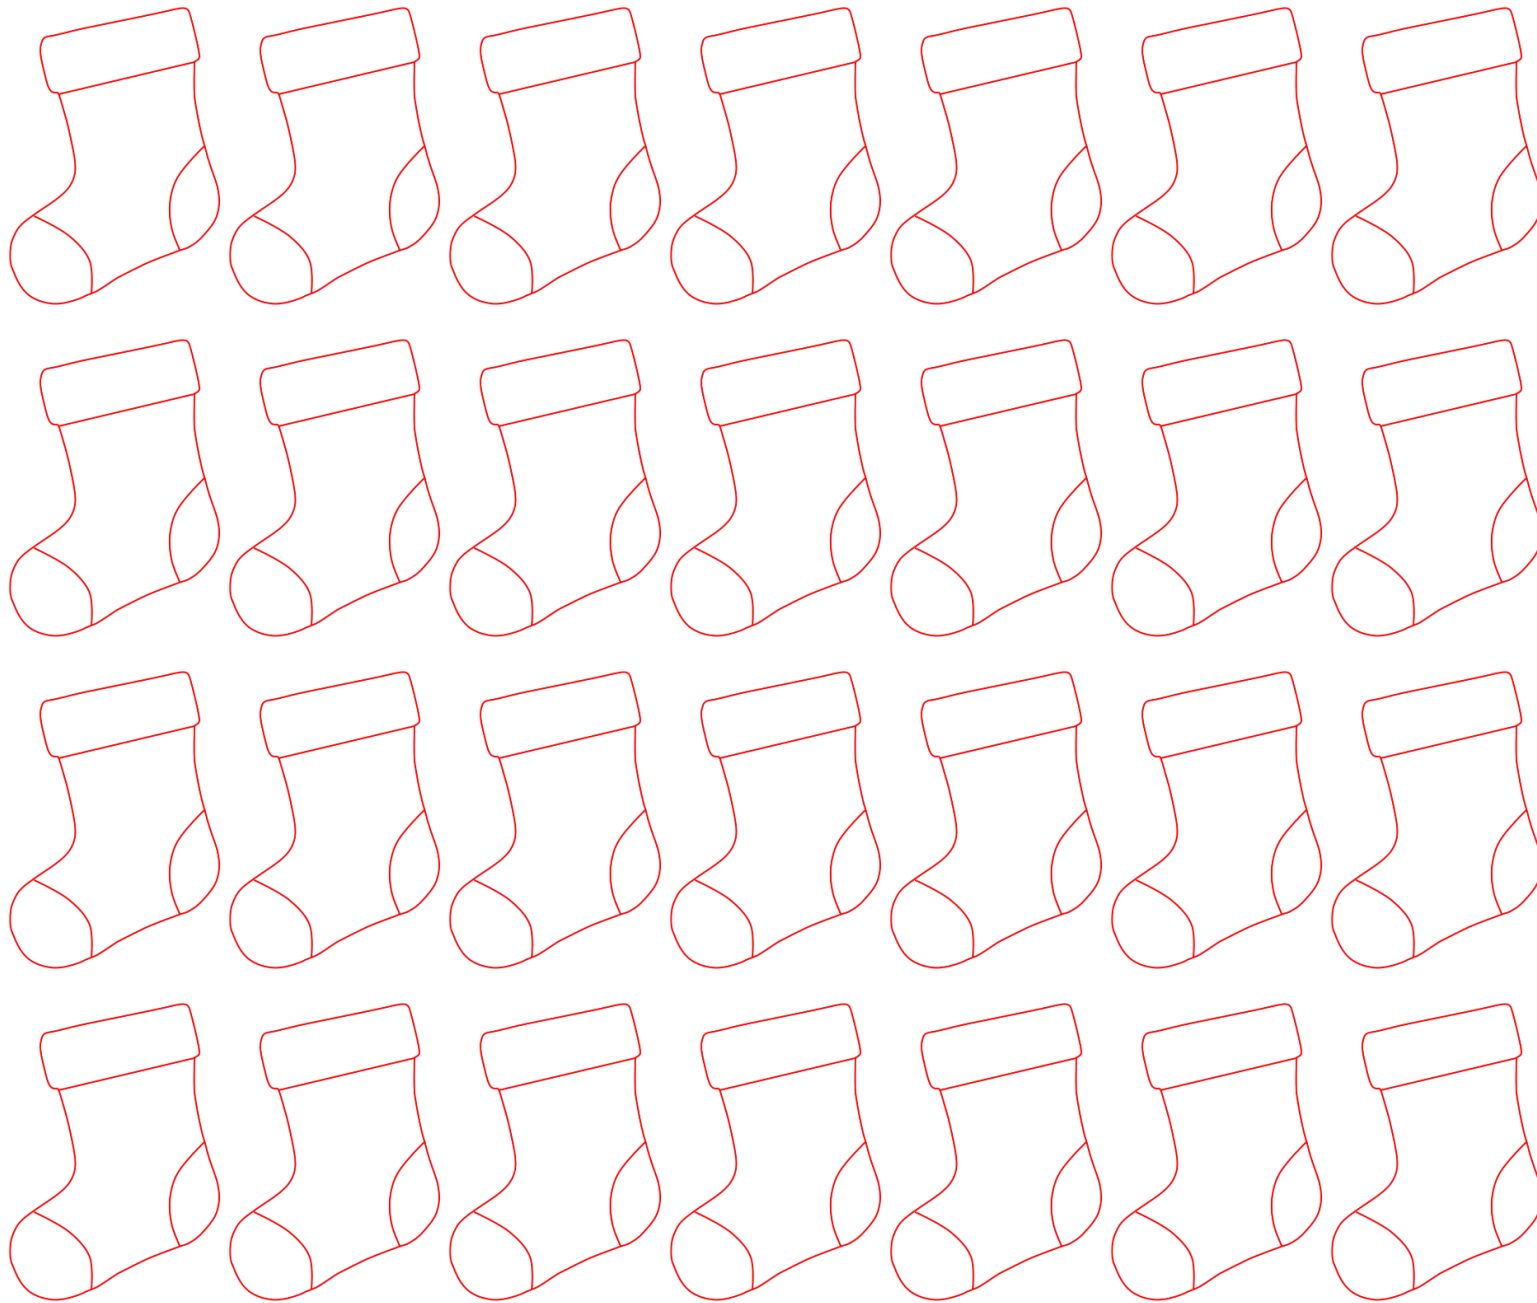

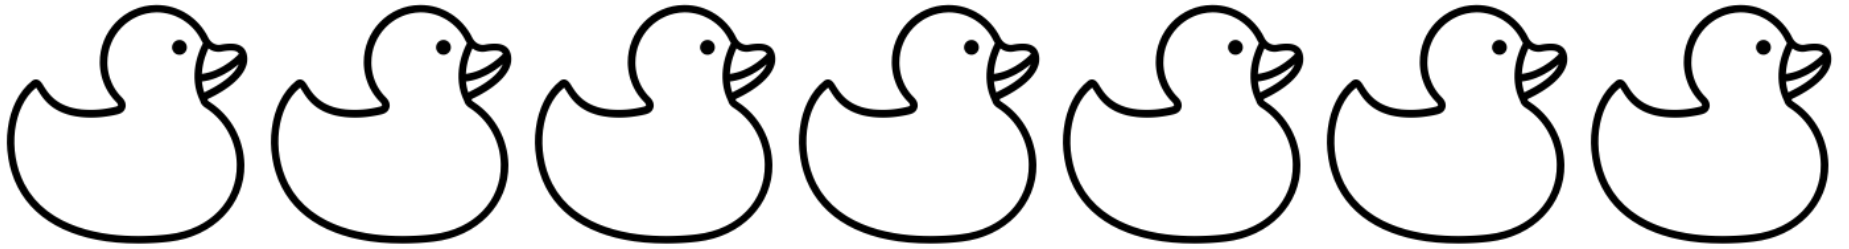

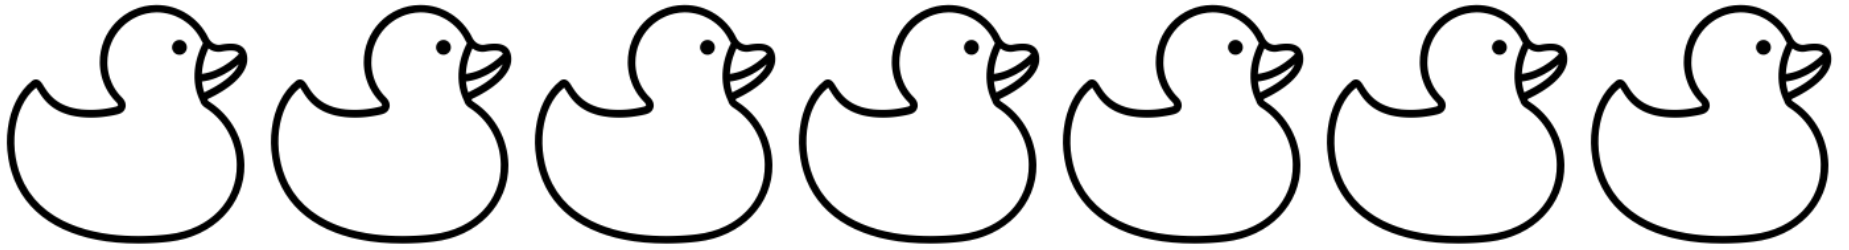

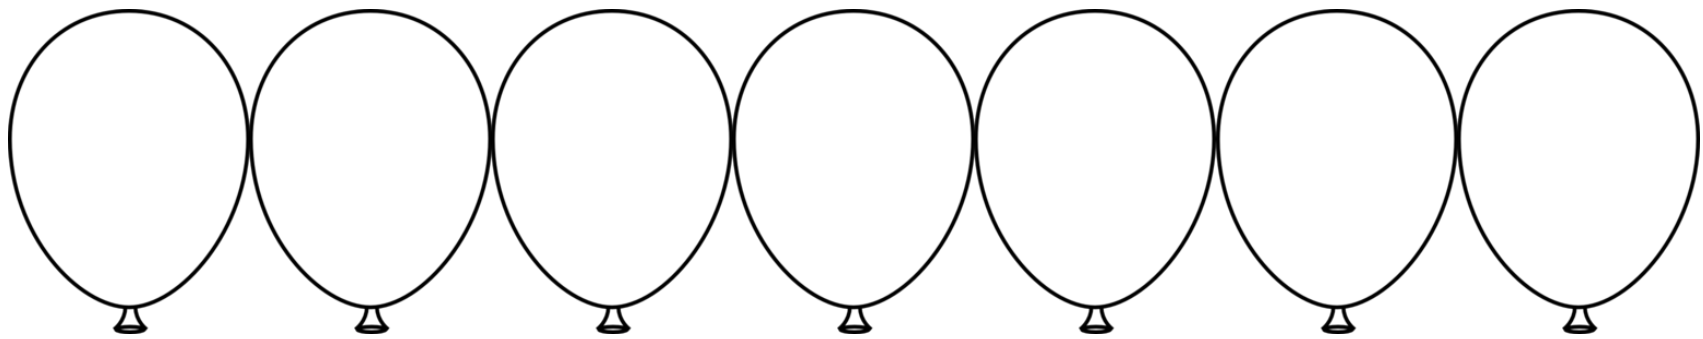

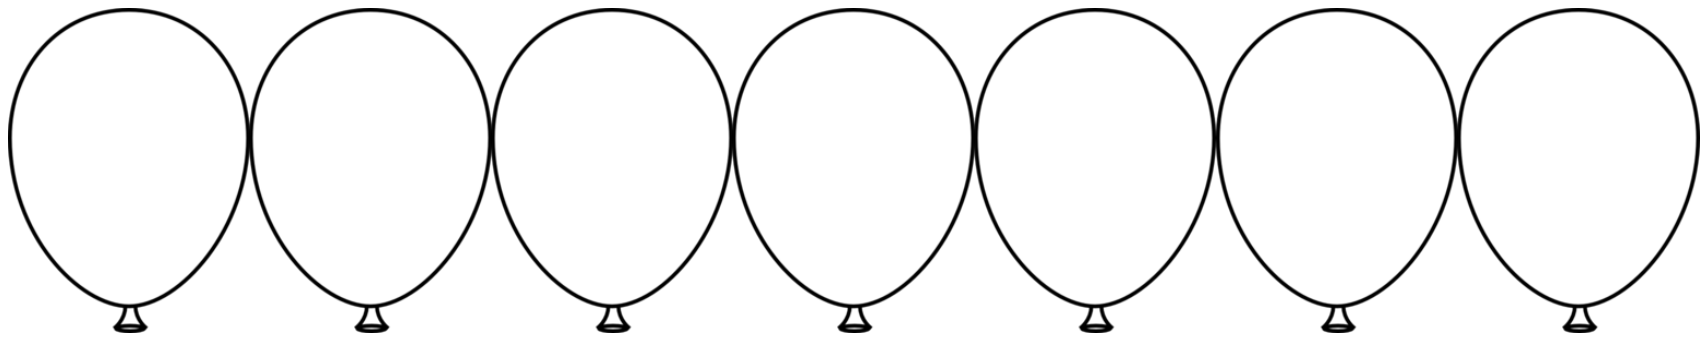

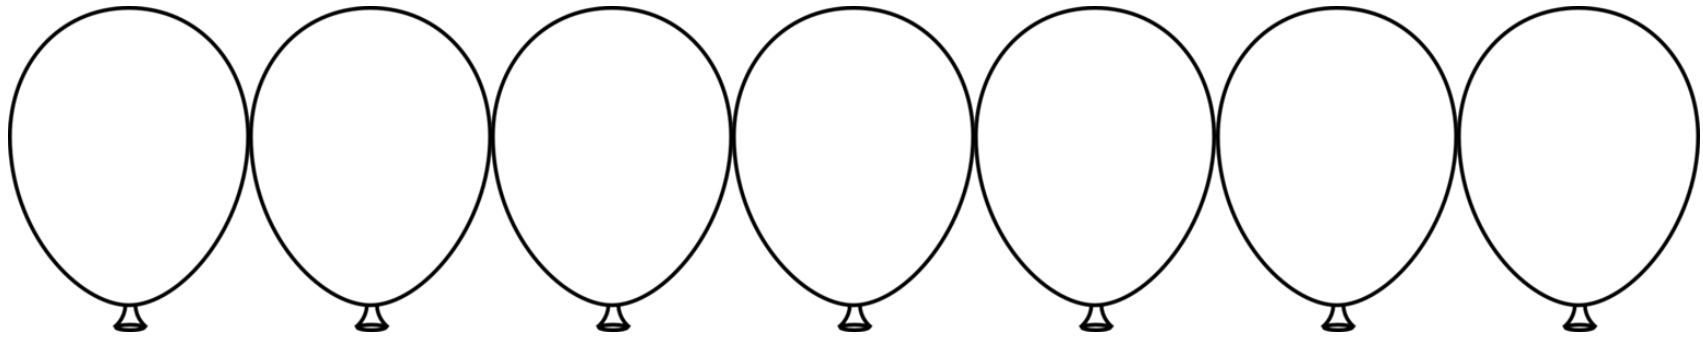

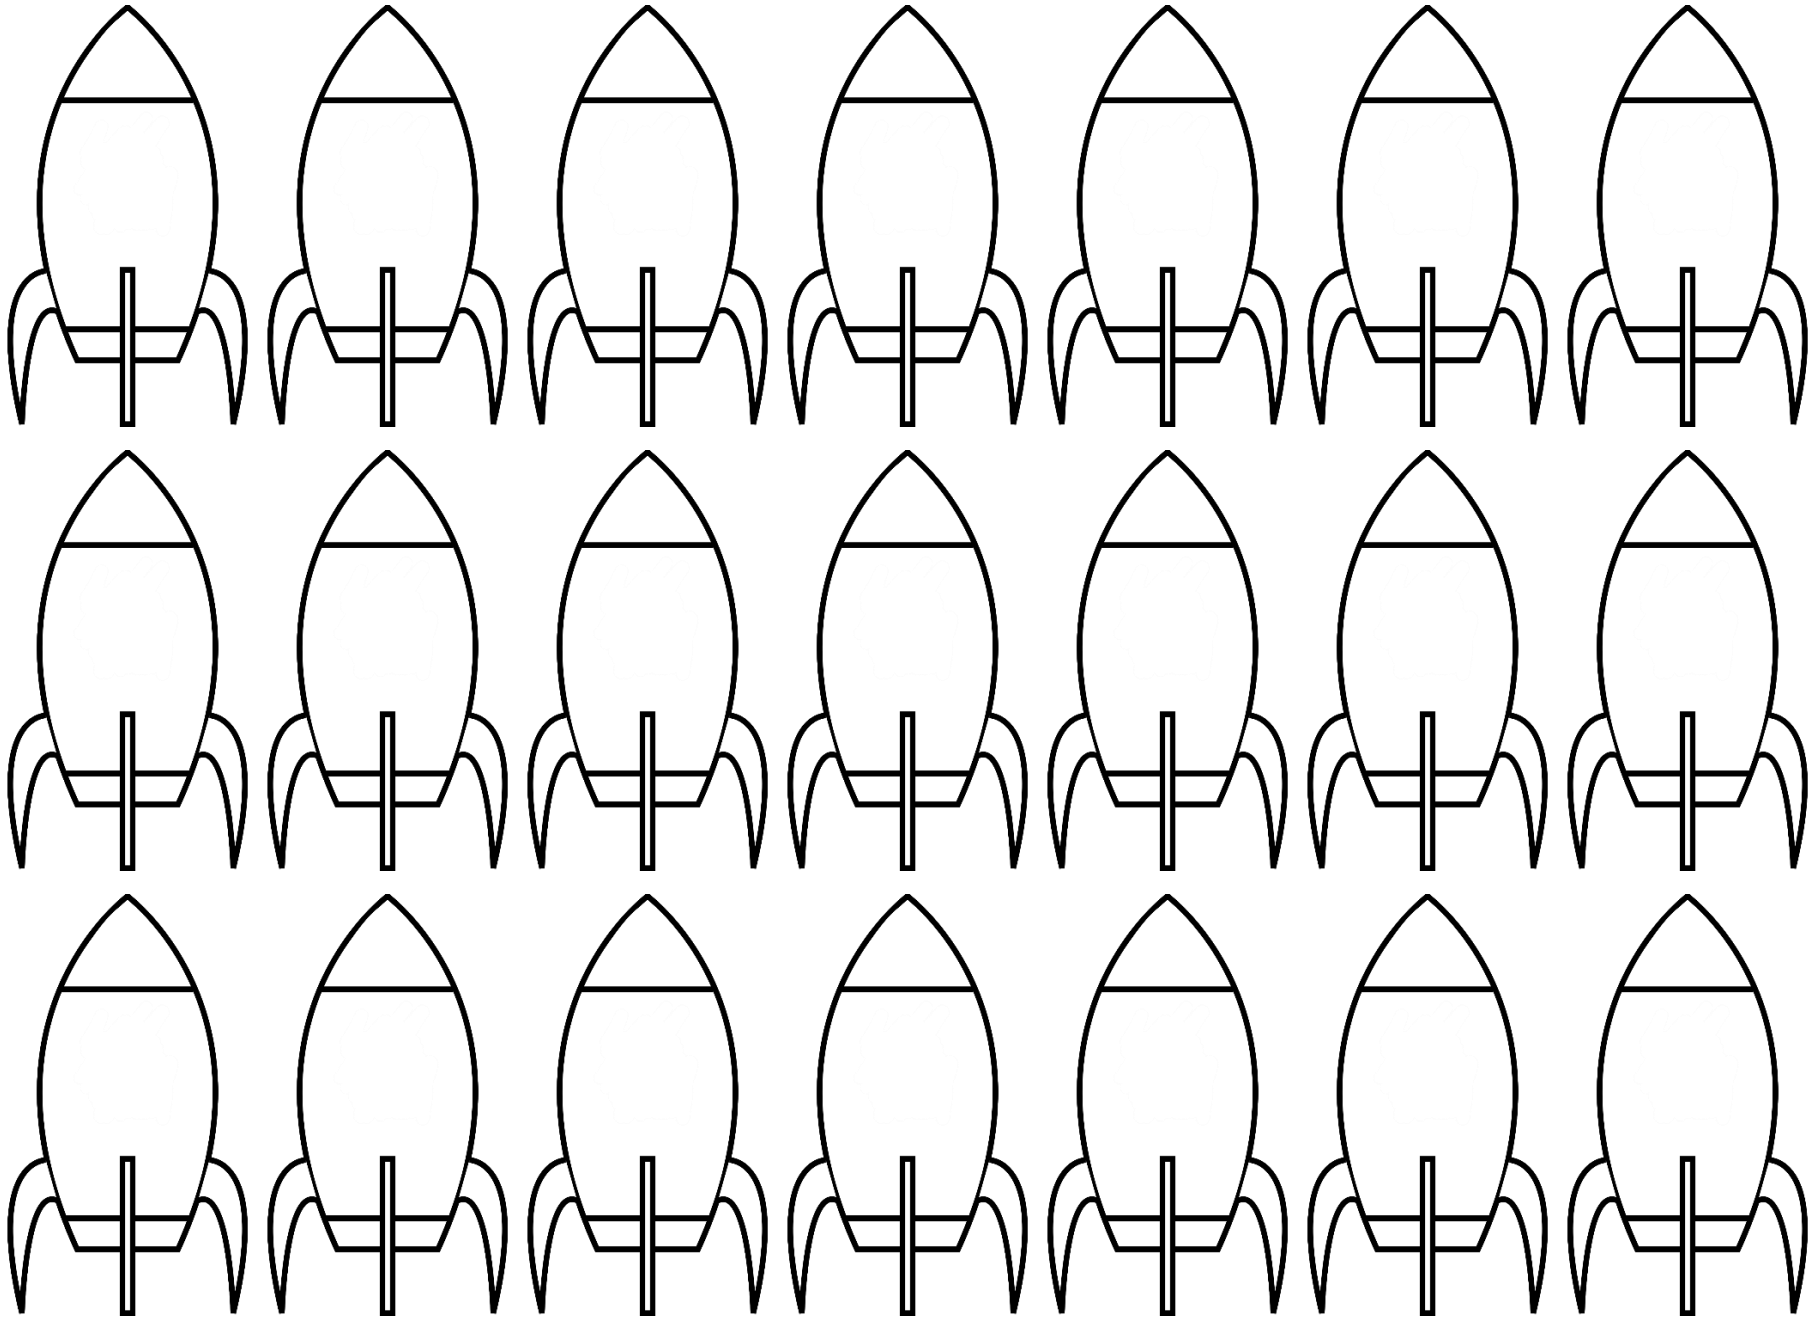

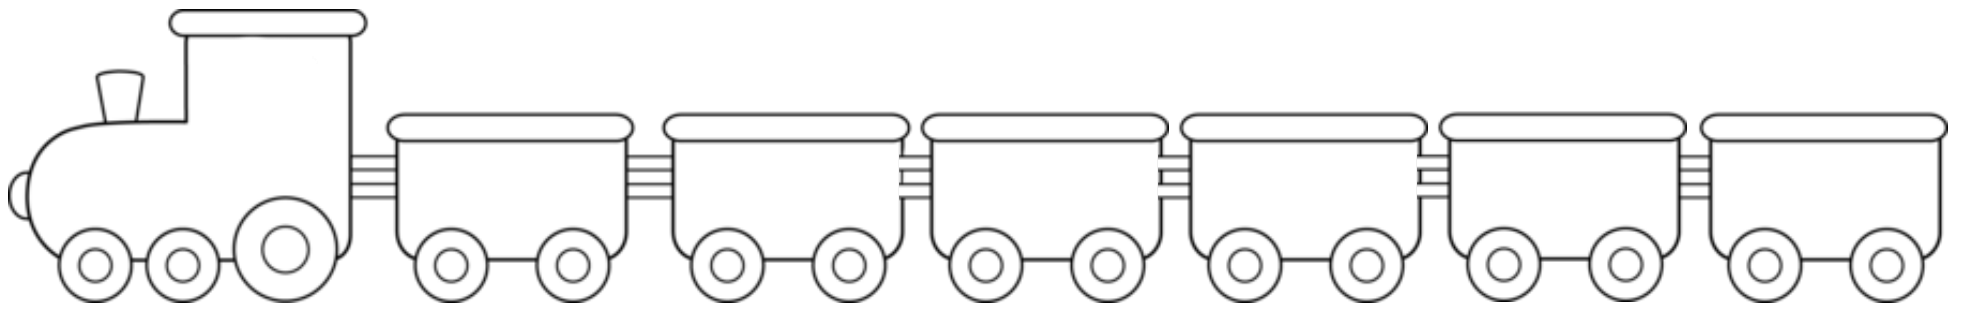

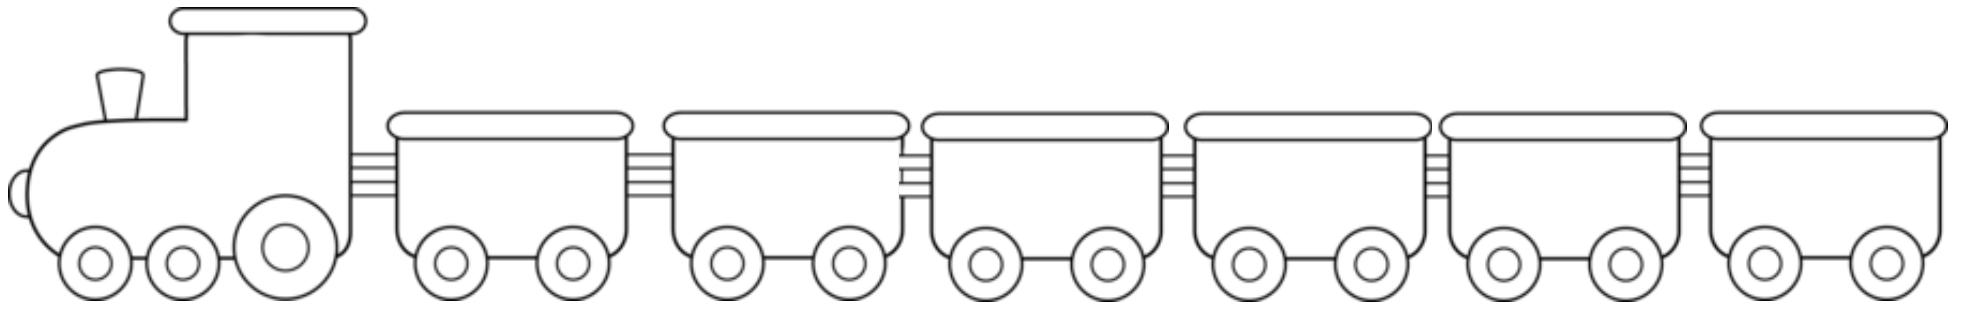

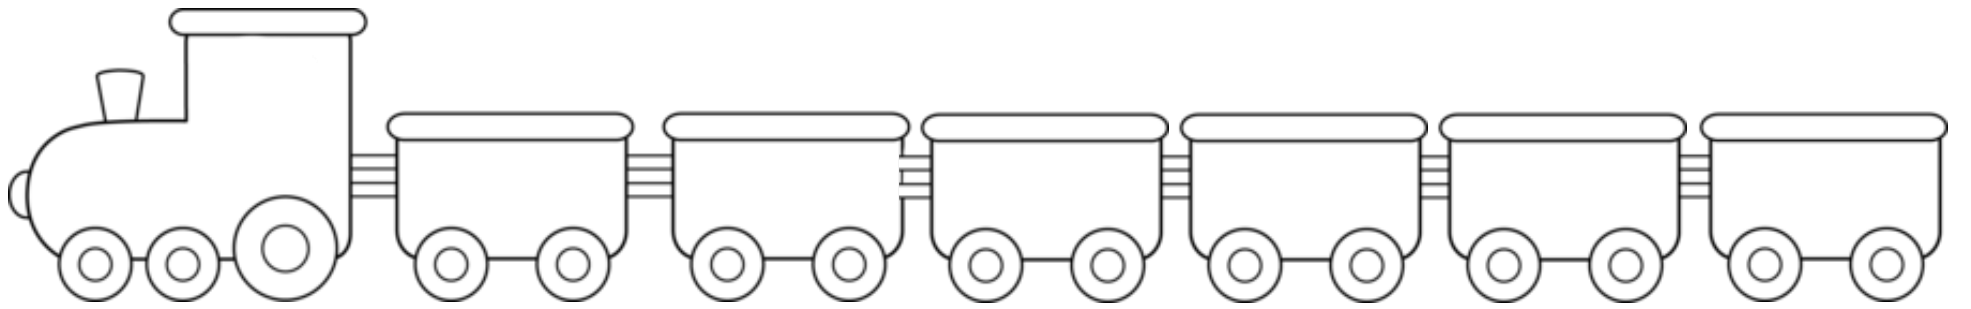

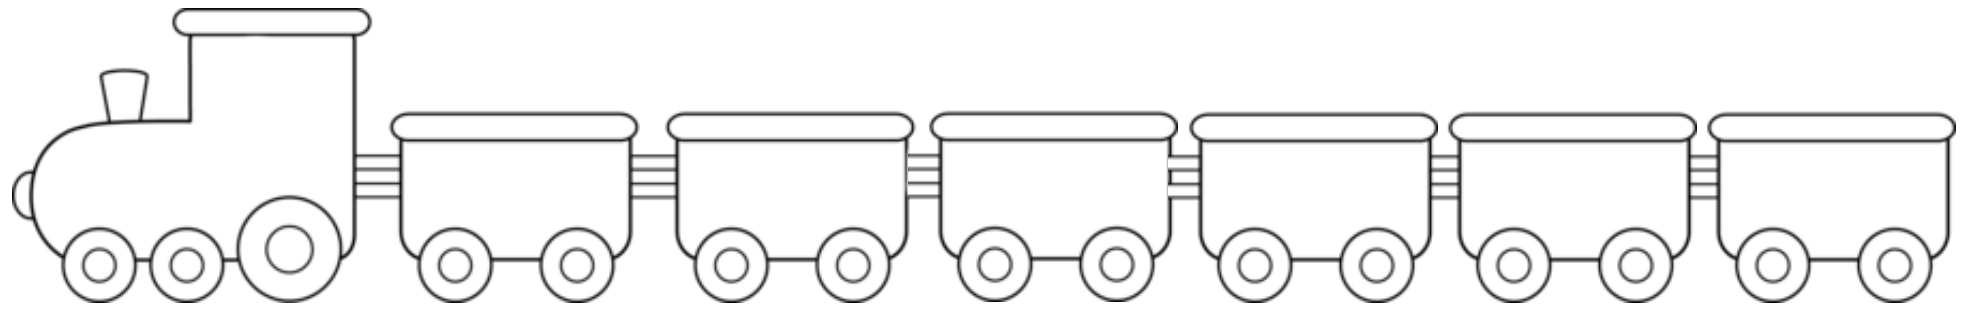

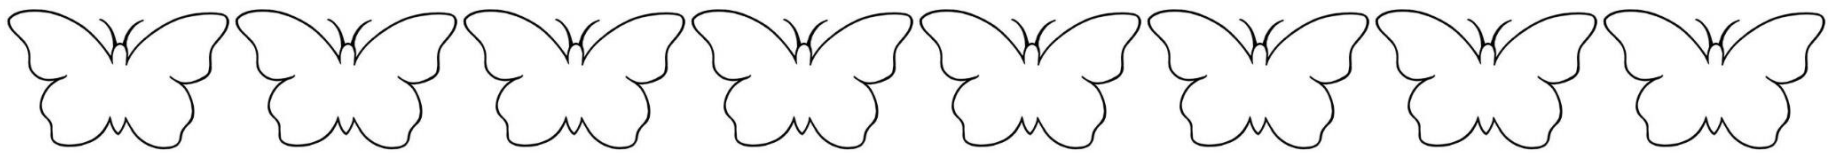

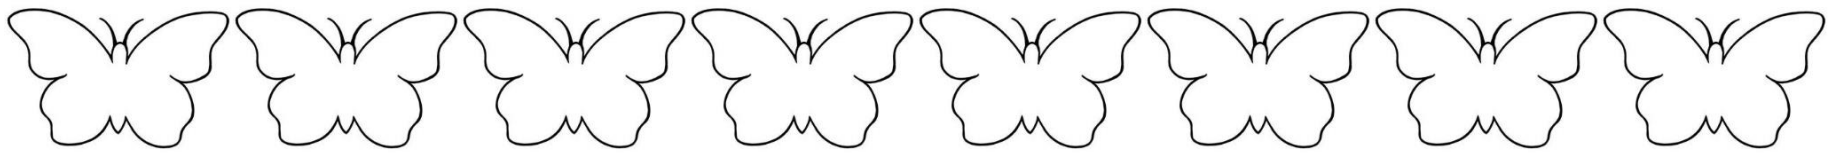

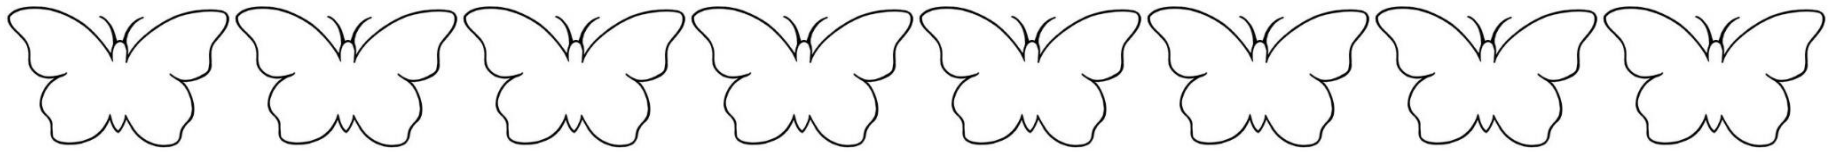

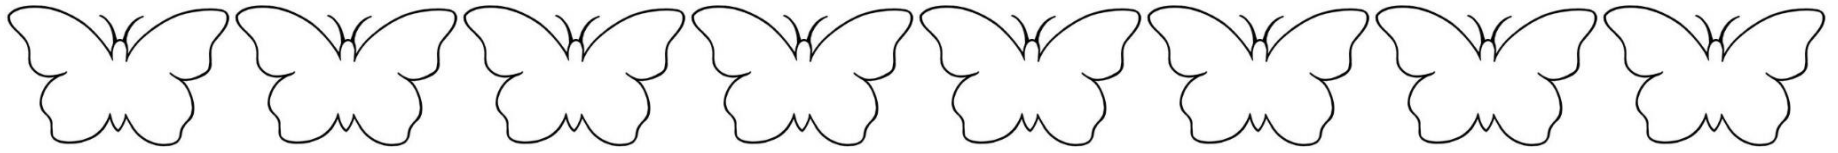

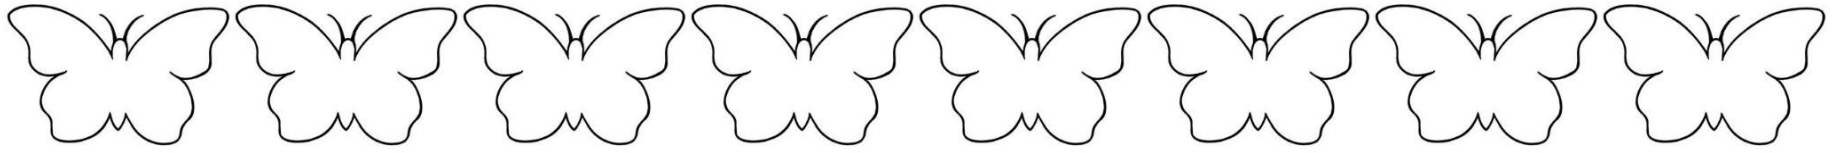

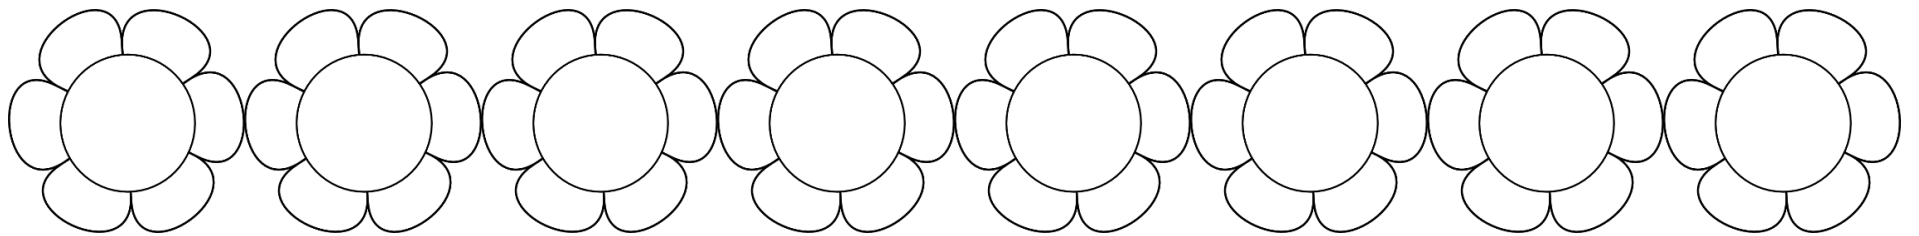

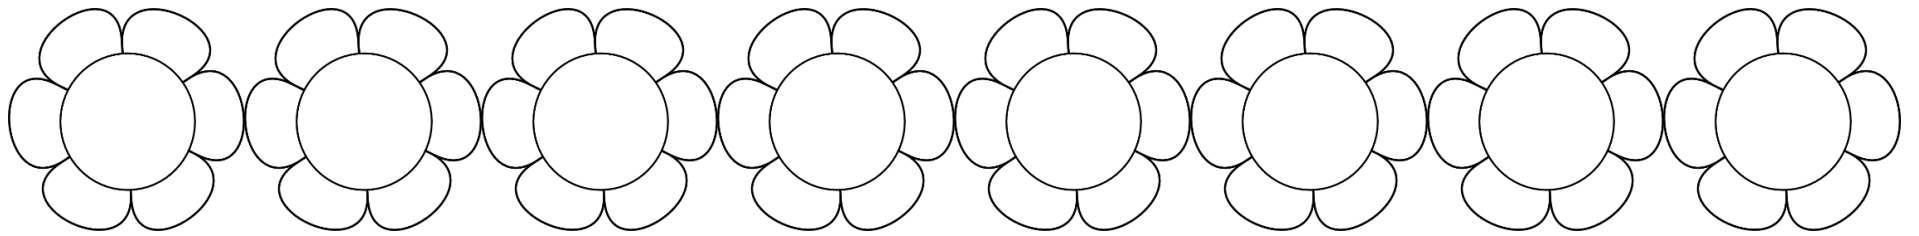

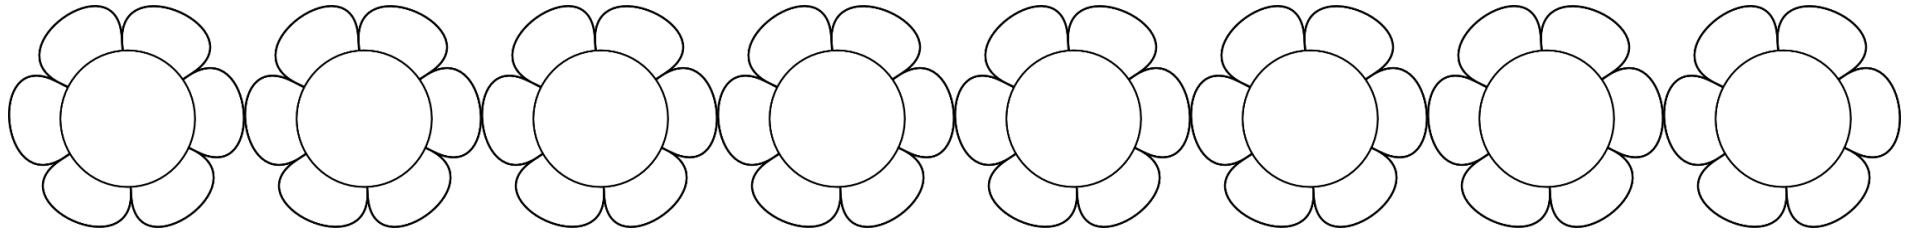

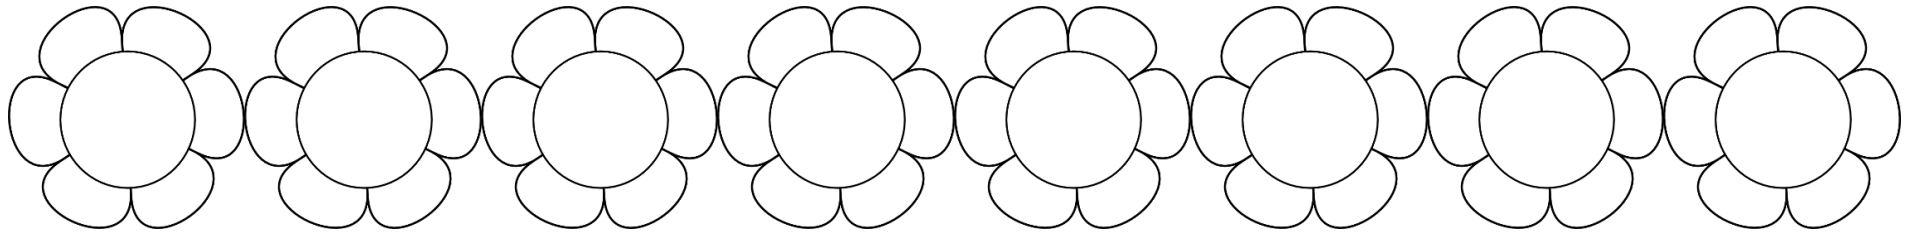

--	--	--	--	--	--	--

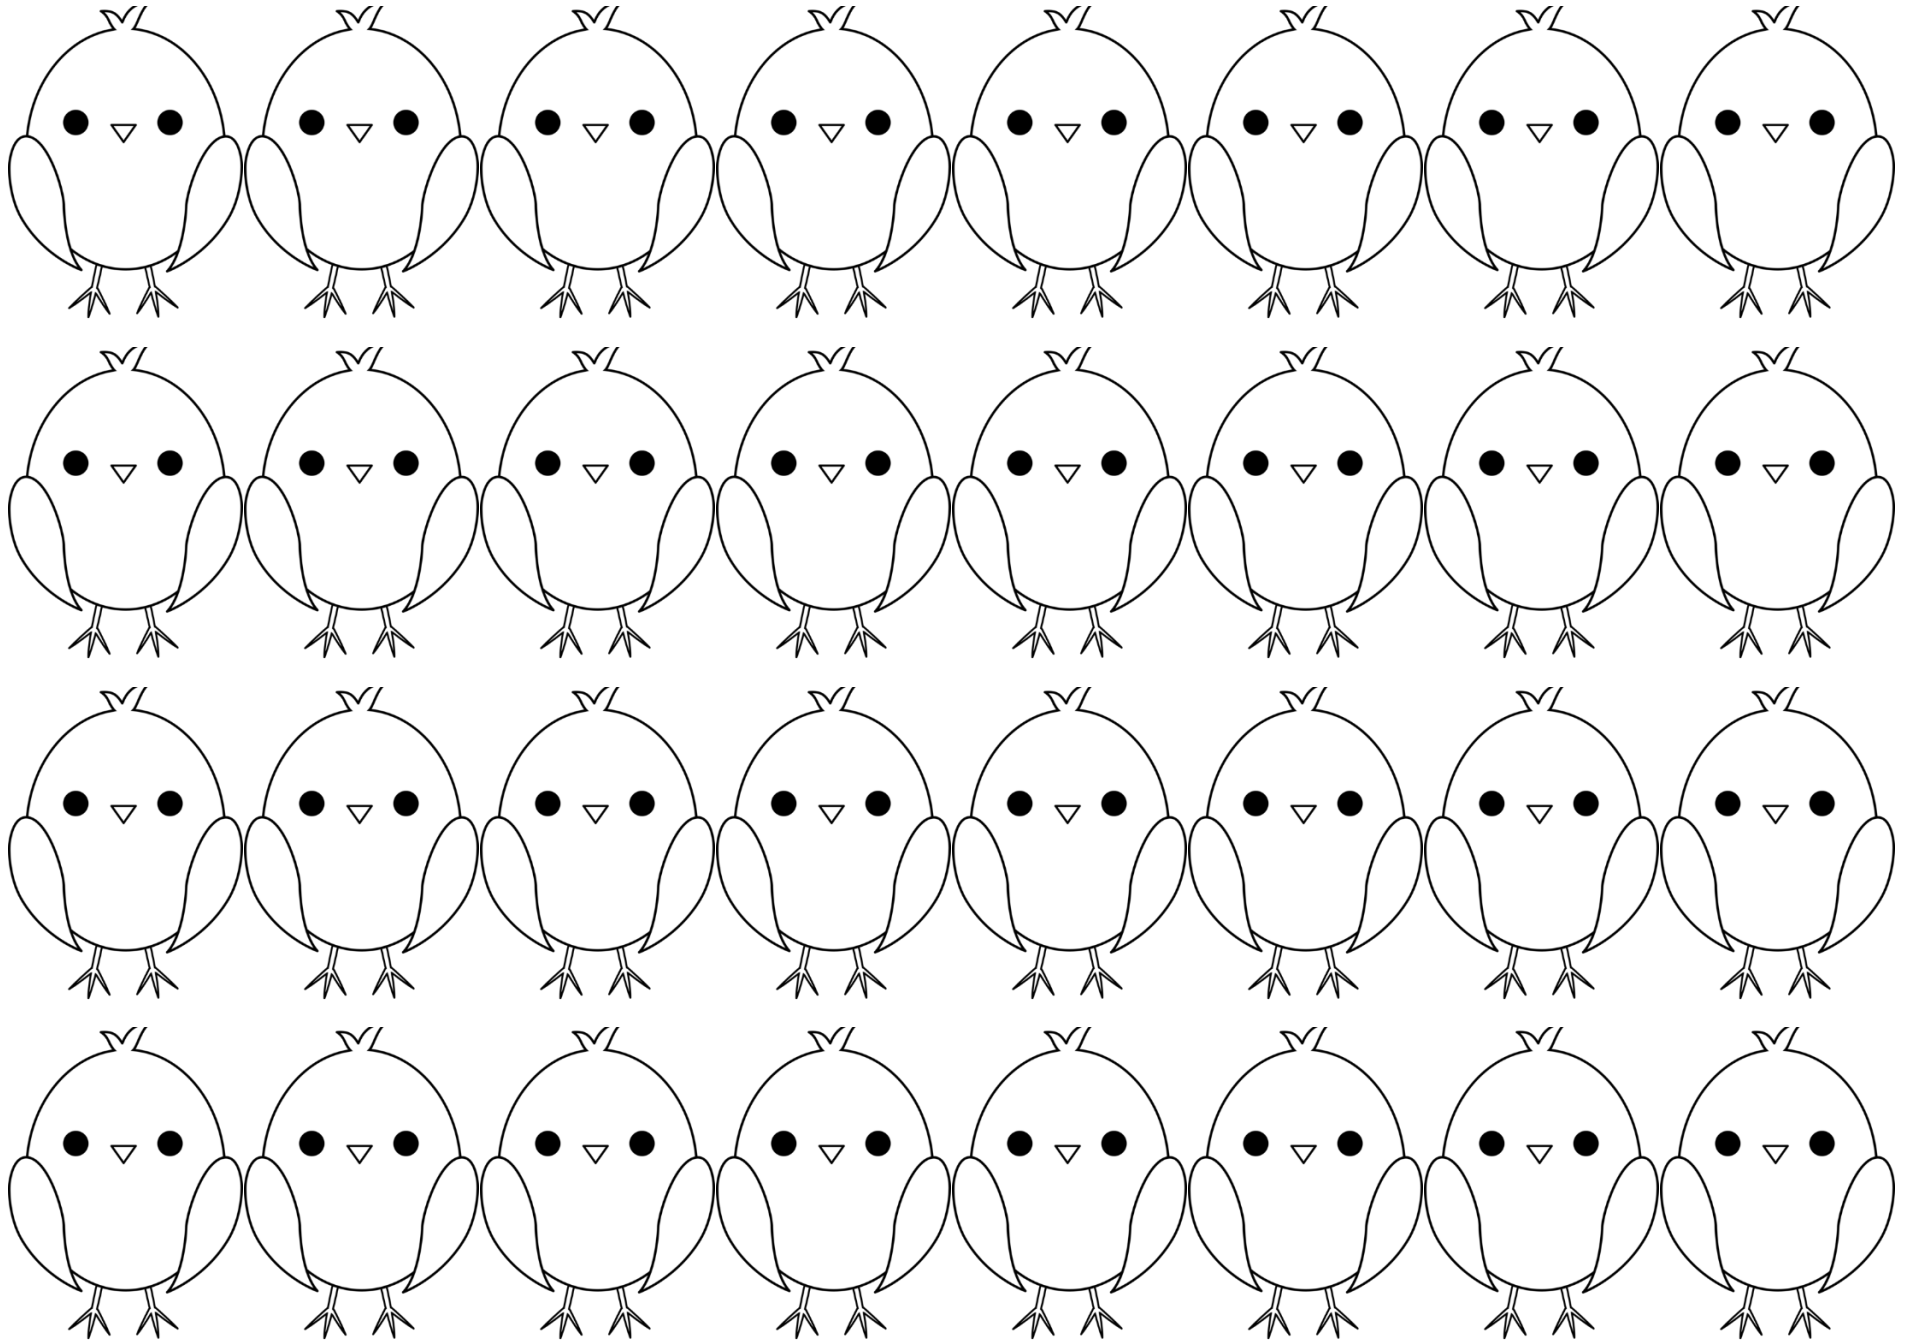

--	--	--	--	--	--	--

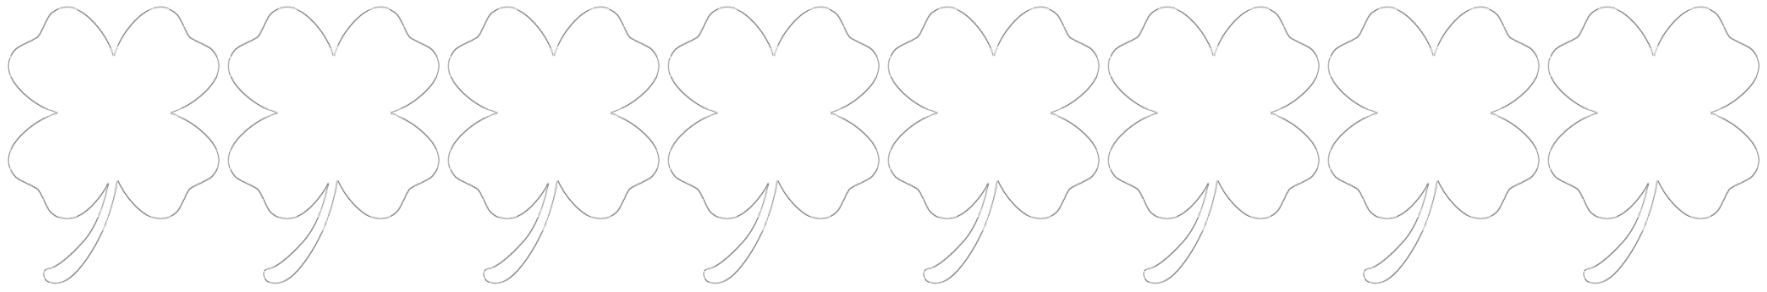

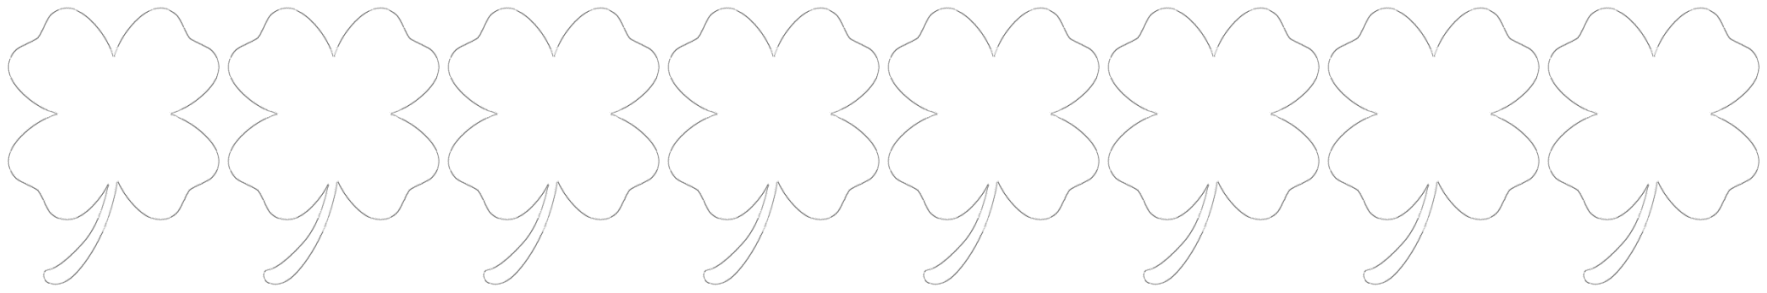

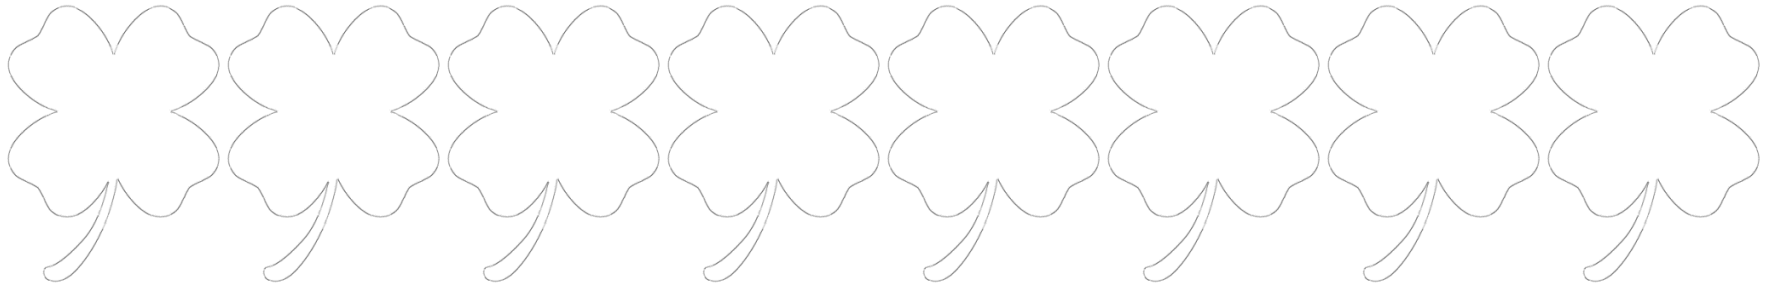

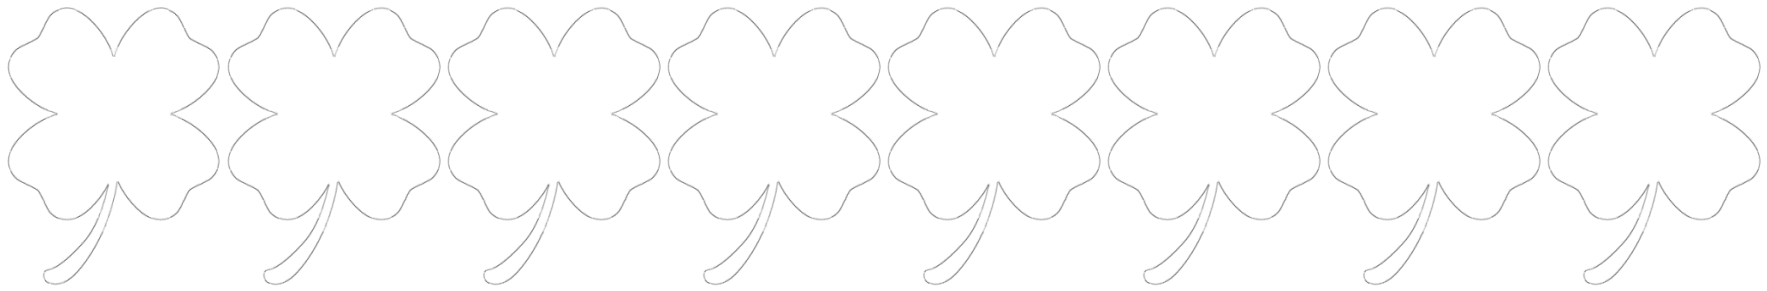

--	--	--	--	--	--	--

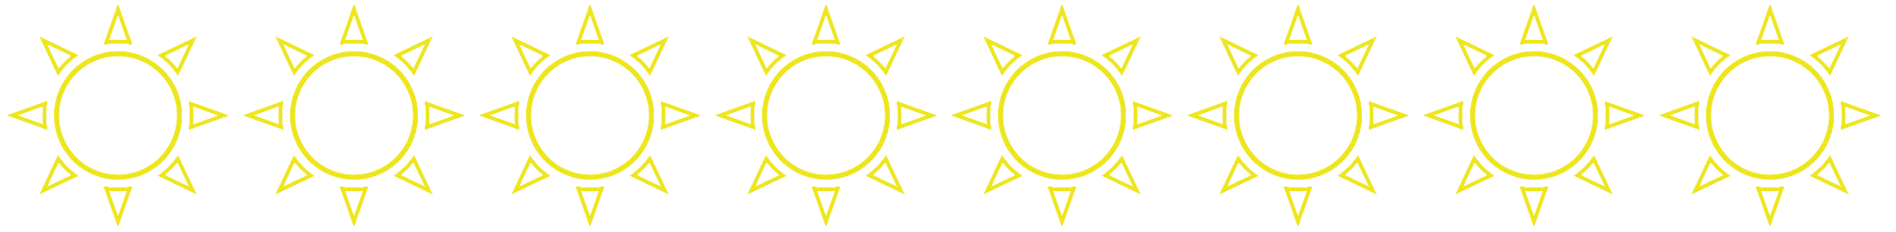

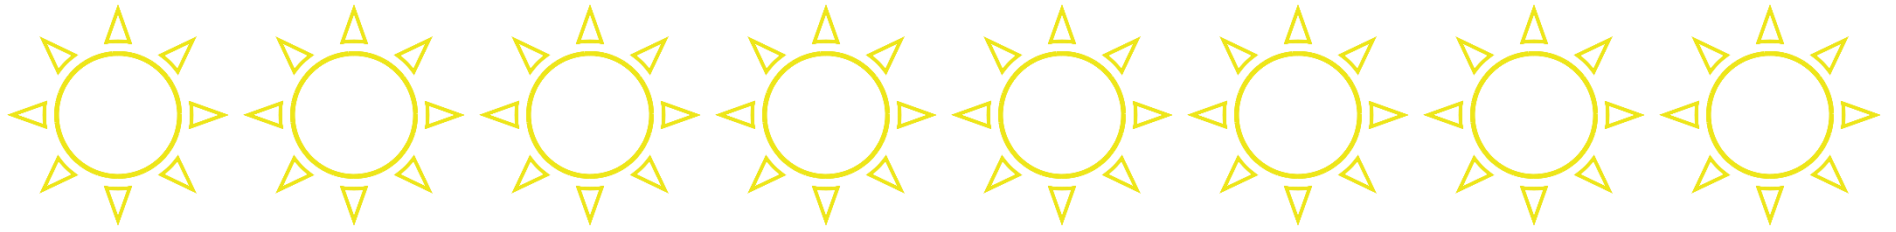

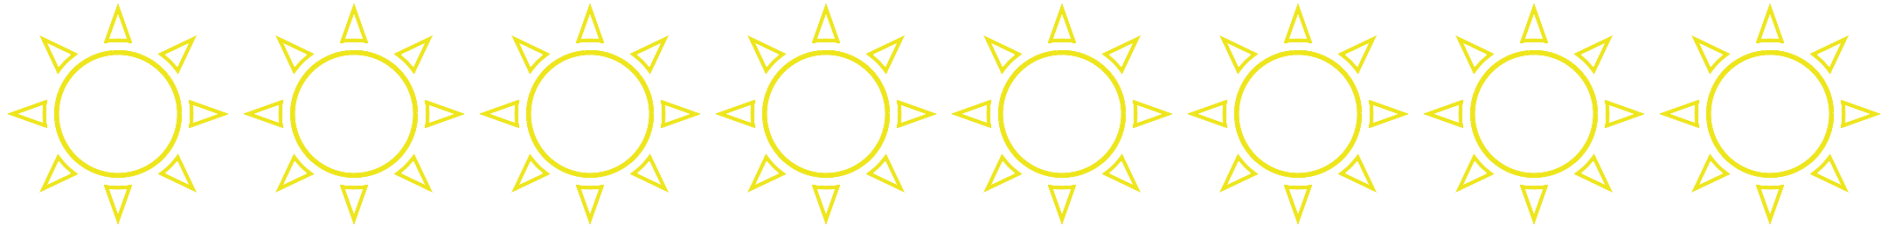

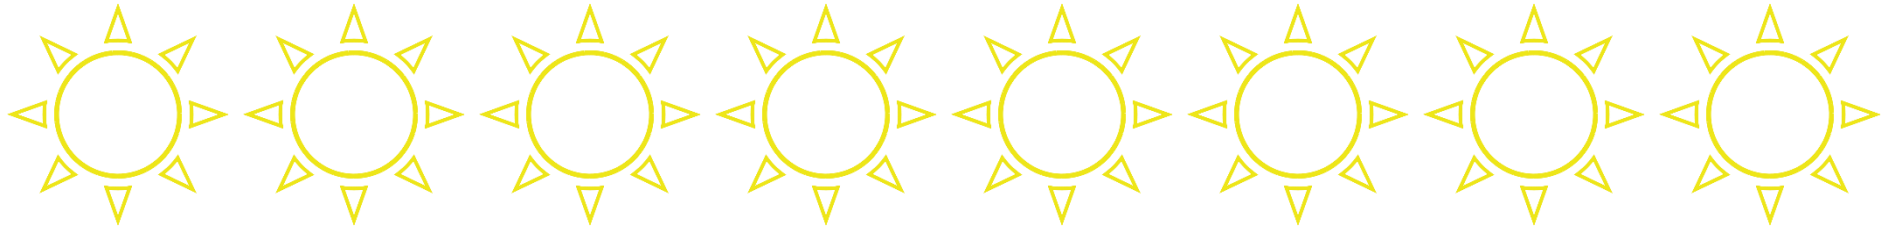

--	--	--	--	--	--	--

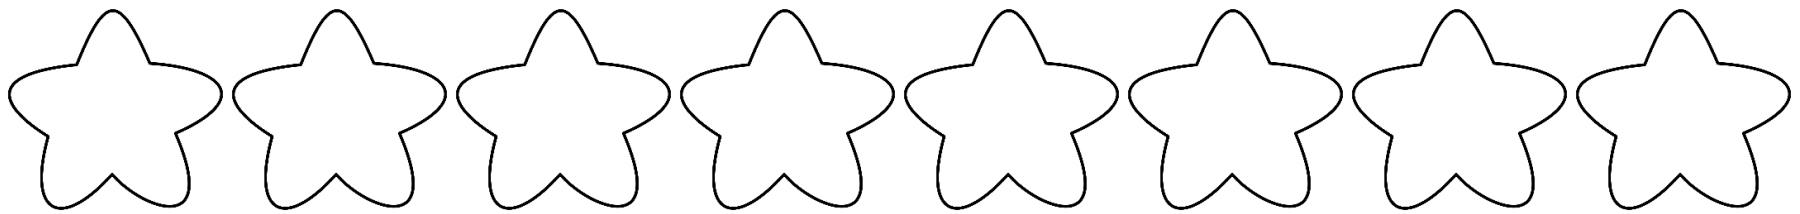

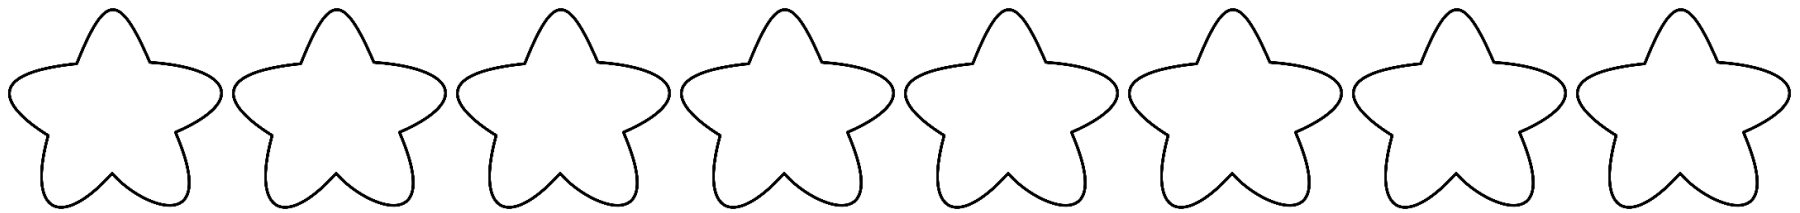

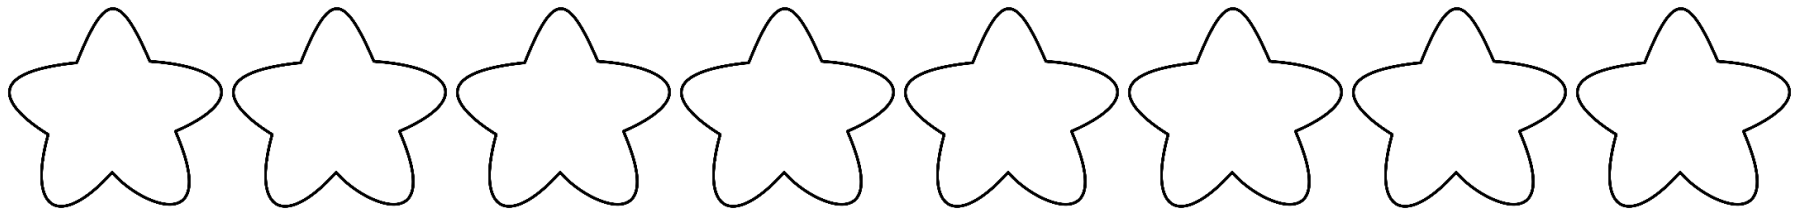

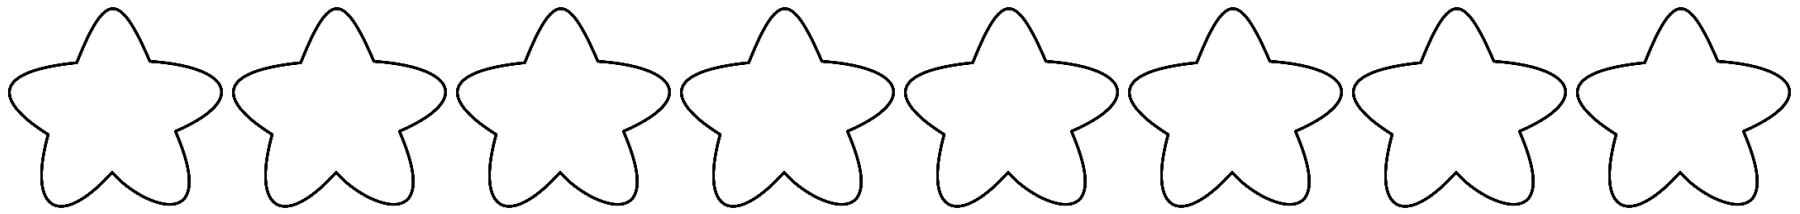

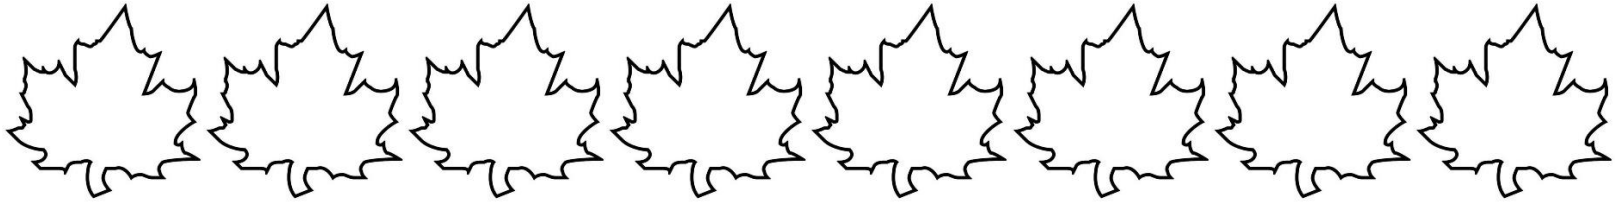

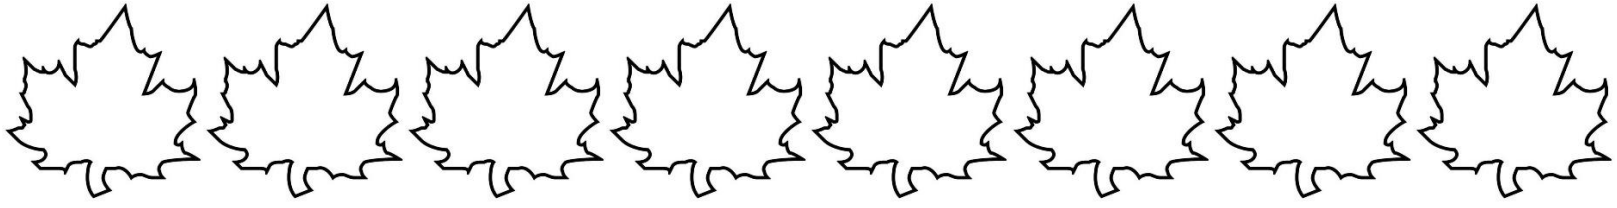

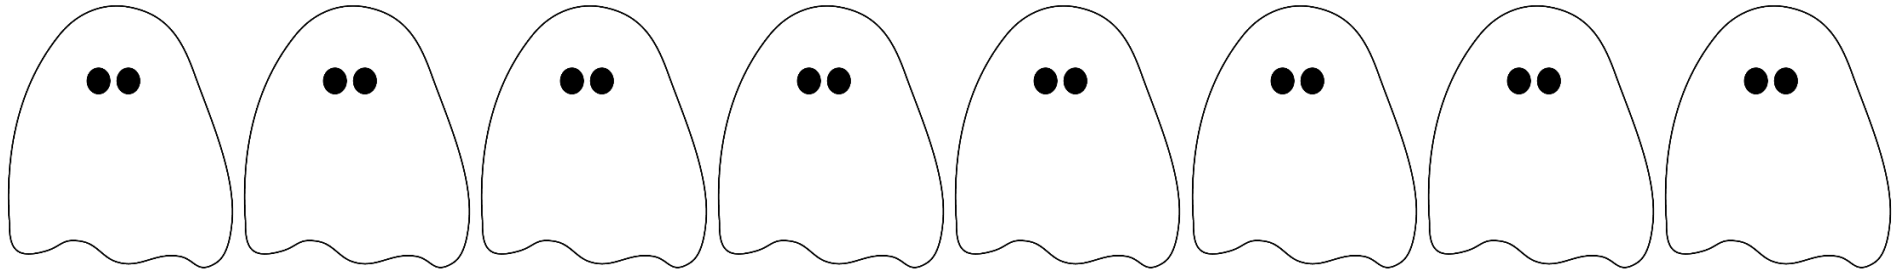

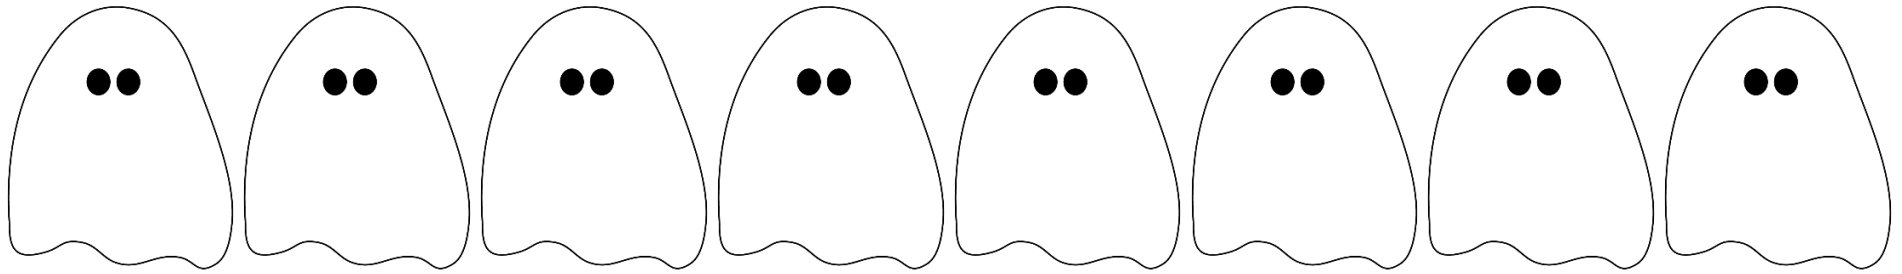

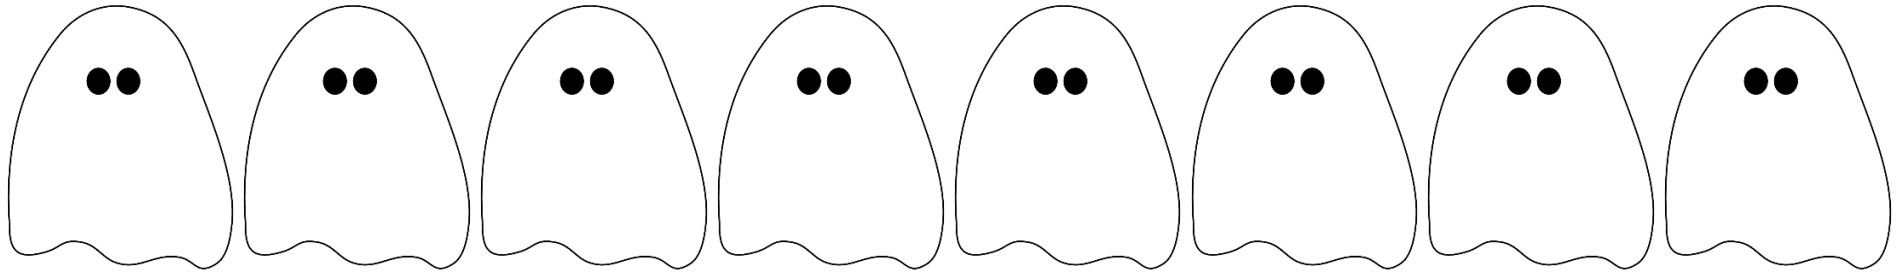

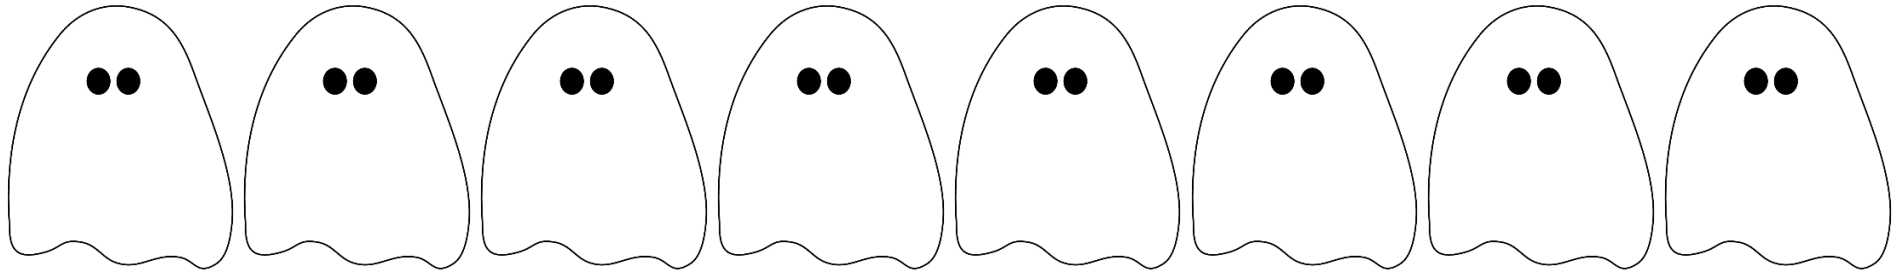

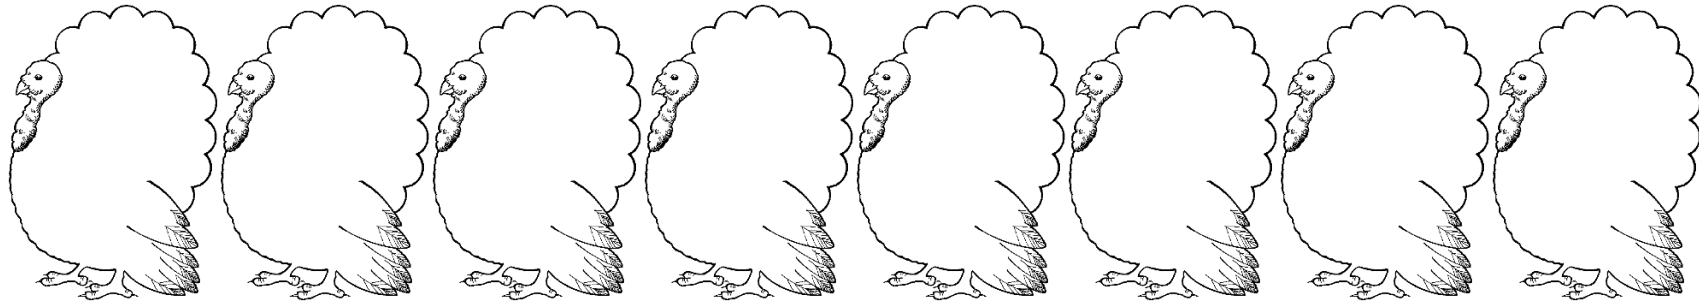

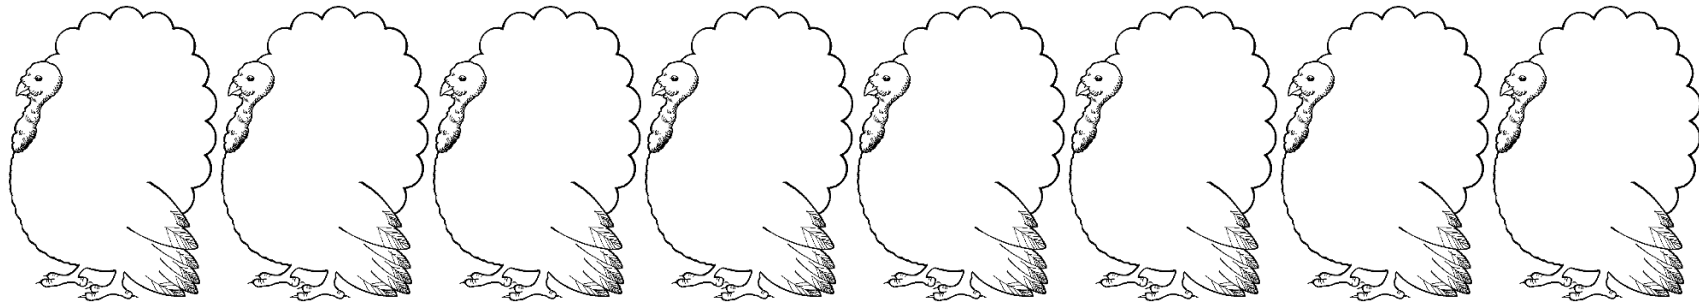

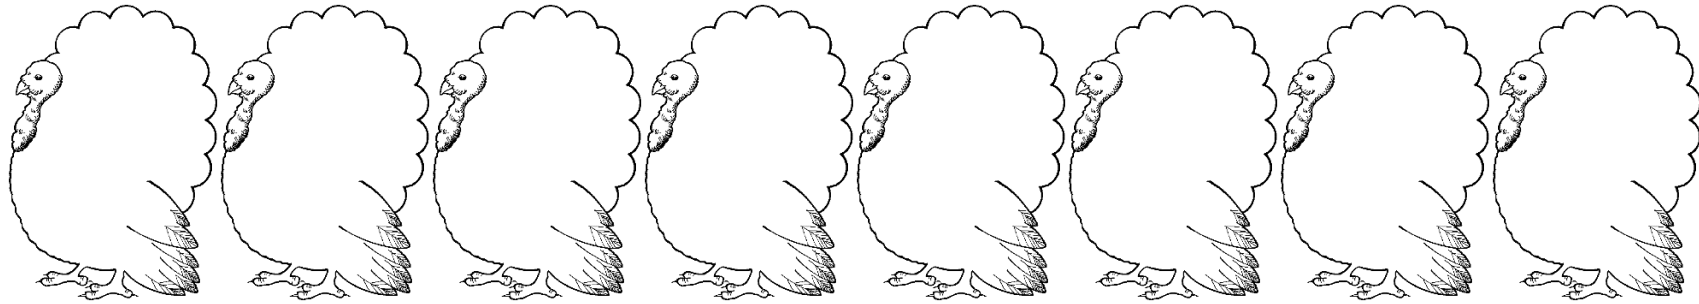

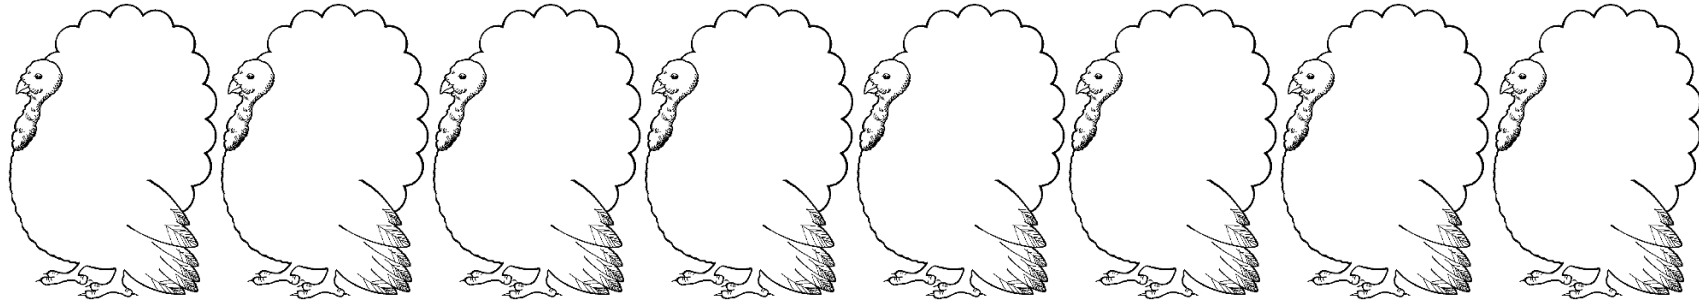

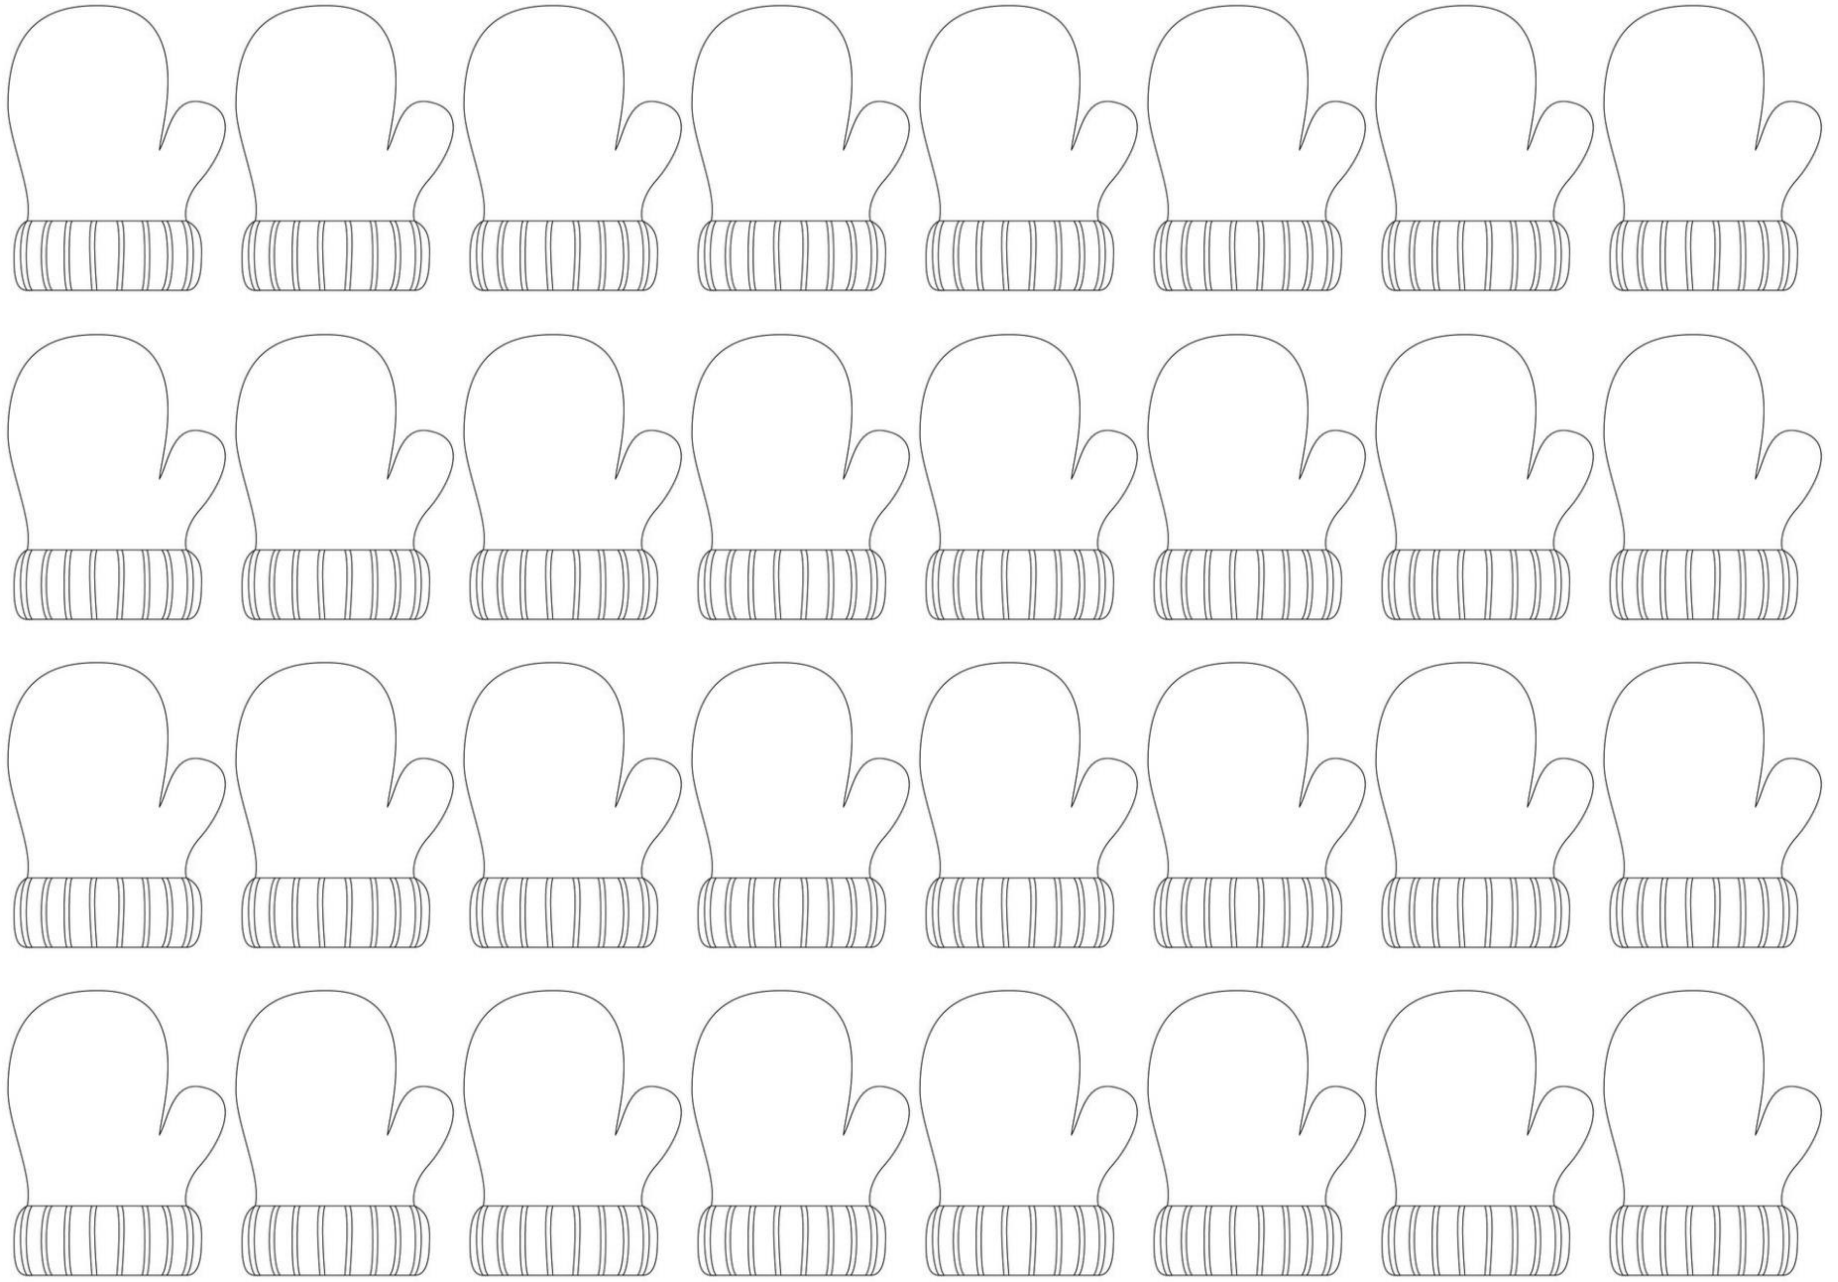

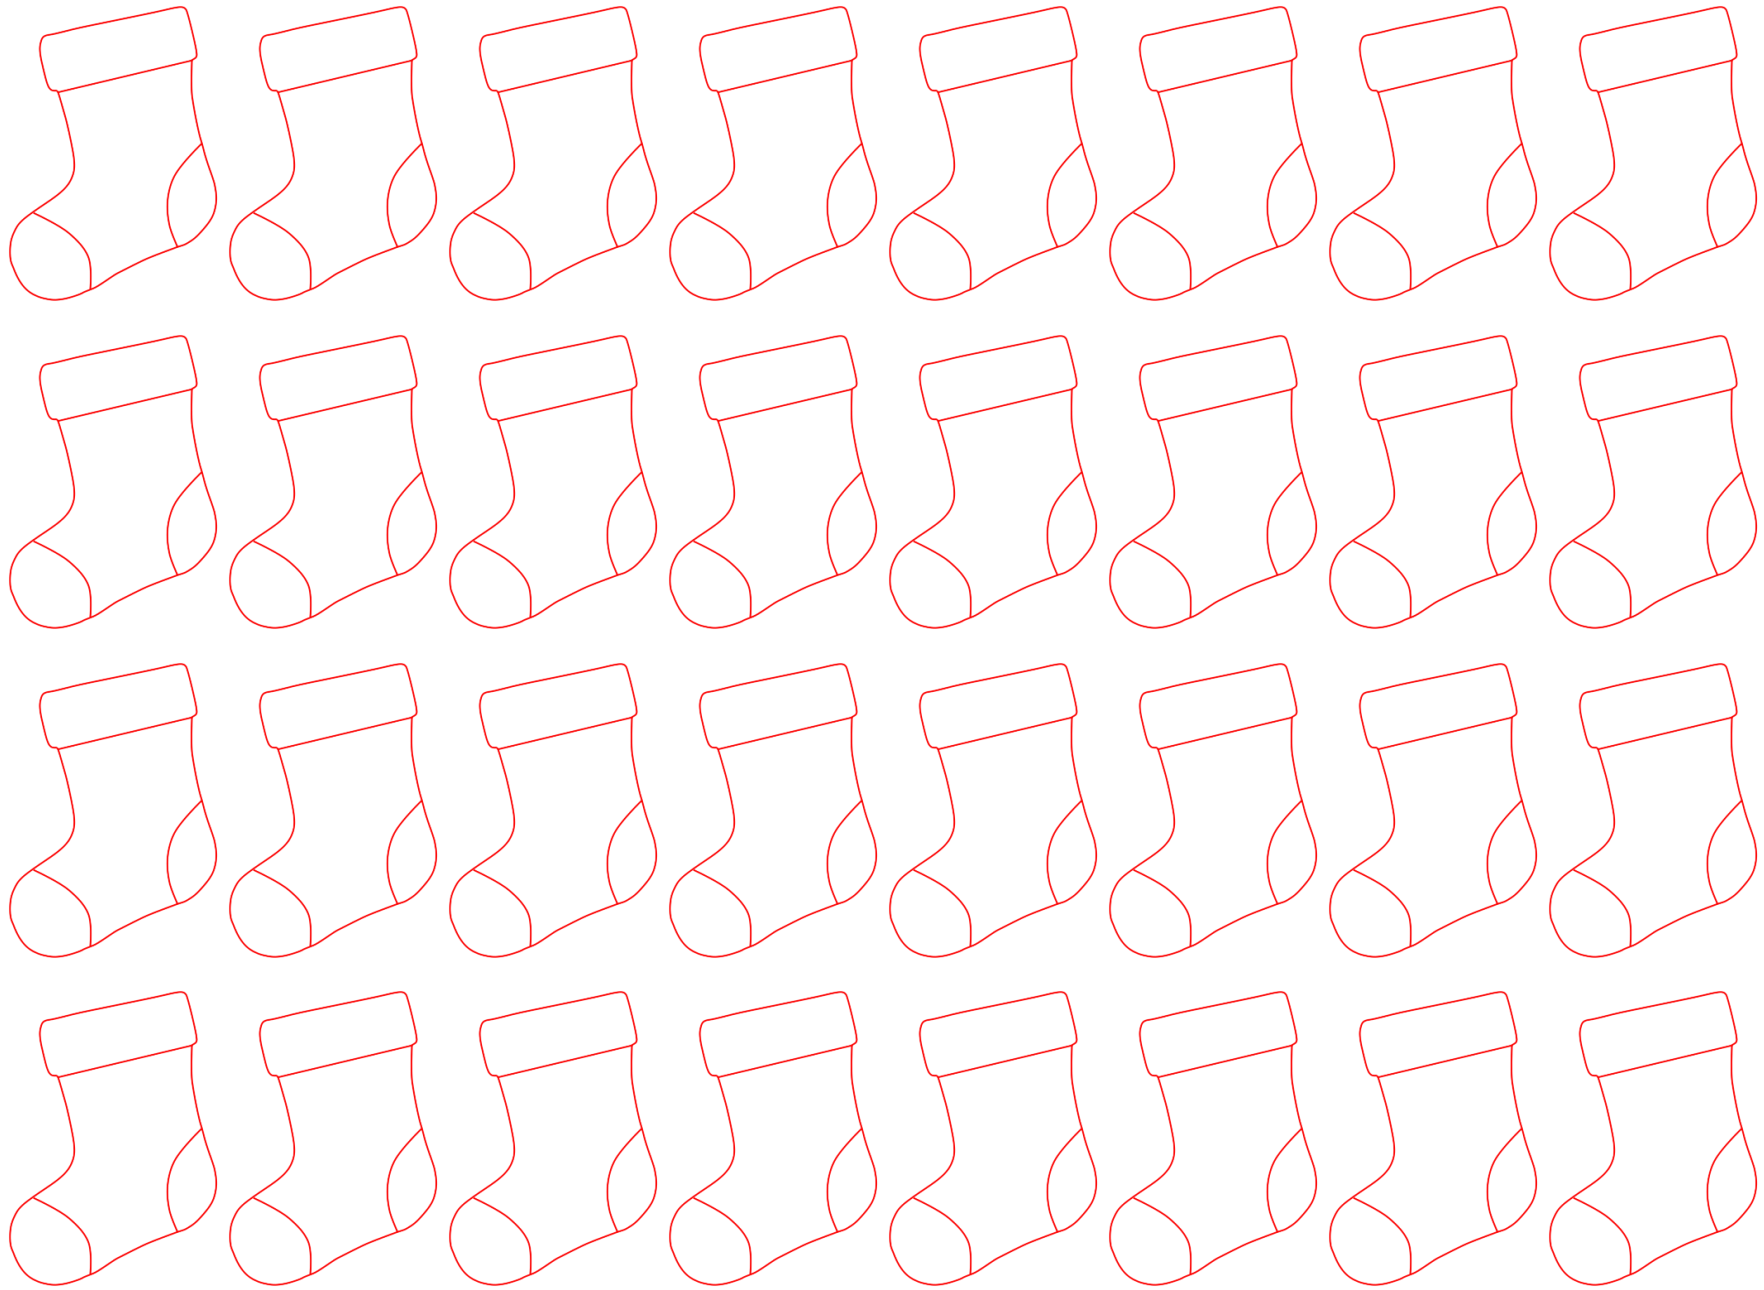

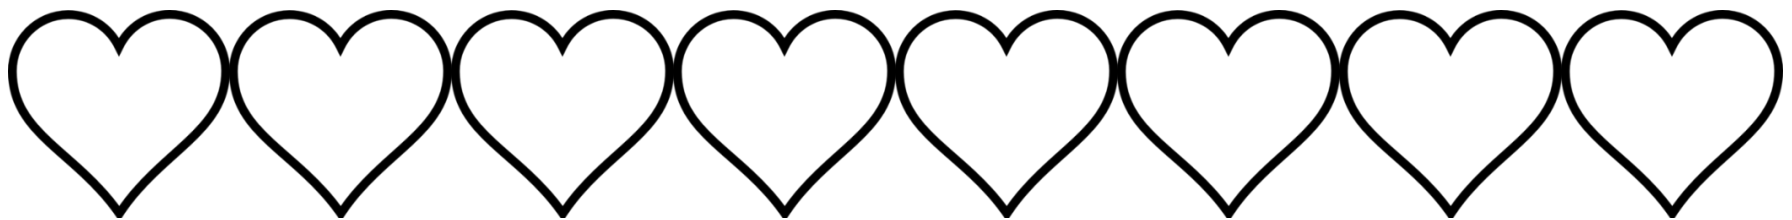

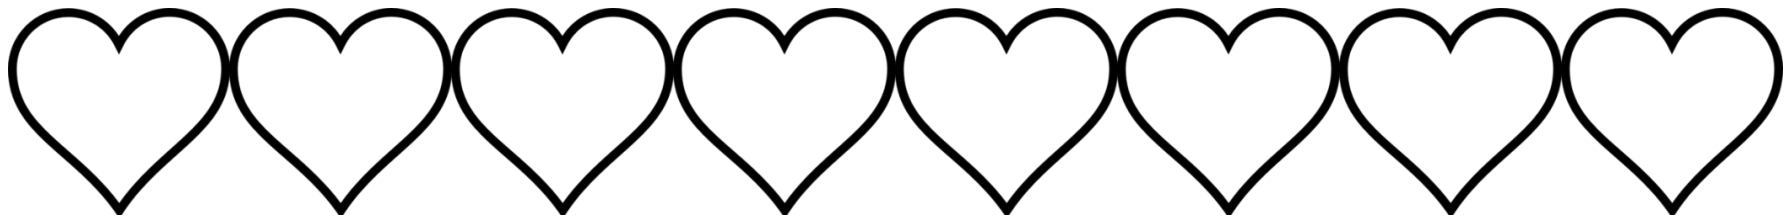

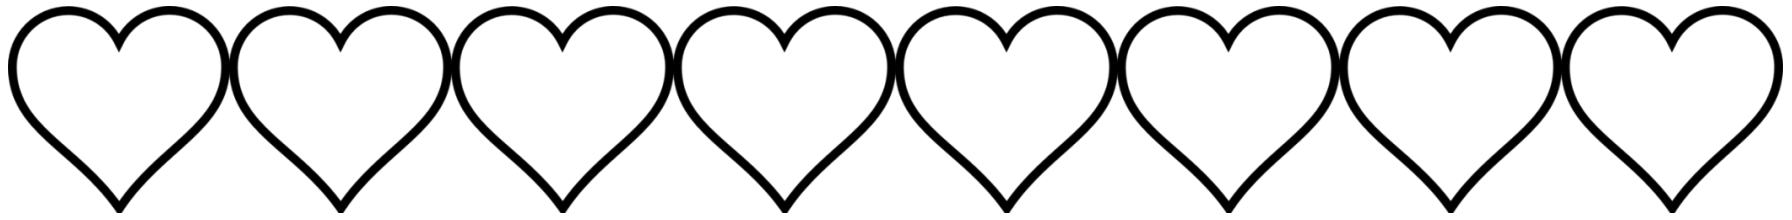

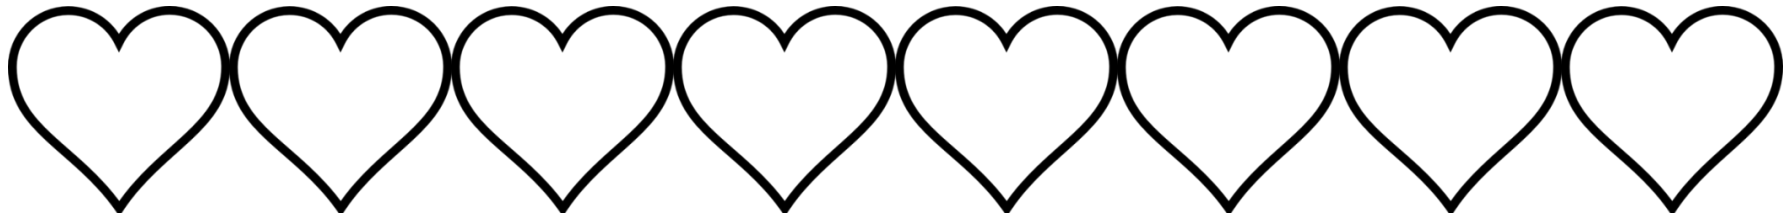

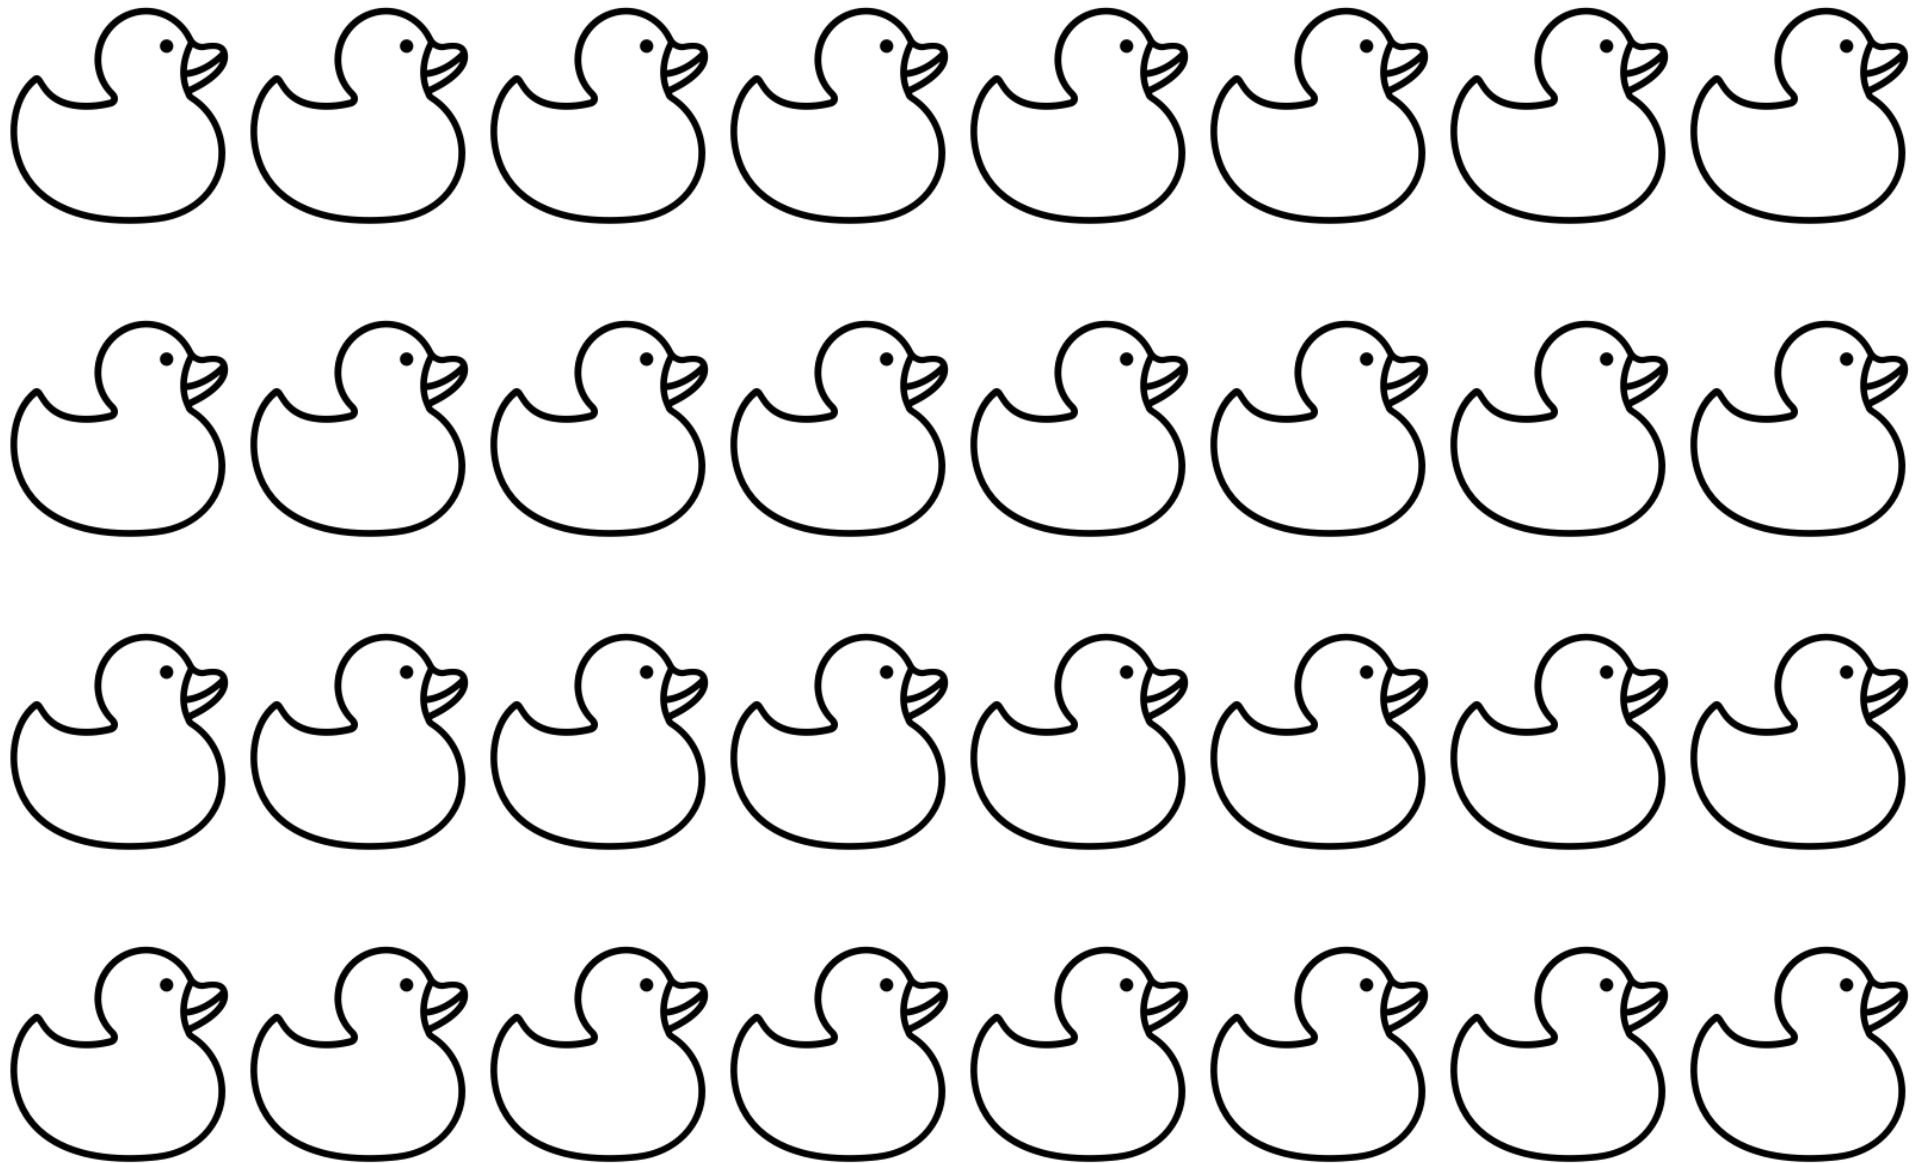

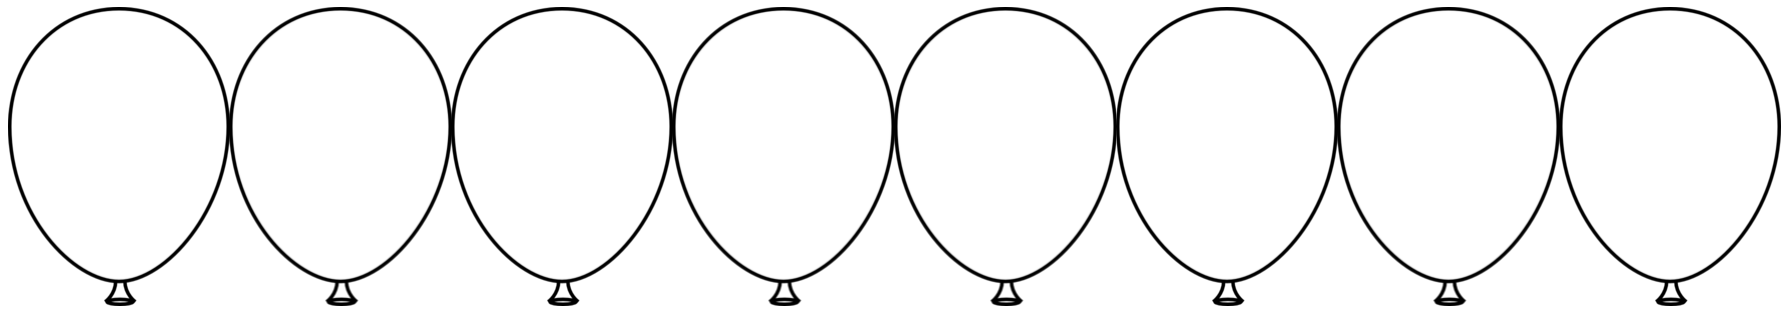

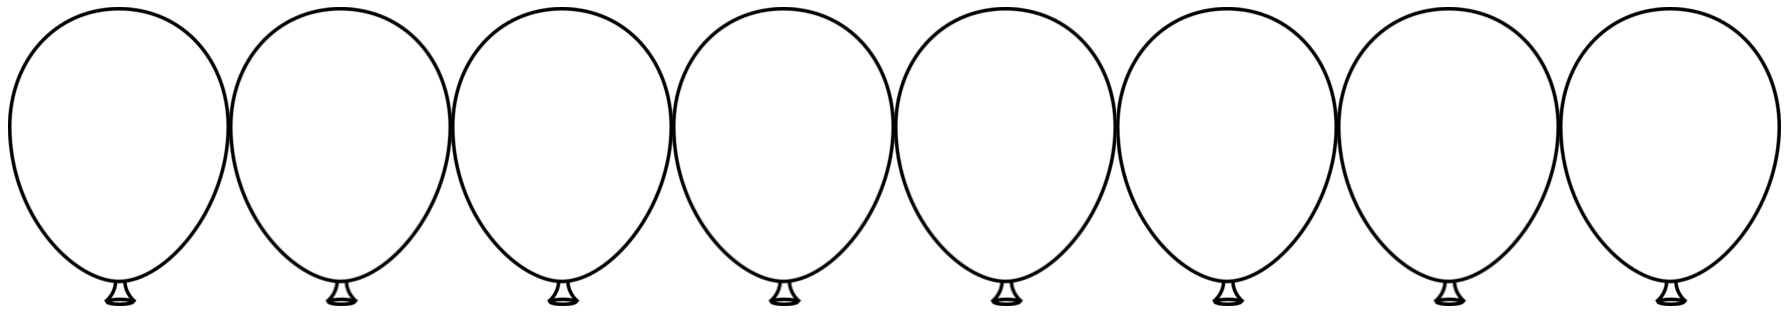

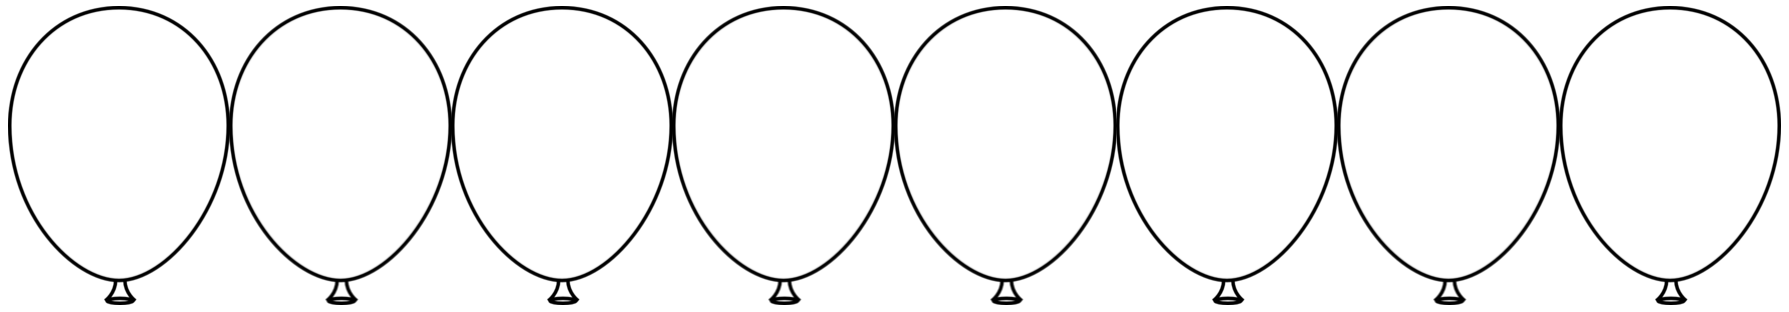

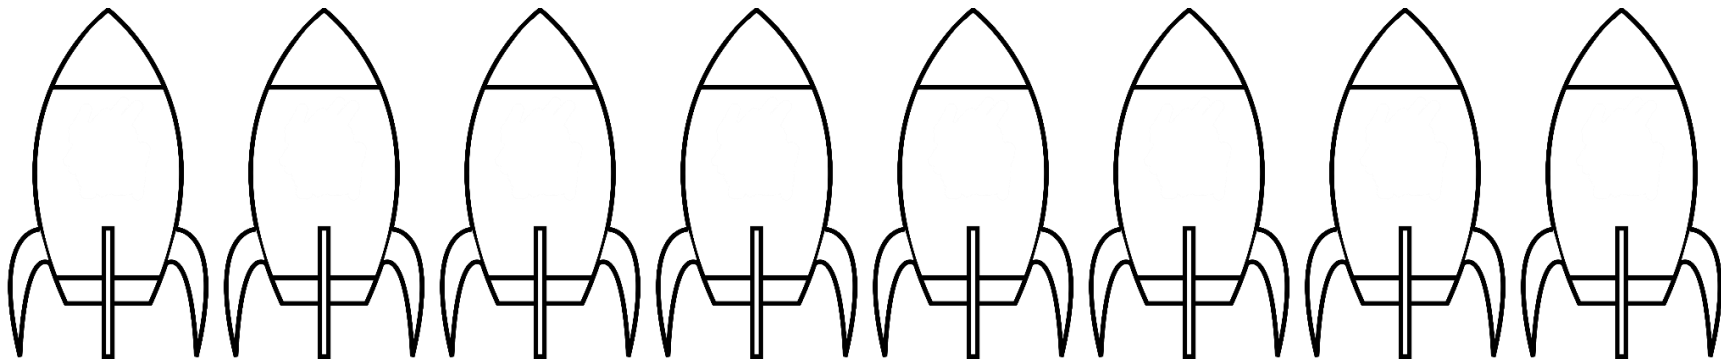

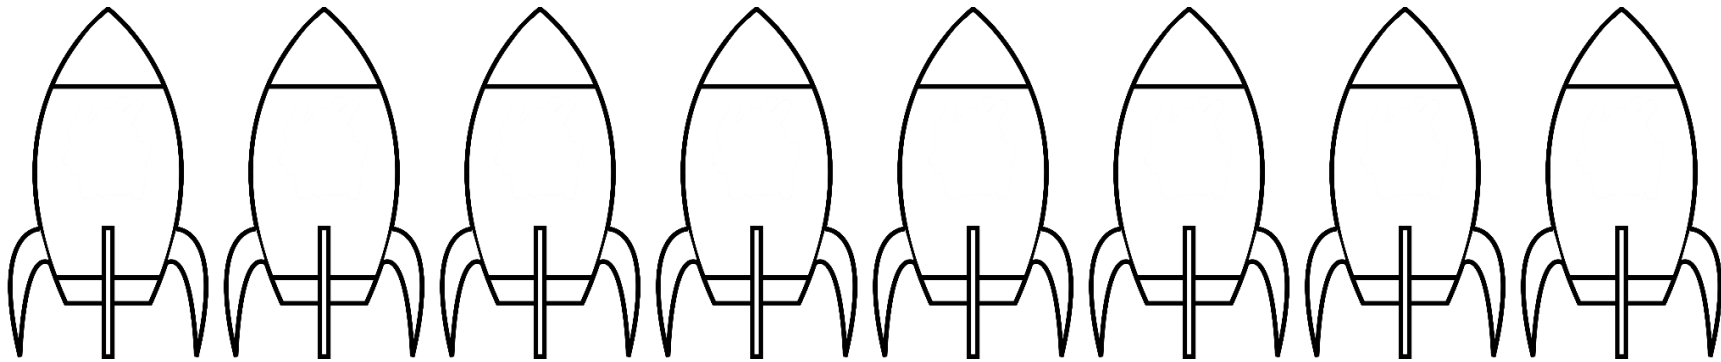

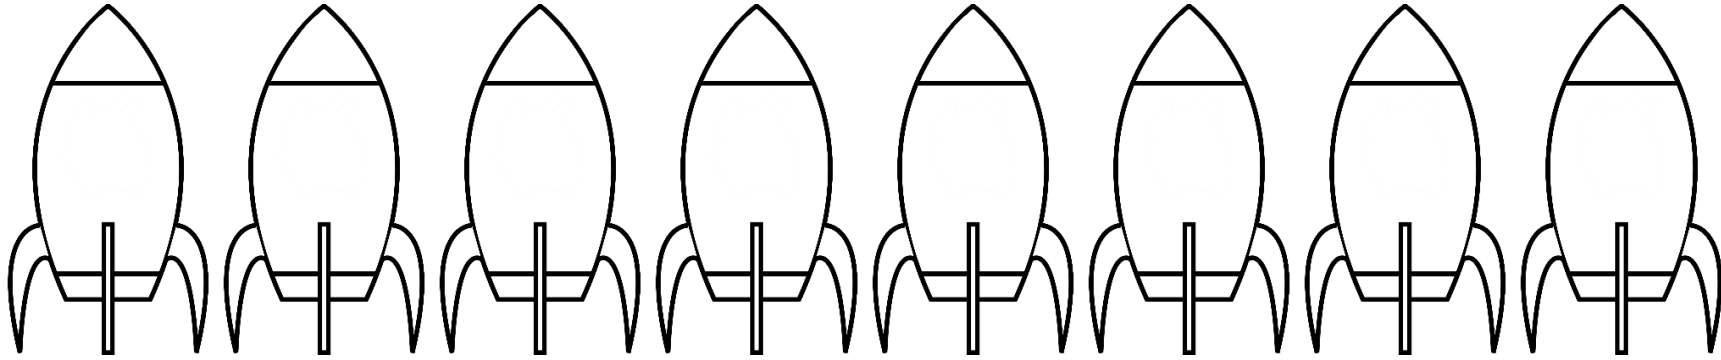

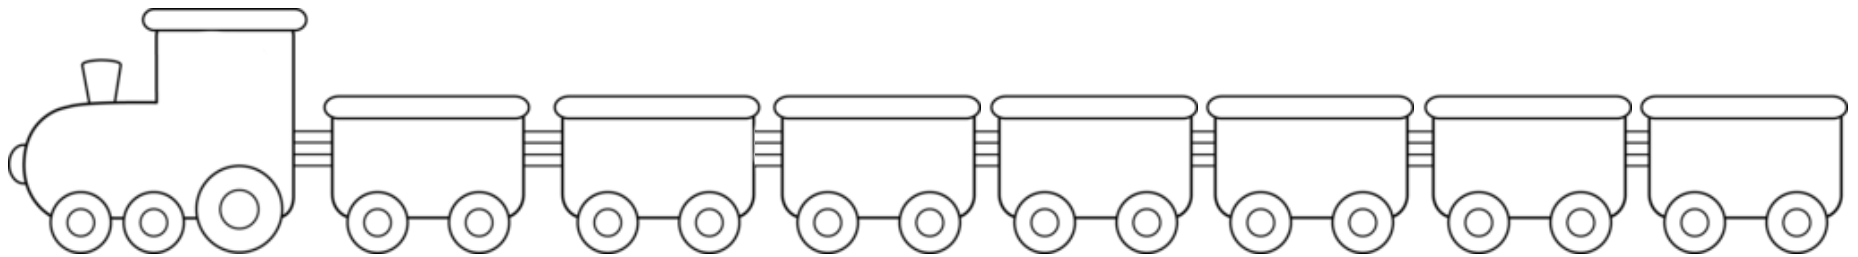

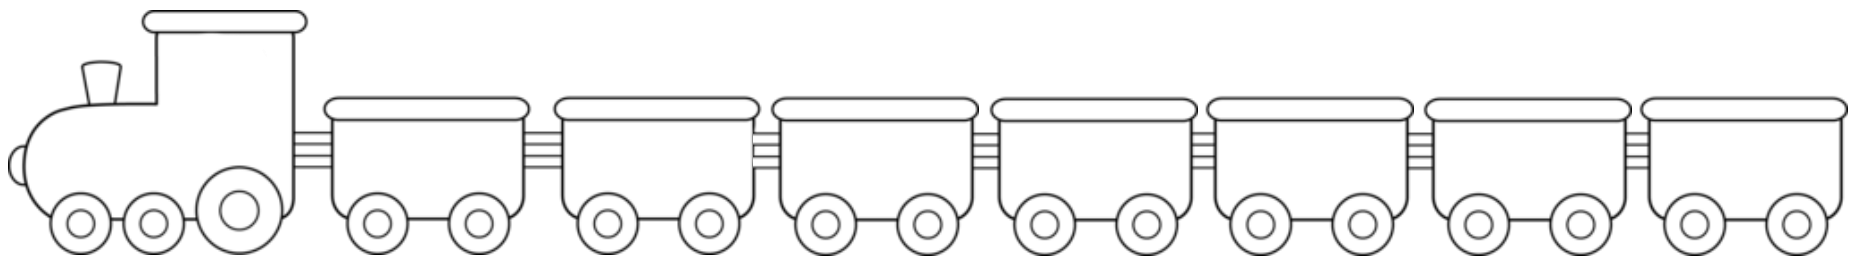

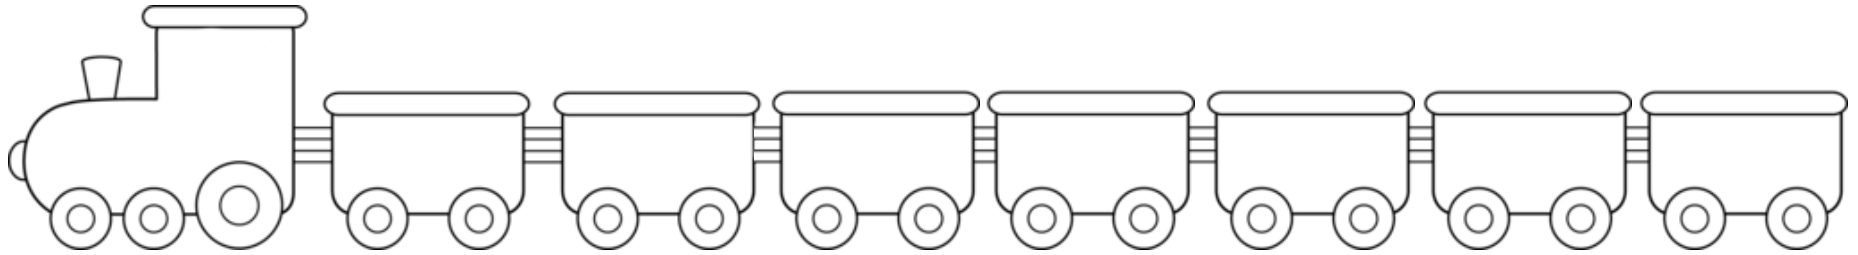

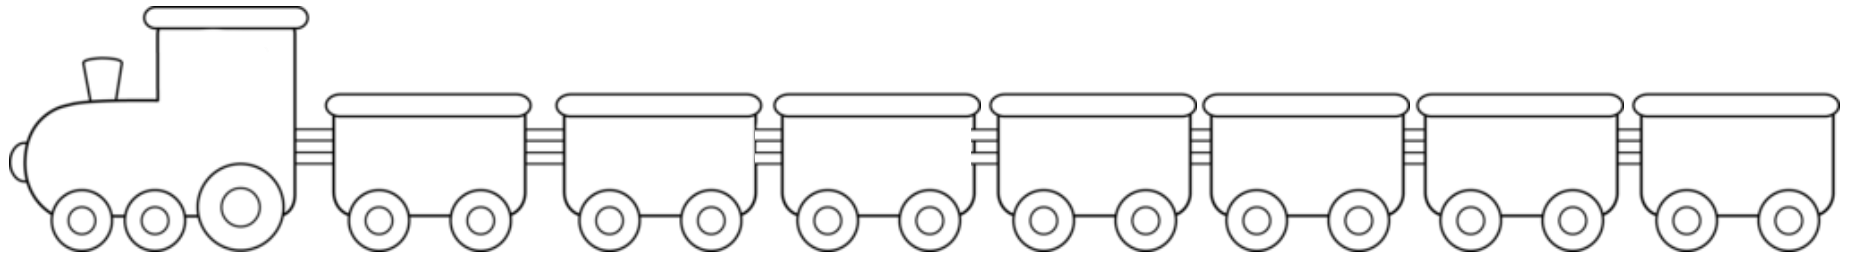

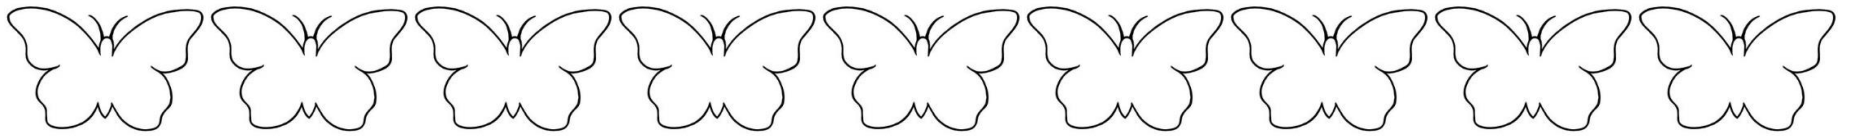

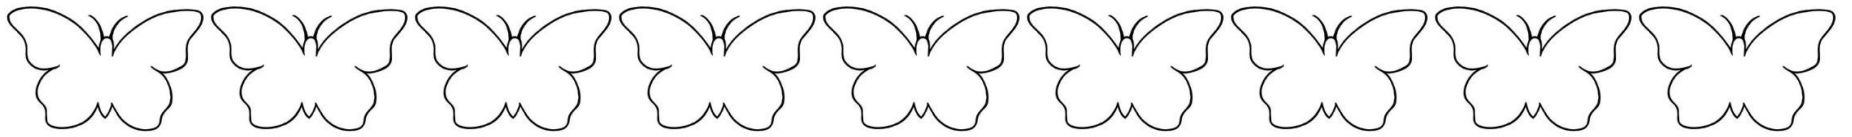

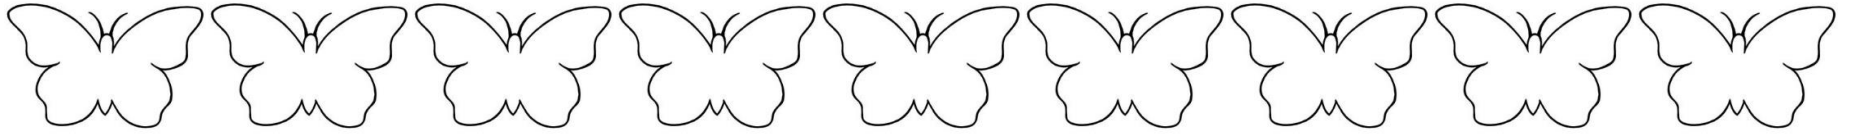

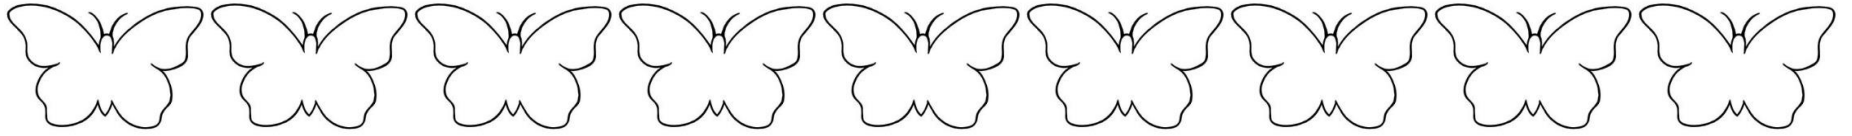

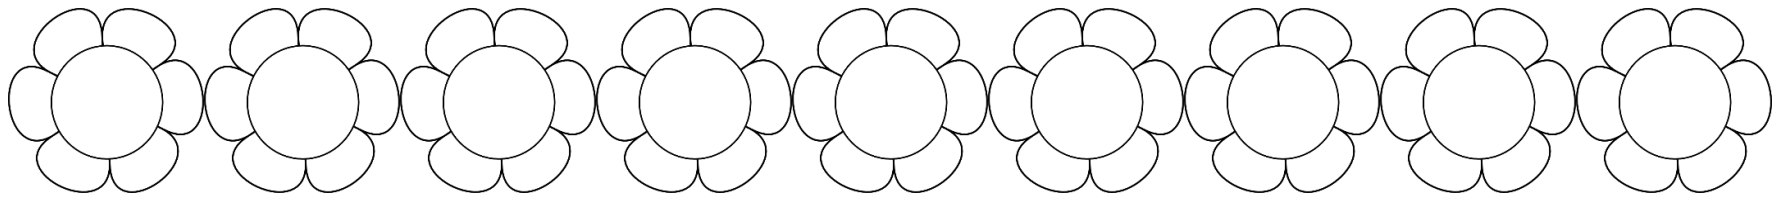

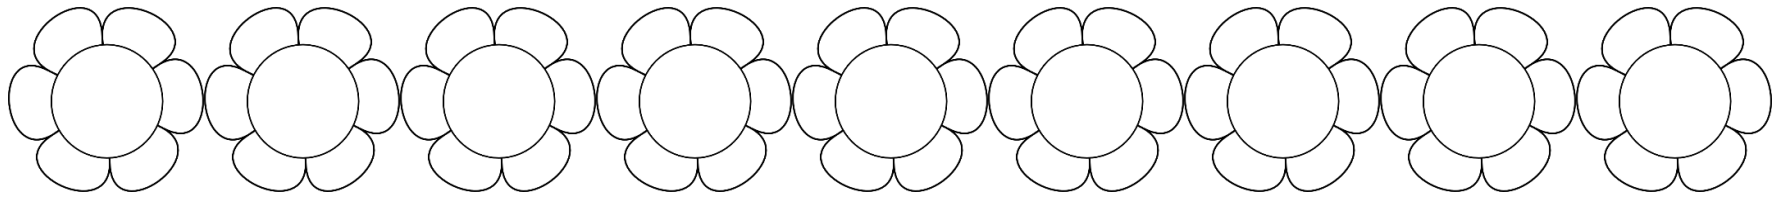

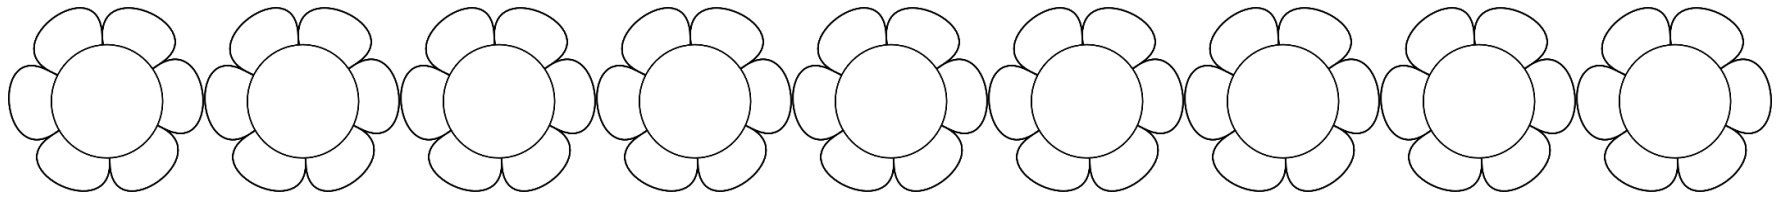

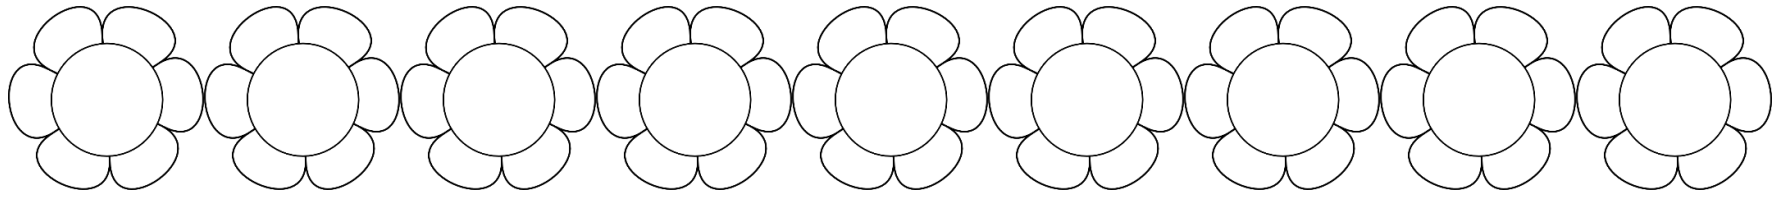

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

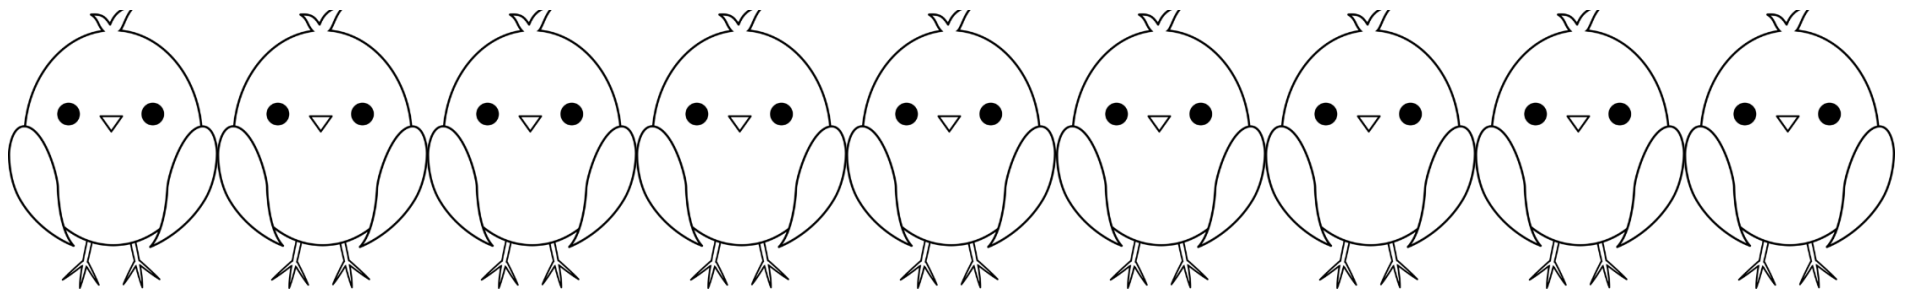

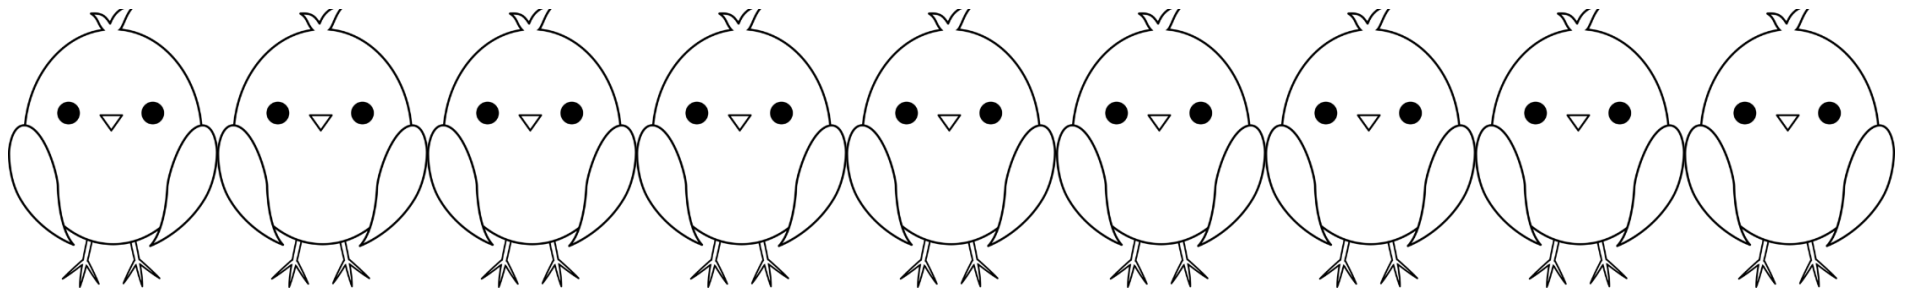

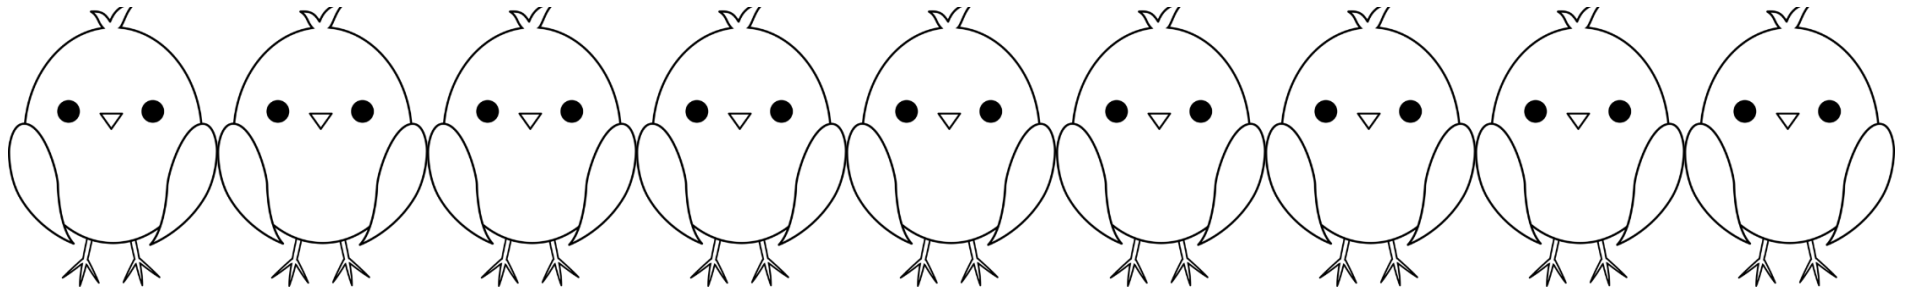

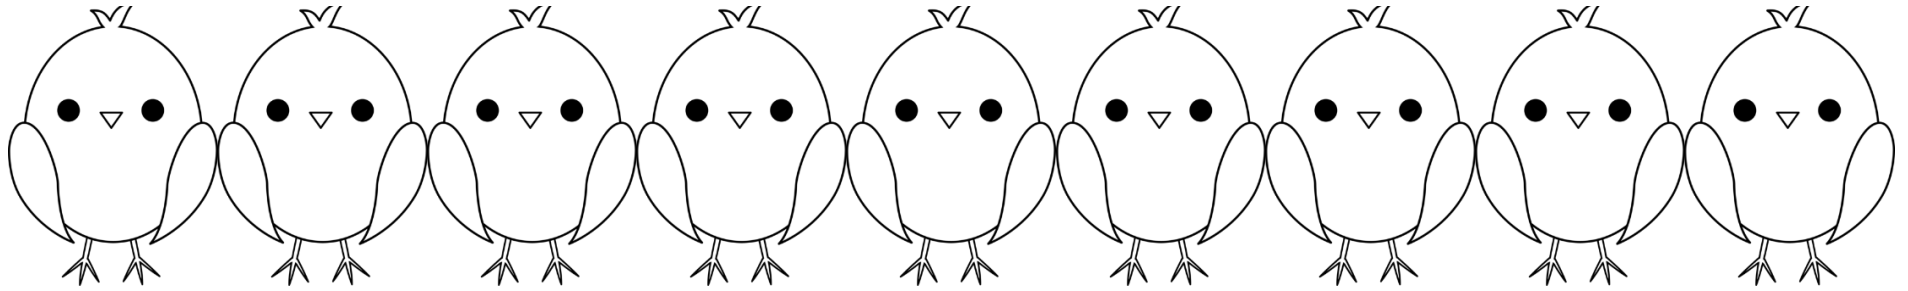

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

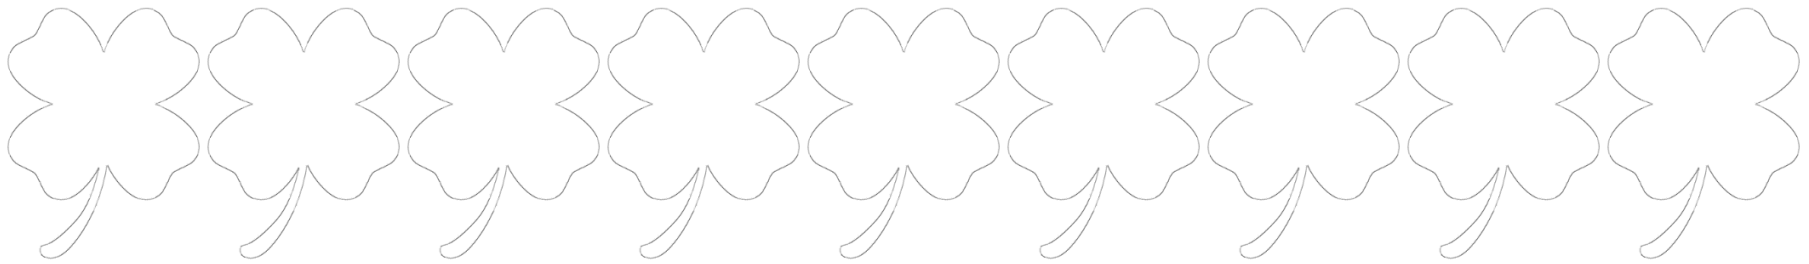

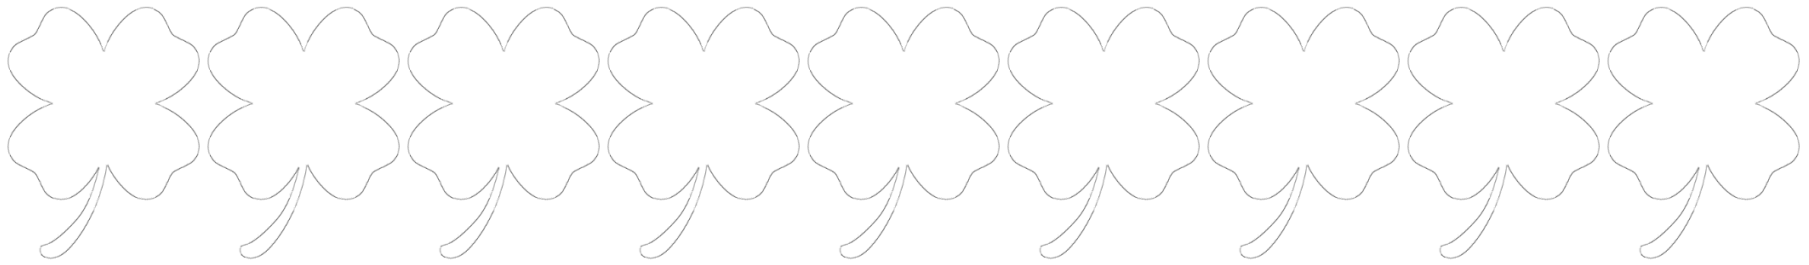

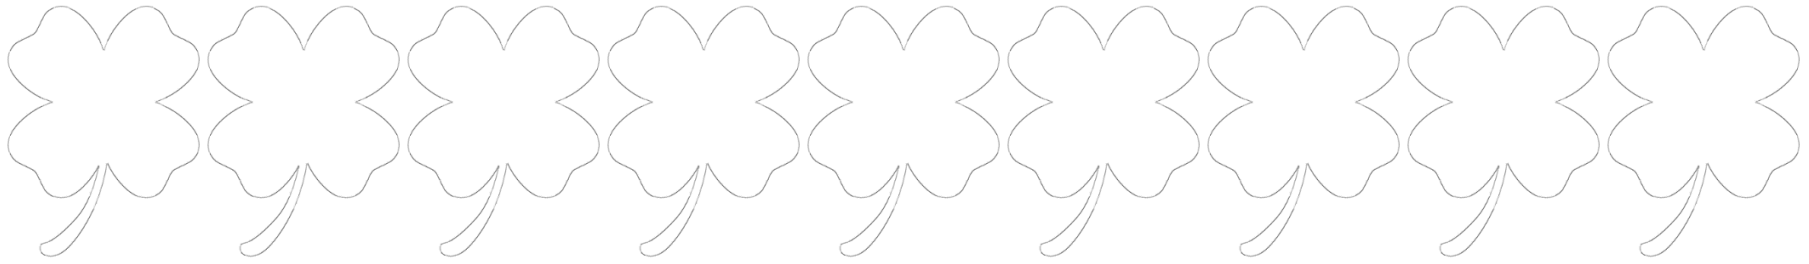

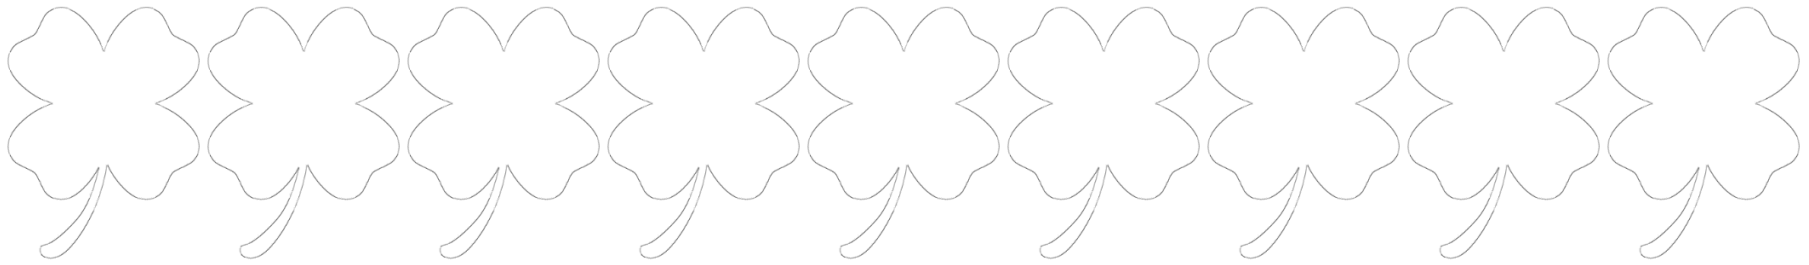

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

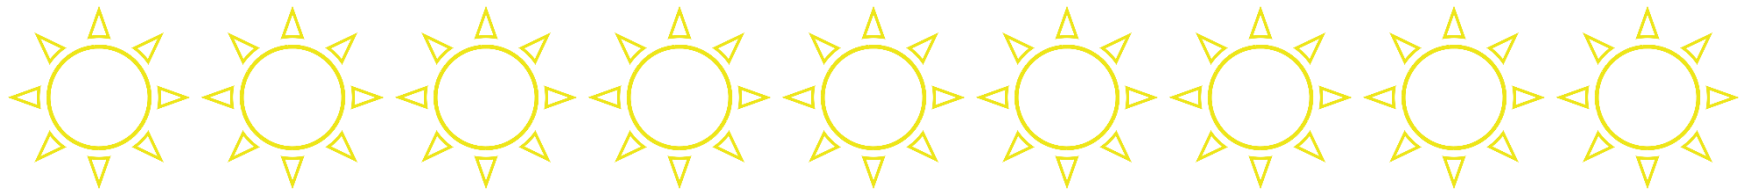

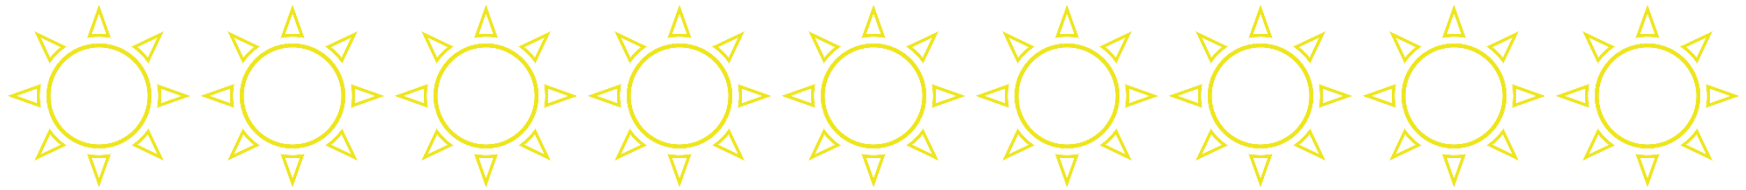

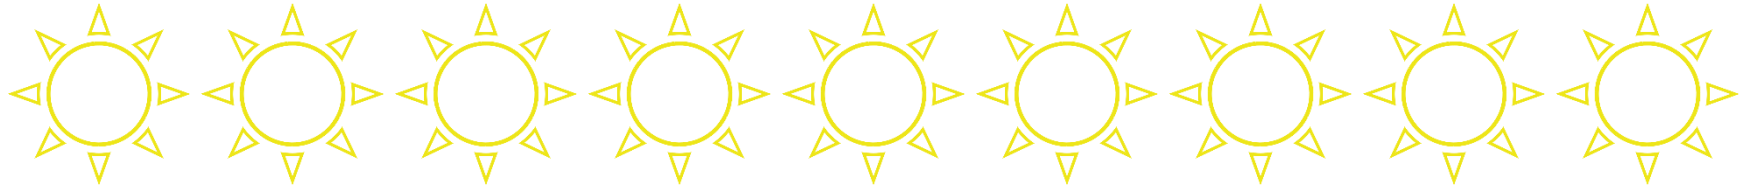

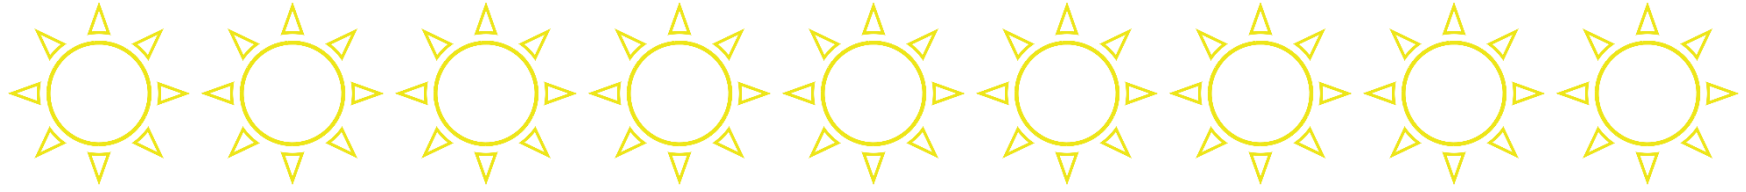

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

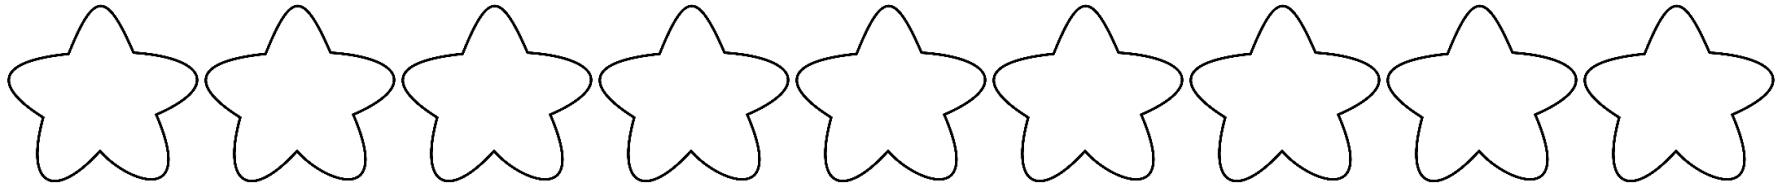

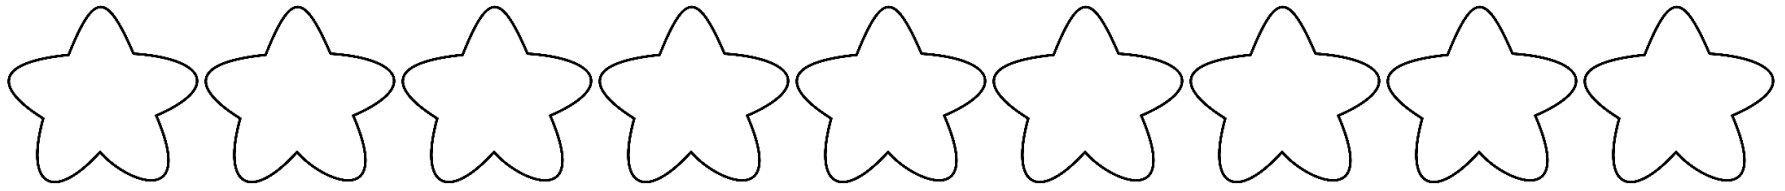

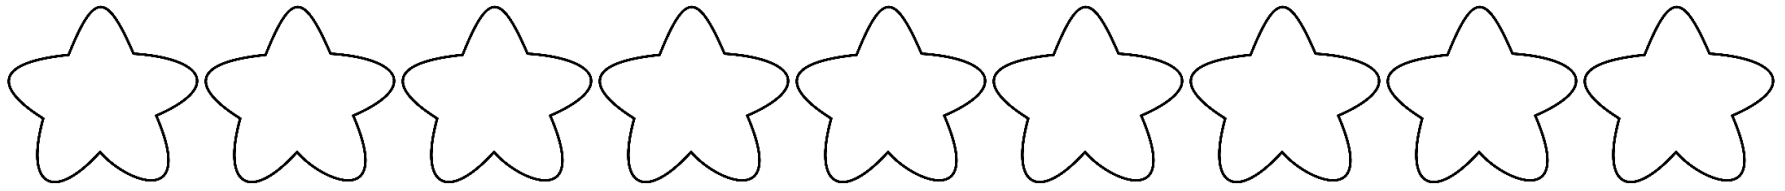

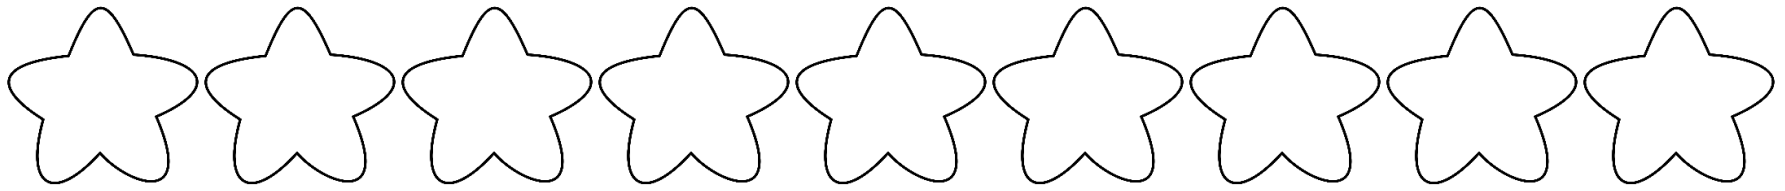

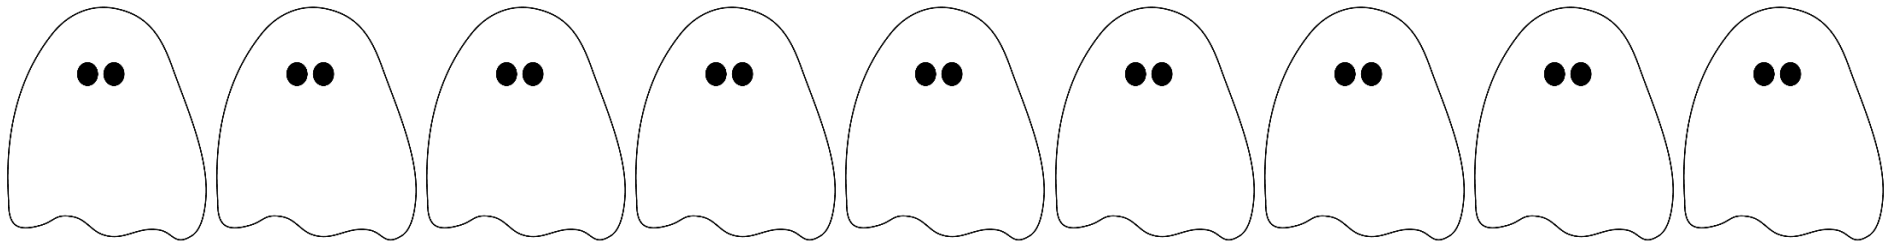

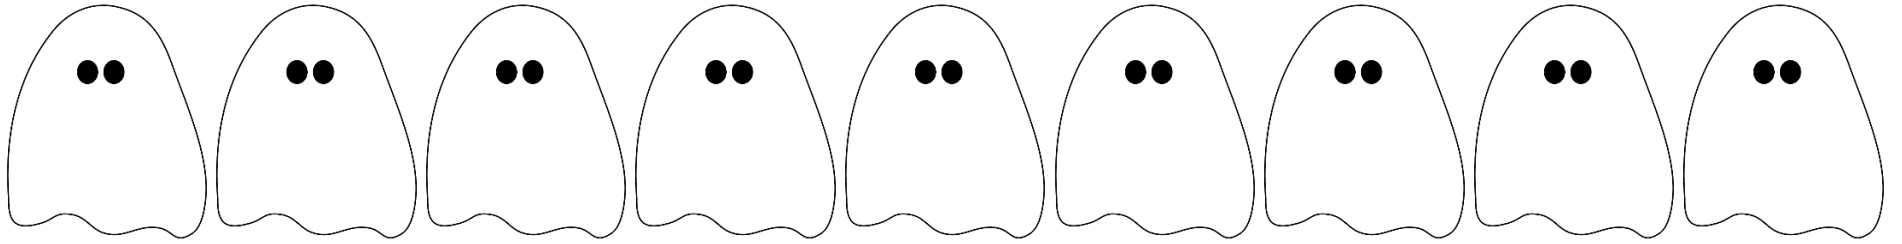

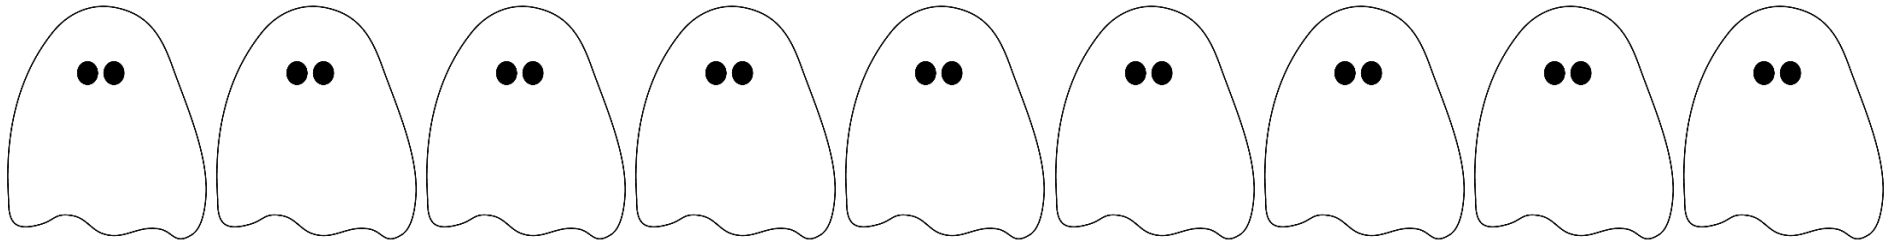

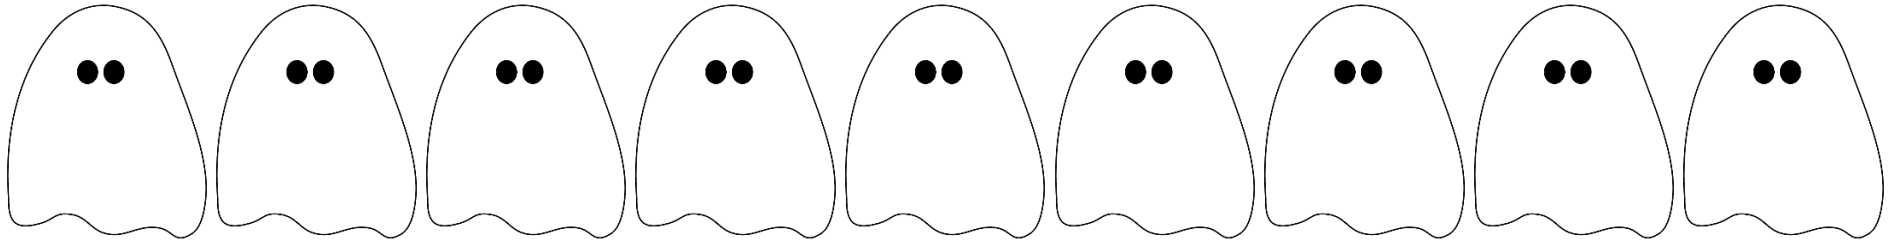

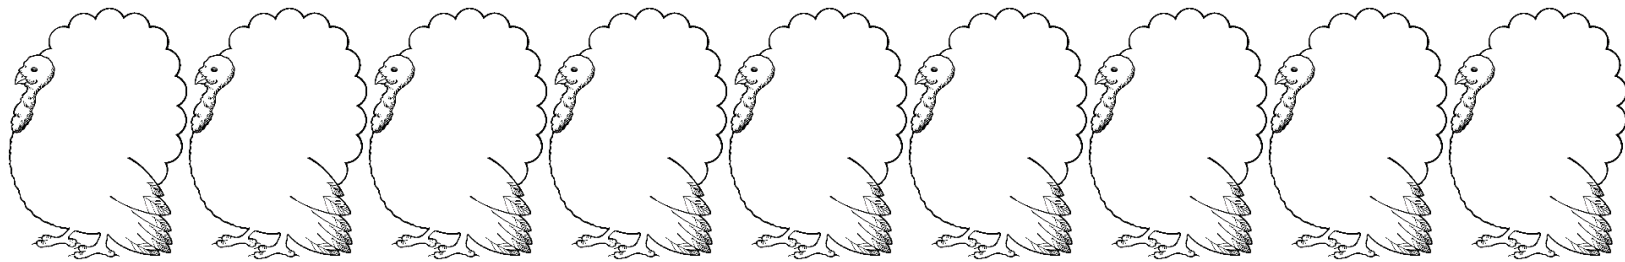

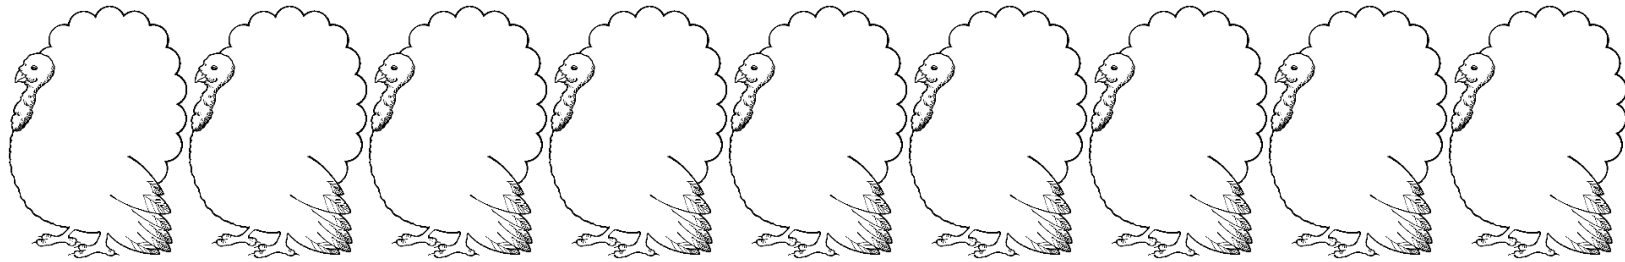

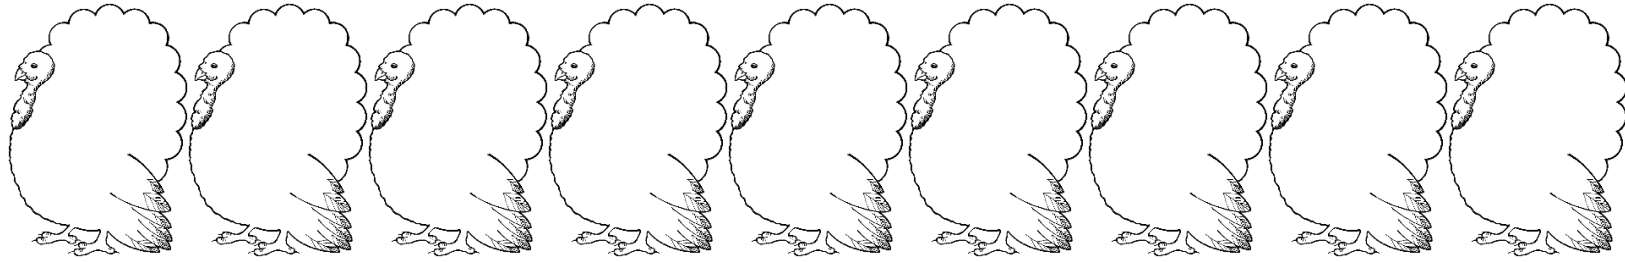

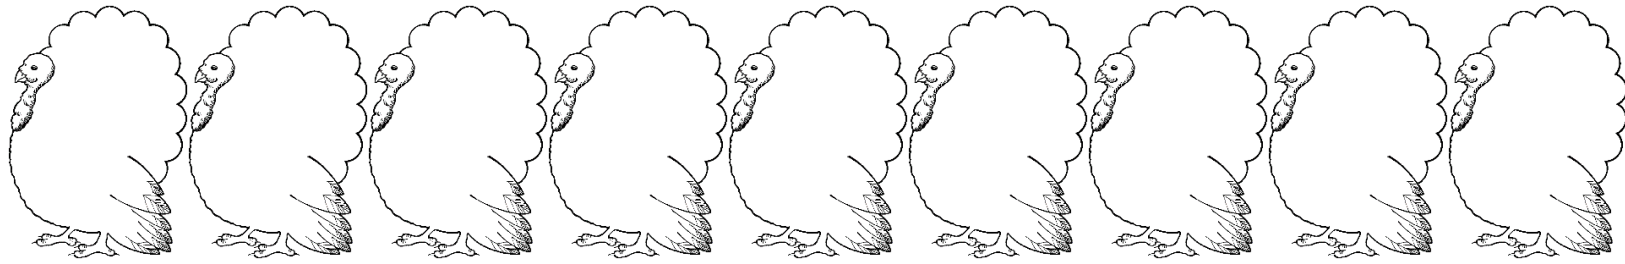

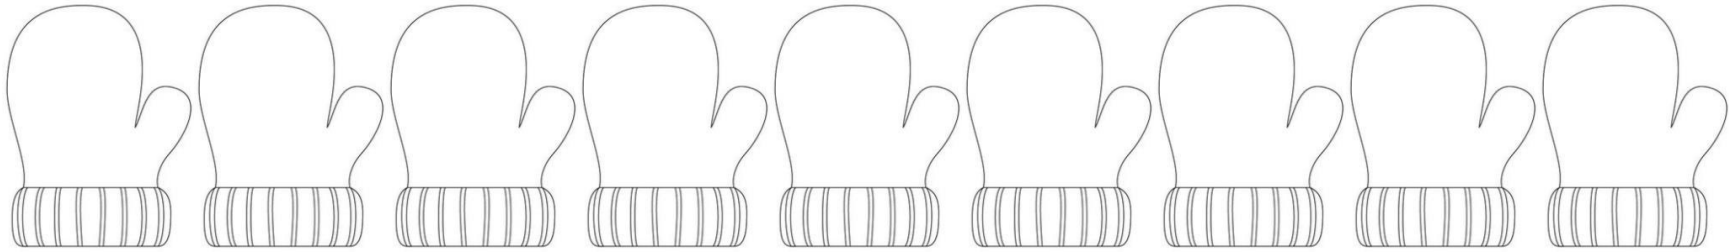

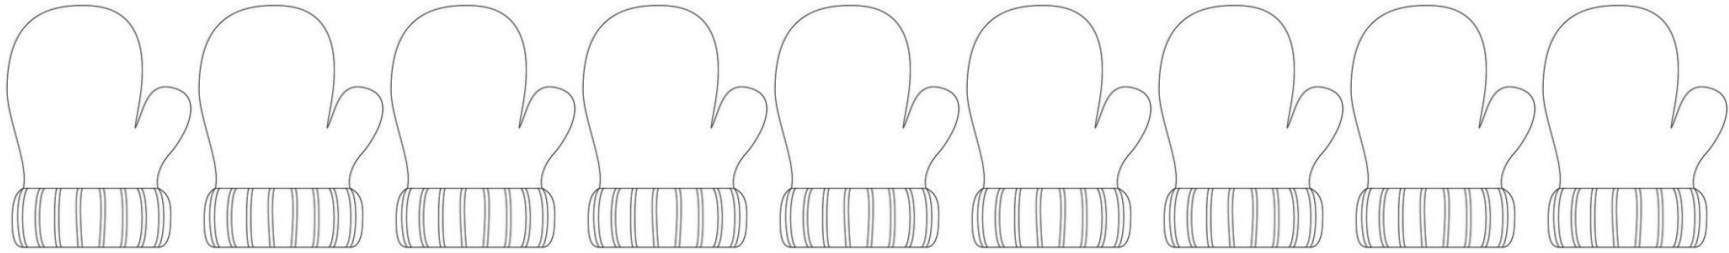

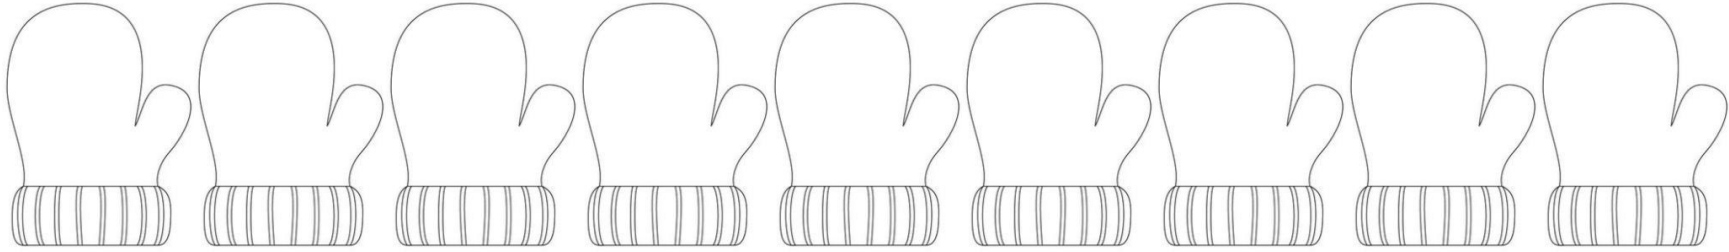

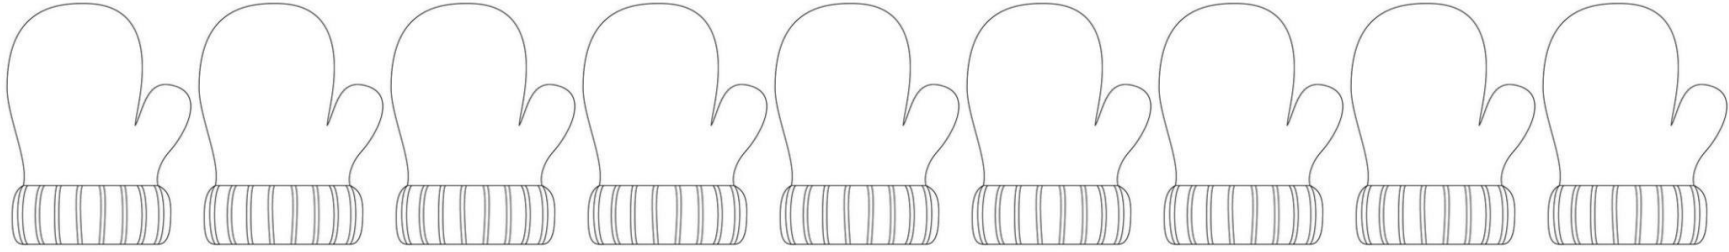

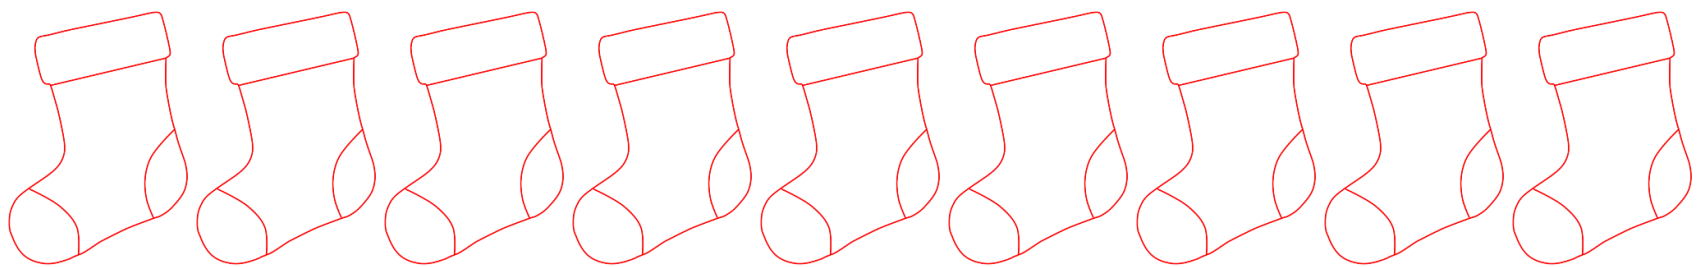

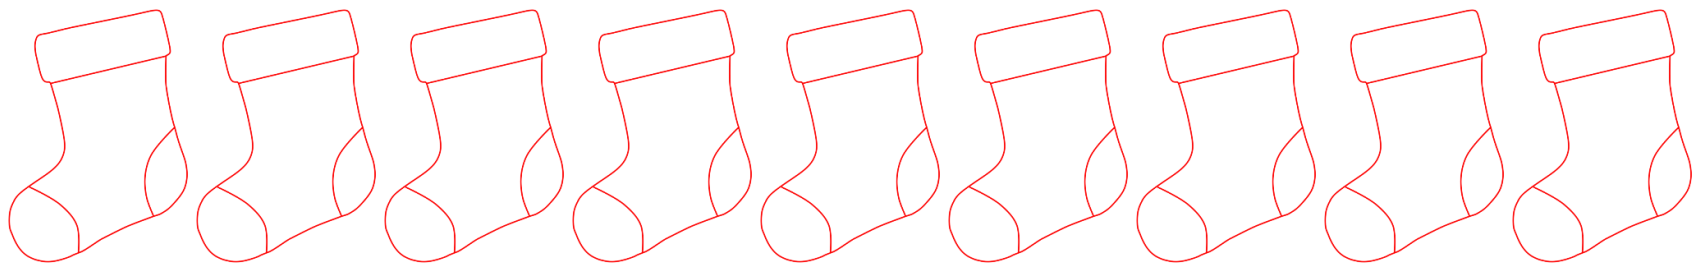

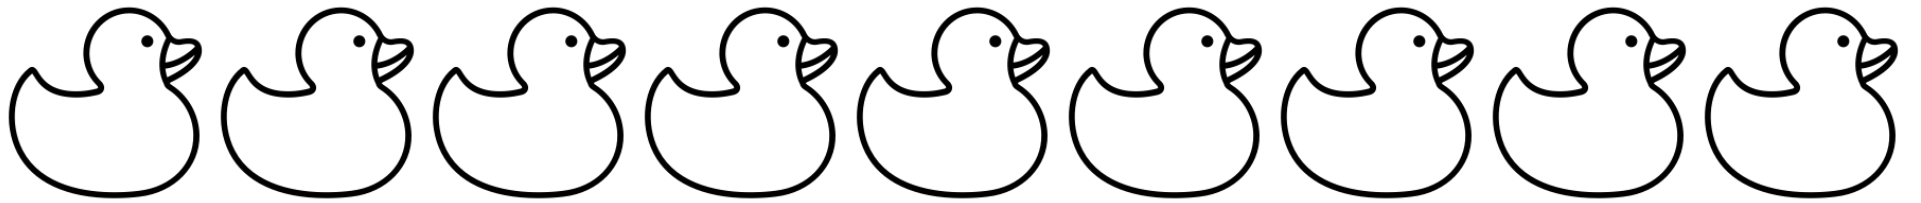

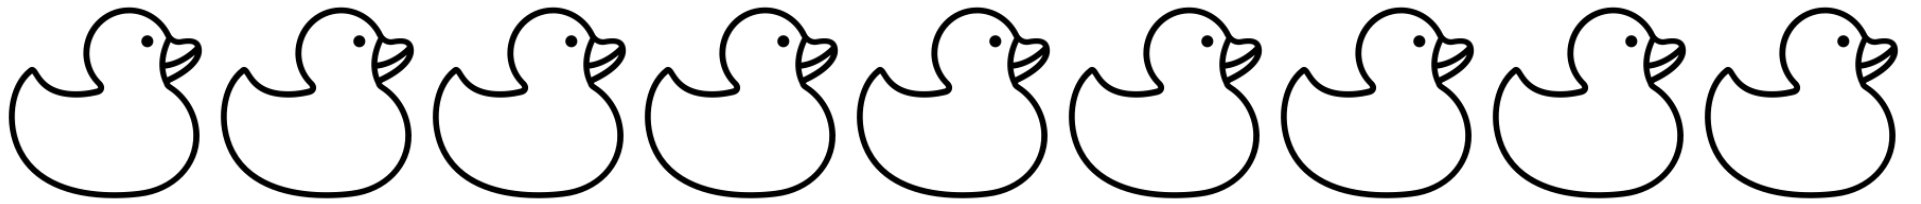

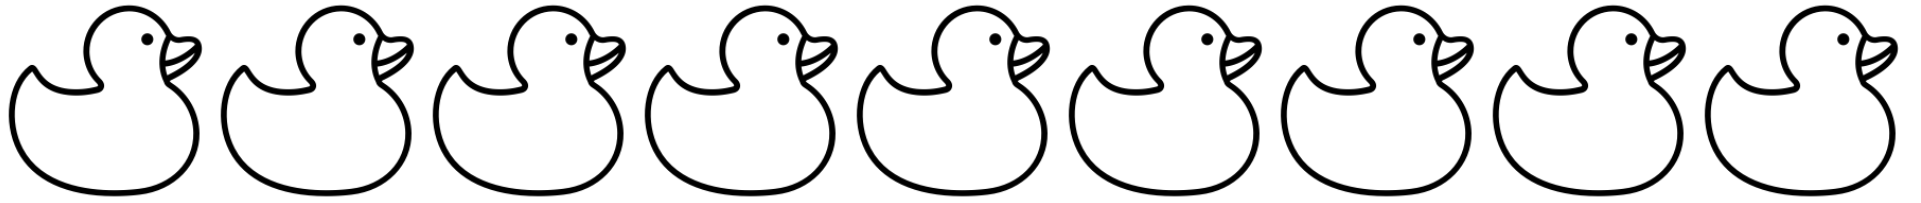

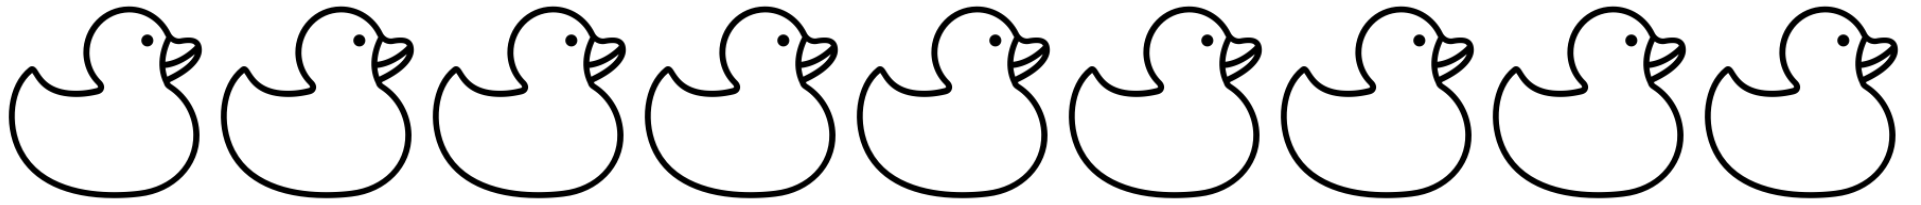

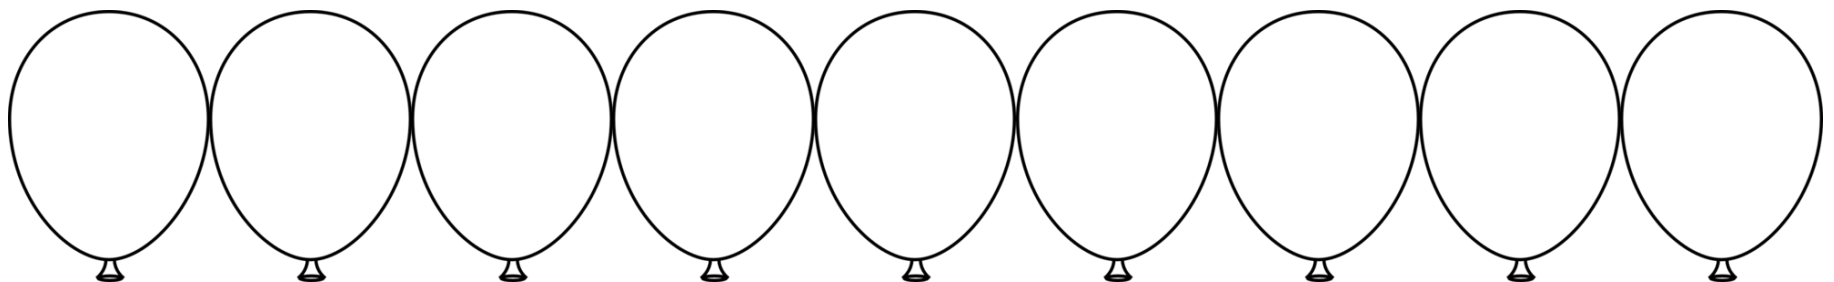

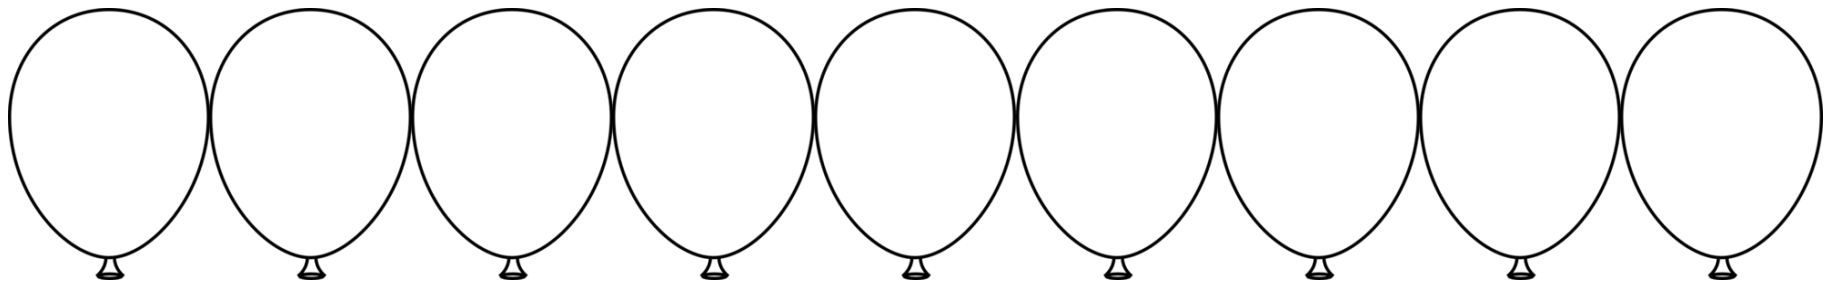

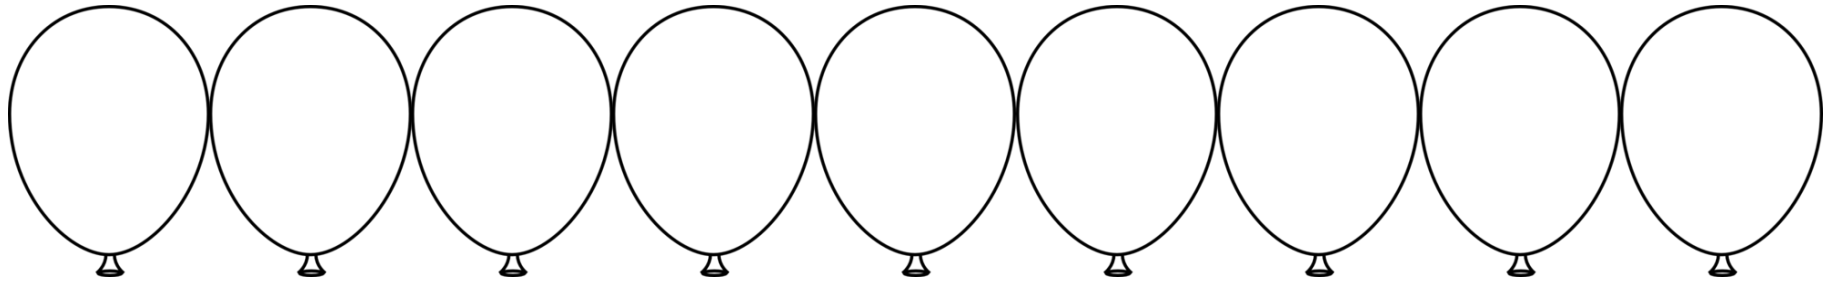

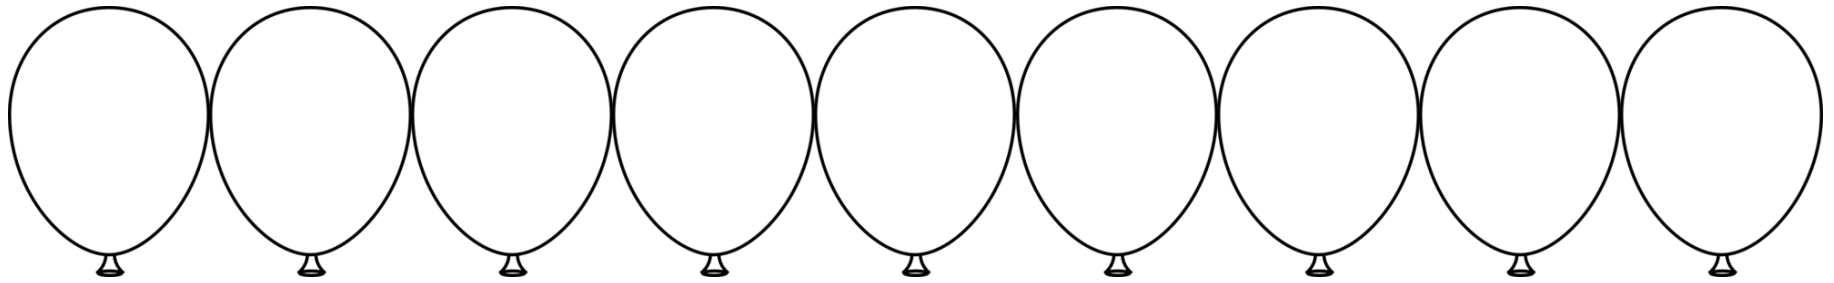

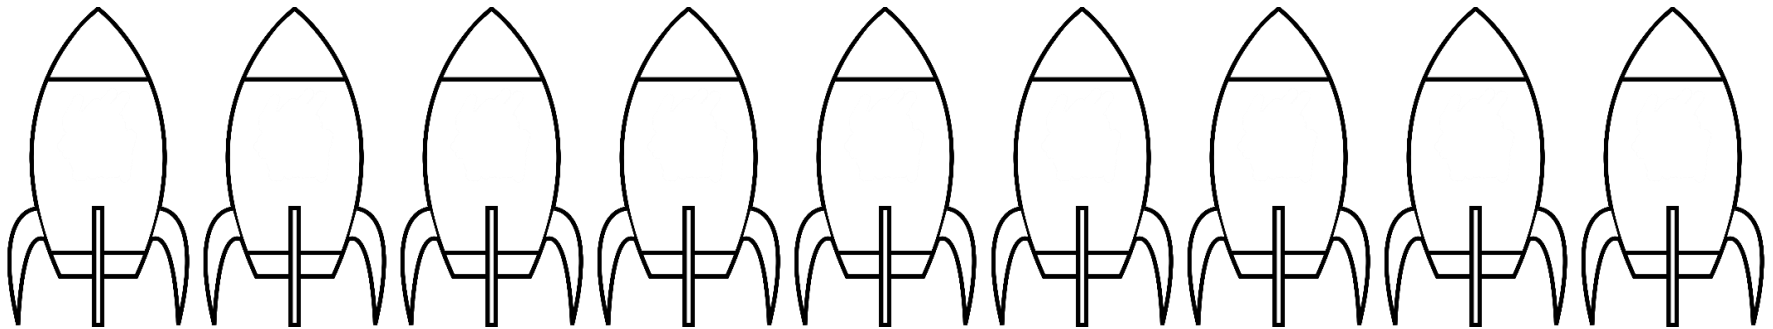

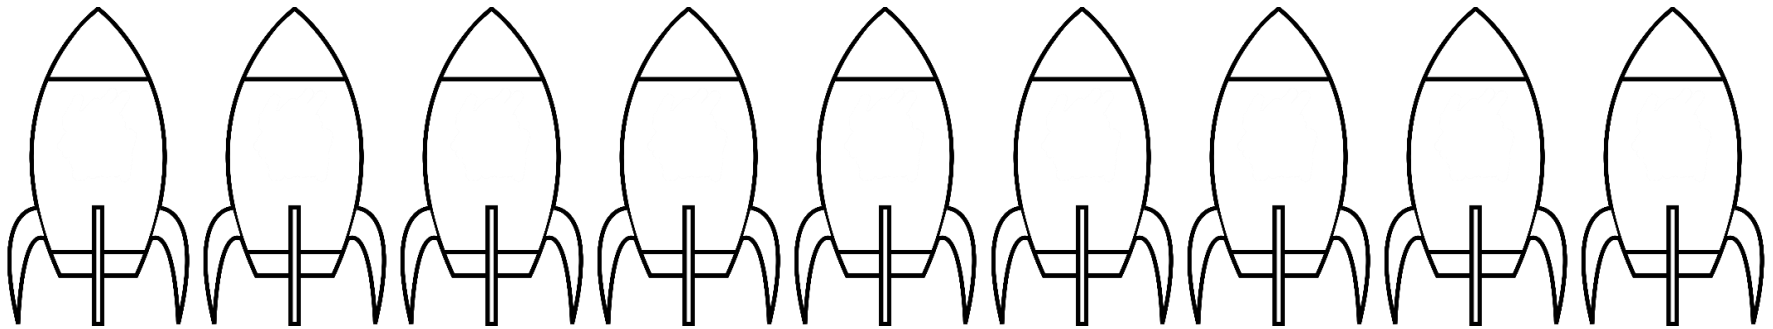

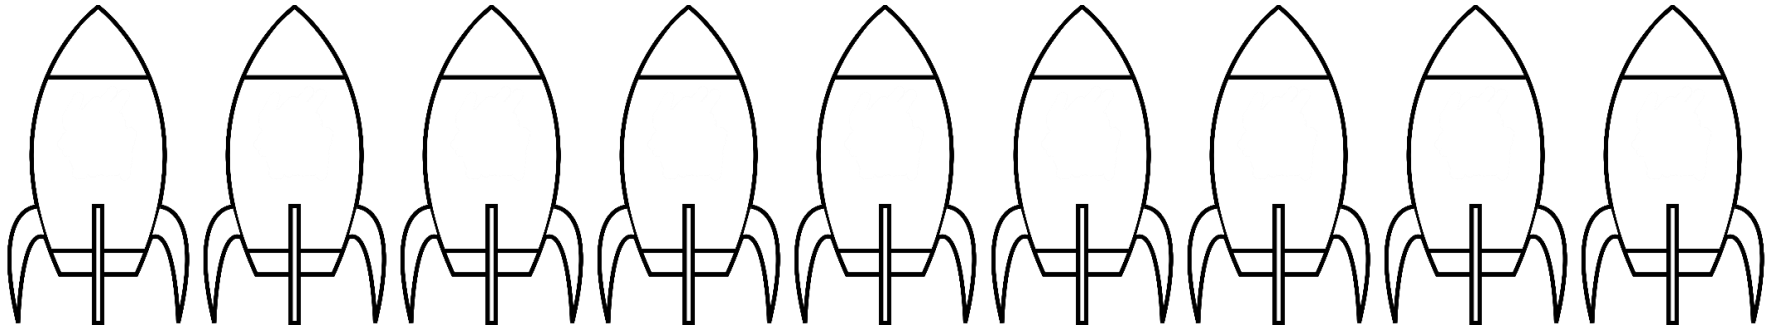

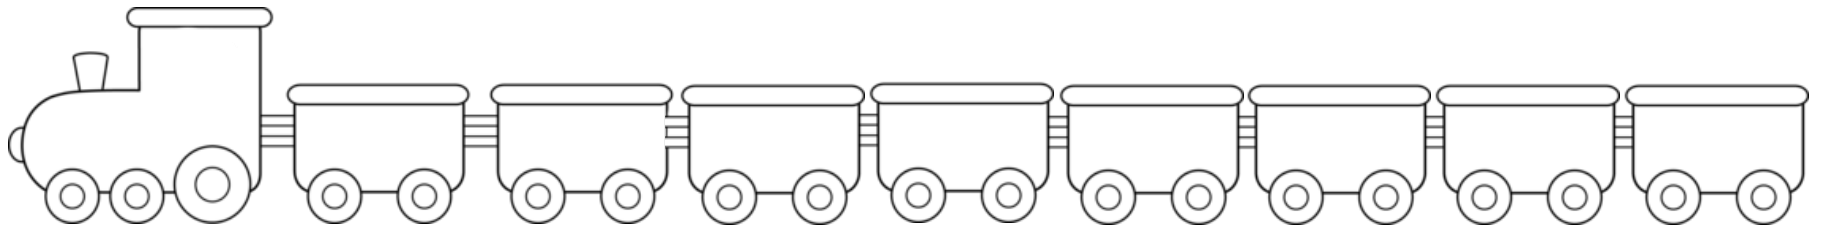

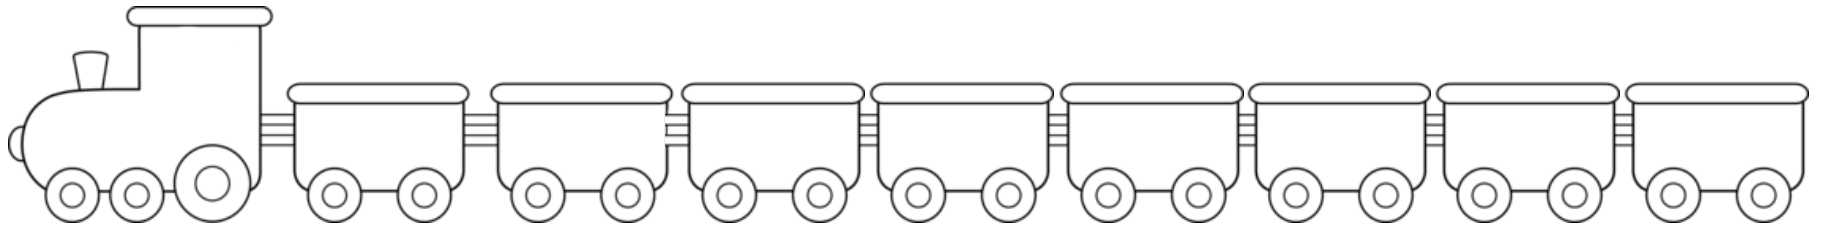

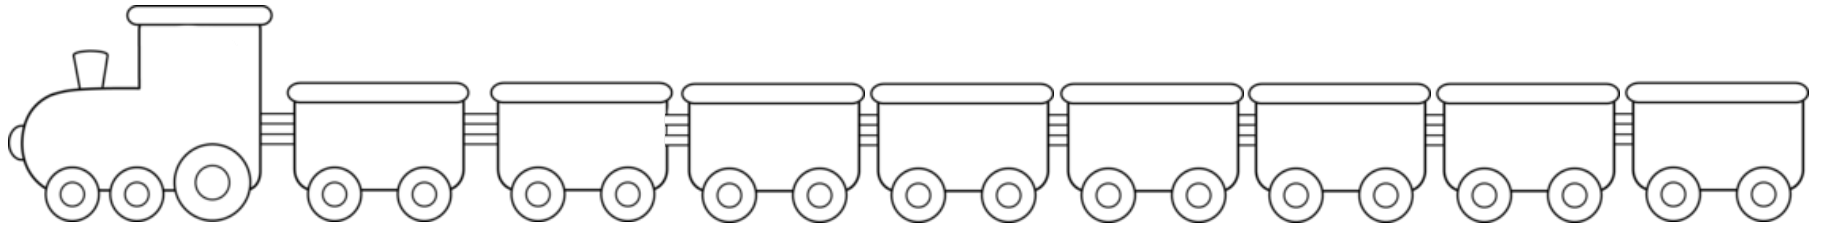

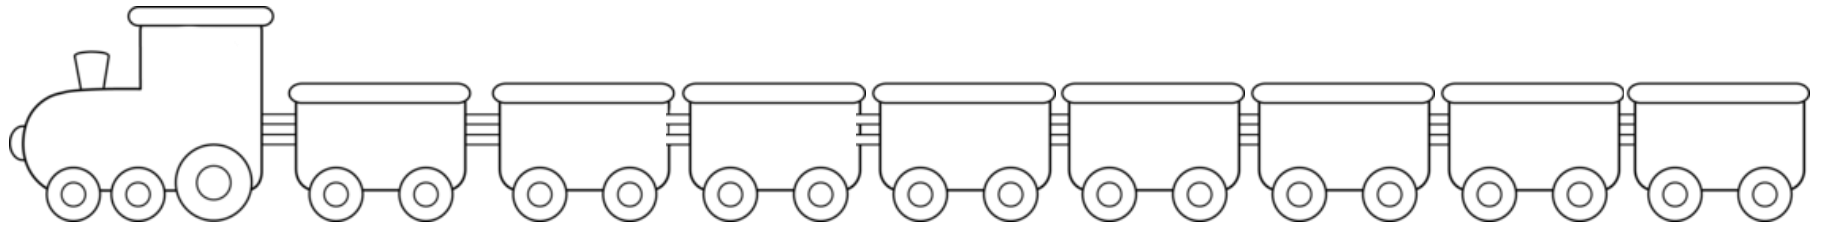

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

TERMS & CONDITIONS

Thank you for your purchase!
I SINCERELY APPRECIATE IT

1. All pages and parts of this product are the creative property of “In the Bag Kids’ Crafts” LLC
2. You cannot resell this product
3. Do not post it online or share the digital file (including Google Classroom)
3. This is a single use license and is intended for home or classroom use. If you are a teacher, you may make copies for your students without additional cost.
4. You are permitted to share the cover image to your blog or social media with proper credit given and a link to the original.